Her larruping style on the honky-tonk piano? "It's just my own." Isn't there almost a masculine quality in her forceful beat? "A teacher once told me, if you want to play a musical instrument, you've got to compete with men; you've got to play like a man."

WOMEN WRITE, TOO

From women she gets letters complimenting her on her smile, personality and clothes.

"Which is good," she said. "When a woman compliments me, I believe her. A man's compliments go in one ear and out the other."

Miss Castle has been a professional entertainer since the age of 3, when she sang and danced for luncheon clubs in her native Bakersfield, Calif. At 7 she began studying classical piano. At 10 she began picking out tunes on the accordion and at 15 performed on Tex Williams' network radio show. Appearances followed with Ina Ray Hutton, Spade Cooley, Arthur Godfrey and twice as a guest with Welk. Last August the champagne-music maestro made her his only female instrumentalist.

TV TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

There are literally hundreds of causes of television failure, any of which may require from a few minutes to several hours for a service man to locate and repair, but most viewers live in dread of the day when that big 21 inch picture tube goes "tits". That's business and of his television set the part that gives him his entertainment . . . so obviously it must be the most expensive part.

These people will be pleased to know that picture tubes are now far less costly than they may believe. Mass production and new engineering techniques have brought them down to about half the price of a short time ago. A pre-built picture tube is also a good bet. They've proven so satisfactory that they are guaranteed a year.

Regardless of the cause of your TV trouble, you can leave your set and your worries with Circle TV Service, 368 Coleman Street. They have the skill and equipment to do thorough repair work at reasonable cost. Phone WO 8-6791.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday, April 17, 1940

General Tendencies: This is really your day to live the Golden Rule. Most everyone is feeling abused or put upon and are apt to lash out and really make scrappy comments that can place little royal in motion. This can be prevented by just really being kind, considerate and courteous to everyone with whom you come in contact.

Aries (March 21 to April 19). If you are not circumspect in all that you do today, you may alienate the respect or regard of higher-ups or persons that you love. Remember that the trouble you may have are but a challenge and steppingstones to greater success.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20). Going off on a spree any time during day or evening could easily lose you some fine opportunity for now open to you. Complete regular chores and be kind to the needy. You can look forward to real advancement on the morrow. Keep cheerful.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21). Be sure not to follow that intuition today, for it can be very misleading. Also, the advice of an acquaintance who is not familiar with your problems. Spend most of time being a source of inspiration and encouragement to others.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21). Unhappy partner could certainly depress you today. If you are not aware of the fact that they have serious problems to cope with and want a shoulder to lean. Listen courteously, be kind but carry on with own work diligently.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21). Now you have an opportunity to help others and be a source of inspiration for all. Besides, your generosity will open up whole new avenues of expression and profit in the near future. Forget own worries through service to mankind.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22). If you give an ear to that talkative individual, you will wind up behind the proverbial eight-ball, since there is jealousy in his or her make-up. Be cheerful so that you please all about you. And courtesy really pays.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22). Be certain to remain neutral in any altercation going on between family or friends today, or you could alienate both. P.M. stay at home with own kin. Get to bed early.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21). Being overly fussy about home chores and neglecting to attend services would not be very wise today. Fill yourself with spiritual riches and you will be inspired in all of your activities, and be able to forget worries.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21). Remember that this is Sunday, so quit all of that work and enjoy the company of loved ones. Don't forget to attend services. Later, be off with kin or friends to some mutually enjoyable amusements.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20). Rather than spend being hypercritical of others, see how you can better yourself and your surroundings. Forget any inner turmoil, that causes you to be so unhappy. P.M. dress tastefully and enjoy some charming social affair.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19). You could easily wander this day thinking negatively and feeling sorry for yourself, if you don't early determine to attend services and then either study, visit, go out socially. Rise above all limiting situations.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 19). An ideal day to confer with older and experienced persons who can give you excellent advice concerning how best to reach your goals. Avoid that very wealthy adviser who does not understand your position at all.

If your child is born today . . . The fiery little child born today is of that category of people who very early in life must be trained in spiritual lines so that all the excess energy in this chart may be channeled properly. The born trouble-shooter is here and education should be centred around such occupations in adult life, particularly in connection with the government. Success should be considerable.

Monday, April 18, 1940

General Tendencies: Daytime finds you able to put into motion the plans and arrangements which you decided before this time were required for your advancement, but which you have not had sufficient time to put into action. Even tonight, be careful of some confusing conditions that may cause you to make mistakes if you accept conditions at their face value.

Aries (March 21 to April 19). Secret data from one in authority today brings inspiration how to proceed so that you can advance in civic affairs. P.M. steer clear of a jealous adviser. Be true to loyal comrades. Enjoy social affair.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20). Breaking out to some new and fascinating place with dynamic persons will bring forth some very enlightening ideas. P.M. take care you are not taken in by some clever schemer and get into a brawl outside or at a gathering.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21). Find the proper method for handling all secret matters methods, finances, stocks, etc. so that you have more time and line for further progress. P.M. take it easy and conserve your energy. Study new methods of enterprises.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21). —Try to get that well-informed partner to go with you to a place of atmosphere where you can come to a better understanding concerning their relations. Have fun inexpensively in P.M. It is more important to economize at this time.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21). A day for real accomplishment this first day of the week throughout serious application, as well as by ideas given you by an expert in your line of endeavor. P.M. be kind and courteous at home instead of criticizing.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22).—A good day for enjoying some sport or amusement in the company of a compatible friend. This can lead to some fine benefits for the future, too. P.M. drive or walk most carefully so that you avoid accident.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22).—If you make everything about you clean and cheerful now, this will bring about fine benefits in the early future. P.M. take care you are not extravagant in any way. Economy is wealth.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be off early in the morning to beauty or barber shop so that your appearance can be at its best. Then keep appointments and later write important letters, wires, etc. P.M. maintain equilibrium. Don't criticize others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can have an abundance, and to spare, if you will take inventory of all your assets and reveal wisely, make repairs, etc. P.M. maintain a happy exterior. Do not burden others with any of your problems.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A.M. is ideal for sales, purchases, dividends, any and all practical affairs. Evening is then fine for discussing your ambitions with the right people in a refined and quiet fashion. You will get at least moral support.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Reflection is A.M. concerning any ventures you may have in mind, and then conferring with financial advisers is fine. P.M. take it easy. Do not irk any higher-up in any way. Remember that silence is golden.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Ideal day to come to a better understanding with comrades and then enjoy any social niceties. P.M. steer clear of that too glittering new personality, since it is a scheming and envious one. Stay at home and study.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today will have such a fine mind that it behooves you to record your progeny as fine, thorough and classical an education as you can afford, since receptivity is great and the degree of success can be considerable throughout lifetime. Career should start early, when the mind is most fertile. Do not neglect the all-important spiritual training, too.

LARGE HAUL

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Police say a man they arrested Tuesday carried away two tons of brass bearings from his job with the New Haven railroad over a period of a year. David Thomas, 41, was charged with 18 counts of theft. Each bearing weighs about 30 pounds, and Thoma took 4,000 pounds of them to sell to junk dealers for 16 cents a pound, police said.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Work Only Answer When Retired Husband Becomes Wife's Problem

By THOMAS COLLINS

"I suspect that I am not the only woman who has had a retired husband on her hands and on her conscience.

"But I suspect my experience with my particular pensioner is unusual.

"We talked everything over two years before he retired and in the intervening months discussed many times the various facets of the situation. We saw our way clear on the money matter, made our wills, got the insurance in shape and made up our minds to keep out home. We made no blueprint for our golden years except for a trip or two to visit our children, and just rest and companionship.

"When Mr. Y's husband's retirement day came, there was a good bit of sentiment around, and once or twice the cup of emotion almost ran over. But this was to be expected. We lived through it, and then three weeks later our troubles began.

"My husband, who had boasted that he had enough jobs to do around the house to keep him busy for two years, almost had no urge to do them now that he was free. He rattled around the house, looked at television, took trips and made awkward efforts to help me with the housework.

RESUMED HIS RATTLING

"When I suggested he was spoiling his great gift of leisure, he suddenly decided we should make the visit to our daughter in Colorado which we had planned for three months later. We made the trip, came home and he resumed his rattling around.

"Again I reminded him he was wasting his life and he said we should take a trip to Key West, Florida. We did, then came home and the problem still hadn't gone away.

"At this writing my husband has found no medicine for his malady except to suggest another abrupt trip somewhere . . . and we have taken about all the trips our budget allows.

"What am I to do?"

This husband is about par for the course. The wife who thinks there's something wrong with him or who fails for the nonsense that maybe he had a not so happy childhood had better see a psychiatrist herself.

This husband dropped his cake when, two years before retirement, he decided that money, security and a place to live were the only things he had to plan for. The normal man who retires from a job these days simply cannot retire to nothingness without going nuts. And the more money he has, quite often, the nuttier he can get.

It is man's nature to be busy. It is man's nature to want some distinction on the street where he lives — both on the distinction and a title, the influence he has, the people he knows. There must be something about him that gets recognition from other people.

When he retires, he thinks he will engage in all the built-up jobs around the house. But invariably, with plenty of time to do them, they no longer appeal. When he fails to appraise accurately before he retires just how important the identity and the distinction of his job has been to him, and takes no steps to obtain some new distinction, he goofs.

When both of these situations come into play, as they have done with this husband, a retired man becomes an old man on a pension.

The wife in this case (and all the other wives with her problem) must make her husband go to work. Since she cannot impose a time clock on him that will force him to go to work at 9 A. M. tomorrow — and man has always needed some such pressure to make him work — she must find some other means. This pressure could be the lure of making money, the opportunity to meet interesting people, the joy of some sort of creation.

Doctors and welfare workers do not have many patients who are more difficult than the patient a wife has when the company sends her 65-year-old husband home. Money, moving, travel, rest, pretty blonds and checkers won't cure him. Work, in whatever framework the individual wife can find it, is the only sure cure I know.

Violence Flares As South Africa Awaits Strike

Pamphlets Distributed Despite Police Threats

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Police and troops today rounded up and arrested 600 South African Negroes in a drawn raid on the town of East London.

Armed forces backed by eight armored cars surrounded the port town on the Indian Ocean coast of Cape Province and moved in at dawn.

"Those arrested were all part of the Pondo (gangster) element," police claimed. "There were no incidents during the raid."

Police conducted a house-to-house search for the community in making the arrests.

VIOLENCE ELSEWHERE

Violence broke out during the morning near the south coast city of Port Elizabeth.

Two Negro policemen were attacked separately in the area where most of the 600 men were arrested. One policeman was stoned and the other was beaten and got away unharmed from his attackers, according to a police report.

Police and army reservists were on duty in force today throughout urban Negro centres in the country.

STAY HOME CAMPAIGN

Negroes continued to distribute pamphlets urging Negroes to stay - at - home campaign this week. They are to tell Negroes were arrested during the week-end for distributing such pamphlets in Port Elizabeth and Evaton, 30 miles east of Johannesburg.

The pamphlets said the stay-at-home idea was called "because our leaders have been imprisoned and our fellow men killed and wounded."

The white authorities have warned Negroes against heeding the call to refuse to work during the week. They are to be supported Tuesday when industry is due to get rolling again after the Easter holidays.

The government mobilized all police forces throughout the nation for the first time last night with the country's leading Negro organization since it went underground.

Hundreds of thousands of Negroes who work in the big cities and industrial centres were in the political squeeze. The government warned all those staying away from work for a week for their jobs or even banishment to native reserves in the remote interior.

WOULD BE SETBACK

A failure of the work boycott would be interpreted as a setback for the ANC in its campaign to force an easing in the government's strict segregations policies and gain freedom for the Negro leaders.

Police offered protection to Negroes going to work and threatened sharp action against any intimidation. Police said the stay-at-home—either by persuasion or intimidation—is "dishonorable and intolerable."

RETURN HOME

OTTAWA, (CP)—Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker arrived at Uplands airport here last night after an Easter trip to Saskatoon and Prince Albert.

Leader Predicts Court to Uphold Negro Position

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A Negro integration leader says sit-down demonstrations are dramatizing the position of the Negro in the United States South and predicts they will be upheld legally.

The expression of confidence in the protests came from the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. at the start of the 11th week of the Negro campaign against segregated lunch counters.

The 31-year-old Atlanta Baptist minister appeared on a television program (NBC—Meet the Press) in Washington Sunday night shortly after a Negro college student conference at Raleigh, N.C., laid the groundwork for formation of an organization throughout the south.

King conceded the sit-downs might violate local laws. But, he said, "in breaking local laws we are really seeking to dignify the law" as set forth in the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision on public school segregation.

SEES VIOLATIONS

The man who lead the successful bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala., in 1955, foresaid that if and when local laws against sit-downs reach the Supreme Court they will be held to be in violation of the basic guarantees of the constitution.

King said he felt both Congress and the president could—and should do more to hasten integration.

This statement was echoed in the findings and recommendations of the Easter weekend Raleigh conference attended by 142 persons from 11 southern states and the District of Columbia.

The student group's committee said in a statement there was a possibility President Eisenhower might go to Africa this fall. The committee said:

"We feel that before going to Africa, the president should lend the prestige of his office to the solution of the racial problems in this country and thus he shall be even better prepared for his visit to Africa."

Says Phillips Wanted to Sleep on Floor

DURBAN, South Africa, (AP)—Col. D. B. Marshall, officer in charge of Durban prisons, said Sunday that Norman Phillips, foreign editor of the London Star, "requested he be allowed to sleep on felt mats on the floor of his cell."

Phillips was held by police in Durban last week for questioning on an article he wrote about South Africa.

On his return to Toronto, Phillips said that he received good treatment in prison "except for lousy food and the fact I had to sleep on the floor."

McLachlan said he offered Phillips a separate accommodation with bed and mattress but Phillips declined, saying he wanted to be with two other persons who had been provided with felt mats.

CABLE BESIEGED

HALIFAX, (CP)—An undersea cable linking Canada and the United Kingdom was today put the present structure of South Africa is "dishonorable and intolerable."

The message from the bishop of Johannesburg, the Rt. Rev. Ambrose Reeves, appears in the Anglican Journal of the Canadian diocese. The bishop left South Africa for England and it is reported heading for England.

"As Christians we dare not pretend that we have no responsibility for all that is happening in South Africa in the consequence of the policy of apartheid (racial segregation)," the message declared.

Easter brought a widening of the rift between South Africa's two big churches—the Anglican and Dutch Reformed—even as thousands worshipped in churches of both denominations.

A leader of the Dutch Reformed Church denounced planes of the World Council of Churches to send a delegation to investigate apartheid (racial segregation) in South Africa.

The Rev. J. D. Serfontein of Potchefstroom, elected the Anglican Archbishop of Capetown, Joost de Blank, as the leader in "making war on the Dutch Reformed Church" for refusing to take in condemning apartheid. Dr. de Blank had called for expulsion of the Dutch church from the World Council unless the local church condemned apartheid.

The Dutch church cleric charged the council "tolerates communism and the infiltration of communism in its midst" and declared "surely apartheid is not more anti-Christian than communism."

He said one of the members of the central committee of the council is Bishop Josef Hromadka of the "communist - controlled Evangelical Church of Czechoslovakia who is known to religious circles as a Protestant tiefender of the Communists."

CANADA SIGNS TRADE PACT WITH RUSSIA

Also Appoints New Trade Commissioner

MOSCOW (CP) — Canada and the Soviet Union today signed three-year trade agreement which provides the Russians will spend $3 in Canada for every Canadian dollar spent in Russia.

The Soviet Union promised to buy $25,000,000 worth goods every year, including 200,000 tons of wheat, provided Canada buys $12,500,000 dollars worth of Soviet products during the same period.

PROSPECTS GOOD

Churchill said he was impressed by hospitality he received and by developments he has seen. Signing the trade agreement he said:

"I think the prospects are good. There is room for Canadian businessmen to meet with Russian businessmen and I have asked Patolichev to visit Canada with Russian businessmen next year."

There is no word whether Patolichev will accept the invitation.

Under the terms of the new pact, the bulk of Russia's purchases will be Canadian wheat. Canada will send in a preliminary briefing of Western reporters that "they might buy flour."

The report of the agreement reflected that the Canadian government will impose no controls over what private Canadian businessmen may buy or sell.

CAN CONTROL

A report of the proposed pact published last week, however, said that Canada would retain authority to impose import controls on strategic materials.

The pact would make it possible for Canadian businessmen to sell products on the open market in Russia and the Canadian government itself will not suggest what private businessmen should buy or sell, the reports here said.

Russia has agreed to make large purchases of Canadian wheat under the 1956 pact, but Churchill said last month the latest agreement the Soviet Union fell short of expectations.

This question is to be resolved by further negotiations, the report said.

WILL BE REVIEWED

These other details of the new pact were reported:

It will be reviewed every year by a joint Russian - Canadian officials to see how it is working out.

Russia's purchases of Canadian goods are to be paid for in Canadian dollars.

There will be no arrangements for barter trade.

Churchill said the growth in trade between the two countries makes it impossible to predict that extent and variety of Canadian purchases. He noted that Canadian firms still are interested in Russian chrome and asbestos, but purchases in other fields would depend on Canadian businessmen found available and what terms they could get.

He said he was encouraged had been expressing increased interest in Soviet trade possibilities.

Anglican Bishop of Johannesburg Declares Apartheid Dishonorable

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — An Anglican bishop who fled South Africa fearing arrest says in an Easter message published here today that the present structure of South Africa is "dishonorable and intolerable."

The message from the bishop of Johannesburg, the Rt. Rev. Ambrose Reeves, appears in the Anglican Journal of the Canadian diocese. The bishop left South Africa for England and it is reported heading for England.

"As Christians we dare not pretend that we have no responsibility for all that is happening in South Africa in the consequence of the policy of apartheid (racial segregation)," the message declared.

He said one of the members of the central committee of the council is Bishop Josef Hromadka of the "communist - controlled Evangelical Church of Czechoslovakia who is known to religious circles as a Protestant tiefender of the Communists."

CANOEING THE HARD WAY — Benny Van Lunteren, 17, of Corbyville, and Ron Vanderveide, 21, of Belleville, seen portaging their canoe around dam at Corbyville in one of three "carries" made Sunday during trip down the Moira from Plainfield. Trip ended in an upset in the rapids section north of the Upper Bridge in Belleville.

Pope John's Easter Message Sorrows for Race Sufferers

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John expressed sorrow in his Easter message Sunday for those suffering because of race or decimal of their civil rights.

Adressing some 150,000 persons standing in the rain in the great square before St. Peter's Basilica, the 79-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church called men to the peace of those Christ in a world plagued by racial intolerance.

In an obvious reference to the Negro's race problem, he said:

"And our sorrowing gaze turns also to the other children of God everywhere, suffering because of grave economic conditions, at once complex and giving reason for anxiety, or through the limitations put on the exercise of the natural and civil rights."

The Pope put special emphasis on racial tolerance during Holy Week.

On Holy Thursday he performed the traditional ceremony of washing the feet of 13 persons, emulating Christ at the last supper. But for the first time those chosen included Negroes, a Japanese, West Indians and a Spaniard.

Before giving his Easter message, the Pope sent special greetings to Laurian Cardinal Rugambwa of Tanganyika, first Negro to be elevated to princedom in the church. The cardinal has been ill in a Rome hospital since he received his red hat last month.

In Jerusalem, thousands of pilgrims and tourists assembled in the holy places of Christ's crucifixion. The crowds were the largest for Easter since the Palestine war.

Western pilgrims were up at dawn for sunrise services beside the garden tomb and at the Holy Sepulchre Tomb. Later the Latin patriarch Msgr. Alberto Gori, led a procession to the ancient Church of the Holy Sepulchre and presided over a pontifical high mass.

An estimated 15,000 foreign visitors arrived for the Eastern festivities.

68 Babies Passed to Safety In Memphis $1,000,000 Fire

MEMPHIS (AP) — Towering flames fanned by a capricious speed through a baseball park Sunday night, destroyed a city block of shops and scorched the walls of two hospitals.

A human chain of workers hastily passed 68 babies to safety and then evacuated the mothers from the maternity wards as 100-foot-high flames charred city hospital window frames and shattered plate glass panes.

Hospital officials, Red Cross workers, fire and police officials reported no serious injuries. Total damage was estimated at about $1,000,000.

There was no panic when the fire was out. Floors were cluttered with overturned furniture, fire hoses and glass. Patients in the upper stories crowded in the acrid smoke.

Leo Burson, president of the Memphis Chicks baseball club of the Southern Association, said damage to the 14,000-seat park was $200,000. He said it would cost eight to 10 times that amount to replace the park at current construction costs.

So intense were the flames that even the green outfield grass burned.

The clock on the stadium told its own tale of destruction. It toppled to the street with its hands reading 7:45 p.m. Four hours earlier 7,279 fans had half filled the park to watch a Cleveland Indians-Chicago White Sox exhibition game.

41 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA DURING WEEKEND

Road Mishaps Two More Than Predicted

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Easter holiday activities were marred by an accidental death toll of at least 41 during the long weekend, including 27 highway fatalities and nine deaths by drowning.

The road deaths totalled two more than the number predicted by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Thursday to midnight Sunday in all provinces Quebec heading the list of highway deaths with nine fatalities, followed by Ontario with eight. Three road deaths were reported in Nova Scotia, two each in New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia and one in Saskatchewan.

Quebec and Ontario each recorded three drownings, Nova Scotia had two and Manitoba one.

Quebec led the death toll with 7 count of 4 and Ontario had 12, Nova Scotia five New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia had two each. There were also accidental deaths in Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Castro said eastern Cuban planters are trying to make a revolutionary leader out of Huber Matos, a former captain in Castro's army who heads a rebel band in the Sierra Maestra.

Castro made the charge in an interview aboard a plane just returned from a tour of eastern Cuba, where the prime minister last week directed a search for Beaton and his band.

ESCAPED FROM PRISON

Castro called Beaton "a vulgar delinquent." Beaton escaped from prison in Havana, where he was held on a charge of killing one of Castro's army officers. Beaton and Matos are said to be planning

"American authorities at the naval base," Castro said, "are one of these (counter-revolutionary) activities and are connected with them."

The prime minister named no names or groups of officers at the big base the United States leases from Cuba in Oriente province.

However, he hedged slightly from remarks made Sunday that relations could be improved if he had a private meeting with President Eisenhower or State Secretary Christian A. Herter.

Easter Egg Hunt Turned Into Chaos As Park Stripped of 4,000 Daffodils

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sunshine, showers and sixties brought the country out early wind and flowers to Victoria Saturday and Sunday across Canada.

Rain drenched Easter parade spirits in Toronto and showers hit Quebec City while Montreal was cloudy. The temperature touched 75 in Ottawa as thousands of persons visited Parliament Hill to see the crocuses.

But in Victoria the flowers had a difficult time. An Easter egg hunt in Beacon Hill Park there turned into chaos as an estimated 15,000 persons stripped the park of 4,000 daffodils and other blooms and trampled boiled eggs hidden in the grass.

Churches were crowded across country, but early wind and showers kept a few persons from Vancouver's Empire Stadium down to 3,000 persons, 7,000 less than predicted.

Strollers showed off spring clothes by the thousands in Montreal and the thermometer climbed to 60 Monday morning as downtown area as crowded as on Friday's heavy shopping day but in chilly Winnipeg a few hundred paraders were on their way to or from church.

Hundreds of people huddled in doorways along Toronto's fashionable Bloor Street waiting for a parade that never started, but 60 grim marchers showed up through the rain bearing placards urging disarmament.

Vancouver had an Easter parade of about 30 vintage cars and a few floats, the city without coupons in period dress.

Find Kidnapped Tot Abandoned In Soggy Field

Nova Scotia Infant Plucked From His Crib

SYDNEY MINES, N.S. (CP)—Eighteen-month-old Russell MacKenzie, victim of a brazen and apparently senseless kidnapping, was found abandoned in a soggy field behind his home early today seven hours after being abducted. He was well.

Police said they were holding a suspect in the abduction.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie, were nearly overcome with relief when Russell was found by a store clerk Jean McPhee as she headed for work.

"Our prayers have been answered," said the distraught mother. "Oh, my God, my God."

IN GOOD CONDITION

A doctor said Russell was in good condition apart from being a little cold. The lower half of his sleeping suit had been ripped off.

The dark-haired baby was found at 7:10 a.m. AST (6:10 a.m. EST). He was taken from his crib plucked from his crib at 12:15 a.m. by a man who broke and entered his way into the MacKenzie home in this Cape Breton Island town and left behind no clues tests of the infant's 20-year-old aunt, Miss Jean Saskatoon.

It was not known how long Russell had been in the field. Sometime after he was said he was not there at 4 a.m. when the father left for work in the north end of Port George for the summer. Pilot Sackett is a former Belleville resident.

Mrs. Scott is the wife of the Hudson's Bay Company post manager at Port George and was visiting on her way out of Fort George for the summer. Pilot Sackett is a former Belleville resident.

Officials said the flight was a normal charter run. There was no radio contact with the Norseman after takeoff.

Trenton Rescue Unit Hunting Missing Plane

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Ont. (CP) — Snow today delayed a search for a gold mine's missing passenger missing in a light-skiequipped plane in the James Bay area.

The plane with pilot Larry Trimble, 32, of South Bay and Mrs. Alice Scott, about 40, of Fort George, Que., has been missing since early Saturday. There has been no radio contact since the single-engine Norseman left Rupert's House, Que., on a 240-mile flight to the Timmins area community.

Two RCAF Dakotas from Trenton, Ont., searched Sunday. Two more were expected today, an official said. Planes owned by Austin Airways, a mining survey firm and Georgian Bay Airways were also taking part in the search.

Georgian Bay Airways officials said the Norseman was equipped with a stove, tent and enough food to feed the men for two weeks.

Mrs. Scott is the wife of the Hudson's Bay Company post manager at Fort George and was visiting on her way out of Fort George for the summer. Pilot Sackett is a former Belleville resident whose mother lives in Deseronto.

Officials said the flight was a normal charter run. There was no radio contact with the Norseman after takeoff.

Gen. de Gaulle Leaves Paris For Ottawa

Dressed in dark grey double-breasted suit, the bareheaded French president arrived 12 minutes early for a last-minute chat with Premier Debre, Foreign Minister Couve de Murville and other cabinet ministers. He made no statement.

HE ARRIVES FIRST

Madame de Gaulle, who will be at his side in America and Canada, observed French custom by arriving a half-hour before her husband.

Hydro Service In South End Of City Cut Off

Hydro service in the entire south end of the city below Bridge Street and east to the old city limits was interrupted Saturday night during the electrical storm which passed through the area.

Cause of the interruption was broken insulators on the high tension line in the vicinity of the CNR coal chutes east of the city.

And in addition to the area trouble which affected the south end of the city, lightning also blew a transformer on lower Front Street, which cut off power completely in the area for almost an hour.

Due to the broken insulators on the high tension line at the coal chutes, lights began to flicker and dim at 9.15 p.m. and then half an hour later the lower Front Street area was the complete darkness due to the blown transformer just south of the Park Theatre.

The theatre was playing to a full house for the Saturday night show and Manager Thomas Marcinko lighted seven tickets for future engagements as the crowd filed from the darkened theatre.

400 Participate In Egg Hunt

Floe weather and a goodly number of participants, about 400 in all, made the annual Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by the Foremen's Club of the Belleville YMCA, an outstanding success. The event was held at the East Hill playground on Saturday morning and the children participating were required to find 500 eggs previously hidden about the grounds.

Top winners in the event were Owen Stephanson, Karen Grier, Rose Drydale, Ellen Mousau and Gary Muldoon, who were presented with one-pound chocolate Easter Eggs. Ten other boys and girls received half-pound eggs and 18 more received quarter-pound eggs. All children present were presented with at least one lollipop.

Seoul, Pusan Hit by Violent Demonstrations

SEOUL, South Korea (Reuters) — Premier Chang Myon held an emergency secret cabinet meeting tonight as violent anti-government demonstrations hit Seoul and Pusan.

In Seoul, police fired into the air to disperse 5,000 university students demonstrating for the release of high school students arrested in Seoul and Masan. They were protesting against rigging by the government about the March 15 presidential election which they claim was illegal.

In Pusan, the pro-government Segye Press reported that at least seven persons were injured in fights with 1,100 demonstrating students.

During the trouble in Seoul traffic in the centre of the city was paralyzed for four hours and over 150 students were taken to police stations for questioning.

Ten Masan students were arrested after students set five to a police jeep last week to protest police refusal to hand over the body of a 17-year-old high school boy missing since a riot in Masan March 15, election day.

Police fired on anti-government demonstrators in Masan Saturday, 15 persons were reported dead in an official announcement later.

Shun Canada Tourists Told By Detroit Times

DETROIT (CP) — The Detroit Times in a front-page editorial Sunday suggested that Americans spend their vacations in the United States to avoid a Canadian discount on American currency.

"We have endured their (Canadian) discounting our currency for a long time," the editorial said. "Their new trick of knocking two cents off American quarters and four cents off American half dollars smacks not only of cupidity but also insult.

"It carries an arrogant implication that our money is second-class money.

"If that's the way our Canadian pals feel, it is not unreasonable to assume they look upon us as second-class neighbours.

"Think they are in that frame of mind," the editorial continued. "It might be smart rot to burden them with our presence and not to intest their coffers with our coin."

CASTRO CHARGES

Castro insisted he was only answering in the affirmative a question put to him by a Soviet correspondent. Asked if he was travelling to discuss peace with Eisenhower or Herter, he replied. "I did not say that, but I want to misunderstand any of what I said."

Castro told correspondent Richard Bate of the Columbia Broadcasting System Sunday that reds in revolt against him are better relations between the two countries. "I am not saying this would mean a considerable boost in prestige for Castro, and it seemed probably Eisenhower would give the idea serious consideration," Bate said. Castro launched further attacks on U.S. policy. Nor did it seem likely Herter would be able to change his mind during the harsh things Castro has said about the Cuban regime.

In Washington, state department press officer Lincoln White brushed off Castro's suggestion. He said it was surprising to him that the suggestion was made in Moscow and not in U.S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal, whom Castro has seen since Bonsal returned to Cuba March 20.

Observers noted that Castro made his bald statement after such offhand remarks—perhaps to test reaction to them.

Castro has led a hunt for rebel guerillas in the Sierra Maestra in the past few days.

He told reporters the heavy concentration of troops in the Escambray and Las Villas mountains was to help train the militia there to be used as reserves, to give the regulars combat training and to be on the alert for possible invasion landings.

Castro also said he might be launched, Castro mentioned the Dominican Republic.

Capsule Stays Close to Its Mother Ship

VANDENBERG BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Discoverer XI satellite and its disobedient push-rocket stayed close to have parachuted toward the Pacific near Hawaii Saturday after whirling around the earth in eggshaped orbits.

The second package of instruments, about the size of the Ford V-8 engine block and all of his arms, separated from its mother satellite as scheduled on the 12th trip over the Arctic Circle.

But instead of dropping into the atmosphere where aircraft were standing by to snag the capsule as trapeers slung beneath their fuselages, the capsule stayed close to the mother craft in a series of baby satellite.

The U.S. Air Force, which launched Discoverer XI here Friday, said gyrotain secret devices, designed to slow the capsule down enough so it would fall to earth, didn't work.

Meat Tenderizers

• Flavor or Pickle

Q. Would the frequent use of meat that has been treated with tenderizing powder have any harmful effects?

A. There seems to be no reason to believe that use of tenderized meat is harmful. The tenderizing powders, which are themselves harmless, partially digest meat (protein) and the digestive products are those normally produced in the breaking down or digestion of protein.

Q. What is the difference between an enema and a normal douche?

A. An enema is a solution administered into the lower colon. A douche is a canal or tube-like abscess. Anal douches often result from improper borrowing of the infection may result in fistula-in-ano. Care of a chronic anal fissure (or, anal fistula if one has formed) requires removal of all involved tissue and is mainly a surgical matter.

Emphasizing the pulmonary of certain medicines, antibiotics, vitamins and other drugs requires that they be kept under correct temperatures control.

Claim School Inspectors Over-Worked

TORONTO (CP)—Salaries and working hours of school inspectors are expected to be contentious issues at the five-day centennial convention of the Ontario Education Association which opened today.

President Jean Watson of Innerkip said low pay and long hours are responsible for the poor health of many of the inspectors. Mrs. Watson said the number of inspectors has not kept pace with the rapid growth in student population.

The legislature's education committee was told recently that the number of secondary school inspectors should be doubled, to do a competent job.

Top salary for provincial inspectors is approximately $10,000 a year, at least $2,000 less than most senior principals in Metropolitan Toronto.

Blake Hopes Rocket Richard Will Retire

SUDBURY (CP) — Toe Blake, coach of the Montreal Canadiens, says Montreal Canadiens, says he hopes Maurice (Rocket) Richard will retire from hockey this year.

Blake made the statement in Montreal to Sudbury Star sports writer Paul Rimstead.

"I honestly hope he does retire," Blake said. "I wouldn't want to see him injured permanently. It's pretty tough playing in the NHL when you're close to 40 years old—or in any kind of hockey."

Second Season For Seaway Is Opened

MONTREAL (CP)—A busy day today at St. Lambert Lock, and bustling days ahead for the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The seaway was to begin its second season today at 8 a.m., when the Lemoyne, a veteran Canada Steamship Lines freighter, moved into St. Lambert lock, the first of seven on the 135-mile stretch, to officially open the route to the Great Lakes.

"The first day will be busy as last year, but it won't continue that way," said Seaway superintendent Rene Hyppolite Sunday night. "It will take three or four days to clear the traffic at this end."

IS TO FOLLOW

About 25 ships, ocean and lakes vessels, were to follow the Lemoyne. Last year, some 60 ships were waiting when the seaway was opened April 25 in a blaze of pageantry.

Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower officiated at the opening ceremony and the royal yacht Britannia was the first vessel to use the long-awaited deep-water route.

When the deep - water ships started into the locks, seven tug crews and skippers unused to such narrow confines for their big vessels ran into trouble and there were unexpected delays.

CUT IN CHANNELS

This year, the only thing expected to delay navigation is ice lingering in the seaway channels. Night-time lighted buoys have not been laid because of this ice, so ships must be able to move after dusk.

Vessels have been advised to "proceed with caution" during daylight hours. Ice-breaker Sir Wilfrid Laurier will have knifed wide paths through the rotting river ice.

East Germany Gives Nothing In Proposal

BERLIN (AP) — In a slightly modified version of the Communist demand to make West Berlin a demilitarized "free" city, East Germany has proposed a gradual reduction of Allied forces in the city and a gradual lifting of the occupation.

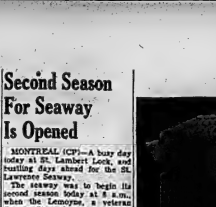
East Germany called for curbs on anti-Communist activity in West Berlin, a ban on atomic arms in the city, a halt to the recruiting of West Berliners for the West German army and a step-by-step reduction in the West Berlin garrison, now about 10,000 Allied soldiers.

At the Geneva foreign ministers' conference last summer the West offered to limit their forces in the city, ban atomic weapons from West Berlin and restrict anti-Communist propaganda in return they demanded concessions from the Communists—notably a Soviet guarantee of free access to the city from the West. The Russians rejected the proposal.

The East German plan was put forward in an open letter to West German workers signed by the ruling central committee of the Socialist Unity Communist party and its secretary Walter Ulbricht.

One Adult, Two Children Die in Separate Accidents

Tragedy struck for three Belleville families during the weekend over the Easter holiday as three persons, one adult and two children died accidental deaths in separate mishaps on Saturday night.



In Bellefville on Dundas Street, only a short distance from his home, Robert Drummond, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Drummond, 129 Foster Ave., was fatally injured when he darted into the path of a motorcycle on Dundas Street, East.

On No. 2 highway at Avis Curve, a mile west of Desoronto, Anne Brant, 59, of the Tyendinaga Reserve, drowned in a roadside ditch where he had apparently stumbled while walking home from Desoronto.

At Shannonville ten-weeks-old Daniel McLellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McLellan, was found suffocated in his crib about nine o'clock Sunday morning. The baby was found lying on his face with the blanket pulled over his head.

PLAYING ON WALK

Police said that the Drummond boy had been playing with his brother and another boy near Ted's Lunch on Dundas Street, when he stepped off the curb into the path of a motorcycle ridden by Raymond Boudreau, 432 Wellesley Street, Toronto. Keep Community Concerts Alive, Says Woman Speaker

TRENTON — Mrs. Marjorie Kegler of Kingston, N.Y., field representative of the Community Concert Association, has urged the Trenton Kinsmen Club to support the local association's membership drive in order to "keep the concert series alive," for what she termed "purely selfish reasons".

Mrs. Kegler said she had definite support that cultural facilities in a community attracted industry. She said heads of industry were eager to provide the kind of workers they hoped to attract to their plants with good school, church and cultural facilities.

She pointed out the value of music as a hobby. She said that radios and hi-fi recorders had a beneficial effect on the life of the average person. A "live" artist in a concert hall was an experience to share with one's family, neighbors and friends and that such experiences were most valuable in the atomic age when spiritual values were apt to be forgotten.

She mentioned one of the highlights of the 1960-61 concert series locally, Walter Cassel, the famous Metropolitan Opera baritone who, a few seasons ago, performed the difficult feat of singing three major roles at the "Met" in a 24-hour period, will perform in Trenton.

Mrs. Kegler praised the work of the Trenton Association.

Mrs. Kegler was introduced by Jack Richmond and thanked by Gerry Ireland.

Two new members were welcomed into the club membership. Wayne Payne, a native of England and an employee of the Central Bridge Company in Trnton, was introduced by Howard Aziz. Geoffrey Robinson, also a native of England, ceremic engineer at Erie Resistor, was introduced by James Walsh.

Mr. Payne and Mr. Robinson were inducted by Wayne Simmons. They were reminded of the aims and objectives of Kinsmanship International, and that the motto of the club was "We build." The new members will wear red "beanies" for three meetings.

President Dick Burnet reminded members of the coming peanut campaign by which the club raises funds for charitable purposes. Mr. Burnet also reminded members of this week's show at the Country Club, when members of the country club and the Trenton drama group will present a twin bill, "Trial by Jury", a Gilbert and Sullivan classic, and "The Boor", the play that won the one-act award in the Eastern Ontario festival at Deep River.

Bevy of Trenton's Beauties March in Easter Parade

Leading off the parade from the CNR tracks on Dundas St. West was Miss Lynn Hutchinson of Kapuskasing, baton twirler extraordinaire, in an eye-catching costume of black and gold.

Following with a swirl of kilts and bagpipes were the pipers the bagpipes was the Quinte Highland Pipe Band.

Local car dealers and fashion shops competed in their efforts, the end result being a bevy of the most beautiful gals in town dressed in the most beautiful clothes in town, riding in the most beautiful cars in the district.

Winding in among the traditional parade entries were the Chamber of Commerce surrey, driven by Don Foster of Belleville with Pat Duvall as "Surreily say 90's passenger; Mrs. Foster following in a miniature car; two overgrown frisky rabbits and a bicycle built for two with Berti Atkinson and Paul Mainguy as the lively cyclists.

Provincial police at Belleville said he had been seen about 12.30 Sunday morning at the outskirts of Deseronto as he walked toward his home on the Reserve.

Gen. Mark Clark Says Alexander Great Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired army Gen. Mark Clark says Field Marshal Viscount Alexander of Tunis, former governor-general of Canada, was "the greatest soldier that I served under in the Second World War."

In a radio interview (CBS-Reporters Roundup) Sunday, Clark, now president of the Citadel Military College, said Alexander whom he considered his greatest commander.

Clark, noting it was a difficult question, said that he had served under General Eisenhower during the North African invasion in the Second World War and Eisenhower "had many qualities of leadership that I admired."

Clark added that he had served under Alexander in Italy. Alexander, Clark said, "understood the problems that confronted Americans and the political problems that confronted the British."

Clark said Alexander was "the man whom I really served under in the Mediterranean and ... and I think he's the greatest soldier that I served under in World War II."

Otonabee River Flood Waters Reaching Peak

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Trent Canal officials today warned that abnormally high water is expected along the Otonabee River this week.

They advised persons with homes in areas subject to flooding to take precautions to ensure that property damage is kept to a minimum.

The large surges are expected and it is estimated the peak will occur within the next few days, says superintending engineer W. J. David Bennett.

The heavy slow of water is blamed on "large snow, late thaws and unseasonably mild weather of the last few days."

Alf Finn of Scosfort Bridge is prepared to move his family and furniture out of his home today. He said the water level of the river is higher than he has seen in years.

Mr. Fink said "acres of marshland" are floating down the river. Ice and logs also are being washed into Rice Lake.

Swedish Star Says Question Too Personal

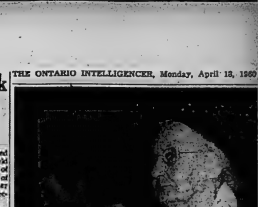
NEW YORK (AP) — Swedish movie star May Britt declined today to discuss rumors or deny reports that she and Negro entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. are planning marriage.

"I will say this, we are dating," Miss Britt told reporters. She is staying in New York while filming parts of a motion picture in this area.

When asked if was pregnant, the actress replied:

"I consider everytime I date someone it is serious, but let's let it go at that."

She parried questions on whether she and the singer had discussed marriage. "I don't think that is rather personal and I'd rather not answer that," she said she has filed in Santa Monica, Calif., for a divorce from her husband of 18 months, Eddie Gregson. That divorce, she said, is expected to become final in September.



Davis' name has been linked romantically with the Swedish star since shortly after he and a candidate while singer, Joan Stewart, recently broke off an engagement.

The Slow Britisher!

We have been fascinated—again—by a release from the United Kingdom Information Service. This is the service's "Farm News from Britain." As in the past, the chuckles in this release should take the form of low and old-fashioned as some people like to believe. It could be, of course, that some of our amazement is the product of ignorance, that what seems to us lovel and ingenious is commonplace on this side of he Atlantic. Still, risking this, we present some examples of the British genius for farm problems.

Two contrasting methods of raising beef cattle have been devised. At the Rowett Research Institute at Aberdeen, Scotland, a steer never gets outside the barn in which he is born, being fattened from a calf to finished beef, 728 to 840 pounds, in 12 months, on a diet of concentrates and oat dust. At the Grassland Research Institute at Berkshire, England, on the other hand, the calf is put out on grass when a week old, the only additional food being a milk substitute.

Dorsets, a breed of sheep sometimes, but not frequently, found in Canada produce lambs twice a year—at least in England's climate. Now a Dorset ram is to be run during the summer with Greyfaced ewes. The object—to determine whether it is the fertility of the ram or the facility of the Dorset ewe to ovulate throughout the year which makes this breed produce a double crop of lamb chops annually.

Fill in the blank space in this sentence by underlining the appropriate word in the brackets: "Artichokes are food for the gods, gourmets, the rich, (dogs)." If you underlined hogs you are right. Junior could have made more propaganda use of this unorthodoxy if spinach had been the vegetable involved. And for those who doubt the accuracy of the sentence as given, the artichoke-fed hogs are located at Aberdeen Farm at Tetbury, whose owners are not spendthrifts but have, on the contrary, won the Gloucestershire Root, Fruit and Grain Society's award for best managed livestock for three years running.

If any Prince Edward County farmers are bothered by blotchy tomatoes, an electronic counter can provide the answer to the trouble. And that there is several kinds of blotches (or "blotch" in the singular, the way the U.K. Information Service writes it), and that the two factors most likely to produce them are light energy and air temperature. "To try to relate two such continuously and rapidly changing variables to abnormalities of fruit (there are many of these, so settle an age-old controversy) color in any reasonable time has only now become possible, by use of the electronic computer."

Finally, let us consider the problem of Major R. H. Snoop of Quarkhill Farm, Crowcombe, Somerset, England. Mr. Snoop has a mechanical problem in that he can't carry his full address. His trouble was controlling the fan in his unrefrigerated cold storage for fruit. A simple thermostat would not do. The temperature for which it was set might be unobtainably cool in warm weather, or unnecessarily high in cold. What he needed was to have the fan come on at a predetermined rise in temperature outside dropped below that in the store room and to shut off whenever the store temperature had been lowered to the outside temperature. He got what he wanted.

"In this instrument, capillary tubes at the bottom of the unit lead from thermometer bulbs inside and outside the building to small bellows mounted in the casing, and these expand and contract with variations in the temperature. The bellows are connected through a simple lever mechanism to small metal plates moving up and down in a horizontal tube. At one end of this tube a low voltage light bulb is focused through lens onto a photo-electric cell mounted at the opposite end, the ray of light being controlled through slots in the vertical plates. Any movement of one slot relative to the other cuts off the light supply. This is registered on the cell, amplified in the unit, and a heavy duty relay is operated which starts or stops the fan. This instrument is sensitive to changes in the atmosphere of as little as one-half degree Fahrenheit. Later models are expected to include an overriding low temperature cut-out to avoid possible damage to fruit by introducing air below freezing point."

Those old fogies over 'ome.

Mistaken Identities

By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

One of the great potential joys of this world is the occasional mistaken identity, but the mistaken person (in these advertising days) usually blows it by saying, "Oh, I'm sorry, but you must have made a mistake." It is better to rise to the occasion, look wary eye, and carry on in a magnificent confusion.

Probably in the main, it's a mean trick, but I have seen it done with finesse. Once over a telephone rang in the pre-dawn silence and a most distraught lady put me here and thought I was the Fire Department. She was so relieved when I answered. I was mostly asleep, but I mustered wit enough to handle the thing right this way. I would have told her she had a wrong number, but I did not.

I made believe I was the Fire Department, rather than disturb her further with the news that she had fingered the wrong house in the dark. I calmed her enough so I got her name and address, a few details, of the conflagration that was being applied to the premises, and said, "I'll be right over." When I telephoned my friend the chief turned back to bed. I heard him and told him there was a fire at such-and-such a place. As I drove I imagined I heard a distant village. A quick run, I thought, and the fire was confined to minor damage.

But a few days later I chanced to see the chief in the barber shop, and he seemed somewhat put out by what happened to call him about a fire eight miles away and on the other side of town. I told him I had been thinking about this. He said he guessed it, that I had the power of second sight and constantly kept alert to the possibilities of fires. I think he hasn't believed me, but I enjoyed knowing a big paper myself.

One time I was calling socially on a Judge of Probate, in his leather-bound office, and the telephone rang. "Judge, ma'am," he said, and reached for the mouthpiece. "Hello, dread- running feet of two be- fur, yes ma'am," he said. "Two-penny nails, yes, ma'am." He took down a whole hardware order, including aluminum paint, and thanked the lady ranch before he bade her a genial adieu. He was prowling around in his swivel chair toweing me and said, "She thought she had the Buddhist temple."

Nothing more was said, but it was amusing to contemplate on how long the lady waited for her bogus before she called the dealer again, and what she said to him when she did. Yet, when such an opportunity arises, most people muff the whole thing and say, "I'm sorry, but you have the wrong number."

I was taking the train at Portland one day, bound for Boston, and a fast-dear lady I never imagined existed came bounding up to say, "Oh Jasper —this is such a relief! Come quickly!" She hurried me down the platform, past "Jasper," Wilford's going to Borlon, and she's such a child! You'd see him safely there, won't you?"

She introduced me to Cousin Wilford, a pale, pretty child, school character who was wearing a shawl and carrying an ivory- headed walking stick.

"This is Jasper," she said to him. "Jasper, remember Jasper's Jennie's Jasper—he'll see that you get off at the right station!"

Wilford and I had a pleasant trip, although he was surly and ungiving, and as I left him it was a disreputable relative he was being entertaining by the present emergency.

I got him off at Boston all right, no great problem there. Boston is the end of the line — and have always considered what the real Jasper had to say if he was ever asked for a report.

During the war, I got a letter from a draft board in Connecticut, ordering me to be in 200 fine and ordering me to appear at once and take up the duties of my position. The only possible answer was that somebody shifting my name on to the loose, that the letter came to me because they couldn't find him.

I have always chuckled gleefully whenever I see that people to entice any kind of establishment down a side alley of confusion, and this seemed to me like a good chance. In a few days I did. But Connecticut's draft board in a mess. One little word of explanation and all would be well — but I didn't offer it. I scarcely relished doing or saying anything which might upset the magnificent disorder, and had a little time.

Just as the FBI was about to close in, and the sleuthing squad had been issued bullets, the real draftee suddenly appeared in dramatic fashion and the "dodged" the draft by sailing on a tanker and his draft board had lost him in the intricacies of its own book-work. As a naval engagement his vessel had been torpedoed, and he emerged a hero, to be cheered by everybody. Among my souvenirs is a postcard from him from his draft board, telling me there had been a mistake. Needless to say, I should have written them one, too, saying much the same thing.

Whit sat me at was a gallery I had last evening. This man knocked on the door, shook my hand warmly, and said he had come in answer to my request about a fire hook and ladder. He urged himself in, and we spent an hour and a half. He answered all my questions very well. He also wrote down everything, and filled out a number of forms.

I suppose somewhere in our neighborhood, is somebody this fellow thought he was visiting and that somedreamed prevails as to why the government man hasn't called. But he was such a nice fellow, and I found it so much pleasant to be misinformed on this particular subject. It is quite a thing. Perhaps I'm mean. Maybe I should be straightened this out as I did in the call to the fire chief.

Writer's Cramp Goes Straight To the Head

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I have been browsing through the letters of that infuriating new book, Norman Mailer's "Advertisement for Myself," which I have decided to review indirectly. Although a gifted novelist, Mailer is a writer of enormous vitality and may mean writing today.

Of course, beginning with Horace and Boileau and Pascal monumentum aere perennium"), writers have generally been convinced that their effusions were destined for immortality. Shaw constantly bragged that he was a better dramatist than Shakespeare, Wordsworth referred to himself always in the third person as "the Master," and Yeats wrote that he considered himself "the eighth Wise Man of the world," the other seven Sages of ancient Greece being dead.

Coleridge said that his "pride and egotism" led him to compose "the sweetest poetry." Carlyle wrote to his brother that he considered himself superior to anybody living, and the same line George Moore publicly professed, "I regard myself as the supreme novel in English." Coleridge, stated to carry proofs of his articles in his pocket, and read them to anyone who would listen. Keats said he lived only to "make" would be read when Homer and Shakespeare were forgotten. ("Madoc" is forgotten.)

Literary vanity and intellectual megalomania are tolerable, but writers have traditionally been worse than poets or politicians in their social or amatory delusions. Mailer is a shrinking violet compared with some literary hams of the past.

Byron had a notorious dandy who treasured his sullen good looks as long as he valued his poetry. Alfred de Musset prided himself as the world's greatest lover, although D'Annunzio gave him a race for his money. Both himself and said — and sometimes didn't kiss, and told anyway.

Voltaire was an inveterate scold and climber in socks of sochs. Victor Hugo preened himself on the fact that his father was a phony "Count," which carried with it the privileges of a Kentucky colonelcy. Balzac became an ersatz aristocrat in his own mind, and Chateaubriand made himself a fake family coat-of-arms. Even Goethe thought he was a butcher who couldn't read or write.)

The vanity of vanities, though, occurred when 300 French poets met in Paris, after the death of Dinaux, to elect their successor to the throne. The first ballot there were 300 votes and 300 names proposed. On the second ballot, Paul Fort won with two votes. Move over, Mr. Mailer.

Belleville "Timber Toppers" proved their ability as golfers when the Deacon "Sportswear" trundlers of this city won the bowling tournament sponsored by the Peterborough Bowling Club in that city. Teams from Hemlton, Toronto, Kingston and intermediate points all competed in the tournament, but the Belleville "maple knockers" with a score of 3789 won the honors. The Deacon "Sportswear" quintette champion team was composed of Skip Tom Thorne, Harvey, Art Whalen, Leo Barrett and Clar Anderson. A second Belleville team, headed by Cy Young and bowling under the banner of the Canadian National Railways of this city, also finished well up in the tournament.

Popularity of the Sunday drive, one of concerts that have featured the spring activities of the Belleville Municipal Band was again evidenced last night at the Madoc Curling Theatre. Tribute to the British navy and the memories of the naval engagement won by the "boys in blue" over the weekend was paid in a stirring rendition of "Rule Britania" which preceded the program proper. The popular tunes such as "Oh Johnny," "Lilies in the Dale" and "South of the Border" caught the popular fancy and the encore was a vocal choruses as encore after encore was called for, and given. Highlights of the concert were a cornet solo by Fred Gainsforth, and vocal solos by the popular Belleville basso Mr. Harold Worrell, and the new Hinchey-Carver work Hall to Canada" received the well-merited acclaim of the audience.

Mr. Gordon Robson spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robson, in Lindsay.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

MOTHER OF THREE NEEDS MORE REST

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 22, and the mother of three active children. My height is about 5-2. I have a small frame. My health is good except for frequent colds, but my weight has fallen to 85 pounds. My doctor says this loss is caused from nerves and strain from the children. However, I do think my nerves are not that bad. What should I do?" A.C.

You have your hands full! Maybe your nerves aren't "that bad", but taking care of three little ones is a whole of a lot of work to spend energy and strain. Even if you have to skip some chores, arbitrarily get half an hour's more sleep every night. And when the children take their naps, you take one, too. If you can avoid being exposed, you're likely prevent some colds. Weight is frequently lost by using more calories in exercise than are consumed in diet.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is salt needed for human life? — E.K.G."

Yes. Meat, vegetables, fish and some other foods contain enough salt. If the body starts to run short, it keeps much of the salt it has, rather than discharge it. People can get sufficient salt in their food even if never using up a salt shaker at the table! J. C.

"Dear Sir: I have been approached by a vitamin and mineral salesman to use a food supplement in addition to my regular diet. He says that even if we use our meals regularly we still don't know for sure whether we get all the vitamins and minerals. What do you think? — J. I. C.

I think (1) that he is trying to sell his "food supplement", and (2) that you get a fairly well-balanced meals you will get the vitamins and minerals you need.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been bothered with heroes, holds for about three years. At times I have diarrhea and stool. Is this serious? I have been treating myself with supp positories. — Mrs. H.

Let face facts. After three years, you must realize that suppositories are not the answer. Hemorrhoids can be corrected. I suggest that you send for my 20-cent booklet on the subject.

I predict that a few months from now you'll wonder why you didn't get at the real answer a couple of years sooner.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to have allergies to hot flashes, either by mouth or inhalation, during the menopause? Is there any other way to control these flashes? — B. I. R.

It's not harmful if the period of time is measured in terms of six months or a year. After that, it's time to do enough thinking to readjust its glandular activity. Since the hot flashes are a consequence of an inadequate glandular secretions, administering hormones (estrogen in this case) is one way to allay the trouble. Often simple sedation or use of tranquilizers controls the problem. I hope other readers will keep in mind that many women never experience hot flashes.

Netherlands Battles Sea

Windsor Star

Holland continues its battle against the sea at a tremendous cost.

With two-fifths of The Netherlands below sea level, it relies on a wall of sturdy dikes for protection. A recent North Sea storm flooded 1,000 acres of land and flooded 3,000 homes in Amsterdam.

There are 1,800 miles of dikes protecting Holland, where half of the people live in areas below sea level.

As further protection, the country is now considering a hydraulic engineering plan estimated at four billion dollars to be built across the Rhine delta estuaries.

This project will cost $500,000,000 and take 30 years to complete. An expensive battle indeed.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SO YOU THINK YOU'RE THROUGH!

Thousands have disproved such statement. We can only be glad to be through when we can't breathe any more, and when our philosophy of life has deserted us. Then, and only then, can it be said that we are really through.

If it is true that we cast think ourselves into being by that same theory we can think ourselves into endless successes.

You have earned the right of leadership is to be lined up with the great leaders of the world thought, no matter where the leadership may be, or the responsibility that a part belongs to each of us.

We must fight our personal battles in our own way, with all flags flying! We must be good citizens, good losers at times, good neighbors, and good friends at all times. Without a group of friends to flower the best in our life, life would be lonely and we often would be in dire need of such friends. Many times great national leaders have been lonely figures, but with inspiring courage and ideals.

So you think you're through? Somebody needs you! Executive motto of the Salvation Army — follow down, but never out!

Self-Rule In a Hurry

Christian Science Monitor

A few days ago in Brussels the Belgian Congo, which could not have been imagined short time ago seems very close. When it did so, on February 20, the independence of a portion of Belgium's huge in a territory as large as the United States east of the Mississippi was assured.

The area affected is the Belgian Congo, which will become independent June 30. In dealing with this Congress the Belgian Government had to consider whether its long period of independence were not less than the risks of renewed violence involving the Congo blacks, and decided independence was the best.

Belgians may have been encouraged toward this view by the local elections in which moderate parties had done very well. This was also evident by liberal thinkers in the Belgian Government who have hoped that Belgians had been living in a dream world insofar as their relations with the Congo were concerned, showed total eagerness to overlook reality.

It is best thought by many Belgians that they were actually giving the natives of the Congo more education, more participation for self-rule and more opportunity than the natives. Doctors are now saying that hemorrhoids can be corrected. I suggest that you send for my 20-cent booklet on the subject.

I predict that a few months from now you'll wonder why you didn't get at the real answer a couple of years sooner.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Who looks at a beetle? Who wonders what its name is, what it does, what it eats, where it lives, what its life is like? Not one in ten thousand of us. Who bends down to look at a beetle? Who stops to see its fantastic iridescent colors, often as beautiful, sometimes more bizarre, than those of the most fantastic butterfly. Not one in twenty thousand.

Who looks twice at a butterfly wobbling by in the spring air? Who wonders what its name is? What more than "a butterfly" does it need for a name?

The indifference to the living world of the majority of humanity who live in city and country alike both, is one of the most important historical facts of the 20th century. It is a century of enormous progress in our knowledge in almost every direction. Alert, eager, inquiring, experimenting, researching outer space, probing the human mind, solving every riddle, inventing every device, the citizens of the 20th century have been insatiable in their curiosity about everything in the universe with a dime or a buck in it.

But we are without the slightest curiosity about two or other creatures who share with us the earth on this planet.

Red River Expected to Reach Spring Peak Any Time Today

The Red River was expected to reach its spring peak here today or at 33 feet above average ice level—2½ feet below the level of some dikes.

City engineer W. D. Hurst said Sunday all dikes will be capable of containing a level of 36.5 feet above average ice level.

At 2 a.m. the level of the Red was 21.8 feet—unchanged in 24 hours.

The Manitoba flood forecasting committee has predicted a 25-foot crest. Mr. Hurst said if the Red reaches 25 feet workers will raise the dikes with earth—and sandbags to 30.5 feet. At 25 feet the river would affect to some extent 200 homes outside the main ring of dikes.

Absence of rain and below-freezing temperatures during the weekend reduced fears of serious flooding, but Mr. Hurst said the river would remain a potential danger spot for a week or 10 days after reaching the peak.

In suburban St. Vital, the Seine River, which flows north and empties into the Red at Winnipeg, caused considerable flooding as it reached its crest. Several St. Vital families were evacuated and water covered farms farther downstream.

The Assiniboine, which rises in Saskatchewan and flows east through Manitoba to join the Red at Winnipeg, was flooding behind an ice barrier at Headingley, just west of Winnipeg.

At Portage la Prairie, where low-lying farms have been inundated, the level of the Assiniboine dropped to 1½ feet below the channel's capacity.

The Whitemud River created a deep pocket Westbourne, 65 miles west of Winnipeg. The main street was reported under two feet of water.

Life of Young Greek Boy Hangs in Balance

NEW YORK (AP)—The life of a young Greek boy, who was flown here in response to his plea for help, hung in the balance today.

The boy, son of poverty-stricken parents in a slum near Athens, arrived here last week in a flight arranged by Associated Press reporter John O.B. Wallace.

Doctors said the boy has a heart defect that will mean early death if uncorrected.

DESPERATE PLEA

His case came to light when he sent a letter through a Greek doctor to Wallace in New York pleading for a chance to live despite his poverty.

Wallace had been restored to health by a heart operation by Gorelik and told his account of it was printed throughout the world.

Gorelik, Wallace and numerous others offered their time and services to bring the child here for treatment.

Sunday, the boy and his mother were reunited with her brother, Nick Drivakos, who flew here from Montreal Saturday night.

Drivakos almost didn't get to New York to be with his sister and nephew. She called him long-distance Thursday night asking him to come.

Drivakos, who didn't have a United States visa, found the U.S. consulate in Montreal closed to him Friday because of the Easter holiday.

The Canadian Press in New York learned of the difficulty through Wallace and the CP dis-

OPENS NAVIGATION IN THREE PORTS — Capt. Harvey Ambeau of the C.S.L. freighter Glenelg received a silk hat and other gifts from Picton Mayor H. J. McFarland when his ship opened the 1960 navigation season on Picton Bay at the weekend. Also present at the ceremony was Prince Edward County Warden Arthur Moore (right above.)

The Glenelg loaded 3,800 tons of cement at the Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. dock and sailed for Rochester, N.Y., opening navigation at that port. On March 18, the Glenelg was the first ship into Toronto harbor and Capt. Ambeau received another silk hat on that occasion. (Photo by Hodgson.)

A-BOMB VICTIM

TOKYO, (Reuters) — The 12th victim this year to succumb to a radiation disease caused by the atomic bomb dropped over Hiroshima died Friday, Kyodo news agency reported Sunday. The victim, Mrs. Mitsue Tsuneda, 47, wife of a lawyer, was reported to have been about half a mile from the centre of the atomic explosion Aug. 6, 1945.

SETS SAFETY MARK

TRAIL, (CP)—This southeastern Britsh Columbia centre has succeeded Medicine Hat, Alta., as the Canadian city of over 15,000 population with the best traffic safety record. Medicine Hat's mark of 1,900 successive days without a traffic fatality—plus also a record for cities with a population of more than 20,000—ended Thursday.

Arabs Boycott U.S. Shipping

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters)—All United States shipping will be boycotted starting today by steevdores in the United Arab Republic in retaliation against the boycott of a U.A.R. freighter in New York.

(Members of the International Longshoremen's Association and Seafarers' International Union in New York have been picketing the 8,195-ton freighter Cleopatra for six days to protest a U.A.R. boycott of ships which trade with Israel.)

Unless the American stevedores halt their New York boycott, dock workers in Alexandria, Port Said, Suez, Ismailia and Latakia will boycott American ships.

(In London, the independent London Times said today that a threatened boycott of U.A.R. ships in Western ports would involve the West in a trade war with the Arabs and prove once again that the boycott is a "bludgeon weapon.")

Using Money Wrong Way Says Simonds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, former chief of the Canadian Army general staff, said Sunday Canada's expenditures on the Bomarc missile should be used for compulsory military training.

He said in an interview the Bomarc B, which is to be used at two sites in Canada, will be obsolete before it is ready for use.

"But well-trained military forces of high morale will never be obsolete.

"And the lessons and discipline learned by Canada's youth in two years of compulsory service would always be of value to the youths and to Canada."

Thousands Line River Banks To View Youths Shoot Rapids In Canoe; Did Not Make Goal

Fast running rapids in the lower Moira River foiled the attempt yesterday of two adventure-loving canoeists who set out to paddle from Plainfield to the Bay of Quinte, but their daring effort proved a Sunday afternoon attraction for upwards of 3,000 people who jammed the river bank to watch their attempt.

Almost within sight of their goal, Ron Vendervelde, 21, of Belleville, and Benny Van Lunteren, 17, of Corbyville, were tossed out of their canoe in the rapids section opposite Trudeau's Garage on Station St.

The two youths made their way ashore with difficulty, while their canoe finished the journey alone, finishing bottom-up to the Bay of Quinte.

But aside from a severe tossing about in the fast current, neither youth admitted any ill effects from the adventure.

The 20-mile canoe trip started at Plainfield and their progress down the swollen Moira was followed by hundreds of Belleville district residents. The disastrous finish occurred in full view of hundreds lining the river bank along Station St.

Other vantage points along the river were at O'Brien's Bridge, at the C.N.R. railway bridge, at the rapids section northeast of Foxboro, at Fairfield's Bridge, Corbyville, and Canniton.

ROADS PACKED

From 401 highway bridge south Canniton Road was jam-packed with cars and the river bank was lined with spectators right down to the Upper Bridge in Belleville.

Dams at Corbyville and Canniton, as well as Lazier's Dam inside the city were portaged by the two youths.

Their light canoe was tossed high by the white water of the fast-running rapids and the paddlers fought to keep their craft under control.

Between the C.N.R. Bridge south of College Street and the Upper Bridge in downtown Belleville the rapids roll along at an ever faster pace and the rough water was too much for the bobbing craft.

Suddenly on the crest of an exceptionally high roller the canoe overturned and the paddlers were dumped into the river.

WORE LIFE JACKETS

Life jackets worn by the paddlers served their purpose and Vandervelde was able to get ashore almost immediately. But Benny Van Lunteren was pushed 300 yards further downstream.

But it was not only the canoeists that got wet.

Skies which threatened rain at mid-afternoon opened in a torrent after the paddler passed Canniton dam and even before the dramatic finish of the downstream safari, hundreds of spectators were drenched to their skins.

The youthful canoeists were disappointed at the finish but the upset didn't come exactly as a surprise.

Even before the start they agreed they had only a 50 per-cent chance of running the heavy rapid section in the lower part of the river.

CCF Woman Member Thinks Political Career All Right

By H.L. JONES
CANADIAN PRESS STAFF WRITER

VICTORIA (CP)—Politics as a career for women? Mrs. Dorothy Haggen, a member of the British Columbia legislature, thinks so.

She, she says, she was surprised to find more men in agreement with her on this than not.

The tall, 50-year-old U.B.-born legislator is in town once more by chance rather than by choice. After the prolonged illness of her husband, she was persuaded to run and was elected in 1956 as CCF member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, the constituency he had represented.

Then December house (usually) sits quietly when she gets up to speak. In a voice that still has traces of a southern drawl she talks of things important to her rural constituents, everything from rural electrification to cattle rustling and what should be done about them.

RURAL RIDING

She is the first woman in the province's political history to represent a rural riding. The only other lady member of the house was Mrs. Buda Brown, a Social Credit member for Vancouver-Point Grey, who died on opposite sides of the house but often travel around together during sessions.

In an interview, Mrs. Haggen expressed surprise there are not more women in politics in Canada—especially older women who no longer have family ties.

"I really think that the public is prejudiced against women in politics," she said. "Women themselves are indifferent about it. I would like a young mother out of her home for anything, but for older women yes. They have served well and it keeps them busy."

During the eight-week annual session of the legislature she finds herself working on constituency mail in day—writing letters, attending committee meetings and sittings of the legislature itself and doing research for the speeches she plans to make.

ALABAMA-BORN

It's all a far cry from Alabama, born on a cotton farm in 1890, one of a family of nine. The family came west to Oregon, then to B.C., in a covered wagon in 1911.

Now during the off - session she finds herself riding the countryside again, but in a car, not a buggy, to the speaker for her timely and thought-provoking address, were expressed by the president and Miss I. Connor, The Rev. R. A. Sinclair closed the meeting.

All were invited to spend a social hour.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Donohoe, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. C. McCoy and Mrs. Atkinson. This concluded a worthwhile and enjoyable meeting.

4-H CLUB

The Wallbridge Band-Aiders held a meeting recently in the junior school.

Five members were present. The Pledges of the 4-H leaders' meeting were read by Carol Ketcheson.

The meeting was spent in bringing up-to-date the health and safety charts, and in discussing plans for Achievement Day.

Achievement Day is to be held at Stirling on May 14.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

ANELIASBURG W. A.

The April meeting of the Ameliasburg Women's Auxiliary was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wood.

Mrs. Lee opened the meeting with a devotional period.

Donations from members towards the cost of tablecloth totalled $4.10. Articles on the buy-and-sell table were sold.

Notes of thanks were received from Mrs. Morgan Sills, Mrs. Lost, Miss Hanley and Mrs. Darling for their birthday party.

The W.A. rally will be held April 27 in Bloomfield. The annual bazaar will be held Nov. 2. A rummage sale will be held in the Belleville Armouries May 28.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wood and the lunch committee.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

MADOC — On the evening of April 3 the Women's Missionary Society of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church held their monthly meeting in the church with Mrs. Bailey presiding.

Miss Lee led the worship music for the program and Mrs. Alvin Franks rendered a reading. Both items were much appreciated.

The Easter devotional, as suggested in the "Glad Tidings," was taken by Mrs. Bailey as leader. She was assisted by Mrs. E. McCaffrey, Mrs. L. Trotter, Mrs. Kernahan and Mrs. Alkinson, all members of the Club.

The Easter meditation was led by Mrs. Kernahan and Mrs. Kilpatrick, was dedicated by Mrs. Bailey.

Mr. Sinclair introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. G. Mc-Kay, of Thamesford, who stressed the importance of "Love in God In Our Hearts." If we possess this, all prayer and just things will be done for the glory of God; love for God, man, and the church itself, centre our best efforts. In like turn we shall be rewarded.

All should work with God; were stressed with due emphasis. Prayer playing and receiving prayer, visiting and inviting all to church, all tend to become members. Giving and remembering our missionaries here at home and abroad are factors.

"The need of perseverance is the call of the Kingdoms of the work; do not be easily discouraged. Good will follow as the day and night."

On behalf of the ladies present the thanks to the speaker for her timely and thought-provoking address, were expressed by the president and Miss I. Connor, The Rev. R. A. Sinclair closed the meeting.

All were invited to spend a social hour.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Donohoe, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. C. McCoy and Mrs. Atkinson. This concluded a worthwhile and enjoyable meeting.

BETHEL-ZION'S LIVE SAVERS

The sixth meeting of the Bethel-Zion's Life Savers was held recently in the home of Beverley Ray.

Mrs. Sayers, the home economist, was with the club for the evening.

Plans were made for entertaining the Women's Institute at their April meeting. The next club meeting is to be held April 23rd.

During the discussion period, the topic "Healthful Clothing," was broken down into the sub topics of "Shoes and Stockings," and "Other Clothing." "Care of the Body" was studied under the specific headings of "Feet," "Eyes" "Teeth" and "Skin." It was discovered a healthful diet contributes to the well-being of the preceding body parts, thus leading to a study of "Nutrition for Good Health." Canada's Food Rules were concluded.

During the group work period the girls went over their health selection guide sheets which are to be kept during the coming months and again following the seventh meeting.

Other home assignments were to work on a chapter in Myself and "My Home"; make inquiries as to the available public health services in the community; and to continue work on record books.

TABERNACLE EVENING AUXILIARY

The Evening Auxiliary of the Tabernacle Church held their April meeting in the church parlors, with the president, Mrs. Morris Reid, presiding.

Mrs. J. Babiak conducted the worship service, the theme of which was the "Easter Story." The Scripture was the Gospel according to the 22nd and 23rd chapters of Luke.

A very beautiful film entitled "The Easter Story" was shown, portraying some of the last days in our Lord's life.

The worship service was concluded with the singing of the hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," and prayer.

Mrs. Aitchison was in charge of the study book, "Africa Disturbed," and spoke on the place of the press and radio in Africa; how extensively they are being used; the special difficulties they encounter, and the topics dealt with.

Radio and the press will transmit ideas, disturbing new ideas, challenging ideas. All will listen and watch. From East Africa leaders and what it sees, and what it experiences in its daily living, Africa will react.

Miss E. Horton gave an interesting account of Miss Gladys Aylward's recent visit to Canadian United Church.

Miss Aylward has become a world-renowned figure and her story has been told in the book "The Small Woman," and the movie "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness." She went to China alone and unaided to answer a call she could not discard. The years she spent there although she endured great hardships, have been rich in experience.

The Missionary Family party is to be held on May 16th. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Art Appreciation Group Discusses 'What Is a Painting?'

The art appreciation group of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club met recently under the convenorship of Mrs. Lewis Andrews to discuss, "What is a Painting?" "Realism and Expressionism in Art", as outlined by the Metropolitan Museums, "Seminars in Art".

The discussion was on the theme "Is a painting merely a layer of pigment on canvas, or faithfully representing the subject matter?" Five portraits of women by Whistler, Ingres, Renoir, Degas and DaVinci showed that the subject of a painting was merely a point of departure. In "Arrangement in Gray and Black", by Whistler (more familiarly known as "Whistler's Mother") the casual observer thinks the subject matter of a picture comes from the reverence he feels for motherhood and passes on. He is really being affected by the expressive composition of subtly spaced rectangles carried out in subdued neutral tones that produce a serene and beautiful mood.

Romantic, classical and symbolical influences in the brushes of Durand, Hicks, and Cezanne, showed that after all the subject matter of a picture the enjoyment of the same is limited only by the observer's capacity to respond emotionally and intellectually. Van Eyck's painted five hundred years ago, is entirely symbolical and still expressed the sentiment of that time.

In Realism the discussion centred about the triple experience of the observer on the visual, emotional and intellectual level. In the intellectual enjoyment of a picture, the viewer's reaction is less immediate. This is a matter of understanding, as in all arts; and is not acquired easily.

Three paintings of violins by Harnett, Duffy and Broque showed painting ranging from Realism, Expressionism and Abstractionism.

Each artist achieved order out of chaos by the simplification of detail and the elimination of selection of accidentals and complications.

The Lascaux cave painting of 15,000 B.C. showed how the primitive artist incorporated the natural configuration of the cave into the painted form.

The portraits on Expressionism dealt with such painters as Van Gogh, El Greco, Rousult, Marin, Kercher and Rubens. These showed vision, force, elements and emotional interpretation. The brush strokes with calculated objectivity attained a balanced contrast and rhythmic flow.

The discussion concluded that a painting is an experience for the person who looks at it and wants to see beyond the subject matter. It is the story of man's ability to express himself in this symbolic form. No two people feel the same about a given work of art. In painting there is no one way of relaying a message.

All artists have reached the heights by different routes and to each has been revealed a different panorama. They must be inventive and creative and not static.

A work of art is more than the sum of the technical means used to achieve it. It is a statement of the philosophy of the time that produced it. It is purely personal experience and the ability of the observer to understand and be influenced by judgments and emotions is the only limitation to his enjoyment.

Gilead Club Holds Meeting

The Gilead Friendship Guild met recently at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Roy Huffman.

The meeting was opened by Harold Pound with a reading and a prayer by Mrs. Huffman.

Mrs. Earl Ross read the minutes of two previous meetings.

The next meeting is to be held May 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pound. A letter of invitation was read from the Carmel Council to be held Sunday May 29.

Mr. Pound closed with a poem and Mr. and Mrs. Huffman took the first part of the program.

A hymn was sung and Mr. Huffman read the Scripture.

Readings were given by several on "Easter." The offering was taken.

The rest of the time was spent on games and lunch was served.

Ont. Growers' Survey Proves Fruitful

A plan of the Ontario Tender Fruit Growers' Marketing Board to promote Ontario-grown Freestone peaches, prune, plums, nectarines and pears is bearing fruit.

The program was keyed to the fact that Canadian homemakers, checked by survey, were not aware of what was Canada-grown fruit and what was not.

Test-kitchen cans of the fruit, bearing explanatory frames on labels, were produced and distributed to key newspaper men, home economists, food editors, farm writers and broadcasters, and to both members of the Ontario legislature and members of Parliament at Ottawa.

Says Board secretary R. K. Matthie: "The plan was in no way conceived as a patriotic or buy-Canadian appeal. It is strictly informative as to let the buying public know that Ontario-grown and processed fruit is even with the finest and most flavorful in the world."

FREESTONE TYPES

Mr. Matthie said that, in a recent test of the taste of the major preference of U.K. consumers, Canadian Freestone peaches was rated top for flavor. The sole Canadian brand entered competed with 19 brands from Australia, South Africa, the U.S. and Japan. Cling peaches, which are not processed in Canada but are available abroad, were rated last in the flavor test.

Mr. Matthie said a joint committee from the Marketing Board, the Ontario Food Processors' Association, and the Department of Agriculture was studying a more extensive program.

"Flavor from the orchid finds its way to the table only in processed dessert fruit, but also to jams, jellies, baby foods, etc.," he said.

Jack Wilcox, member of a public relations firm, said re-search into the U.S. indicated that the American housewife looked first to flavor in processed foods. The second considera-tion was appearance.

Jenny F. — I can't control my temper.

Jenny F. — I am 15 and sometimes I think I'm going batty or driving everyone else batty.

My problem is my temper. I just can't control it, I keep making promises to be good, but all of a sudden something comes over me and I hear myself saying and doing things I didn't mean. Last week I threw a book at my kid brother and almost took his eye out.

As a result of my horrible temper everyone in the family hates me. My father doesn't even talk to me any more. I don't care about that because I can't stand him anyway, but I do want to be nice to my mother and brother and I can't even succeed in that. How will I ever grow up into a decent person?

Mrs. L. F. — We are at our wits' end in dealing with Jenny. We just don't know what's come over her. She was a happy, obedient child and everyone was fond of her. She's very pretty and everyone made a fuss over her. In the last year, however, she has developed acne and perhaps that has affected her. She is being treated for it, but meanwhile is very self-conscious and has stopped going out with boys.

My husband has just thrown up his hands and admits he does not know how to deal with her. She has become such a spitfire he can't talk to her.

I have talked to other mothers about this problem and none of them has so much trouble.

The Council: We would hesitate to suggest which came first — Jenny's temper or her acne, but teeth must have an effect on the other.) The feeling among medical men these days is that adolescent skin disorders are usually rooted in emotional conflict and tension.

Unfortunately, these skin troubles tend to make things worse. The youngster feels unattractive and may retreat from social activities or behave in self-consciously that social activities either do not relieve the tensions. And it is activity and forgetfulness of self the adolescent most needs.

Jenny appears to be having a very rough period, but she should not be given the idea that she is "sick" or has a problem child in any sense. She should be aware that adolescence is a difficult period and that probably she will get over some of the problems with age. Certainly her problem shouldn't be discussed with "other mothers."

She can forgive even her temper tantrums because he knows she is lovable at heart.

The skin treatments are certainly important and Jenny should be helpful and encouragement in following the right diet and getting plenty of air and exercise. Her skin shouldn't be discussed at all, but the right food should be placed before her. It would be no great sacrifice for the whole family to go off sweets and rich, greasy foods for this period.

Outside of this, Jenny should be encouraged to throw herself fully into all kinds of activities — dancing, drama, music and club work. These will help her blow off steam and build self-confidence.

MODERN MARRIAGES

ARE YOUR MARRIES SINCERE?

It would be very easy, in these columns, to lapse into a series of "do's and don'ts," musts and musts. Prompted by readers' questions, such as "Is this right?" or "Was that wrong?" there's always more than enough to talk about. However, while we are all agreed that it is helpful to know the forms that are used to express true courtesy, I think we all should remember that the dimensions of courtesy are not limited to the forms.

Even though you do the right thing, follow correct form to the letter, do you do it in the right way? Do you perform your kindnesses with sincerity? If you say "Good morning," it can be done pleasingly, with that cheerful rising inflection, instead of growling it out with surly downward emphasis. Is it sufficient simply to offer your seat in a street car or bus to an elderly woman? The merely courteous person should do that, but he usually does it rather sheepishly! Isn't your gracious morning," it can be done "Good morning," it can be done you give up your seat with a smile of willingness? Remember that even the lips lie when a slight muscular impulse, and rather a great deal less effort than a frown!

Getting along with people is the foundation stone of success and happiness in the world. Though our manners may be perfection itself, if they are not backed by sincerity and consideration for the other fellow, our "getting along with people" will be unsuccessful.

Gilbert Burgess — in "The Bromide and Other Theories," published some years ago — refers to a person who possesses the talent of natural sincerity as "the best kind of liar." He says: "No one with the educated heart, the kind that is full of sincerity, ever approached a long-absent visitor with the greeting: 'You don't remember me, do you?' or 'I'll bet you've forgotten me.' No one with the educated heart ever said, 'Stop in some time and see me sometime.' His way of putting it is apt to be: 'How delightful to see you again, dear!'"

Mr. Burgess tells about sending his friend Cyrstabel a book; Crystabel acknowledged it promptly. But a few weeks later she wrote him another letter, telling him what she thought of the book, proving moreover that she had read it. Crystabel had the educated heart. Such thoughtfulness and consideration is not merely decorative. It is the very essence and evidence of sincerity.

Without "the educated heart," all so-called courtesy is merely the veneer of politeness, the manner, rather than manners, that counts.

Research Shows 50 Per Cent Of Young British Wives Stuck With 'Bad' Husbands

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Christian Economic and Social Research Foundation studied 700 young British wives and discovered that 50 per cent of them are stuck with "bad" husbands.

In this case, a bad husband is one who goes out alone.

More specifically, it means those men who inhabit the local pub night after night while poor Ma stays home.

The study was made on behalf of the United Kingdom Alliance, an organization that bows to no one in its total disrespect for alcohol.

And the foundation, in its tour of the 700 "average" homes, found plenty of husbands for the alliance to disrespect. Nearly all of the 50 per cent of bad husbands were, in varying degrees, fond of drink. And on top of that many watched football, the dog race or played snooker.

Never did these men take their wives along. Only the other 50 per cent did this.

12-PAGE REPORT

In a 12-page report that could put some women off marrying forever, the foundation found that even when there are children in a family, a surprising 20 per cent of the wives never get out socially.

And in homes where there is more than one child, 80 per cent of the wives spend all their evenings at home. Good husbands stay with them; bad ones skip out.

The study also discovered that wives of bad husbands smoke "substantially" more cigarets than their luckier counterparts. And they watch television a great deal more.

The report breaks down the 700 wives into three general categories.

No. 1 is the quiescent wife, the old-fashioned type who gets married with the idea that she's a housekeeper and belongs in the kitchen. She will put up with everything, and sometimes does. These marriages seldom break up.

No. 2 is the companion wife, the type who insists marriage partners should do everything together. Most stay home together.

EQUALITY WIFE

No. 3 is the equality wife, the one who lets her husband out a certain number of nights a week on providing he lets her do the same. They work out equal schedules. The survey found these homes rather unhappy and children tend to separate man and wife rather than unite them.

Apart from bad husbands, the report suggests that the expense of being baby-sitters accounts for much domestic unhappiness. Several London newspapers studied the findings and agreed.

Savory Sauces

by Mary Moore

Some of us have gone to French restaurants, in Canada and in France and have come away excited by the sauces they served on fish and meat.

There is no mystery to the sauces that French chefs serve. The thing is they do it. We are far too prone to serve plain and lacking that a pickle relish has to do.

The savory sauces I am about to give you today are not too French for the plainest of us, but will elevate your status as a cook by leaps and bounds.

Last week I gave you a recipe for lamb croquettes. Try the following tomato sauce next time you make croquettes. It is good too on omelettes, soufflés, fish or simply on a couple of poached eggs on toast.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Ragout of Beef; Horseradish; Whole New Potatoes; Green Peas; Orange and Lettuce Salad; Rhubard Stew (in double boiler); Gingersnaps; Tea.

SAVORY TOMATO SAUCE:

1 20-oz. tin tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 bay leaf, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped celery with leaves, 2 whole cloves, 4 tablespoons flour.

Reserve 1-4 cup of the tomato juice (to stir into the flour later). Put on to cook the tomatoes with all remaining ingredients except flour and reserved tomato juice. Cook gently 15 minutes. If you are not going to strain this, fish out the bay leaf and cloves. Strain if desired. Mix together flour and 1-4 cup tomato juice to a smooth paste and stir into tomatoes. Simmer until thick and smooth.

MUSHROOM SAUCE:

Simmer 1-2 cup chopped mushrooms in 1 cup water for 5 minutes. Add 1 heaping tablespoon cube, 1-2 teaspoon parsley seeds and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, stir in 3-4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and when blended, stir in mushrooms and liquid until thick.

NOTE:

Sauce as made this way is delicious on beef steak. If you want to glamorize it a little more add a few chopped olives and heat through.

MOCK HOLLANDAISE:

Make 1 cup rich white sauce by melting 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and blending with 2 tablespoons flour and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Stir in 1 cup milk until thick. Now add 2 tablespoons butter — one tablespoon at a time — to hot sauce and blend well. Add 1 beaten egg yolk, stirring, then slowly add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Serve on broccoli, or asparagus or cauliflower or spinach or serve over a poached egg on a slice of fried ham on a small round of toast. This last variation would be called Mock Eggs Benedict.

CUCUMBER SAUCE:

1-2 cup cream, whipped, 2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon salt, shake of white pepper, 1-2 cup cucumber, finely chopped, 1 teaspoon chopped pimiento.

Drain chopped cucumber. Heat vinegar, slowly, into cream and seasonings. Fold in cucumber and pimiento. Serve with broiled or steamed fish or with fish moulds.

NOTE:

Next week I will give you some of my favorite sweet sauces to be used on desserts.

Many Negroes Under Thumb of Shebeen Queens

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The South African government is ready to take a new look at laws which impose virtual prohibition on Negroes and put many of them under the thumb of Shebeen Queens — women bootleggers.

Chances for a revision of the laws, a serious source of friction, have improved following the recent racial violence.

But any liquor "concession" for Negroes is sure to be sternly opposed by the Dutch Reformed Church and various temperance organizations.

The dispute is expected to break when a seven-man commission presents its report on the problem later this month.

Police officials have urged for years that the liquor laws be relaxed to break the reign of the Shebeen Queens and help end continual clashes between Negroes and police over liquor offences.

Present regulations forbid Negroes to drink anything but their own "Kaffir beer," a weak brew made from corn.

GET BRANDY, WINE

But the Shebeen Queens, who run undercover home breweries and drinking dens in "dry" African townships, have contacts outside the Negro communities for the supply of cheap wine and brandy. Mixed with other ingredients, it produces a lethal concoction known as Skokiaan.

There are reports that bits of carbide are sometimes added for an extra kick.

The extent of the illicit trade was emphasized by a government report in 1958 which said up to two-fifths of the hard liquor sold in South Africa ended up with the Shebeen Queens.

CLAY PRODUCTS

Ontario accounted for more than half the Canadian total of $41,710,000 in sales of products made from clays in 1958.

Ball Will Benefit by Take-off Pay

LONDON (AP)—A strip-tease artiste from the world refugee ball here next week has stirred up a row among the debutante committee sponsoring the high-toned affair.

Debutante Jane Campbell-Orde, the appeal secretary of the charity, arranged for strip star Claire Never, a Parisian performer now appearing in London, to take off her clothes bit by bit and auction them for the cause.

When news of the entertainment leaked out, another member of the organizing committee denounced it. Kerry - Jane Ogilvery, 18-year-old contender for debutante-of-the-year title last year, said:

"I was appalled and disgusted. It is bad enough that these things go on at all. But to stage a strip-tease act at an important ball attended by distinguished people is unforgivable."

Miss Campbell - Orde said: "Miss Never is giving her services freely and we are going on with the strip - tease act. The ball is for a good cause and this should add to the money raised.

"I must admit I've never seen a stripper in action, but I don't consider it will be shocking."

League Will Operate-Rickey, Not Qualified Says Frick

NEW YORK (AP) — Branch Rickey, president of the playerless Continental League, warned the established major leagues Sunday night that his league would "do anything that is legal" to sign up players if "forced to."

Rickey was interviewed by two state senators from New York City, for a television program. The show was taped in advance.

Rickey said "yes" when asked if the league would operate outside the "canopy of organized baseball" if it had to.

While saying there are people in organized baseball opposed to us," Rickey added:

"I doubt if there has been a concerted action on the part of anyone in organized baseball to oppose the organization of the league. It is the continuous accumulation of blocks and stoppages that in the whole picture indicate opposition to us. Whether intended or not, it has been very effective in delays."

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Baseball commissioner Ford Frick said Sunday there is no evidence the Continental League "has qualified on a single point" for major league status.

Frick issued the statement in response to remarks made by William Shea, chairman of Mayor Robert Wagner's committee to bring another major league team to New York City. Shea charged that the established majors were paying only lip service to the Continental League and were making no actual effort to assist it.

Frick said he has always favored expansion of the majors "but that expansion must follow regular order if the best interest of the game is to be served."

"If the Continental League can show progress on any single point, the commissioner will so report to the major leagues. Just as soon as the Continental League sponsors can qualify, the commissioner will support them 100 per cent.

"Meanwhile, I wonder if it wouldn't help a little if we had fewer complaints, less ally-ing and a little more positive action."

Ex-Canadian Swim Winner

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (CP)—Irene Macdonald, a Hamilton, Ont., native now living in Los Angeles, won the three - metre diving championship in the three-day National Amateur Athletic Union girls' indoor swimming championships Saturday night.

Among the competitors was Sora Barber of Brantford, Ont., who swam the 100-yard backstroke event in 1:03.5 and 1:03.9 for third place in each of two trials.

A record of 1:03 for the 100-yard backstroke was set jointly Saturday by Carin Cone of Houston, Tex., and Lynn Burke of Santa Clara, Calif. Miss Cone had set the previous record of 1:03.2 earlier in the day.

FRIENDLY VISIT

HAMILTON (CP)—Lou Agase, Toronto Argonauts' new head coach, will make his first appearance here a social one, Saturday by Carin Cone of Houston, Tex., and Lynn Burke of Santa Clara, Calif. Miss Cone had set the previous record of 1:03.2 earlier in the day.

FRIENDLY VISIT

HAMILTON (CP)—Lou Agase, Toronto Argonauts' new head coach, will make his first appearance here a social one, Saturday night, but most was unfavorable.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said its sports desk was swamped with telephone calls and predicted that the Kuenn-Colavito trade could "touch off the biggest maelstrom here since the beloved Lou Boudreau was sold by Bill Veeck" nine year ago.

Comment ranged from the terse remark of Gilbert E. Jansen, a former Cleveland batboy, who said, "The trade stinks," to the learned complaint of eighth-grader Carol Kickel: "I belong to one of the Rocky Colavito fan clubs. It's all over. We're going to start a new one, the Lane haters."

EX-CHAMPS OUT

REGINA (CP) — Two former Canadian curling champions, Matt Baldwin of Edmonton and Garnet Campbell of Avonlea, Sask. were knocked out of the first event in the Regina all-star cash bonspiel here Sunday. Baldwin was beaten 48-6 by Jack Keyes of Milestone, Sask., and Campbell lost 8-7 to Irwin Wright of Regina. Ernie Richardson of Regina, current Canadian champion, was knocked out Friday.

'Trade Stinks' Consensus of Cleveland Fans

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Frank Lane just threw away the pennant!"

That was the outraged comment of one Cleveland Indians fan after learning that the Indians' general manager had traded Rocky Colavito to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn.

Reaction of fans to the trade sending the highly popular slugger to Detroit was mixed Sunday night, but most was unfavorable.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said its sports desk was swamped with telephone calls and predicted that the Kuenn-Colavito trade could "touch off the biggest maelstrom here since the beloved Lou Boudreau was sold by Bill Veeck" nine year ago.

Eisenhower Ends His Career As a Major League Hurler

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major-league baseball careers began for some but ended for one today as the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators met to open the American League season at aged Griffith Stadium.

Tom Sturdivant, who landed in Boston last winter after a stretch with New York and Kansas City, was manager Billy Jurges' choice to pitch for the Red Sox. Cookie Lavagetto of Washington named his Cuban ace, Camilo Pascual, hoping to get his revamped Senators off to a good start.

Pascual was scheduled to take the mound after another right hander delivered the pitch that makes opening day all but a legal holiday in the capital.

President Eisenhower interrupted his golfing vacation at Augusta, Ga., to fly here for the game and continue a tradition that originated with William Howard Taft 50 years ago. With his term running out, this was Eisenhower's last time up to throw out the first ball as a big league hurler.

He has missed only one opener since taking office. Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, who would like the job as a regular next year substituted in 1959. Nixon's mass signaled a Washington victory over Baltimore. Eisenhower's record is 3-3.

Ted Williams, Boston's great hitter, also could be making his last opening day appearance. He still is handicapped by a sore neck.

Champs Lose In Goderich Peewee Tourney

GODERICH (CP) — Both the defending C and D series champions were defeated during the Young Canada Week pee wee hockey tournament here Saturday.

Six Nations, last year's D series champions, lost 3-0 to Alginson, and Point Edward, who claimed the C title in 1959, battled to a 3-3 tie with Watford but lost the game after being outshot 26-6.

Other games in the C series saw Elmira defeat Watford 6-4, Exeter beat Chesley 12-2, and in a 4-4 tie Mitchell won by outshooting Wiarton 10-9. Elmira also downed Southampton 15-0.

In the D series, Exeter beat Riverton 9-0 and Hensall 5-2, Atwood defeated Ayr 4-3 and Alvinston 2-1, and Hensall outshot Shallow Lake 11-8 in a 4-4 tie.

Teams from Manitoba, Quebec, Newfoundland and Michigan will participate in the tournament later in the week.

Says Sugar Kings Will Move To Jersey City

ROCHESTER (AP)—The Havana Sugar Kings will move their International League baseball club to Jersey City within 30 days, says the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

A story by George Beahon, the paper's baseball writer, says that after the club's 13-day opening home stand, it will play home games in Jersey City.

League officials refused to confirm the story but Beahon writes that International League President Frank Shaughnessey did not deny it.

Beahon says the league's biggest problem is getting the Sugar Kings out of Cuba for road games. He does not elaborate.

Havana is a farm team of Cincinnati Reds whose general manager Gabe Paul, said Beahon's report "is absolutely news to me — I think I would have heard about it."

In Montreal, International League secretary Harry Simmons said he knew nothing of the reported move.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tommy Masoare, the genial if retsand manager of the Park Theatre here, is one of the nicer guys in this Metra village.

Tommy, who spent many of his younger years in the London (in the bush), Windsor and Detroit areas, is a connoisseur of good horses, good pictures (motion), Italian dinners and baseball players.

He talks good theatre, some Italian, the finer arts and is a lover of good music. He knows the "Barber of Seville" is opera, not a bestnik tonsorial artist in a Spanish settlement.

And just to show he is not 100 per cent "longhair" (no pun intended) Tommy's favorite bandleader is Guy Lombardo. After all he learned his ABC's and digested after-school spaghetti, ravioles and pizza with the new famous orchestra family during his sojourn in London, Ontario.

One of his favorite vegetables is corn. And that brings us to his favorite baseball player. You guessed it, Ty Cobb.

And if you want to see Tommy's Italo-Cobb fire light up, take a stand near an open door so you can make a quick getaway, and whisper that in your opinion Babe Ruth could give the "Georgia Peach" aces and spades and best him going away as far as being a ballplayer is concerned.

And you had better bring along a tot of good argument for the Babe because Tommy will verbally baptize, scuttle and quarter you before you can get out the name of George Ruth's birthplace.

We tried it and were lucky to get away before the judges handed in their score-cards.

Tommy will tell you the brainy, contemptuous, slashing, selfish Cobb had an incredible lifetime batting average of .367. He will make sure you know Cobb batted under .300 in only his first year, which was 1905.

Thim he will bring up Cobb's 892 stolen bases (96 in 1915 gic the record) and his record vote which installed his fire in the Hall of Fame.

Tommy will tell you about the games in which Cobb continued to slide into bases though his legs were raw from the game before. How he would fight anybody on earth and be back the next day for last. How he played to win and win and would cut down any fielder who wouldn't give him all the baseline.

There was the time he made a deadly assault on a police chief in Cleveland who had given him out of the world series of 1909. There was the time when he cut down Frank (Home Run) Baker and a Philly fan threatened to shoot him if he came back ... Cobb returned, tougher than ever.

Cobb's records and his legends are still as high as the Rockies, even though it will soon be 32 years since he batted .323 for the Athletics in his last season, aged 41.

Tommy will listen patiently while you tell him Babe Ruth was a powerful, versatile player, a better outfielder and thrower and had a lifetime average of .342, a staggering total when you consider his all-out swing produced 714 home runs.

Cobb at last was a crazy batter. The Babe went for the knockout at all times. Cobb scored more runs, a record 2,244 but Ruth drove in a record 2,209. Cobb was the finest at old-fashioned baseball but Ruth changed the character of the game.

"Sirrah," the Babe is quoted as saying, "I coulda hit a lifetime .600 average easy. But I woulda been hittin' them singles. People were payin' to see me hit home runs."

The experts of the Ruthian daze do not believe he would have lasted with a lifetime .600 but he might have approached Cobb's average with a small sacrifice of power.

They say he must have been one of the greatest pitchers. His world series record of 29, two-thirds consecutive scoreless innings until 1918, and his four year stretch his winning percentage was the best in the majors. Once with the bases full of Detroit Tigers he whiffed Bobby Veach, Sam Crawford and Cobb in a rearing row.

Before you leave Tommy, tell him that if the world series is a supreme test of a ballplayer's ability, Ruth would obliterate Cobb. You had better get ready to duck, though, before you let him know.

Then as you're going through the door (under your own steam) you might add that Terrible Ty appeared in only three series with the Tigers and was a bust in each. The Tigers lost in the Cubs series and then to the Pirates. They won four games out of 13.

Ruth appeared in nine full world series. He was a sensation one way or another in all except one, the series of 1922 when he hit an unbelievable 118 against the Giants.

In 1932, despite a lame ankle, he batted a .625 against the Cards and hit three home runs in one game, which he had done before in 1926 against the same team. His overall series batting average was .326 and he won three games as a pitcher for the Red Sox. He hit 15 home runs.

This column might cost us that Christmas pass to the Park Theatre, but if it does, we know a guy we can borrow the price from.

Tommy Masoare!

American League Adds New Rule

BOSTON (AP)— The American League is adding a suspended game rule for 1960, president Joe Cronin announced.

In the recent past, the league has not had a suspended game rule like the National League's. Games were either postponed or ruled a doubleheader and had to be played over from the start at a later date.

Now, games ending before or after nine innings have been completed, for the following reasons, will be considered suspended:

1. A curfew imposed by law.
2. A time limit permissible under league rules.
3. Light failure.
4. Darkness in the second game of a Sunday doubleheader when because of guy law, the lights may not be turned on.

The exception will be extra-inning games which terminate with the score tied in which case they will be legally-tied games and must be played over later.

Trader Lane Swaps Colavito For Harvey Kuenn

Thinks Flag Chances Better With Steady-Hitting Tiger; Straight Star-for-Star Deal

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have parted with Harvey Kuenn, the American League's top hitter of 1959, to put more long ball punch in their lineup.

And the Cleveland Indians have given up the league's co-home run king, Rocky Colavito, hoping to convert Kuenn's steadier hitting into a pennant. The biggest star-for-star trade in years came on the eve of the American League's 1960 opening.

Colavito parked 42 homers last year and should do even better in Detroit's Briggs Stadium with its friendly left field wall only 340 feet from home. He had a .257 batting average compared to Kuenn's title winning .353. But Kuenn hit only nine homers.

'HOMER OVERRATED'

"The home run is overrated," said Indians manager Frank Lane. "Look at Washington which last year. They almost led the league in them last year and still finished last.

"I hated to let Rocky go, but I think our chances of winning the pennant are greater with a steady hitter like Kuenn in the lineup."

Lane had rejected the same deal just a few weeks ago.

Bill Dewitt, who became Tiger president after last season, commented:

"I have a high regard for Kuenn's hitting and fielding and we felt we needed more power at the plate and we're hopeful this move will enable us to score more runs."

NOT SURPRISED

"That's baseball," said Kuenn, who had played shortstop, then centre field and finally right field for Detroit.

Colavito, a right fielder who drove in 111 runs last year for the second-place Indians, seemed disappointed. He said he hated to leave the Cleveland club but was glad to give a 1,000 per cent effort for the Tigers.

The explosive Lane now has parted with what most everyone would agree was the start of a team that finished only five games off the pace last season. He dealt his best pitcher, 15-game winner Cal McLish to Cincinnati. Minnie Minoso batted .302 with 92 RBIs, but Lane sent him to the Chicago White Sox.

Now he has parted with the 26-year-old Colavito, and one of the reasons is that with Woodie Held's ailing shoulder a question mark, manager Joe Gordon could always return Kuenn to shortstop in a pinch.

Kuenn is a 29-year-old spray hitter who won all-star recognition five straight years as a shortstop before he was switched to the outfield because of difficulty with ground balls. His lifetime batting average: .306.

Colavito has hit 129 home runs in that time while Kuenn has only 33 in his big league career. But the lanky, black - browed Colavito has a lifetime batting average of .272.

He also possesses one of the most feared arms in the league. Kuenn's arm at best is mediocre.

Kings Open International In Havana

HAVANA, (AP) — Havana Sugar Kings open the defence of their minor league championship April 20 under the wary eye of the Canadian-United States baseball world. Rochester Red Wings are the opponents in the International League opener here.

Club officials have assured their rivals not only trouble then can expect in politically-strained Cuba is from the club's world series champions themselves.

Club owner Bobby Maduro scoffed at reports that other international league owners are apprehensive about bringing their teams to Havana.

NO SHIFT

Maduro said he had the assurance of International League president Frank Shaughnessy that there was no move afoot to split International League baseball out of the Cuban capital.

He added that officials of other clubs in the league had given him their support.

A new wave of rumors was set in motion at the end of last season, when Baltimore duties president and general manager, Lee MacPhail, called off three exhibition games he had booked with Cincinnati.

MacPhail said there was nothing to it just asking the players "to run the risk in view of the uncertain political situation existing in Cuba".

The Red Wings were in town last July for a three-game and woolly national celebration when a story broke that a member of the Rochester squad during a night game. The Red Wings management refused to play the next day's doubleheader.

Fish and Game To Protest Trout Limit

The Belleville Fish and Game Club will issue an official protest against the new lakes trout limit at its regular meeting tomorrow night.

It will petition the Department of Lakes and Forests to the effect that regulations governing the catch of lake trout to be taken in Ontario be amended to permit the taking of five lake trout per day per person.

The new regulations reduced the "take" limit to three trout per person per day.

The association's action follows the receipt of protests from a large number of its members over the reduction of "take" limits by the department.

Tomorrow night's meeting will be held in the Club Canara, Station Street, instead of the YMCA. Its facilities have been booked for the rest of the year.

Entertainment will include a description live and on films of the work of the RCAF Search and Rescue Squadron of Trenton.

Two fishing films also will be shown.

Rousseau Gets Winning Goal Against Teeps

That was the story on Sunday as goalless edged Teepees 4-3 to keep their flickering hopes alive in the Eastern Canada junior hockey finals. St. Catharines now lead the best-of-seven set 3-1 with the next game Wednesday in Montreal. The winner meets the Lake Shore-Kirkland Lake series —either Edmonton Oil Kings or Montreal Royal Kings — for Memorial Cup series.

Rousseau scored the first and last Brockville goals and assisted on the other goals by Andre Dredet and Gerry Munger.

Doug Robinson scored two for St. Catharines, Murray Hall the other.

Rousseau's first period goal came on a 50-foot shot that trickled through the pads of Teepee goalkeeper Roger Crozier. Robinson, Munger and Hall scored in that order in the second period as each team picked up three penalties.

Robinson faked Brockville goalier Serge Aubrey at the 4:13 mark of the third period and dumped the puck in the net to give St. Catharines a 3-2 lead.

But Rousseau wasn't giving up. Drolet took a pass from Rousseau, split the Catharines defence and beat Crozier to tie. DEFENCE TAPED

Then the Canadiens caught the St. Catharines defence napping with just three players left in the third period.

Foreechecking behind the St. Catharines net, Canadiens forward Harold White passed the puck out to Rousseau who blasted a 30-foot shot into the net for the winning goal.

Teepees turned on the pressure as time ran out, but Canadiens' ice penalties to Chico Maki and Vic Hadfield killed their chances. Both penalties were for upending Rousseau who threatened to widen the Brockville margin.

Reichler Thinks White Sox Top Team in American Loop

— BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

For the first time in 40 years Chicago White Sox are the team to beat as the American League inaugurates its 1960 season Monday with the traditional opener at Washington.

Some 28,000 are expected to be on hand as President Eisenhower interrupts his vacation to throw out the first ball for the Senators-Boston Red Sox battle. Of equal interest is the appearance of Ted Williams in the Red Sox lineup. The 41 - year - old slugger, either because of injury, illness, strikes or marital problems, has missed the season opener in five of the last seven years.

REVAMPED LINEUP

Washington manager Cookie Lavagetto has a revamped lineup from the one which finished eighth last year. Only sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Jim Lemon remain from last year's regular starters. The newcomers include catcher Earl Battey and first baseman Don Mincher both from Chicago's second baseman Billy Gardner (from Baltimore), shortstop Ron Hansen and rookie centrefielder Dan Dobbek.

The only rookie in the Red Sox lineup figures to be catcher Haywood Sullivan unless Lou Clinton replaces Gary Geiger in right field. Bobby Thomson, the ex-National Leaguer, is the centrefield. If not, it will be Gene Stephens. Pete Runnels is set with Pete Runnels, Pumpsie Green, Don Buddin and Frank Malzone.

Approximately 22,000 spectators are expected for the four games Tuesday as the entire league swings into action. Detroit Tigers will play the Indians at Cleveland, Chicago plays host to Kansas City Athletics, Boston is at home to New York and Baltimore at home to Baltimore Orioles.

SOX IMPROVED MOST

The White Sox, who haven't been favored to win a pennant since 1920—when they finished second—appear to have improved themselves the most between seasons. They've added 65 home runs by the acquisition of Minnie Minoso, Gene Freese and Roy Sievers and they've picked up lefthanded pitching strength in Don Ferrarese and Frank Baumann. These additions to holdovers Nellie Fox, Luis Aparicio, Sherm Lollar, Ted Kluszewski and the pitching headed by Wynn and Buck Shaw make a solid choice to repeat.

The Yankees have a solid team except for pitching. Stengel has experimented with young pitchers all spring. Veteran Whitey Ford has been fair, but Bob Turley has had a wretched spring. It appears that Coates and newcomers Bill Short and Johnny James will have to take up the slack.

Detroit has the same team and the same problems. The Tigers hospitality that Steve Bilko and Chico Fernandez can solve their problems at first and short, respectively. The big four of Frank Lary, Jim Bunning, Paul Foytack and Don Mossi should make the Tigers respectable.

Baltimore is committed to a youth program. Paul Richards has a number of remarkable young pitchers and pretty good defence, but he lacks power.

Kansas City has a strong outfield, a weak infield and erratic pitching.

Giants, 'Bums' Top National With Braves ½-Game Back; Bucs Hop Into Fourth Spot

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

San Francisco's major winter trade that sent outfielder Jackie Brandt to Baltimore for pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes has paid its first dividend of the 1960 National League season.

Loes hurled three hitless and runless innings, singled in the bottom of the 14th, and scored the run that gave the Giants a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

The victory enabled the Giants to remain in a first place deadlock with los Angeles Dodgers. The defending champions defeated St. Louis Cardinals 7-5 for their third consecutive victory and fourth in five games. The defeat was the fifth for the Redlegs. Cards.

MILWAUKEE RIGHT BEHIND

Milwaukee remained a half game behind the leaders, walloping the Philadelphia Phillies 10-4 for its third success in four starts.

Pittsburgh (3-2) jumped into fourth place by sweeping a doubleheader from Cincinnati. The Pirates won the opener 5-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Friend, then came from behind with a six-run rally in the bottom of the ninth to nip the Reds 6-5 in the nightcap.

In Saturday engagements the Giants beat the Cubs 6-1, the Reds overpowered the Pirates 11-3, the Braves belted the Phillies 13-3 and the Dodgers edged the Cards 3-2.

Loes was the fourth Giant pitcher Sunday, following Mike McCormick, Eddie Miller and Jack Sanford. He took over in the 12th, retired the first batter he faced, then pitched himself out of trouble by getting pinch hitter Sammy Taylor with two runners on base in the top of the 14th.

The Cubs took a 3-0 lead off McCormick but the Giants battled back with a run in the fourth and tied the score in the sixth on Orlando Cepeda's two - run homer, his first of the season. Richie Ashburn had four hits for Chicago and stole the 200th base of his 12-year career.

SHERRY HAS HELP

Larry Sherry, star of the 1959 world series, won his first game of the season but he needed some help from Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Wally Moon. The Dodger right-hander also needed pitching help from Sandy Koufax, who stopped the Cards without a run in the last three innings.

The Cards outhit the Dodgers 10-7, but a wild pitch and second baseman Alex Grammas' error presented the winners with their runs. Stan Musial banged his first homer for the Redbirds.

Eddie Mathews drove in three runs with a home run, triple and single as the Braves whomped Don Bubl record his first victory for the season.

Held to five harmless hits through eight runless innings of second game, the Pirates exploded for six safeties in the ninth. Four of the ninth overcame a 5-0 deficit against Cincinnati.

STRATEGY FAILS

When Pittsburgh came up for its last turn at bat, Raul Sanchez was replaced with southpaw Bill Henry. After retiring the first batter, Henry gave up singles to Smoky Burgess, Bill Virdon and Bill Mazeroski for one run.

Hal Smith, a pinch hitter, then slammed a three-run homer. Ted Wieand replaced Henry and in the second out but Dick Groat followed with a single and Bob Skinner won it with a two-run homer.

Friend was masterful in picking up his first victory in the opener. He struck out six and walked three. Roberto Clemente's two-run homer off loser Joe Nuxhall in the first inning was all the veteran right-hander needed.

SAFE — Shortstop Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates slides safely into second base as Cincinnati shortstop Roy McMillian grabs for catcher Ed Bailey's throw in the third inning of the first game of the doubleheader Sunday. Groat's single scored Bob Skinner from second and Groat went on to second, on the throw to the plate. Umpire is Frank Dorman. Pirates won 5-0. (AP Wirephoto).

Canadiens Top Eastern Pro MVP Awards

OTTAWA (CP) — Defenceman Jean - Claude Tremblay, 21, of Shall-Ottawa Canadiens, has been chosen the most valuable player in the Eastern Professional Hockey League's first season league headquarters announced today.

The league's six governors gave Tremblay 14 points on one first-place vote and three second. The voting was on a basis of five points for a first place vote, three for second and one for third.

Runner-up was Bob Courcy, also of Hull — Ottawa, who was rewarded 11 points on two first-place votes and one third.

Veteran forward Ken Mosdell of Montreal Royals came third with seven points on a first and two thirds, while other first place votes went to helminder Gerry McNamara of Sudbury Wolves and forward Stan Maxwell of Kingston Frontenacs.

Amazing 'Red' Tops Regular Braves Hitters

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Who's surprised about the amazing comeback of veteran Red Schoendienst of Milwaukee Braves?

Just about everyone in baseball except the 37-year-old infielder himself.

"I don't know why everyone is surprised at the way I've come back," he said Sunday night after the Braves returned to Milwaukee from Philadelphia.

"It certainly doesn't surprise me. I said all the time that I'd be back there as good as I ever was."

A year ago Red was flat on his back in St. Louis, recovering from back surgery after being stricken with tuberculosis. He was out most of 1959, rejoining the team the final two weeks of the season and playing in only five games.

BATTING .500

Today Red is leading the Braves' regulars in batting with an average of .500 on eight hits in 16 times at bat. He had four for four Saturday and two for five Sunday and has driven in three runs. He has started all four games played by Milwaukee this year.

The amazing redhead said earlier he expected to play 100 games for the Braves this year. Now he has upped that estimate to 125.

"I feel better now than I did in the spring of 1958," Schoendienst said. "I'm hitting the ball better than I was in the spring of 1958 when I still was bothered by a groin injury I got in the '57 world series. I feel strong and I don't get tired."

Said manager Charlie Dressen:

"Boy, that guy goes all out. Even in batting practice he shifts over to short and third — he's amazing."

Wolves Take 3-2 Lead Over Royals

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal (CP) — Sudbury Wolves need just one victory to capture the Tom Foley Memorial Trophy as the young Eastern Professional Hockey League's first champions.

They defeated Montreal Royals 5-3 before 6,343 fans at Montreal Forum Sunday to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The sixth game is at the Forum Tuesday and the seventh if necessary at Sudbury later this week.

If Wolves win they will compete a league and playoff double.

Murph Chamberlain's team finished in first place at the end of the regular season with 82 points, six more than the second-place Royals.

Wolves, are expected to be at full strength but Royals will be missing Wayne Connelly, the 30-year-old, right winger, who has completed an eight-game tryout with a professional team.

He has been an outstanding performer with all three in the series and is highly regarded as a future prospect for the parent Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

CHAMPION WINS

WESTBURY, N.Y. (CP)—Bye Bye Byrd raced like the champion he is in his first 1960 start to win the $25,000 Carter Saturday night to win the $25,000 Monitor. He was driven by Canadian Clint Hodgins. Champ Volo, Canadian star, finished third.

The Other Day

a friend was talking about how everything made by man comes from mother earth, and how miraculous seem the changes and combinations that men make from nature's products.

He said he wasn't thinking just of modern Technology, which is becoming boring. Indeed the old processes could be used to illustrate those interesting facts. For example, from the simple plant, flax, comes a variety of products as linen cloth from the stem fibres, and linseed oil from the seeds which follow its bright blue flowers.

To name a few uses of linseed oil, it is basic to the making of paint, ink, linoleum, oil cloth, some medicines, etc. Then, after the oil has been removed, the residue from' flaxseed becomes cattle food about four times more nutritious than hay, and it also becomes a good fertilizer.

Even this little example makes obvious the tremendous organization and efficiency of nature in its endless cycle. Few care to contest this all happens by chance. Nothing so efficient ever comes about consistently by chance, just as an automobile dealer that can serve you well and economically can only be the result of good organization, founded on a world of experience and a desire such as ours, really to serve, in every sense of the world.

Amerks Whip Indians 7-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans, who showed signs of rolling over and playing dead in enemy territory took a new lease on life today with their first victory in the American Hockey League final Calder Cup playoffs.

The Amerks, who finished second to Springfield in the regular-season race, recorded a 7-2 victory over the Indians Sunday night at Rochester. The Indians had won the first two games—each by a margin of one goal—at Springfield ice, the second by a 3-2 margin Saturday.

The fourth game is here Tuesday night.

Four goals within less than five minutes of the second period rocketed the Amerks to their triumph.

Then the roof fell in on Marcel Pville in the Springfield nets. Guy Rousseau, Bob Nevin, Teddy Hampson and Pat Hannigan made it 5-1 on five fast goals.

Nevin registered again at 17:32, Noel Price got one back for the Indians and with 42 seconds remaining Hampson got his second.

The seven goals was the most any Rochester club ever has made in a playoff game.

The clubs play in Springfield Friday, if a fifth game is necessary, it will be played in Rochester Saturday. The seventh game, if needed, will be played in Springfield Sunday.

Saturday at Springfield, the Indians rallied for two third-period goals to win their first game of the tying goal for Indians and Floyd Smith the winner. Earlier Springfield's Bruce Cline beat Rochester's Hannigan and Dave Creighton had tallied.

Racing Fan Dies at 104

KITCHENER (CP)—Mrs. Margaret Madden, 104, this city's oldest resident and one of Canada's oldest horse racing fans, died Saturday in hospital, where she had been confined after breaking a hip in a fall several weeks ago.

The accident prevented her from attending the opening of harness racing season in Fort Erie and since her 100th birthday her appearances at the tracks were usually greeted with applause from the crowd.

Mrs. Madden often presented trophies to winning jockeys and kissed them for their victories.

When 101 she is reported to have asked a jockey: "We're about the same size. Do you think I'd be any good at jockeying?" She was first told.

Born in Buckingham, Que., she also lived some time in Matlavas and Timmins. Her home interest in horse racing took her to Fort Erie and Toronto Woodbine each year. Her last attendance was Oct. 3, 1959 when she presented the Sanger Cup at Stakes Trophy to Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto.

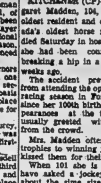
Rector Deplores Good Friday Hockey Games

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Controversy over hockey games being played Good Friday spread to Peterborough Saturday.



Archdeacon F. G. Depley of St. John's Anglican Church said he was "bitterly disappointed" that a game between Peterborough Lions, Canucks and Toronto Marlboros was played Good Friday.

"It's a pity that in a Christian community we can't keep one of the holiest days of the year free from sporting activities," he said.

The two teams are involved in OHA Junior B finals.

In St. Catharines, George Stauffer, founder of St. Catharines Teepees, has resigned in protest over a Good Friday game between Teepees and Brockville Canadians.

FURTHER PROOF of VAUXHALL VALUE!

February 19, 1960.

General Motors Products of Canada Limited,
Oshawa, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

I am so pleased with my Vauxhall, which I purchased from your dealer in Timmins, Ontario, I thought I would drop you a line.

I have approximately 9,000 miles on my car now and I am very satisfied with the starting troubles in our Northern Ontario sub zero temperatures. (My wife and I find the styling, interior roominess and ride all to be outstanding features in your Vauxhall.)

I am particularly pleased with Ride [illegible] and I do not hesitate to recommend "Vauxhall" to anyone.

Yours very truly,

So do most people, Mr. Tremblay, Vauxhall is the car that shows you don't have to sacrifice style for economy!

It looks modern, carries five adults and handles superbly — even on country roads. This is the secret of Vauxhall's outstanding success. It gives you the "feel" and comfort of a big car plus the economy of a small car. Save in style. Test-drive a Vauxhall soon.

MAY SEAL FRONTIERS

There were press reports that the government may seal South Africa's frontiers with three British protectorates — Swaziland, Basuloand and Bechuanaland — to prevent suspected government opponents from fleeing to asylum.

Two of these, Oliver Tambo and Ronald Segal reached Nairobi Sunday night.

Segal, 27-year-old editor of the left-wing magazine Africa South, had a two-hour wait before boarding a plane for London. Tambo, acting president of South Africa's banned African National Congress, planned to fly to Tunis.

They left South Africa without passports — a criminal offence — and asked for political asylum from British while in Bechuanaland. Then they traveled north on documents issued by the Indian commission in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia.

Prime Minister Hendrik V. Verwoerd was reported making a steady recovery from two bullet wounds in the head, and doctors said he would not suffer any permanent injury. Verwoerd was shot April 9 by a white Britishborn farmer.

Dr. H. W. Symman, one of the surgeons attending the prime minister, said Verwoerd's senses are functioning normally and that his face will not be disfigured.

One bullet lodged in Verwoerd's ear, the other in his cheek. Dr. Symman said: "An operation either on the wounds or to remove the bullets is not necessary. The bullets came to rest in soft parts and can do no further damage. They can be removed at a later and more convenient time."

A NEW TWIST

Negroes in the vast Transkei reserve in the eastern Cape province gave a new twist to the racial struggle by launching a campaign to force 23,000 whites out of the territory.

The area is one of five "bantustans"—black states — which the Nationalist government intends to set up under a long-range program to segregate the Negroes, who are of the Bantu tribal family.

There are 2,000,000 Negroes in the reserve. E. A. Pityana, one of the Negro councillors, said he would move that whites get out—including white officials — when the Transkei territorial authority meets April 28.

Pityana said his manoeuvre was in accord with the spirit of the government promise to give Africans self-government in their own areas.

Dramatic Easter Services Given on Both Networks

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television, while too often giving less than its best, sometimes provides precious moments of beauty, enchantment and motion.

There seemed to be many of these moments Sunday. First, both NBC and CBS gave viewers stirring and dramatic Easter services in both Protestant and Roman Catholic churches.

There was Janet Flanner's handsome face, alight with memory, as on CBS' Paris in the Twenties, she told how she and other talented young North Americans flocked there after the First World War.

They were drawn by a sense of excitement and lived grandly on little money in the French city, so full of writing and literature it seemed as if every stone had a literary style of its own.

There was the earnest face of the Rev. Martin Luther King on NBC's Meet the Press explaining gently, but somehow fiercely, his philosophy about the current rash of sit-down demonstrations by Negroes in the United States south.

And there was a particularly touching drama with a triumphant Easter scene on CBS's Frontiers of Faith. This one answered the old question about finding life in death in a play about the Hungarian freedom fighters.

NBC re-ran its April 2 World Championship Golf, a match between Sam Snead and Mason Rudolph which Snead said he deliberately lost. Rather than ruin the filmed TV program by forfeiting the match when he discovered he was carrying an illegal number of clubs, Snead played out the 18 holes—making certain he lost. Before and after the golf film statements were read about what Snead called "this TV mess." They didn't seem to add up to much except to say that NBC had launched an investigation, that the sponsor never interfered with a program's contents and that the public should decide — decide what I don't know and they didn't say.

Children Will Be Prosecuted

SYDNEY, Australia Reuters — Several children who found and spent part of a cheque of £10,000 in monthly pay will be prosecuted, it was announced Sunday by police.

Last week police issued summonses against some of the children, who are 10 to 14, on charges of stealing money from the board, found in a trailer on a circus parked lot in a Sydney suburb.

News of the discovery leaked out when police checked reports of schoolboys having more than usual pocket money. One boy told police he "bought all the lollipops in the world" but gave away the equivalent of $397 because I got tired of spending it."

Police arrested lodged claims for the money and the everyone was expected to decide to whom it belongs.

OBSERVED U.S. HOLIDAY

LONDON (Reuters)—Schools at all United States military bases in Britain will be closed on Princess Margaret's wedding day, May 6, it was announced today. "Seldom do American children have an opportunity to witness such an event," said Maj. Gen. Ernest Moore, U.S. third air force commander and area commander for the more than 8,700 American servicemen in Britain.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"But, dear, with all these modern home appliances, all I've GOT to do all day is spend money!"

PRINTS BANKNOTE NUMBERS

A PARIS (Reuter)—The mass circulation evening newspaper France-Soir today devoted an entire page to printing the numbers of banknotes paid in ransom last week to the kidnappers of Raymond-Eric Fouquet. Kidnappers returned the boy Friday after his father, Roland Peugeot, a member of the French car family, paid a reported 50,000,000 francs ransom. Commissioner-Director Jean Pierangeli, leading the hunt for the kidnappers, said there he had "nothing new" to report.

South Africa's Cricket Team Booed in London

LONDON (Reuters) — South Africa's all-white cricket team received scanty to be greeted by 300 booing demonstrators with placards reading "apartheid isn't cricket."

The demonstrators, kept out of London Airport by police, shouted at the 15-man team as it went through the customs. Demonstrators also scuffled briefly with a group of South Africans who live here and turned out to welcome the cricketers, making a spring and summer tour.

The demonstrators grabbed a South African flag unfurled by the welcoming group, shouted at the 15-man team as it went through the customs. Demonstrators also scuffled briefly with a group of South Africans who live here and turned out to welcome the cricketers, making a spring and summer tour.

About 40 demonstrators opposed to the South African government's apartheid policies also booed and waved placards when the cricket team arrived at the London hotel.

"WE WOULD PLAY"

Team manager, A. D. Nourse, told a press conference at the hotel that "if non-whites were picked for the South African team, "We would play with them."

"I think the whole public of South Africa would be 100 per cent behind us."

A questioner asked if the South Africans would be willing to play in a team of non-whites. Nourse said they did that on every visit to England.

The manager stressed the cricketers were here for sport and were not concerned with politics.

BOYCOTT GAMES

Labor MP Fenner Brockway, one of the demonstrators and leading anti - apartheid spokesman, said: "I am a great lover of cricket and it will be a great pity if we not see the South Africans but I shall boycott their games."

A group called the anti-apartheid movement, sponsor of Sunday's demonstrations, promised similar protests everywhere the South Africans play.

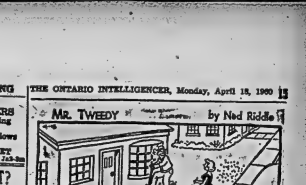
The group said its protest was not directed at the players personally but at apartheid which barred non-white cricketers from the team.

Chinese Grocer Beaten to Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—The sadistic slaying of an elderly Chinese grocer Sunday has brought renewed demands for more police protection for small grocers.

Tom Fat, 70, whose throat was grabbed by at least two burglars who entered his store, then stabbed him with a paring knife, he surprised them in his midtown grocery store.

An autopsy revealed he was beaten more than 13 times over the head and face with soft-drink bottles. Four of his ribs were fractured, presumably by kicks. He was killed by the stabbing wound in the chest with his own knife.



He was the third Chinese grocer slain in the last four years. None of the killers has been found.

There are hundreds of groceries such as Fat's in Vancouver, operated by members of the large Chinese community. Despite progress elsewhere, they have long been a favorite target for holdup men.

Gordon, Towers Suggested as Bank President

OTTAWA (CP) — The Citizen says speculation about a successor to the late James Muir, Royal Bank of Canada chairman and president, centres on CNR President Harold Gordon, 60, and Graham Towers, 67, retired governor of the Bank of Canada.

Both Vice - President Matthew Walters of the Royal Bank and Kenneth Sedgewick, vice-chairman of the board, are mentioned as possible choices if the Royal Bank board of directors decides to fill Mr. Muir's position from bank staff, the newspaper says.

Ottawa Prepares Warm Welcome For de Gaulle

By JACK REST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A 21-gun salute will boom out tonight as an RCAF jet liner carrying President Charles de Gaulle touches down at Uplands Airport.

The artillery salute, a fitting one to an old soldier like de Gaulle, will mark the beginning of a four-day Canadian visit by the French head of state.

On hand to greet him will be two other old soldiers, Maj.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Canada's Governor - General, and Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Adding to the military flavor will be an RCAF guard of honor which President de Gaulle is scheduled to inspect before going to Government House where he will stay during his two nights here.

DINNER GUEST

Two hours after his arrival the 69-year-old statesman will be guest of honor at a Government House dinner given by Governor-General and Mme. Vanier. It will be followed by a white-tie reception to be attended by about 300.

Gen. de Gaulle remains here until Wednesday morning when he flies to Quebec City. The following day he will move on to Montreal and then to Toronto, where his Canadian visit ends Friday morning. The same day he flies to Greenwood, still in the United States.

Gen. de Gaulle will be accompanied by his wife. Also in the visiting party is Foreign Minister Couve de Murville.

FIRST SINCE 1945

It will be the French leader's first visit here since 1945 when he came to Ottawa as provisional president of the Fourth Republic.

Gen. de Gaulle and Mr. Diefenbaker, in talks Tuesday, are expected to deal at length with the armament and prospects for the developing East - West summit conference which de Gaulle will attend. Another likely topic is an atomic arms race in which Canada would like to see initiated with or without inspection safeguards.

Flu Outbreak Halts Tour of Anglican Clergy

TORONTO (CP)—An outbreak of influenza in the north has turned back a party of Anglican Church officials at the start of a 15,000-mile tour of the Arctic.

Canon A. H. Davis, general secretary of the church's missionary society, said Sunday night the party has returned here, leaving two of its members working at Cambridge Bay on the south coast of Victoria Island.

Canon Davis said the party was urged to go no farther than Cambridge Bay at the request of Dr. H. Davies, medical officer of health for the Northwest Territories. He said the flu epidemic was threatening to spread throughout the area.

There were no immediate details. However, last week the communities of Coppermine, in the Northwest Territories, and Old Crow, in the Yukon, were reported severely stricken.

NO DEATHS REPORTED

Old Crow, 1,350 miles northwest of Edmonton, had almost all of its inhabitants ill by March 31. Coppermine, on the Arctic coast, had 98 per cent of 200 inhabitants sick. No deaths have been reported.

Leaders of the Anglican Arctic visitation party, the group included Rt. Rev. Donald Marsh, bishop of the Arctic, Rt. Rev. Ivor Norris of Brandon, Man., chairman of the church's executive committee, Canon Davis; Archdeacon of Toronto, Gordon Fairbairn of Ottawa and F. H. Wooding of Toronto, supervisor of information for the church.

Mr. Wooding and Mrs. Fairbairn remained at Cambridge Bay to do publicity work.

The trip was to have been a history-making one of the Arctic Church, with Bishop Marsh scheduled to ordain the first Eskimo priest.

The ordination of Armand Tagoona, about 35, is scheduled for April 24 at Rankin Inlet, 300 miles north of Churchill, Man., on Hudson's Bay.

Tributes Paid To Phillips

LONDON, (Reuters) — The Daily Telegraph said Saturday the detention in South Africa of Candian newspaper man Norman Phillips and the story he has written of his experience will reinforce world efforts to turn the South African government away from press censorship and racialism.

An accompanying editorial pays tribute to Phillips, foreign editor of the Toronto Star, and scores censorship under the headline: "Unsilenced witness."

Greet De Gaulle As Great Man, Living Legend

President Comes Back After 15 Momentous Yrs.

OTTAWA (CP) — President Charles de Gaulle of France came back to Canada Monday after 15 momentous years to be welcomed as one of history's great men and a living legend.

The towering tribute to the towering Gen. de Gaulle were paid by Governor - General Georges Vanier and Prime Minister Diefenbaker following the French leader's arrival at Uplands Airport to begin a four-day Canadian visit.

Gen. Vanier, an old friend of the six - foot - four statesman, sounded the keynote in proposing a champagne toast Monday night at Government House, where the president was honored at a glittering state dinner.

"Twenty years ago, in a moment of physical defeat, you spoke out to save France's honor. Then again two years ago you answered the call of your people. For this you will be honored as one of the great men of history."

ARTILLERY SALUTE

The dinner, attended by about 100 persons, began two hours after Gen. de Gaulle's Air France jetliner touched down at Uplands following an 8½-hour, non-stop flight from Paris.

A stiff northwest wind was blowing and the temperature was just above freezing as he stepped onto Canadian soil for the first time since August, 1945, when he visited here as provincial president of the Fourth Republic.

As a 21 - gun artillery salute cracked out, Gen. de Gaulle walked smartly down the ramp followed by Mme. de Gaulle and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Waiting on the tarmac was Gen. Vanier and Mr. Diefenbaker, who escorted him along a red carpet into the RCAF hangar, where President de Gaulle stood bareheaded on a dais as the RCAF central band played La Marseillaise and the RCAF guard of honor stood at attention.

Gen. Vanier then officially welcomed the president "in the name of Her Majesty the Queen of Canada." He referred to him as "the great leader who, in 1940, saved the honor of France."

"All those who love France, and with even more reason those like myself who have French blood, express their great pride in you."

Mr. Diefenbaker greeted the president as "the illustrious leader of one of our mother countries who has become a legend of his nation while still alive."

The prime minister coupled his tribute with a call for "the habit of consultation" within NATO—a point he was expected to pursue

The general, on his third visit to Canada, talked with the prime minister in the governor-general's study in Government House and then they drove together to Parliament Hill for the meeting with the full Canadian cabinet in the Privy Council chamber of the East Block.

Neither leader made any statement immediately after their private talk, but it was understood on the basis of informal discussion Monday night that the main topics to be canvassed were Algeria, nuclear disarmament and NATO consultation machinery.

In the talk at Government House, and later in the cabinet meeting, a Canadian Privy Council secretary acted as interpreter.

RED OAK PLANTED

Before leaving Government House, Gen. de Gaulle planted a red oak on the lawn, carrying on a tradition for distinguished visitors at the governor-general's residence.

Gen. de Gaulle and Mr. Diefenbaker also had a private one-hour talk before a state dinner Monday night.

Officials today described the conversation as "entirely friendly." The conversation was understood to be limited to reviewing the acquaintance of the two leaders, who first met officially in November 1958, in Paris. World problems were only touched on.

NEW DELHI (CP)—Red China's premier Chou En-lai arrived in New Delhi today with a declaration that Communist China and India should settle their border dispute "in accordance with the principles of coexistence."

He was met by smiling Prime Minister Nehru who warned that Red China's aggression on the border has been a "shock to all our people . . . and our relations with China cannot be the same as in the past and for the future."

About 100 members of the right-wing Hindu Mahasabha party were arrested as they tried to break through cordons to the presidential palace, where Chou is staying.

OFFERED HAND TWICE

As Chou stepped off his plane, the twice offered his hand to Nehru but his Indian host appeared not to notice.

Nehru finally shook hands with Chou after photographers shouted and asked him to.

SOUTH AFRICAN NEGROES IGNORE CALL FOR STRIKE

Bad Timing Blamed For Failure of Move

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The one-week strike called by the outlawed African National Congress to protest the white government's strict racial laws failed to achieve its aim today.

Police in all major cities of South Africa reported that Negroes showed up in normal numbers and without hindrance by alleged intimidators.

No major violence was reported. The only police action announced at noon was a raid on a Negro settlement near the Indian Ocean city of Port Elizabeth, where police rounded up "undesirables," questioned 200 Negroes and detained many of them.

A former congress official said Negroes went back to work for one reason — "the people were broke." He said the campaign was poorly timed because "after a holiday and free and easy spending of money, nobody was prepared to lose pay."

In Johannesburg, South Africa's largest, cells, buses and trains from Negro settlements were crowded with workers.

Reports from Capetown, Durban and elsewhere said the situation was quiet there also and Negroes were streaming to work.

Troops were standing by at such trouble spots as the Nyanga and Langa townships near Capetown and Cato Manor near Durban. Police riot cars cruised slowly among the houses but

Dependence on Foreign Capital Will Decline Under New Budget

- - Fleming

TORONTO (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming said today his new balanced budget should promote saving by Canadians and reduce Canada's dependence on foreign capital.

At the same time he cautioned that Canada can not expect to turn the inflow of foreign capital "off and on like a tap when and it suits our convenience."

Mr. Fleming's budget has aided greatly in developing Canadian resources, and this has improved the country's ability to carry its foreign debt, Mr. Fleming said in a speech to the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

In his first public speech since his March 31 budget speech to the Commons, he returned again to the issue of Canada's international payments deficit — $1,460,000,000 last year—and to the inflow of foreign capital when it finances this current account deficit.

Mr. Fleming said the balanced budget will help Canada's economy "in more ways than one."

Mr. Fleming repeated his budget speech forecast that, with prudent management of national affairs, Canadian dependence on foreign capital will decline.

But he said foreign capital will continue to be needed until Canadian savings are adequate to develop Canada's resources.

Aircraft-Sharing Production With Canada Being Studied

WASHINGTON (CP)—Air Secretary Dudley Sharp is studying a suggestion that the United States seek a production-sharing trade with Canada to obtain Canadian CL-44 cargo planes in exchange for American supersonic fighters.

Such a deal, if carried to its full potential, would involve expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars by both governments. It would provide Canadair Limited of Montreal, makers of the CL-44, with a big portion of the U.S. cargo-plane market. It also would revitalize Canada's nine-month-old aircraft production, equipped with the obsolescent CF-100 subsonic plane.

Last November Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, head of the Canada-U.S. North American Air Defence Command, told North Atlantic parliamentarians that he anticipated the disappearance of subsonic and transsonic interceptors from his command as quickly as the economics of Canada and the U.S. could support a switch.

Since then, Canadian authorities have been reviewing several American supersonic fighters in the hope of finding a low-priced replacement for the CF — 100. Among the most favored is the Lockheed - Nowell McDonnell high - tailed - winged jet fighter with a speed of some 1,300 miles an hour.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Air Force

Seaway Opening Brings Fear Of Foreign Bug Invasion

WASHINGTON (CP) — Opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway has raised fears among some United States authorities that North American farmlands may be threatened with heavier invasion by foreign crop-damaging beetles, viruses, bugs and other pests and disease.

One of these experts, recalling the devastating foot-and-mouth disease outbreak among Saskatchewan cattle eight years ago, told a congressional subcommittee that the Canadian government still is not alive to the full dangers of the new threat posed by heavier foreign shipping on the Great Lakes.

In a report of subcommittee testimony published today, this expert, Donald Fletcher, executive secretary of the Rust Prevention Association at Minneapolis, said the U.S. needs Canada's help in stopping the pests piling up port inspection work to block foreign pests and disease. "We are sure we will get it," he said talking of Canadian cooperation, "but they just do not understand the dangerous possibilities yet."

Fletcher was one of a number of witnesses appearing before the committee to press many U.S. agriculture department funds for expanded port inspection and quarantine work. The department proposes hiring an extra 50 men for the job while witnesses urged doubling the figure.

Donald N. McDowell, director of the Wisconsin state agriculture department, said:

"The most economical and effective means of meeting the problem is to stop this invasion of foreign pests before it starts.

Racial Tension Climaxed by Savage Fights

ATLANTA (AP) — A savage fight between Negroes and white youths climaxed weeks of racial tension in Savannah, Ga., where Negroes have been staging sit-down demonstrations and boycotting stores with segregated lunch counters.

Ax handles, pipes, knives and other weapons were used in the brief but vicious clash in a quiet park Monday night. A white youth was taken to hospital with a serious knife wound in the neck. Two other white youths and a Negro were treated in hospital and released.

Police jailed two Negroes and seven white persons and began an extensive search of the area for some 20 others believed to have taken part in the fight in the coastal Georgia city.

Cause of the burst of violence was not determined.

LUNCH COUNTER INCIDENT

The fight on the park occurred a few hours after police reported a white man struck a Negro student during a lunch counter sit-down demonstration at a store lunch counter in Savannah. It was the second such incident in three days.

A white man knocked a Negro demonstrator from a lunch counter stool in the same store Saturday. The Negro's jaw is broken.

Savannah was the scene of the only violence reported during a day marked by several unusual developments in the Negro campaign against segregated lunch counters.

Former president Harry S. Truman told reporters at Hilton, N.Y., that he wouldn't be surprised" if the sitdowns in the Southern United States were inspired by Communists.

SALARIES FORM MAJOR SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Provincial Salary Scale Requested

TORONTO (CP)—Salaries of teachers and school inspectors formed the major subject of discussion Monday, the opening day of the centennial convention of the Ontario Educational Association.

A special committee of the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, which is holding a simultaneous convention as part of the OEA's anniversary celebrations, recommended in its report a recommendation for a provincial salary scale for teachers.

OEA President Jean Watson of Innerkip said salaries and working hours of school inspectors will be discussed in one of the most important resolutions to be submitted.

Addressing a group from the Elementary School Inspectors' Branch of the Civil Service Association of Ontario, Education Minister Robarts said he hopes to make an announcement soon on elementary school inspectors' salaries that would be satisfactory to all concerned.

Mr. Robarts added that he will try to obtain more inspectors to reduce work loads of inspectors in large municipalities, some of which contain more than 200 teachers.

TRUSTEES REPORT

The OSTRA report, which is expected to be debated Wednesday, also called for more of a referral to intervene when there is a breakdown in negotiations between teachers and school boards.

Concentrating on the salary scale proposal, committee chairman H. A. Klinck of Oldcastle, who also is president of the Association's urban section, said "the one thing that is filtering out of these teacher salary discussions is the need for a salary schedule at the provincial level."

He suggested the referral board be composed of school trustees, members of the Ontario Teachers' Federation and

Princess May Get Penny Earned As Toddler for Wedding Present

LONDON (Reuters) — A penny earned by Princess Margaret as a toddler from the creator of Peter Pan may be given to her as a wedding gift next month.

The 29-year-old princess can add to her income one penny in "royalties" from the last play, The Boy David, written by the late Sir James Barrie.

A legal document entitling her to this penny will be delivered by hand by Margaret in a fattering silk - year - old hand—was reproduced with its story today in a London newspaper, the News Chronicle.

Barrie died in 1937, shortly after the very official agreement was signed, and Margaret never got her just reward.

Sir James was invited to Glamis Castle in Scotland by the Duke and Duchess of York, later crowned King and Queen. While both, parents of the present Queen Elizabeth, were away, the Duke and Duchess of York, later crowned King and Queen. While both, parents of the present Queen Elizabeth, were away, the event was a party to celebrate Margaret's third birthday.

The princess and Barrie sat next to each other and "hit it off immediately" and Barrie autographed one of the presents by her chair.

The girl placed the present between the two of them and said: "It's yours and mine."

Barrie's name popped up some days later at Glamis Castle and Margaret said: "He is my greatest friend and I am his greatest friend."

Barrie later used both phrases in The Boy David. He told her about this when they next met, a

Scores Killed, Hundreds Hurt In Major Cities

U.S. Envoy Urges Govt. Act to Remedy Causes

SEOUL (AP)—Violent demonstrations against President Syngman Rhee's tactics killed and wounded scores of persons, ignited several policemen, and South Korea's major cities today.

Rhee called out the army, clamped on martial law and imposed local censorship. But the roiling raged into the night in defiance of the government's moves.

The independent newspaper Hankook Ilbo checked hospitals in Seoul and estimated the death toll to go 70. Other unofficial tallies sold the wounded ranged between 200 and 300.

The death toll appeared sure to go higher in the outbreaks provoking government strong - arm methods in last month's election.

U.S. CITIZEN COUNSELED

The riots brought an expression of concern from the United States over the demonstrations' provocances.

U.S. Ambassador Walter P. McConaughy called tonight on President Rhee. The Embassy said the ambassador sought to review developments and express his concern that Americans maintain law and order would take into account basic U.S. democratic principles in quelling disorders."

MARTIAL LAW IN CITIES

But Seoul was the worst so far. Raging during the day in Pusan, Taegu, Taejon, Kwangju and this capital, the rioting amounted to virtual revolutionary upheaval. Those five cities were put under martial law.

This is what happened in Seoul:

Thousands of students came marching down the wide central avenue of Seoul past Rhee's mansion. They were from colleges and universities, junior and senior high schools.

The police had one fire truck, a few buses and a few jeeps on hand ready to be hurled at the advancing columns.

More and more students poured into the street. Thousand lined the boulevard. They formed into open area in front of Korea's oldest university, the ivy - covered reconstructed from the Korean War.

Suddenly there were shots. Police were firing blanks and tear gas bombs.

The students surged forward. Policemen clubbed them. A screaming widow tear gas back over the police lines. The students then treated up the road leading to Rhee's mansion.

Reinforced, white streaked, out and drenched the students' but still they came on. There barked a of stones forced the firemen to retreat, too.

Windows smashed through windows of two government ministries behind the capital. Cars were overturned.

The crowd approached the gate of the president's hilltop home. Two hundred yards away 200 university students formed into solid ranks and dashed toward a barbed wire barricade. Up and over they swarmed, capturing four fire trucks.

POLICE OPEN FIRE

Suddenly the rifles came up. A volley crashed. Volley after volley followed. Students fell. Students ran. They got a bit closer, stopped and down among the wounded. Some were lobbed over the barricade to take advantage of the wind, blowing it back over their retreating, broken ranks.

Defying the strict military rule, armed demonstrators at nightfall attacked two police sentry boxes in the downtown sector of Seoul. Three policemen were reported killed and many others wounded.

Taegu (for Seoul's northeast section, one of the better quarters of this mountain-ringed capital) was one of the quietest cities, the rest of the city was under martial law. But it, too, rang out through the silence. The student demonstrators had returned to the deserted, hilly section earlier in the day. Rhee was elected to a fourth term last month. The 85-year-old president's chief opponent died during the campaign—but the opposition democrats refused to accept that as a challenge the election.

Rhee's election was never in doubt, but he was anxious to assure the election of Lee Ki-poon as vice-president, and thus help pick a successor for his own Liberal party. For the last four years a Democrat has been vice-president.

Two Americans were among the injured. James Wilson, a Methodist missionary from Kansas, got two serious chest wounds as he watched the ri

Proposed Dams At Stoco Lake Not to Be Built

Due to the high estimated costs of the proposed temporary dams at the west end of Stoco Lake members of Hungerford township council have voted not to proceed with the work at the present time.

Council members voted against proceeding with the work when they met for their regular meeting.

The proposed low temporary dams at the west end of Stoco Lake would maintain the lake level during the summer months. As the benefiting municipalities the township of Hungerford and the county of Tweed would have shared the cost of the work.

Council approved pay of $1.25 per hour for the township builder operating the bull-dozer truck driver to receive $1.10 per hour operating the bull-dozer when he will receive $1.25.

No action was taken by council with regard to the road superintendent's salary or road labourers' rate of pay.

Council decided not to participate this year in membership in the Lake Ontario Development Association.

Township stock valuators will be Percy Seisebauer, John J. McGrath, John Provost, Frank Mumford and Gordon Carleton. Fence viewers will be Albert Martin, William McRea, Percy Armin, Melville Elliott, Thomas Gaffney and Percy McFarlane.

representatives of the Ontario department of education.

"This is something we have to have," he said. "We must have somewhere to turn."

He said the report sets out a proposed salary range to be on set those of the various teachers' federations in the initial stages of bargaining.

It takes into account the variations in the cost of living in different parts of Ontario, and the ability of the province to pay along the lines followed for salary purposes by a major commercial manufacturing concern.

In addition to higher salaries, teachers could be rewarded for merit with honorary positions or special degrees and citations, Mr. Klinck said.

Trustee P. C. Houston of Ingersoll called the scheme a farce and asked what school principal would allow himself to be planned down on the respective merits of his teachers.

Percy M. Muir, executive director of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation that friction between many school principals and their trustees is the result of principals being forced on them by trustees and then under Ontario law.

He said the Teachers' Protection Act requires principals as well as members of their staffs to belong to the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. This affiliation imposes obligations which are sometimes at variance with the interests of the trustees.

Await Wednesday Parley With Minister of Education On High School Controversy

TRENTON — With statements and counter-statements, charges and counter-charges, the controversy between the majority of the members of the Trenton Board of Education and their followers on one hand and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation and their followers, on the other is the topic of almost every conversation in Trenton. The issue seems to be a stalemate at the moment.

In a rebuttal to a statement issued to the press, retiring board members George Green and Robert Barlow, T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the board, and F. J. Axis, board member, charge that Mr. Green and Mr. Barlow were well aware of the factors which led to the March 14 vote of non-confidence against high school principal Dr. E. McIlwain, and further that Mr. Green had stated that he could not go along with the non-confidence vote because there had been some improvement given to the appointment of an alternate principal, whose religious views would not fit a pot coincide with those of Mr. Green.

MAYOR MAKES PLEA

Mayor Hall plans to report to the people of Trenton, on Sunday last, in James Street United Church, the warring factions to forget personal grievances and get down to the business of solving the problem.

Meanwhile, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation has released a statement to the effect that it no longer has any confidence in the present Board of Education, or in any promise or proposal it might make.

The Federation charges that for a considerable period of time Trenton Board of Education has been treating high school staff members unfairly and subjecting the principal to an intolerable degree of interference and harassment with the result high school areas would be considered virtually chaotic.

On Wednesday, board members will meet with Hon. Dana Porter, minister of education at the deputy minister in an attempt to iron out the present situation.

Meantime, Trenton High School remains on the Federation's "pink list," and the crucial problem of staffing the school for the fall term is still in abeyance.

The following statement was released to the press by Mr. George Green and Mr. Robert Barlow, members of the Trenton Board of Education.

"On April 11, 1960, Mr. T. S. Ketcheson chairman of the Board of Education, and Mr. Frank Filion, a board member, appeared before Trenton Town Council on behalf of the majority of the board. Mr. Ketcheson is reported to have stated that Dr. E. W. Dow be reprimanded because as a paid official of the town, he had no right to speak as he had done at the Board of Education meeting on Monday, April 11.

Mr. Ketcheson is also reported to have suggested that Dr. W. A. L. McDonald be reprimanded for a similar reason.

"Although these requests were said to have been made on behalf of the majority of the board, we were not consulted nor were we aware of these requests until we read of them in the press. We deplore these actions. We firmly believe in freedom of speech and so stated at the board meeting on April 11.

We are not in accord with other actions which have been taken by other members of the Trenton Board of Education, and therefore now feel compelled to make our position clear as the present problems of the board are concerned.

"1—On March 14, 1960, together with Mrs. E. Bedford, then an elected member of the board we opposed the majority vote of non-confidence against the principal, Mr. E. McIlwain. No reasons were known to us, nor were made known to us by other members of the board which supported the motion of non-confidence.

"2—To this date, no such reasons have been made known to us either by the other members of the board or members of the electorate. Therefore our position is one which we have full confidence in the principal.

"3—We did not take part in the wording of the statement dated March 23, 1960, issued to the papers by the majority of the board, and we accept no responsibility for this statement.

"4—On April 11, 1960, another statement was issued to the press over the signature of Mr. T. S. Ketcheson. Although the statement was said to be made in the name of the board, we were not consulted, nor were we aware of the statement before its release.

"5—We have supported all constructive measures and actions designed to resolve the present problems of the board. These include the board's resignation of April 4, 1960, and the present approach to the Minister of Education.

"Signed,
"Robert Barlow, George Green."

The March 23 statement referred to above said in effect that the non-confidence vote was "a strong statement by the board that they desire improvement." The April 11 statement was to the effect that "Trenton electors are being told by an organized union (the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation) that their chosen members are unfit to carry out the business for which they were elected," and the April 4 statement agreed to by all members of the board, proposed that the Minister of Education of the board would resign prior to the Wednesday, April 20, election, making it possible for a full new board to be elected.

Rotarians Hear Of Plans for Nuclear Power

TRENTON — An overall plan to provide Canadian industrial centres and outlying areas with nuclear power, which will compare favorably in cost with present-day sources of energy, was outlined to the members of the Trenton Rotary Club at last night's weekly meeting of the club, by Douglas Cameron of the Administration and Research Department of the Canadian General Electric plant in Peterborough.

The speaker said that there had been more research and development in the past ten years than in all the preceding ages of history. He said that from pre-historic times man had made an attempt to find substitutes for human energy with such mediums as fire, wind, draft animals and water wheels. As the pace of economic growth had accelerated, so had the invention of devices for transforming and utilizing energy.

The speaker pointed out that the consumption of power had risen with the rise in the standard of living and he said that Canada was faced with the problem of supplying that energy for energy with a dwindling supply of easily accessible coal energy or becoming more and more dependent on the United States for supplies of fuel to run her hydro installations.

OPEN FIELD FOR RESEARCH

The speaker then told his audience of the efforts of Canadian research experts to develop a source of energy, utilizing Canadian uranium and heavy water as a coolant at a reactor that would compete with alternate power supplies. He said that a pilot plant along these lines would be opened at Rolphton, Ont., next year and another at Kincardine in 1965. At White Shell, Manitoba, a reactor for utilizing natural uranium with an inert organic liquid as a cooling agent, is being constructed. This latter process will reduce the cost of power production further.

Once the process of obtaining heavy water supplies had been perfected to the point where it will be economically possible to use it for industrial and domestic purposes, remote sections of the country will have a feasible source of energy comparable to that supplied to industrial centres.

Mr. Cockrane was introduced by Rotarian Rowena Hallick, an employee of the Trenton Public Utilities, and Rotarian Clifford A. Baker, a member of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission.

President Fred Preston announced that he and president-elect T. A. Spruston would be attending the Rotary meeting at Guelph this weekend, and asked other members to attend if possible.

Members were reminded of the Rotary Ladies' Night on April 27, which will be held at the Trenton Country Club.

Twelve New African Republics

In the welter of more sensational news, many of have overlooked the top news story of recent years he emergence of twelve new republics in Africa.

What Britain did with much fanfare in Ghana, at Belgium will do this summer in the Congo, was e in wholesale fashion by France, with swiftness dispatch.

Under the new de Gaullist constitution of 1958, 10 ench overseas territories of the French Republic held refer- iums. As a result of these votes one territory, the erocons on the Ivory Coast near Ghana, chose mediate independence. Twelve other overseas terri- ries, eleven of them in Africa, chose the status of mber states of the French Community. They are new republics of Mauritania, Dahomey, Ivory Coast, ger, Senegal, Sudan and Upper Volta in West Africa, Central African Republic, Gabon Republic, Republic Chad and Republic of the Congo in Equatorial Africa the Malagasy Republic in the Indian Ocean. Five er overseas territories decided to retain their former tus of overseas territories of the French Republic. are Frenench Somaliland in Africa, Comoro Islands the Indian Ocean, St. Pierre and Miquelon in the lf of St. Lawrence, and New Caledonia and French ynesia in the South Pacific.

France's success in peacefully transforming an style empire into a free commonwealth of freely- ected independent yet inter-dependent states, in short course of a few months, has been obscured by difficulties in Algeria. Her difficulties there arise m the fact that she persists in regarding Algeria as t of France itself. Even there, de Gaulle has ranted an eventual free referendum to determine area's future.

The French settlers, or colons, in Algeria are out- touch with the mainstream of French sentiment in er version of the imperialist's belief in the supremacy the white man. That France was able so quickly grant without bloodshed independence to such ards, to its African territories is more in character n the nation's record.

No other European country has shown greater erance of the Negro as an equal. This may be ributed to pride, since France is, or at least was a time of the great colonization drive, the least ious of the colonizing European nations. Yet she practised what the others have, in far too many s, only preached, the brotherhood of man. Some argue that this springs from her domestic history, the ideals of the French Revolution. Yet these ars questionable—she has, since those revolution- days, more than once turned her back on liberty sequally, so why should she adhere so closely to third revolutionary ideal, fraternity? The truth s that the French, or at least the ruling class, much too civilized and too sophisticated to be shocked at the ability of miscegenation, the horror of which lies d much of the advocacy of segregation or apar- id. They have no need for assurance from an ican child that his people do not want to marry sisters, because they consider this strictly their s- business.

Yet this is not an adequate explanation, for the ing spirit in this momentous transformation of unies into free republics was not some anti-clerical, ll sophisticate, but was Christian to the hilt, and ppout, aristocratic republican steeped in mysticism. de Gaulle puzzles us, we may take comfort from the t that he puzzles the French, too. Service d'Informa- on Francais, at Ottawa, has distributed a special ort from "Realities" containing a long article on de lle and several answers to "our American readers," of which reads: "Question—De Gaulle is rather ildering to us. He seems so different from most nehmen. Is this just an American impression, or he seem like that to Frenchmen as well? Answer t is certainly not considered to be normal for a nchman. His way of life, his philosophical bent firm religious convictions, his taste for great oric movements most certainly do not correspond the traditional picture that everyone has of the rage Frenchman."

Man Is Nature's Most Unnatural Phenomenon

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Whenever times are tense, and people are anxious and upset, we hear voices raised in praise of "nature." We are told that only he is healthy who is natural; if we learn to live naturally, will overcome the tensions and conflicts within us and without us.

This is demonstrably false counsel. For man is the most unnatural thing in nature. In a real sense, man is alienated from nature. Unlike all the animals, his destiny is in his own hands; he has the terrible freedom of choice.

Wolves and rabbits can only be healthy wolves and rabbits, post, present and future. Their needs are served by deep in- stincts; but man, is cut off from his instinctual life and, instead, has to make his own animals, his own and will.

We are, in a way, hybrid creatures, neither fully at home on land or in water, with a sensitive barrier to the animal world, and to reject or distort that part of ourselves is to commit suicide. Just as self- conscious creatures (the only ones, for instance, who can think of death), we are estranged from the rest of nature.

This is the basic cause of our anxiety. Man desperately wants to be natural, but nature is not his mate end; it is impossible for him to live in the present, as all other creatures do. It is his mind- tion-asking animal, and there are no natural answers to more of his questions.

Therefore, "following nature" is neither a virtue nor a sin, a part of us; it cannot satisfy the deepest urges we have, and is substituted to be forever distrus- fied, forever moving and search- ing and looking and turning down and examining the roots of the flower.

To ask him to do less than this is to live in rhythm with the tides and seasons, but not to make him less than he is. He can never be wholly at home outside of the present. He cannot divest himself of his past anxieties, but can only learn to control it and direct it.

Nature, however, has been unsuccessfully narcotized himself- is in restless quest of his identity, both as an individual and as a member of a species. He wants to know what it means to be a person, and exactly who and what persons are. This drive is totally foreign to the rest of nature; to conquer it, we must understand it, and not like gods or more like beasts — and this is the reason why it produces our anxiety. For man, it is naturally is an unnatural thing.

Buying a Car, Soviet Style

Cleveland Plain Dealer

There are no automobile showrooms in the Soviet Union in which lavishly-inspective cus- tomers to come in and take their pick among the latest models. Instead there are "committees of guidance" for those who are in the market for one of the few cars that are available to the public, the medium-size Volga and the small Moskvitch.

Waiting list is the right term for it, but, because the Soviet citi- zen thinks he has enough money to buy an automobile, he puts his name in with one of the com- mittees of guidance, accompan- ied by a deposit of 200 rubles, and then he waits and waits. He may wait for two years, and sometimes longer before his names gets to the top of the list. Then he is entitled to actually to buy a car, but not until the com- mittee of guidance examines his name to the authorized state sales agency.

Meanwhile, while property, re- gards this as a racket. No pri- vate citizen is allowed to buy an auto- mobile without going through this guidance system, according to the New York Herald Trib- une's Moscow bureau. Provide there that if this racket is con- tinued, there well soon be com- munes under the guidance of the waiting lists for television sets and furniture.

Recently, Soviet Premier Khrushchev bounces his way around the world bragging about the superiority of the Communist economic system over capi- talism and citing as proof the fact that the Soviet Union has made a rocket to the moon. But he can't supply his own people with automobiles to meet the de- mand for other consumer goods. Why? Well, the Communists who boasts that he is going to "bury" us' economically. He'll never live to see the day.

Hard Thyme With Rhyme

St. Thomas Times-Journal

A writer in the New York Herald Tribune "put in plea" in the paper the other day un- der the heading "English is for Madmen." He pointed out the difficulties of a foreigner mas- tering the complexities of the English language when so many similar arrangements of identi- cals can be expressed differently. This another correspon- dent, Arthur Sherriff, is pre- pared to take exception to the letter as follows:

I'd like to live my whole life through,
And have my troubles be but tough.
I'd like to have a lot of dough
And never have to lift a hough.
I'd like to sit beneath a bough
And be as lazy as a cough.
But rough and tough, I've had enough!
I'd like to write more simple
stough,
I've got a cold, I've got a cough,
And better times I hope are Through, bough, dough, tough, cough ought to rhyme.
Perhaps they will some other thyme!

English may be for madmen, but it is enough to drive men mad anyway.

Typewriters Aid Students

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

An interesting experiment has been conducted in Illinois, New York and Massachusetts. For a year, 600 selected fourth and fifth grade pupils in those states have been taking lessons in typ- ing and doing their school work on the machines.

According to researchers from Boston University and University of Il- linois, the typewriter were effec- tively effective in improving pupils' hooking, in the English and the writing of composition, as well as stimulating creativity in writing.

This may raise new cries from old-fogeyism that the art of le- gible handwriting is perish- ed as the typewriter that killed it has been invented years ago. And now it's threat- ened in the schools.

Radioactive Detective

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Throughout the years, no de- tective of fiction from Sherlock Holmes to Mike Hammer has used methods of detection quite so strange as those employed by Dr. R. E. Lewis, a Univer- sity of Toronto chemical engine- ering professor.

Dr. Jervis uses Atomic En- ergy of Canada's nuclear reac- tor, NRX, to irradiate suspect samples, hair and other frag- mentary evidence. Analytical evi- ence left at the scene of crime. The elements making up hair do not vary much from in- come radioactive, giving off char- acteristic radiations. There are slight differences in the chem- ical makeup of hair and blood from different persons. Paint chips from different gun barrels, soil from different locations, and a number of other materials of interest in crime detection.

Dr. Jervis, Canada's first nu- clear sleuth, studies the radia- tions from a single shred of physical evidence by means of a scintillation counter. With this device he is able to detect the tiny individual differences in composition that are too com- plicated to determine by ordinary chem- ical means. Examining the ra- dio-active "autograph" of a dead girl's hair was instrumental in trapping her killer.

For some time past, the citizens of Belleville have be- come increasingly concerned with regard to the showing of the local Gas Utility. A de- legation which appeared be- fore the city council on Mon- day evening at the regular session of council relative to the gas situation, was advis- ed to seek an interview with the Utilities Commission. Ex- Ald. B. F. Jennings headed the delegation with Arthur Wright as spokesman. Mayor Thompson informed the de- legation that approximately three years ago the citizens of Belleville had voted to purchase the gas utility and the Belleville Utilities Com- mission, and that he thought that the delegation was in the wrong place from which to se- cure any relief from their grievance. "The council has nothing whatever to do with the gas plant at the presen time," said the Mayor.

"You should go to the commission and if you want the gas plant back, you should ask for a by-law to be put to the people to transfer the plant to the corporation, and then the council could have a say in the administration."

Alderman H. W. Acker- man, chairman of the execu- tive committee of the city council, presented the estima- ates and the tax rate for this year was struck at 27 mills. The Board of Education, the Separate School Board, the Board of Police Commission- ers, Public Library and the Board of Health will require the sum of $135,864.00. Ald. Ackerman in presenting the estimates said that the burden of our taxation is felt more because of our consolidated debenture debt, most of which was incurred before many of the present taxpayers were born. If these old debts had been taken care of as well as the present day assessments are being cared for, the lot of our chairman of the executive would indeed be a happy one. One reason that our tax rate looks high is because our as- sessment is kept so low. The average assessment of proper- ties in the cities of Ontario per head is $652.00, while in Belleville it is only $440.00, or over 36 per cent below the average. The taxation in Belleville is over 10 per cent less per head than the aver- age of the cities in the pro- vince. By the last govern- ment report the average amount paid per head in the cities of Ontario for the taxes for all purposes is $13.50, and in Belleville it is $11.64, over ten per cent less.

To Your Good Health

SLEEPWALKING MAY EXPRESS INNER CONFLICT

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss talking or walking in one's sleep, the causes, etc. I refer to an adult who some- times screams in his sleep or walks around the room. — E. L."

Sleepwalking more often takes place in children and adolescences but it can, as you know, extend to adulthood.

Sleepwalking is not a disease; it is a symptom. A symptom of some- thing, but I do not mean a symptom of disease. I don't say it might well be regarded as we regard dreams, except that sleepwalking is a more in- tense manifestation.

It may well be a means of ex- pressing some inner conflict and this is borne out by patients who, under questioning, later connect the first episode of sleepwalking to some emotional upset in childhood.

I wish I knew of some simple formula for determining just what inner conflict may be at work, but I don't. This gets into the intricate workings of the mind. If you or the victim of the sleepwalking can manage to associate it with some problem that bothers him, then solving the problem, or at least facing up to the presence of it, may well permit him to sleep more restfully. The more you worry the patient, in his waking hours, keeps him from a good night of the way, is apt to bob to the surface after he is asleep.

Depending on the amount of distress caused by the sleep- walking, it may be a good idea to discuss this with a psychiat- rist. On the other hand, some- times as small a thing as bring- ing the sleeping arrangements of the patient may help a sleep- walker to a different room.

Sleepwalkers, by the way, sometimes are unusually ac- cute in their actions. They at times get dressed, climb a pre- cend stairs, open and close doors — all while sleeping, and have no memory of it after- ward. They even respond to questions at times, although the answers may not seem to make much logic. In general, sleep- walkers avoid hurting them- selves and avoid dangerous maneuvers.

Sometimes a facial expression, or action may give a clue to whatever problem is buried in the sleepwalker's mind. Or he may go prowling after some particular object, which is sig- nificant. He may be hunting for protection, trying to run away from punishment, or some such thing.

Still another possibility is that the individual may be a mild mesk or docile while awake, but very co-compensate for this by spelling or moving about while in some sort of "fugue state."

Altogether, sleepwalking is a rather complex sort of thing to analyze, isn't it? Perhaps my men- tention may give you a clue that will lead to a solution.

"Dear Dr. Molner: When I get cramps in my feet I can't move. The pain is up under the arch and between the big toe and the next one. My toes stiffen out and bend down like they are out of joint. It is usually at night time. What causes this? — J. L."

This does not follow the pat- tern of common "foot cramps". When the trouble is only in one foot, some defect in the arch may be suspected. Cramps can usually come from spasm, a pinched nerve, or pinched blood vessel. Have the foot examin- ed.

Note to Mrs. L. S.: Plain gela- tin is a form of protein, but not as complete in amino acids as other sources of protein. It may help strengthen your nails, since it adds to your total protein in- take. Also call it a sort of "bonus supply" of protein. It may be used by any means take the place of the more usual forms of protein in your diet.

Remove Wreck Of 1914 War

Vancouver Sun

An announcement by the gov- ernment of Tangayika - will take beyond memories in a few greying heads.

Two days hence are being con- sidered for the demolition and removal of the remains of the German cruiser Konigsberg, long the delta of the Rufiji River. Ano- nymable Mistakenly they are to be turned over to the govern- ment.

The Konigsberg was the Graf Spee of the First World War— a consequence of which she was lod up in a river estuary.

She began by taking a freighter as a prize in the early days of the two days after war broke out. Within a month she sunk cruiser Pegasus, which was lying to di- sabled with engine trouble. But that was the sum of her total.

Her base at Dar-es-Salaam in what was then German East Af- rica had already been bottled up by British ships, while Admiral Charlton and the Cape Squadron of the Royal Navy in pursuit, she found refuge among the steamers of the Rufiji River, where reg- ulation warships couldn't get at her.

The British took their time fin- ishing her off. A search brought along the shallow-draft monitors Severn and Mersey and spent a month re-equipping them. On their first attack the Konigsberg fired her last shot. But next time, July 11, 1915, their shells set her afire. The Konigsberg's own tor- pedoes blew her up.

And it seems very long ago and far away now — and for all the flame and blood, a far less gruel- some thing than modern war.

THE PACKSACK

At a time like this when we are all deploring what the white South Africans are doing to the native population of their conti- nent, it is embarrassing to be re- minded of what we did — and to some extent are still doing — to the native population of this con- tinent.

The true story of the treatment of the North American Indians by the white invaders of North America is unknown to the vast majority, say 95 per cent, of the population of the continent today. It is a story of unrelieved tragedy and numerous instances of genocide. Generals, with a bit more taste and sensitivity, might remember that.

At the time of their conquest of entire encampments of Indians, men, women and child. But it is the bland attitude of governments representing the public opinion of their times, to- wards the chivvying of the Indians that is one of utter sav- agery. Cities are frequently assailing Germany for failing to teach their school children the truth about Hitler and the Nazi re- gime. In how many of our schools is there the true story of what happened to the native population of America?

of disease or pests, assuming this to be possible, is a very costly business. Efforts to control the European corn borer has cost $1,500,000,000 in the last 10 years.

When Walt Horan, Republican representative of Washington, asked what Canada was doing about the problem, Fletcher said:

"Canada has the attitude that they are more interested in what is going out rather than what is coming in. They are inspecting their ships for insects and diseases and have the proper sanitation of the grain going out.

"I have been at meetings attended by top quarantine people of Canada and their interest is definitely in the export trade. They fall to realize that what is got some of these animal diseases and insect pests which may cause trouble to their producing areas."

PATROL NEGRO AREAS

Powerful police and while civilian defence forces, supported by soldiers in armored cars, patrolled Negro settlements surrounding Johannesburg on the lookout for agitators who might try to organize Negroes for going to work and to keep them from retalliating when the workers returned home tonight.

The work stoppage called by the outlawed African National Congress started Monday. But the day was a normal Easter holiday, and this postponed the real test of the strike call until today. Most of those scheduled to work Monday apparently were on the job.

The government has warned Negroes that they face loss of their jobs or banishment to native reserves in the interior if they heed the stay-at-home call.

The aim of the work stoppage is to force the government to ease its stern segregation laws and to gain freedom for jailed Negro leaders. The government broke a previous work boycott by widespread raids in the Negro settlements and wholesale arrests.

Johannesburg and its surrounding Negro townships were flooded over the long holiday weekend with pamphlets calling on Negro workers to stay home.

few years later, and promised her a penny royalty from the play—which unfortunately was a near flop.

Barrie forgot about the incident but Margaret did not. Barrie got a letter from King George, writing on Margaret's behalf, jokingly threatening to call in the King's lawyers if Barrie didn't pay up.

The playwright went along with the joke. He drew up the agreement.

The document told how Margaret had threatened him with "people called policemen who were friends of hers and she would ask the biggest of them to smash and wholly destroy the so-called Barrie" if he writhed.

The incident came to light after the death two weeks ago of Lady Cynthia Asquith, Barrie's secretary for 30 years.

Her son, Michael Asquith, said he had not yet decided what to do with the document or the penny but would discuss the matter shortly with his brother.

It was speculated both prizes would be offered to Margaret as a gift for her wedding to society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones May 6.

also has had to grapple with obsolescence. It needs replacements for its 400-plane military Air Transport Service. The only suitable cargo plane immediately available is Canadair's CL - 44, some of which have already been purchased by U.S. commercial airlines.

Gordon Reed of New York, heading a committee set up by Sharp to look into the cargo plane problem, suggested in a letter dated March 18 that Sharp study the possibility of a Canada-U.S. exchange.

Reed, board chairman of Texas Gulf Producing Company, said in a report that Canada is about four years ahead of the U.S. in modern cargo - plane development. If the U.S. Air Force purchased 232 of the CL-44 planes, it could get them at a total price of $851,600,000. Equivalent American planes, which would not be ready before 1965, would cost about $1,360,000,000.

Sharp's advisers decline to speculate on the decision the air secretary may take. In this pre-dential election year he is under heavy pressure to encourage U.S. plane production. But American military authorities are concerned over the lack of high-speed flights on the northern frontier with Canada, and they also are concerned that the U.S. Military Air Transport Service is not tuned to modern airlift needs.

Sharp must make his decision soon. Under a presidential order he must recommend a course of action to Defence Secretary Thomas Gates by May 1.

Variety Show Sponsored Here By Hasty Pees

Several hundred people enjoyed the O'Keefe Variety Tour over the spring of 1960 as guests of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment yesterday evening in the Armouries. The show, which tours the provinces of Ontario and Quebec playing at military establishments and for semi-profit organizations, also played at the Trenton RCAF Station in the earlier part of the evening.

Featuring a cast of both Canadian and American stage talent under the management of Harry Monroe, the show displayed a very warm and enthusiastic reception from the audience. Bruce Stevens, impressionist and musician, kept the show moving right along from one good act to another with his excellent fulfillment as master-of-ceremonies.

The first act of the evening was Carlos and Linda, a Latin-American dance team who, besides giving a thrilling exhibition of dance routines from "south of the border" gave some interesting views of North American routines.

Next on the evening's program was the South American juggling team of the Palermo Brothers, veterans of the Ed Sullivan Show. Comedy and audience participation combined with their faultless technical performance to delight those present.

Doing a solo act was Phil Maraquin, who demonstrated a remarkable and versatile capacity for wit, humor and comedy, scarcely giving his audience a breather between laughs. His interpretation of various dance steps and his historical explanation of them were very good and much appreciated.

Winding up the show were the Van Dorn sisters from western Canada who gave a number of lively vocal numbers, drawing round after round of applause from their listeners.

Thousands clashed with armed police in Pusan, South Korea's major port, and three demonstrators were reported killed and more than 10 injured. Adults joined students denouncing high school students, and South Korean press reports said the crowd swelled to 50,000.

About 10,000 students and townspeople attacked government offices and private houses in Kwangju, 300 miles south of Seoul. Police vainly tried to break up the attacks by firing warning shots at the demonstrators followed by tear gas shells and streams of water from fireboats. There were no casualty figures available.

As dusk fell, a handful of students roamed the capital armed with carbines. Some fired into the streets from rooftops. Downtown Seoul crackled with bursts of rifle fire. Panic-ed on the street scurried for shelter, and shops closed hastily.

STEAL VEHICLES

Hundreds of other students roamed the streets, cheering as comrades who raced by on fire trucks and other vehicles they had snatched from government authorities.

Kramer, dictating his story by telephone to Tokyo, said he was lying on the floor of the Associated Press office to escape flying bullets. None had hit nearby, however.

It was the second successive day of demonstrations in the capital against the election, which returned Rhee for a fourth term and which the demonstrators claim was rigged by Rhee's liberal party.

Similar anti - government demonstrations and riots have been occurring in other cities for the last nine days.

The U.S. Embassy, in a virtually unprecedented statement, called for the immediate restoration of law and order and a settlement of the demonstrators' "justifiable grievances."

Under the martial law proclamation, the military commander can use troops to restore order in the city and its environs. Civilians can be tried in military courts if they break the peace or violate regulations.

MAYOR RESIGNS

The demonstrators, some of whom had called for the resignation of Rhee, won one victory—the resignation of Seoul Mayor Kim Hung-soon.

Other resignations of government and city authorities were expected. But most observers considered out of the question the resignation of Rhee himself, still revered by millions of Koreans as a national hero.

Demonstrating students, angered over the election and years of political interference in campus life, captured at least three fire engines, two of them with insignia showing they were of American origin, and in the divided country.

CANCEL LEAVES

All leaves and passes were cancelled for the 30,000 American troops in Korea. U.S. soldiers in the Seoul area were ordered to keep to their barracks.

As darkness fell, police were clearing the streets of people back to their homes, firing warning shots into the air.

Three buildings were on fire. That of the pro-government newspaper Seoul Shinmoon, the headquarters of an army counter-intelligence corps and the Anti-Communist and Propaganda Gallery. Persons living near the newspaper were fleeing from their homes.

in talks with the French president today.

Canadian officials remember with dismay Gen. de Gaulle's suggestion of more than a year ago that France, Britain and the United States should form a sort of directorate to steer the Atlantic alliance. The idea was never officially put into effect.

LOFTY PRAISES

Governor-General Vanier saved his loftiest phrases for Monday night's state dinner. Speaking in both English and French—as he and Mr. Diefenbaker had done earlier at the airport—Gen. Vanier raised his glass "to the greatness and happiness of France."

Both Gen. de Gaulle and Gen. Vanier, who had been Canada's minister in Paris, escaped from France as the German armies rolled in nearly 20 years ago.

Gen. Vanier likened the French leader to Joan of Arc. "A former saviour of France rallied her country against the English. You, monsieur le president, launched a new appeal to the indomitable spirit of France from London itself."

Mr. French leader thanked Canada's governor - general for his warm tribute but said Gen. Vanier had not made mention of the help given the free French by the allies.

Canadians, and particularly Gen. Vanier, had been of great assistance, Gen. Vanier was the Canadian representative to Free French headquarters in London and Algiers in the late stages of the war in Europe.

TOASTS CANADA

President de Gaulle praised the Canadian servicemen who helped liberate France. He proposed a toast to Canada, the governor-general, the Canadian government and people. He followed this up with an unofficial toast to Mme. Vanier.

After the banquet Gen. and Mme. Vanier stood with their guests before large portraits of the Queen and Prince Philip in the Government House foyer to receive 300 guests at a while-tie reception.

Today, President de Gaulle will hold a spate of talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and members of the Canadian cabinet, plant a tree at Government House, address a luncheon given by Mr. Diefenbaker, and place a wreath at the National War Memorial.

Tonight he and Mme. de Gaulle will be guest at a dinner and reception at the French Embassy. The presidential party leaves Ottawa Wednesday morning for Quebec City.

Mrs. H. Davis Gives Talk at WMS Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church WMS was held in the church parlors, April 14th.

The president, Mrs. Lockyer, opened the meeting with prayer.

In the life and death and resurrection of Christ, God was acting on behalf of all men for all time. The decisive victory over evil has been won and Christ is the victor.

"Sometimes it may seem to us that the day of the Lord tarries but nevertheless our Easter faith is based on the belief Jesus is Lord and the day will come when every knee shall bow at the name of Jesus and every tongue confess that He is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

"This is the faith and the good news we have to proclaim to the world, 'The Lord God Omnipotent reigns, Jesus Christ is Lord', she said.

The guest speaker, Mrs. H. M. Davis, was introduced by Mrs. Lasteih.

Subject of her address was "Christ's Inevitable Triumph."

"The fact that Christ lives is vital to us as Christians. We cannot live a Christian life on memories of a dead Christ," she stated.

"Jesus was raised from the dead because it was not possible for the grave to hold Him.

"A famous writer wrote several articles seeking to deny immortality. He thought his argument proved beyond question that death was final. However he when one dear to him died, he realized that there was a quality of spirit which could not be contained in the grave.

"We cannot keep Christ out of life. Judas could not get rid of Christ even though he sold Him for thirty pieces of silver.

"After Jesus was raised from the dead He said to His disciples: 'Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you and lo I am with you always'.

"As a missionary society we should have invincible courage to obey Christ's command knowing that we have a risen Christ who is with us at all times," she concluded.

Mrs. Lockyer thanked Mrs. Davis for her inspiring Easter message.

The group decided to buy the two books, "Facts and Figures," and "Missionaries at Work".

Mrs. Shirley Smith sang a solo, "There is a Green Hill Far Away".

Meeting closed with prayer after which refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

SEEING, HEARING

A child who seems to be dull at school may have defective vision or hearing, a handicap that can be solved with proper examination.

BUSY RETIREMENT — After 21 years with the CBC, Mary Grannan, creator of two children's radio and television programs, Just Mary and Maggie Mullins, plans a busy retirement. In addition to continuing the programs on a free-lance basis, she intends to write more children's books. She began telling her own stories to children when she was a public school teacher 41 years ago in Fredericton. The first Just Mary story ran on Fredericton radio in 1938 and Miss Grannan moved to Toronto a year later. (CP Photo)

Just Mary' Stories Heard On Radio for Past 21 Years

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, (CP) — Benjamin Franklin once wrote that "in this world nothing is certain but death and taxes." He lived today, he could have added—"and a happy ending for Mary Grannan's stories."

"I don't believe in making little folk afraid," she said," explained Miss Grannan, the writer of Just Mary and Maggie Muggins radio and television programs and the author of more than two dozen books.

The dragons in her stories may be mischievous but they are never bad or horrible.

Written primarily for children, her Just Mary stories have been followed on radio for 21 years. This month the program made its television debut. Miss Grannan has plotted the life of Maggie Muggins for the last 12 years. The program switched to television from radio five years ago.

RETIRED FROM CBC

Mary Grannan retired last February after 21 years with the CBC. She will continue to write the programs on a free-lance basis and plans to write more books.

The plots for her programs evolve from simple things. Walking along the street one day Miss Grannan noticed a mail box. It gave her an idea for a Maggie Muggins story in which one of the puppets, Finger and Thumb's mouse, tried to mail himself to the moon.

Once the plot has been thought through, Miss Grannan says the "dialogue just seems to fill itself in."

All writing is done in the kitchen of her seventh-storey Toronto apartment. Her typewriter sits incongruously on the kitchen table and a filing cabinet snuggles the kitchen sink. Reference books on shelves in the living room share wall space with oil paintings by Miss Grannan and her friends.

ALL ORIGINALS

"I'll bet there are not many Canadians with as many originals," she laughs.

Work on television scripts is more painstaking than for radio. The movement of television characters must always be in mind. "You can go anywhere with words," she says describing the freedom of writing for radio.

Miss Grannan has been telling stories to children since she began teaching public school 41 years ago in her hometown, Fredericton.

$1.50 A WEEK

Her talent of story-telling was recognized and she was asked to write a radio script for Education Week. The program's success led to Miss Grannan being asked to direct a women's radio program. This was followed by a comedy series, Aggravating Agatha. She earned $1.50 a week writing for the program—75 cents for writing the script and 75 cents for playing the lead role.

Several of the stories were sent to Frank Willis, then eastern region superintendent for the CBC. He liked the dialogue but advised Miss Grannan that the CBC was looking for children's stories.

It was in 1938 that school teacher Grannan wrote the first Just Mary story. The series ran for a year on the Fredericton radio station before Miss Grannan obtained a year's leave of absence from her teaching position to go to Toronto.

That was in 1939. Since then she has written 26 books as well as the radio and television scripts.

Miss Grannan says one of her greatest compliments came from a young boy in Ottawa who said some stories make him dream, but not hers.

Princess Margaret Will Leave Adventurous, Gay Bachelor Girlhood

By BRENDA MURPHY

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret will leave behind a gay and adventurous bachelor girlhood when she creates royal history in marrying a commoner May 6.

Not for 457 years has the daughter of a British king given her hand to a plain "mister" as her choice — a talented photographer-to-be the most striking example of Margaret's unwavering determination to live her own life.

When Antony Armstrong-Jones takes the 29-year-old princess to be his wife, she will be fulfilling the simplest ambition of any modern girl—to marry the man of her choice.

DREW REPROOFS

Since childhood, she has been the most independent, venture-some member of the Royal Family. For this, she often drew reproofs from her more docile elder sister, Queen Elizabeth.

On their first visit to the London Zoo in 1939, for instance, the nine-year-old Margaret enthusiastically gave her whole bag of buns to the elephants—a gesture which drew a lecture from Elizabeth. Then Margaret was able to laugh delightedly as one of the elephants reached out and stole the whole bag from her sister's hand.

As with most girls, the desire to keep up with an older sister was probably the reason that Margaret hurried to grow up.

She was only 16 when London newspapers carried their first picture of her in evening dress and furs at a dinner party at the Savoy Hotel which she attended without her parents or sister.

Her famous good clgaret holder made its first public appearance when she was 19.

STILL YOUNGER

The Margaret legend that grew up over those years probably never will be erased. It has lingered, even after the marked change in her demeanor after her father's death.

Her gay youth will be remembered for flamboyant acts, such as dancing the can-can in black stockings and frilly dress at a party, or asking an orchestra to keep playing until 4:30 a.m. because she did not want to stop dancing. And such quotes as this after the birth of Prince Charles: "Now I suppose I'll be known as Charley's aunt."

The statement which will be remembered longest came from a mature princess of 25. "I would like it to be known that I have decided not to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend," she declared to a waiting world in 1955 when her romance with the airman ended because he had been through the divorce court.

Steadfast of the courts teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluable and conscious of my duty to the Commonwealth, I have resolved to put these considerations before my others."

Good Friday Service Held At Tabernacle

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle C.A.'s held their Good Friday service with the Rev. G. Pierce officiating.

Mr. Pierce welcomed everyone and Mr. G. Giles of Eastern Pentecostal College, Peterborough, led the song service.

Mr. Pierce led in prayer and gave the announcements. Mr. Giles and Bill Lee sang a duet "Take Up Thy Cross and Follow Me."

Roger Perry conducted "The God Bless You" testimony service and chorus time. He sang a solo "The Lord Bless You."

Mr. Giles and Mr. Lee sang a duet, "In Times Like These" and "I've Started Out to Follow Jesus."

Rev. H. Brandon, a teacher from the Pentecostal Bible College, Peterborough, brought a message of the crucifixion from the book of Matthew.

The service closed with prayer.

Alpha Lambda Hears Fine Addresses

The regular meeting of Alpha Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held recently at the home of Mrs. Robert Irvine.

The members were pleased to have as their guest Mrs. Barbara Watson, who described the work of the organization "United" and the "Save the Children" fund.

Mrs. Watson was introduced by Mrs. Bradley and Mrs. R. Laughlin thanked the speaker for her enlightening talk.

At this meeting each member answered roll call by showing some personal treasure and explaining what it meant to her. These items ranged from a child's bank to an elephant bell.

Reports were heard from each committee and plans were made to attend the founder's day banquet to be held in Kingston.

Mrs. S. Kostashuk introduced the members presenting the cultural program. They were: Mrs. D. Chant, and Dr. Joan Brodsell. Mrs. Chant's subject was "Painting and Sculpture". She traced the history of these arts from early times to modern day, and illustrated her talk by showing reprints of works by the old masters.

Dr. Bronskill's topic was "The Printed Word". Her treatment of this subject was most interesting.

Mrs. John Hayman expressed the appreciation of the chapter to Mrs. Chant and Dr. Bronskill.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Irvine and co-hostess, Mrs. J. Hayman.

Portrait of Queen Mother Conversation Piece at Banquet for de Gaulle

By ELIZABETH MOTHERWELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A portrait became a conversation piece at Monday night's state banquet welcoming the president of France and Mme. Charles de Gaulle to Canadian soil.

The portrait was a large oil of Queen Mother Elizabeth.

The striking likeness noted between the two world - renowned women caused more than passing comment.

Similarities were found in coloring and features as well as stature. Mme. de Gaulle has an ivory complexion, and wears her dark hair in the style of Queen Mother Elizabeth.

STRAND OF DIAMONDS

She wore a double strand of diamonds, which also styled the those worn by the Queen Mother in the Government House portrait.

Mme. de Gaulle, never one to seek the limelight, wore a gown of dark plum tone in tulle over taffeta, styled with cap sleeves and worn with a matching stole.

Mme. Vanier wore a gown of periwinkle blue chiffon to receive her guests. The bodice, styled on Empire lines, was high waisted. A diamond pin caught the front panel of the skirt.

A gown of ivory brocade was worn by Mrs. Diefenbaker, in a sheath style, the gown extended into a modified train and was accented with pearl jewelry.

Like the Queen Mother, Mme. de Gaulle is a devoted mother and grandmother who entertains many distinguished visitors. Marriage brought the two women into world prominence.

ADD TO WARMTH

Floral displays gave an added warmth to the spacious reception rooms of Rideau Hall—home of Canada's governors-general since Confederation.

Bouquets of unusually large red and white carnations in silver bowls formed table appointments, along with 24 pastel-blue sugar baskets.

The baskets, adorned with flowers of France fashioned from sugar, were the creation of the Rideau Hall French chef, Jean Zooda, who spent many weeks in the kitchen.

Arctic char, served with sauce given an avocado coloring, was the highlight of the banquet menu.

MAKE HISTORY

The haunting memories of a TEX-MADE sheet

"I was one of her wedding presents 12 years ago. Every second Monday she'd hang me out on the line (the back fence mostly & I'm heard in my time!) The other ladies were always admiring me: "So crisp and rich" . . . "So beautiful, so—"

But now I'm boasting. Sorry.

The night Johnny's mom I went to the hospital with them, wrapped around her knees! Talk about nervous fathers—he thought I was a blanket. The years went so fast! Suddenly I was top sheet on Johnny's new grown-up bed and he was taking his puppy to sleep with him. That was when I first began to feel a little tired. Lately I've been resting a lot, but it's lonely on the shelf. Then Johnny dug me out and made these eyeholes and I was sure it was the end of me.

But guess what . . . she was mad! She called me a perfectly good sheet! She's going to patch me! I may be just a sheet of my former self, but I'm still a Tex-Made.

And we Canadian sheets are pretty hardy."

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: I recently have been given a big promotion in my job. I now have my own desk and clients are brought to me to be interviewed. My question is should I rise when a woman client comes to my desk? I know I shouldn't for my secretary but should I for a stranger?

Answer: You should rise and greet the client (whether it be a man or a woman) and see that she is comfortably seated before you sit down again. By the way, you also should rise when they leave.

Question: My engagement was announced recently. I have been receiving congratulations from all my friends. It seems to me that I have heard that congratulations are not in order for a bride-to-be. Am I right in this idea?

Answer: You are absolutely right. Congratulations should never be offered to an engaged girl or a bride. Good wishes for your happiness should be bestowed upon you. The congratulations go for the man in the case!

Question: I am always embarrassed when I walk down the street with a man. Should I let him take the initiative as to where I walk, or should I make it a point to walk near the curb, or what?

Answer: A man should always walk nearest the curb. You simply stay beside him and, when a crossing is reached, allow him to take your elbow and assist you across the street. Don't hang on his arm when walking. Most men dislike this intensely.

Question: I am nearly 16 years old and am just beginning to go out on dates with boys. Some of my girl friends think nothing of asking a boy to take them out. I am too shy to do this myself but bet am wondering if there are times when a girl can ask a boy without feeling that she is challenging him?

Answer: It is refreshing to hear from a young lady who has the sense enough to call boys for a date! If the girls who do, could hear some of the boys' comments they would stop "chasing them" as you say, and let the boys do the asking. The times when a girl may correctly extend an invitation are when she is having a party in her own home, or when she has been invited to one being given by a friend and has been asked to bring an escort.

Golden Touches

Golden touches were never more important than they are this season when necklines have greater simplicity and sleeves are shorter.

Here is a textured gold set that includes a tailored necklace, earrings and pin. Shown on a daytime dress with a low, rounded neckline, the jewels would be equally appropriate with a suit.

Peter: R. — Joan is so childish and stubborn.

Joan R. — Is it childish to know your own mind?

Peter R. — My wife and I have been married six years and have three youngsters. We love one another, but have never been able to stop the stubbornness of her stubbornness.

When Joan makes up her mind about something it is made up and nobody and nothing can move her. This has made for a lot of bad feeling in our family. There was the time, for example, when we were all supposed to get together at my sister's home for a big family shindig. Joan wanted to make the party and not to go, but my sister rightly pointed out that she had more adequate facilities. Everyone but Joan agreed it would be better at Helen's home. Joan finally refused to come to the party.

It could recite a hundred incidents like that. I think Joan's childish.

Joan R. — I don't think its childish to have a mind of your own and be willing to put up a fight for what you think is right.

In the particular incident Peter relates, for example, I had very good reasons for wanting to entertain the family at my house.

I know Helen likes to show off with her new home and expensive kitchen. But I am a better cook and entertain in a nicer way. Why should everyone go to her home just because she has more money?

Peter always finds fault with me for being stubborn, but in the end he sees I am right. He admits his sister is a show-off, but thinks it's O.K. to give in to her. Why isn't it just as right to give in to me? I don't get it.

The Council: Stubborn individuals usually pride themselves on strength of character, but actually they are quite weak. They fear that change or flexibility will expose them in all their weakness. They use their rigidity as a kind of fortress to protect themselves from those they see as bigger and stronger.

In the incident cited, we gather there was a family discussion as to the best place to hold the party. The family agreed that the Joan suggestion (Helen's home) was best. Joan felt so slightly by what she took as a snub she was unable to put a good face on the matter. This is, indeed, childish.

Helen's underlying purpose in having the family at her home may well have been to "show off," but Joan shows she was at least as eager to show off. This is not true generosity and Joan revealed her own meanness and pettiness of spirit by withholding her presence. It was the one way she could call attention to herself. If her motives had been warm and kindly, she would have gone to the party and chosen another occasion to entertain the family at her home.

Joan's sense of competitiveness with her sister-in-law reveals much about her real character. She has a strong feeling of inadequacy and must continually bolster herself by telling herself she is "right" about various things or has more skill than others. The woman who is sure of herself is also capable of appreciating another point of view and the abilities of others.

Joan must be a rather unhappy woman. She should strive for a broader point of view. A fair appreciation of others may help her gain a little more confidence in herself.

EGGLETON MISSION BAND

MADOC JUNCTION — Eggleton Mission Band held their April meeting on Thursday afternoon at the school house with twenty-eight members in attendance.

Iven Reid, president, presided over an Easter program prepared by Diane Prest and Lois Danford.

"When I Survey the Wondrous Cross", was sung for the opening hymn, followed by the Mission Band Purpose, which was repeated in unison.

The Easter thank-offering was gathered by Lloyd Clancy and dedicated with prayer by Lois Danford.

The next regular meeting, will be held the third Friday of May at the school house.

Beverley Stapley read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll.

Isabelle Prest gave a reading explaining to the members of the Mission Band the special object for the Easter Thank offering. At last boys and girls in Africa are going to have Sunday School. Readers written by teachers living in Africa.

Wayne McMullen gave drum calls for "Fly Away Home".

Mrs. Maurice Clancy, Mission Band superintendent took the seventh chapter, "The City" from the Primary Study packet, "Bold and Old Hymn".

This chapter vividly shows the comparison between their old village home and their new home in the city. The large home, beds and running water were excitement not to mention the stove, mother will learn to cook on. The family visited the large market to shop for their food, also many other useful articles needed for their home.

Wayne McMullen, Carol White, Vickie Browning, Kenneth Danford, Grant Reid, Gerald Stapley, Dianne Prest, also Marilyn Stapley who was leader, took part in the Easter Drama, "The Stage Everybody", from the April World Friends.

Marilyn Stapley conducted the game "Run for Your Supper". Isabelle Prest will be in charge of the games for May.

The World Friends magazines were distributed by Isabelle Prest, Vickie and Michael Browning.

Mrs. Clancy closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Bert Reid and Carol White served refreshments.

Egg Dishes — Simple And Excellent

by Mary Moore

Twelve-year-old David is a budding cook. He loves to make French toast but he wants to do it by himself. Hence catches a glimpses of him operating over the frying pan, and of course, raves over the results.

She thinks this is what he does.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

DAVID'S FRENCH TOAST:

Break 2 eggs into a bowl. Add 1 teaspoon each sugar and vanilla. So far so good. Then add "some" milk. Beat with rotary beater. He likes his slices of bread cut into 3 strips each. He heats "lots" of butter in his frying pan, then dips his bread strips in the egg-milk mixture until they are "soaky". Then he fries them until golden, wielding the egg turner like a professional chef. He smiles all the time he eats these crispy morsels with pancake syrup.

The point of this little talk is that many simple egg dishes, when perfectly made, can provide inexpensive, nourishing and delicious main courses.

Are you satisfied with your Cheese Soufflés? If not, try this

CHEESE SOUFFLÉ:

1-4 cup butter, 1-4 cup flour, 1 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne, 2 cups grated Cheddar cheese, 4 eggs.

Make a white sauce by melting butter, stirring in flour then milk until thick. Add salt and cayenne. When thickened, add grated cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Remove from the heat and add beaten yolks of 4 eggs; mix well. Slowly pour this mixture into stiffly beaten whites of 4 eggs. Fold and blend carefully but thoroughly. Pour into a 2-quart greased casserole and bake 1 hour at 300 deg. Fahr. Serve at once. Good with Mushroom Sauce (see yesterday April 18th). Makes 6 servings.

EGGS HOLLANDAISE:

Fry ham slices 2 or 3 minutes or until lightly browned. Place on toast. Top with poached eggs (poached in simmering water, not boiling, for this toughens this delicate protein). Cover with Mock Hollandaise Sauce (see Monday, April 18th) or

GENUINE HOLLANDAISE SAUCE:

1-3 cup butter, 2 egg yolks, 1-2 teaspoon salt, speck cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Melt the butter in a saucepan. Beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add the salt, cayenne pepper, and 3 tablespoons melted butter, a drop at a time, beating. Then add remaining butter, alternately with the lemon juice, until all has been added. Store in the refrigerator until ready to use. This sauce melts readily when served on hot eggs or vegetables such as asparagus or broccoli.

Talking About the Florida Keys

As is true of all of Florida, overpopulation is beginning to rear its ugly head in the Florida Keys. More and more subdivisions are being laid out, offering building lots to the public at prices ranging from $10 down and $10 a month to waterfront estates priced only in the thousands. In other words, you can buy just about any variety of property so that your selection can be in keeping with your ideas and the span of your bank account.

The lower Keys — Marathon to Key West — are taking on gradually, the general tone of Miami Beach some 20 years ago. But the upper Keys — Key Largo to Islamorada — still retain much of the natural charm that they had before the anglers of our nation discovered that the bonefish would take an artificial fly or a spinning lure.

We — Mrs. Knight and I — prefer Key Largo. Although Key Largo is the top Key, separated from the mainland by Jewfish Creek, and only about 50 miles from Miami, it is so far the least developed and "improved" Key of the lot. Probably this is because this largest Key is composed of coral rock. There is little sand and any bathing beaches must not only be built (at considerable expense) but also re-established after the inevitable wash of just about every major storm.

FEW SUN WORSHIPPERS

The result is that Key Largo and the adjoining Keys are not too much afflicted by the sun worshipers. There are no night clubs, no horse or dog tracks, no multi-million-dollar hotels. Instead, there is an assortment of moderately sized (and moderately priced) motels, and a growing number of small winter homes where folks can live quietly with a minimum of disturbance. Most of the motels consist of efficiency units — combination bed room and living room with small dining area and kitchen.

Ten years ago, shopping in the Keys presented some difficulty. Thus we made about two pilgrimages per week to Homestead where there are adequate supermarkets. Not so today. Now there are super-markets in the upper Keys and trips to Homestead are the exception rather than the rule.

There are good restaurants for those who like to "dine out." Up at the top of Key Largo is the Key Largo Restaurant, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boecherer. Formerly this bar and restaurant was The Key Largo Bar and Grill where Irene and Bill Turner welcomed the bonefishermen and tarpon fishermen each evening. We go there quite frequently.

South of Key Largo there are Martin's Half-Way House and last, but by no means least, The Green Turtle. Here fishing clothes are every bit as acceptable as are, on occasion, dinner coats. Conch, the perennial bartender, is reputed to turn out the best Martini on the Keys, a fact which has made her justly famous.

FISHING MAIN ATTRACTION

Of course, the main attraction on the Keys, at least on the upper Keys, is the fishing. Admittedly, the fishing in Florida Bay is not what it was ten years ago. This body of water, about 1200 square miles in all, is mostly shallows, two to six feet deep. The tremendously increased boat traffic in these waters has taken its toll. Fish, game fish, will not stand for too much disturbance, with the result that really good fishing no longer can be found near the Keys proper. Now, to find what we want in the way of tarpon, bonefish, redfish, snook and trout, we sail as much as 25 and 30 miles to the outside flats, out near the open waters of the Gulf.

Once in these outside waters, the fishing is just about as good as it always has been. A goodly share of the fish we find on the outside flats are migrants, with the possible exception of the speckled sea trout, and even these, so I am told, are migratory to some extent. However, there are enough resident fish to keep the average angler happy, regardless of the time of the year. Last winter there were more resident tarpon in Florida Bay than at any time in the memory of the guides with whom I have talked.

Of course, the real-estate boys have been doing their utmost to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. Dozens upon dozens of good bonefish flats have been ruined by dredging operations. But the conservation authorities are, at long last, beginning to crack down on "improvement" measures.

Research has shown that tidal flats, mangrove swamps, estuaries, etc., are vital to the welfare of our game fish. Everglades National Park has placed the 10,000 Islands beyond the reach of the despoilers, thus insuring the continuance of these valuable spawning grounds. By and large, the pendulum begins to swing the other way. Now it looks as though the fishing henceforth, instead of growing increasingly poorer, will take a turn for the better. And that is as it should be. Without good fishing the Keys would lose much of their charm but, from all indications, there is little cause for worry on this score at present.

Will Not Claim His Inheritance Of Family Seat

KAMSACK, Sask. (CP) — Robert Ernest Williams, 36-year-old CNR brakeman and part-time conductor, does not intend to go to Devon, England, to claim his inheritance of a family seat, land and real estate.

"I am not excited at all," he said in an interview Sunday. "I have known it for four or five years. I have 31 years to go to get my pension and I am planning for my own future."

Mr. Williams, heir to Sir William Williams, 35-year-old eighth baronet, added: "I am just a common, ordinary Joe like yourself."

Mr. Williams is next in line for the title, being a second cousin.

Lady Williams, wife of Sir William, confirmed Saturday that Mr. Williams is heir to the title and estates at Braunton, Devon.

Mr. Williams could not say how much the inheritance is worth. Having worked for the railway in Kamsack for 16 years, Mr. Williams has never been to England and, he said, he does not plan to make a trip there.

At home with him are his wife, three boys, ranging in age from three to 10, and a daughter, 11.

Ernest Martin Williams, his grandfather, came to Canada and settled in Russell, Man. Mr. Williams was born in Winkler, Man., moving later to Saskatchewan.

Frank Harold Hall, Union Chief of 'Nonop' Railmen, Said Real Tough Negotiator

Canada's biggest single labor-management hassle — the railroads' "nonop" contract dispute—is coming to a head before a federal conciliation board. This story about Frank Hall who leads the union negotiators in agreements involving 120,000 Canadian workers and demands for $65,000,000 more a year from the railways.

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—As one of Canada's most powerful labor leaders, Frank Harold Hall is something of a statesman, politician, pal, philosopher, economist, lawyer and labor-expert all rolled into one.

A man of many talents, he is all these things—and more—as chief negotiator for the country's biggest single group of railway workers, the 120,000 CPR and CNR employees in the railway non-operating trades.

Until a few years ago he was hardly known outside labor circles.

Even now, to many he is a man of mystery.

MASTER BARGAINER

Some regard him as hard-headed, tough-talking, a master bargainer dealing in millions of dollars, a mirror realist with power to halt trains across Canada, a man who pulls no punches, asks no favors, grants none.

He is.

Others know him as a quiet family man, a naturalist who nurtures delicate roses in his backyard bungalow garden in Montreal's middle-class suburb of Notre-Dame-de-Grace.

He is that, too.

At 56, he has had 40 years in Canada's labor movement, ascending from unpaid secretary of a fire-in-the-belly fledgling union local to chairman of a powerful 25-union negotiating team.

He heads the tightly-knit group of union leaders who are able to order a strike that can—and 10 years ago actually did—paralyze the transcontinental services of Canada's major railways.

CRUCIAL FIGHT

This mild-appearing man soon will lead his union team into a new and crucial fight—an all-out hassle before a federal conciliation board over union demands that would add an extra $65,000,000 a year to rail costs of the CPR and CNR.

It is a team effort, but Frank Hall is the kingpin. He is a veteran of many stiff sessions of collective bargaining with the railways, a man who has argued before conciliation boards, stood up to prime ministers and to his union membership. Mr. Hall goes into this latest conciliation round well acquainted with the possible outcome—the threat of a nation-wide work stoppage on the railways, with all the repercussions involved.

"This is a serious business," he admits.

"We've got to keep pace with wages in outside industry. You've got to have first class workers on the railways and you can't have first class men with second class pay."

WAGES AT ISSUE

The unions, representing almost all railway workers except those who operate trains, have asked for wage increases amounting to about 25 cents an hour in a two-year contract. Hard-pressed from all sides, the railways have rejected the pay demand, contending that the "non-op" workers are already as well paid as comparable workers in industry and that the railways haven't got the money to raise wages anyway.

It's a tricky battle, a slow-moving fray that probably will land in the lap of the government in the end.

How did Frank Hall get where he is, one of the most able labor leaders in Canada, one of the highest paid—$17,500 a year—and one of the most respected union chiefs in the country?

"You just grow into it," he says. "You are interested in it and you know that what you are doing has some value. You are accomplishing something. You know it's getting useful work."

Born in Norfolk, England, the seventh son of a stone mason, Mr. Hall came to Canada in 1913 and got a job as a laborer. Four years later, in 1917, he took a job as freight checker with the CPR, collecting 37 cents an hour for a 10-hour day, a six-day work week. Time-and-a-half overtime was paid after 12 hours. There were no paid holidays.

About that time, the freight handlers started to organize a union and young Frank Hall got into the thick of it.

"I decided to take an active part. We needed a union but most of the fellows didn't know how to go about it. We needed leadership and I gave what I could."

He was elected secretary of the local—Lodge 1088—and chairman of the grievance committee.

By 1920, he was a full-time union man. He took an active part in linking the various local lodges into a system group on the CPR's eastern lines, becoming general chairman of the union's system board and a member of the Grand Lodge board of directors.

In 1925, he was elected Vice-grand president at Kansas City, Mo., moving into the international side of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees. He's vice-president of that union for Canada now.

"I never thought of myself as a professional unionist. I never thought of it in terms of 'what's in it for me?' "

But he found union work a precarious way of making a living. By this time he was married and had two sons and a daughter—and every time he stood for re-election he had to worry about the outcome.

NO SECURITY

"You stick your neck out every time," he says. "There's no security in this work. I've known some top union men, honest, sincere, hard-working, lots of ability, and they've been dropped at election time."

Yet Frank Hall was into union work—and into it all the way. He had an incisive mind, a feeling for tactics and timing, a talent for bargaining, the brisky, trying task of give and take, of compromise and concession. He also knew when to stick fast—to go all the way to a strike vote, and once, in 1950, to a strike.

That strike—an 11-day work stoppage that was finally ended by parliamentary intervention—happened just three years after Mr. Hall was elected chairman of the general conference committee of the railway unions. The battle was over the five-day work week and the unions won.

The 1950 strike was staged without the intimate support of the running trades who until that time had bargained jointly with the non-ops—the clerks, machinists, freight handlers, electrician, track repairmen, telegraphers, porters and station employees.

UNITED STAND

Since then, the non-ops, 15 unions representing various trades in the railways, have stood united in their negotiations, with Frank Hall as their spokesman. Once the telegraphers left—but they returned to the fold.

"Our power lies in unity. If any union quits, it has to pay for itself."

In 1958, the unions threatened to go on strike after they had always rejected a conciliation recommendation for a 15-cent-an-hour pay increase—less than half what the unions originally demanded. Mr. Hall accepted the offer in what he called the "interests of industrial peace."

The railways finally settled too, after they got a freight rate increase of 17 per cent to cover the cost of the higher wage bill.

POLITICAL PROBLEMS

The settlement pointed, in Mr. Hall's eyes, to the political problems behind the railways' present financial position.

"I don't see how the railways can sit down and bargain collectively in the true sense of the word until there is some relief to their unrealistic financial situation. But that's a political problem. It's up to the government and the railways to solve."

Frank Hall is outspoken on many matters and a keen observer of many facets of life outside the normal range of union work. He reads books on economics, on philosophy and history, has taken night classes in philosophy.

He is a member of the Canadian Association for adult education and chairman of the national committee on human rights of the Canadian Labor Congress, the parent body of Canadian unions of which he is a vice-president.

He opposes the idea of melding union power with a political party, a proposal now under active consideration by union and non-political leaders.

"The unions will only share in the misfortunes of politics," he says.

But he advocates greater political education for union members—definite programs for promoting an awareness among workers of their political rights, of the economic structure of society.

"I'm a free enterprise man, I admit there are shortcomings but it still offers a better share of the rewards for everyone, for both industry and workers."

And he admits that there are rascals within the labor movement, just as there are within any group of society.

GENERAL SICKNESS

"If anything," he says, "there's a sickness in all society—look at the TV scandals in the United States—but it's not confined just to the labor movement. Labor has take care of its own rascals in due course."

In a few years, Frank Hall expects to retire from union work. He would like to write—perhaps an autobiographical commentary on events and people as he saw them through his union work.

He will be able to spend more time with his wife, who has watched her husband spend far more than normal Union hours at his job, which often takes him away from home, even abroad to Copenhagen, Stockholm, Helsinki Amsterdam, where he attends the annual conventions of the general council of the International Transport Workers' Federation.

"My wife has sacrificed some of our life to my work," says Mr. Hall. "I never mix family life with business life. We keep them separate."

Two of their sons are in the United States, one a professor, doing medical research at a university at Galveston, Texas; the other, who has his doctorate in chemistry, with an oil firm at Dallas. His daughter, married, lives in Montreal.

LEADS UNION BATTLE—As chief negotiator for 120,000 non-operating railway workers, Montreal union leader Frank Hall speaks for the largest block of organized labor in Canada in a drive to win $65,000,000 in pay increases from the CNR and CPR. Born in Norfolk, England, Hall, 56, came to Canada in 1913 and started work for the CPR in 1917. He helped organize the first freight handlers union and by 1920 was in union work full time. In 1950, three years after his election as chairman of the general conference committee of the railway unions he led them into an 11-day strike.

The Way of the Worry-Free

There is the high road and the low road — many are the lanes that lead from here to there.

The anxious road. The fretful road. The hazardous road — the rough and the smooth, the swift and the adventurous.

And there are those who think of all of these when they plan to go from here to there.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We spoke with Floyd Patterson, ex-heavyweight champion a few years ago at a Toronto sports celebrities dinner and found him to be a quiet, self-spoken gentlemanly sort of a fellow.

That was before he had been "Thor'd" out by Johansson's thunderbolt right.

Patterson, like a lot of other topnotch fighters, who cannot find work, pay the food bills with loot earned from public appearances, endorsements, referee assignments, and other easy but part-time employment.

He was in Toronto a few days ago, sent there by a well-known brewery. It probably was the fee attached that sent Patterson on his way and it is not likely the soda company expected him to shout the good points of their product from the housetops.

Hockey fans will remember he appeared on a television broadcast during one of the period intermissions of a Leafs-Canadiens game. He answered the interviewer's questions in a low, well-modulated voice. There was nothing of the braggadocio about him.

Later in an interview with a Toronto sportswriter, he said that his presence in Toronto at that time was not a personal appearance, he had been training pretty hard and needed a break; so he thought he would come to Toronto to see a hockey game.

The sportswriter claimed he had written proof that the brewery had brought Patterson in, wanted to know why "the liar" had lowered his whole thing on the smart notice of a public relations official.

What was Patterson supposed to do? Produce a bottle or two of the product, a young couple racing along a sandy beach to a table when they "snappa-capped" the suds, and let an associate go into a song-and-dance about the qualities of the brew?

We do not think it was a very nice thing to insinuate that Patterson was a liar. He was not asked what consumer or product he was endorsing. And he did not have to tell any sportswriter just why he was there. Possibly he evaded the possible mention of a sponsor by saying he was there to see a hockey game.

Besides is there any law against Patterson or any other well-known sports celebrity endorsing products they wish to see a sports event? And supposing some brewery or any other commercial enterprise did send him? Who cares? Or does the brand of the brew make a difference?

In his training camp at Newtown, Connecticut, Patterson has developed a new talkativeness. He has a new poise he lacked when Cus D'Amato, his disbarred manager, tried to do the talking for both.

"Johansson's style doesn't seem so difficult that I can't solve it," he said. "But I will have to respect him more than I did the last time. I honestly didn't think he had a right-hand punch at all."

"I remember him throwing a right in the first or second round," said Patterson, "and I ducked it so easily that I decided he didn't have a right. But when he hit me in the third round, it came between my gloves and smacked me on the bridge of the nose. He knocked me down seven times, but he never did connect on the button. I never lost full consciousness. But I do know he has a right. If he ever needs a letter of reference, I'll write it."

"I must say," Patterson told reporters, "that I didn't fall for those stories he was playing around instead of training. That easy life the papers got writing about was propaganda he meant for me to believe. This time, I want him to be in the best shape ever because I want to beat the best when I beat him."

Patterson said he is not going to change his style of fighting. He knows, he said, that his peekaboo style is the best for him. "When I drop my hands I get it. I pick off too many punches with my gloves to discard it. It brought me the championship and that is good enough proof for me."

Patterson said he has studied and analyzed the fight in his mind's eye for months, but he has yet to see the movies scrutinizing the films for telltales.

"I'll look at the movies a few weeks before the fight," he said. "I don't want my reaction to wear off too early. I hope they'll inspire viciousness in me."

A man who knows Patterson well says that is impossible. "The ex-champion is too nice and gentle to be mean, cruel or vicious. He must think of something else."

And we don't believe he "lies" about a picayune matter like seeing a hockey game—or representing a brewery.

Hull Cuts Chatham Margin With Third Game 6-4 Upset

CHATHAM (CP)—Hull Legion starved off elimination in Allan Cup playoffs Monday night with a 6-4 upset of Chatham Maroons in the third game of best-of-five Eastern Canada final.

Chatham leads the series 2-1. The winner will meet Trail, B.C., Smoke Eaters in the cup final beginning April 25. The fourth game is here Wednesday and the fifth, if necessary, here Thursday.

The game was deadlocked 3-3 in the third period when Chatham's Frank Battaglia was tagged with a misconduct and match misconduct for slugging Hull's Gilles Lacelle over the head with his stick.

PENALTY HELPS

With 23 seconds of the penalty left, Hull's Pit Richer broke through to score at 14:14. Only 22 seconds later Paul Sergio scraped home Hull's fifth marker.

Copper Leyte cut Chatham's deficit to one goal at 15:37, but Chatham pulled their goalkeeper in the final minute of play. Nadeau score in the open[illegible]

Nadeau got three for Hull while teammate Paul Seguin notched two and Richer a single.

Battaglia was a standout for Chatham until he lost his temper and started stick swinging. He scored twice with Fred Pletsch and Leyte adding one each.

Until the third period incident the game was closely-fought. The teams were tied 1-1 at the end of the first and 3-3 at the end of the second.

SHORT PERIOD

Second period play ended at 18:47 when Hull goalie Roger Fortin went for repairs to a cut over his right eye following a goal crease pileup. The time was added to the third period.

Marcel Legris' Hull team was without star right winger Leo Gravelle, the team's leading scorer in the series.

Maroons were short two players. Centre and captain Ted Power was out with tonsilitis and defenceman Jack Douglas was nursing a broken hand.

Swaps Southpaw Herb Score For White Sox Righthander

After Colavito, Kuenn Trade

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The real reason Frank Lane, dynamic general manager of the Cleveland Indians, traded sawy slugger Rocky Colavito and Herb Score, once appraised as a million dollar pitcher, was that he was simply fed up with both of them.

In an exclusive telephone interview with The Associated Press today, Lane frankly told why, on successive days, he dropped outfielder Colavito to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn, and lefthander Score to the Chicago White Sox for Barry Latman, a 23-year-old unproven right-hander.

Lane did not say directly he was fed up with the two players but he candidly explained the shortcomings of each and told why he believes, contrary to general opinion, the trades greatly improve the Indians.

MORE HARMONY

Among other things, Lane intimated that the departure of Colavito and Score, long - time buddies and room-mates, would result in greater harmony on the Indians. He believes Colavito had an over-rated player and that Score had reached the point where he was useless to the club.

Lane emphasized, however, that he still regards both as fine young men and has no personal grievance against either.

"Joe Gordon doesn't like me," Lane said Score told him. "He doesn't like my sympathy for me. I'd like to be traded to a manager who'll be more sympathetic."

That just about made up Lane's mind.

Lane attributed Score's failure to win in comeback to a mental condition (Score's record last year was 9-11).

INJURY CONNECTED?

"It's more psychological than physical," he said, "I believe he still hasn't gotten over that terrible eye injury he suffered in 1957 when he was struck by a line drive hit by Gil McDougald. He keeps thinking it could happen again. On the mound, when he's delivering the ball, he sneaks a peek at the batter. Before the injury, he never looked at the batter—just at the catcher and the strike zone.

"I don't think Score is through. I just think he can't win for Cleveland. Maybe he'll pitch more effectively in Chicago with the bigger park and a manager like Al Lopez who knows him and likes him and may give him more sympathy."

As for the Colavito - Kuenn trade, Lane had a lot to say. These were among his comments:

"I made a survey this spring of eight or nine of the league's best pitchers. Without mentioning the pitchers' names, I asked them to name the most dangerous hitters and the toughest to pitch to. Rocky was high on the list of most dangerous but the pitchers agreed they can get him out with certain pitches.

KUENN TOUGHEST

"Every pitcher rated Kuenn as either the toughest or the second toughest to pitch to with men on bases. Rocky was far down the list. Rocky helped us only when he hit a home run. His other weaknesses detract from his value. . . .

"The fans remember only the home run. They don't see the liabilities, I can see Rocky hitting 50 to 55 home runs in Detroit and still he will not be as valuable as Kuenn. That's because Kuenn is the more complete ballplayer.

"Detroit doubtless is chortling with glee over getting Colavito. They may not do so when they realize his home runs don't necessarily win games. We had him. We know."

Senators Wallop Bosox 10-1 In American League Opener; Ted Williams Clouts Homer

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The American League gets started on the run for the pennant today amid a teasing controversy over a series of trades by the Cleveland Indians.

Washington Senators topped Boston Red Sox 10-1 in the presidential opener Monday. A three-bit, 15-strikeout job by Senator Camilo Pascual was supported by four home runs. Homer honors Ted Williams' 482nd home run.

All eight clubs play today. The big game is at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium between the Indians and the Detroit Tigers. A crowd of about 40,000 and some sort of fan demonstration is expected after the Sunday trade in which Cleveland general manager Frank Lane swapped fan favorite Rocky Colavito to the Tigers for Harvey Kuenn.

It was the seventh deal of the off-season by trader Lane—and the most unpopular with hometown fans.

LATEST TRADE

Lane, who Monday exchanged tough luck Herb Score, once a strikeout dollar pitcher, to the Chicago White Sox for right-hander Barry Latman, said the Colavitio deal by saying he was swapping power for all-around excellence.

Right-hander Gary Bell (14-11), now virtually a "must" ace if the Injuns are to scrap for the flag, is their opening pitcher against Detroit's Frank Lary (17-10).

Chicago White Sox, favored to make it two straight pennants after a 40-year famine, go with Early Wynn (23-10) against Kansas City and left-hander Bud Daley (16-13) before an expected 17,000 at Comiskey Park.

The Yankees, bidding for a fourth crown after last season's third place flop, go with right-hander Jim Coates (6-1) on the mound at Boston. The Red Sox will start right - hander Tom Brewer (10-12).

Baltimore named young Jerry Walker (11-10) to face the Senators' Dave Ramos (13-13) in the Orioles' opener.

SECOND INNING BLAST

The Senators, second to Cleveland in the AL with a club-record 183 home runs last season, started unloading against loser Tom Sturdivant in the second inning after President Eisenhower had thrown out the first ball at Griffith Stadium Monday.

Jim Lemon homered in a three-run second. Bob Allison, Earl Battey and Billy Consolo homered away in a five-run fourth.

Pascual, 26, a come - lately right-hander, had no trouble at all except for a three-run homer run by Williams that tied him with Lou Gehrig for No. 4 on the all-time list.

Pascual cracked Washington's strikeout record, set by Walter Johnson in 1910, by fanning 15 batters.

Lane Traded Beer Licence Fan Moans

CLEVELAND (AP)—Out on St. Clair Avenue they hung Frank Lane in effigy and laid out a likeness of Joe Gordon on a slab.

This was the way habitues of the Pudgie Grill showed how they felt about the trade in which Lane, Cleveland baseball general manager, dealt slugger Rocky Colavito to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn. Gordon backed Lane up on his decision to trade the popular Colavito. While fans protested loudly against Sunday's Colavito-Kuenn deal, Lane drew little criticism for Monday's trade of southpaw Herb Score to the Chicago White Sox for right-hand hurler Barry Latman.

The sports department of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, swamped Sunday with telephone calls, said the early caller opposed the Colavito-Kuenn trade by 9 to 1. This ratio changed Monday to 4-1.

On the Herb Score trade, callers favored the swap by a ratio of 3 to 1.

Robert S. Anson also hung Lane in effigy, stringing the dummy to a telephone pole in front of his home in Cleveland Heights. Anson said he would take the dummy with him to the stadium for Cleveland's opening game today against Detroit Tigers.

All in all in Pat Joyce's tavern on East 9th Street food something else to complain about was the fact that there will be no beer for patrons at Cleveland Stadium. City officials said the stadium beer licence won't be available until April 28.

Mourned the customer:

"No Rocky, no Score, no beer, no nookin'. This guy Lane probably traded the beer licence."

Eastern Bowlers Lead All Events

CALGARY (CP) — Bowlers from Eastern Canada grabbed the lead in all five events at the half-way mark today of the two-day Dominion five - pin bowling championships. But a strong comeback Wednesday is likely to bring the West back into contention.

The Ontario bowlers were led by high-scoring performances of Jack Wilson, London, Ont., who averaged a remarkable 282 points a game during the day. Wilson was anchorman on both men and mixed teams.

Mrs. Mary Currie, Western Canada ladies' champion from Calgary, sparked the West's mixed team performance but ran afoul of a headpin jinx in her singles battle with Mrs. Marjorie Summers of St. Catharines and ended the day 138 points behind the 1,206 total.

Biggest lead was built up by the Ontario women as the western champion Vancouver representatives slipped far off the pace.

Besides the 138 - point ladies' singles lead, the East will carry a 27-point lead into men's singles play today, a men's team edge of 104 points, ladies' team edge of 300 points, and a 141-point spread in the mixed team class.

Swede, Patterson May Sign Late Today

NEW YORK (AP) — If the lawyers clear up the details, heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson may be able to sign official contracts late today for their return fight at the Polo Grounds June 20 or 22.

"I hope so," said the unbeaten Swede, who arrived Monday night from Switzerland. "From what I understand everything is supposed to be ready. I want to fly back to Switzerland tomorrow and start hard training."

According to the promoters, Harry Markson and Jack Nilon, the major barriers in the way of the June 20 or 22 clash Monday when FSI reached an agreement for the purchase of all stock of Floyd Patterson Enterprises. This stock is held by Patterson and his manager, Cus D'Amato.

The manager presently is unlicensed in New York but the ex-champion has said he will fight in New York whether D'Amato is or not.

TWO OBSTACLES

Two other obstacles have to be cleared before promoters get around to the important business of selling tickets and television rights.

First, the state athletic commission has got a long look at the contracts. Gen. Melvin Krulewitch is the commission chairman, said every comma will be inspected. The general doesn't like to get involved in post-fight investigating like he had to after the Floyd - Ingo fight in Chicago.

In addition, Attorney - General Louis Lefkowitz has called for the principals for a conference today to discuss some of the hangovers of the first fight.

Among those requested to appear were Johansson, his adviser Edwin-Ahlquist, Patterson, D'Amato, FSI president Roy Cohn, and their attorneys.

ASSEMBLE TEAM

NEW YORK (AP)—Al Stubblant, English soccer coach, told a press luncheon Monday he will assemble a New York team April 25 to play in an international round - robin tournament. All Stars from Toronto, City, England, one of the best British defencemen, will be one of the players to report here, said Stubblins.

Cocky Joey Says He'll Floor Fullmer

By FRANK PITMAN

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (AP) — Pistol-packin' Joey Giardello, a Brooklyn - born Philadelphian, hitched up his slickmen's pants, cocked his corduroy hat and proceed be'knock the living daylights out of champion Gene Fullmer in their middleweight title fight Wednesday night.

Joey, garbed in western clothes and toting with a six-shooter, shot straight from the hip: "That is Joey's turn. The fight may go the distance but no matter how long it lasts, I'm going to win."

The 28-year-old ring veteran admits his 15-round nationally-televised bout (ABC — 10 p.m., EST) with Fullmer may be the end of the road for him if he loses "but he's not think about that. I'm confident—not too confident. But I feel great and Fullmer better be in shape."

The bout in the Montana state college fieldhouse at Bozeman, 26 miles west of here, will be the first in-country Giardello, who has an 83-17-6 record in ring wars. The 28-year-old Fullmer, pride of West Jordan, Utah, has a 51-4 record. Joey is a 12-5 underdog for the fight.

MAY BE TOO LATE

Giardello's indifferent 4-2 record last year has spurred talk that he's over the hill and that his first title shot may have come too late. "It hasn't come too late for me," Joey said. "You can just say it's too late for Fullmer."

The Philadelphian, ranked No. 7 title contender by the National Boxing Association, said he has no special plans for conquering Fullmer's overpowering rushes. Joey said "Fullmer's no monster, han a lot of guys I beat, including Chico Vejar (one of Giardello's 1959 victims)."

O'Dell, Podres Hill Rivals In Giants, Dodgers Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Los Angeles and San Francisco reopen baseball's rivalry left off in 1958—battling for first place in the National baseball League.

Coming down the stretch for the three straight losses that ruined their title hopes a year ago, the Giants nominate lefty Billy O'Dell for the world championship scuttlepaw Johnny Podres in the opener of the two-game set.

"Podres pitched against them—he hasn't couldn't have asked for a better natural for the first meeting of the two clubs in the new $15,000,000 Candlestick Park!"

Both clubs have 4-1 records after home series against the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs to lead the Milwaukee Braves by one game.

The Dodgers get their first look at the park where the Giants already have played seven games as important a part as possible.

That makes the winter acquisition of second baseman Daryl Blasingame even more important than it first appeared. He's already stolen a pair of bases and proven he can stretch hits that look like singles into two-base blows.

The Giants also received their first dividend Sunday from their trade with Baltimore that brought pitchers O'Dell and Billy Loes.

Loes won in relief as the Giants edged Chicago 4-3 in 14 innings, singled and scored the winning run.

CHASED BY BRAVES

The game knocked the Giants and Dodgers are Milwaukee Braves, the other member of the trio that made last year's pennant chase a three-way affair. The Braves and Cincinnati Redlegs, not scheduled, are idle for their second straight day, following Monday's all - day for the whole league.

In other games today, St. Louis Cardinals — already four games behind the leaders—try for their first win in six games as they host Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies play the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

EMPIRE RECORDS

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP)—Malcolm Spence of South Africa bettered his own British Empire and South African 440-yard record with a time of 45.9 seconds Monday. The world record of 45.7 is held by Glenn Davis of the United States. Gert Potgieter bettered his British Empire and South African record of 23.1 for the 120-yard hurdles with a time of 22.8 seconds.

'Teasers' in Many Instances Are Substitutes for Plot

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Those scenes of violence and brutality in so many television shows may be deemed unnecessary by critics and large segments of the viewing public, but in many instances they are a substitute for a plot.

"It's impossible to develop a decent puzzle—mystery—show in less than an hour," explains Bill Roos, half of a husband-wife writing team which specializes in this form of expression.

"If you have seven or eight characters, you must introduce all of 'em and set them up with motives. Then just let 'em fire for this in a 30-minute program. So you have fewer characters and more action."

ALSO IN COURT

Roos (who with his wife, the former Audrey Kelley, writes under the name of Kelley Roos) says that in addition to fights, court room scenes are especially adaptable to TV drama.

"The bailiff can introduce a character, and a couple of questions by one of the lawyers can set up a motive," he says. "Another shortcut is having the detective talk to himself, explaining what's going on.

"But nowadays it's pretty hard to write a 30-minute TV show that doesn't rely largely on violence. There's a super scene of having a show with a scene of violence—a shooting, a fight or somebody being run down. This is called a 'teaser,' and it is supposed to be a 15-second hook which will keep the audience sticking around to find out what it is all about."

Boston Marathon Attracts Some 150 Starters

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BOSTON (CP)—The weatherman promised caressingly - cool Canadian breezes for the more 150 spindly - legged but stout-hearted athletes in today's Boston Marathon, one of the toughest ordeals known to sport.

Canada's runners who have been training in now welcomed the weather outlook but they faced forbidding odds just the same. The United States entry is particularly strong and numerous in this Olympic year and a two-man delegation from ever-dangerous Finland is much feared.

A total of 197 runners registered for the 64th Boston Marathon—a grind of 26 miles—385 yards—but the pre-race total is normally slashed by no - shows and medical examinations.

The original Canadian list showed 18 entries from Sydney, N.S., to Vancouver—including no less than seven foreign-born athletes. Jean-Baptiste Roland Michaud of Montreal was forced to cancel because of a leg injury in a 30-mile race in Hamilton, Ont., Good Friday.

RELAY AT HAMILTON

Several of the other Canadian runners also competed at Hamilton, too, including the two main marathon contenders, Englishborn John Church, 28, of Toronto, who finished second and Scottish-born Billy Smith, 23, of Hamilton.

Other Canadians listed to enter today's gruelling test include Agnes Falle.

George Dickson of Hamilton, who raced third in the Boston Marathon last year, was unable to compete today because of an injuries. Billy Smith was 17th last year and Church was 21st.

The U.S. sees its main hope in Johnny Kelly, a Groton, Conn., school teacher who established a record of two hours, 20 minutes and five seconds when he won the marathon in 1937.

Later he managed a semi-pro club at Gananoque, returning to playing duties in the 1903-05 period with Cornwall, N.H., in the New England Baseball League.

Around 1910, he played for Edmonton in the Western Canada League, then went to Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League as business manager and scout. After eight years in Toronto he was scout for Baltimore Orioles and for Rochester in the International League.

Lee also helped organize the Ontario - Michigan League and Canadian League and the Canada-American League.

North Bay Plans for Junior A Club

NORTH BAY (CP) — Hockey officials here say they are going ahead with plans to ice a Junior A team next season as a condender in the Ontario Hockey Association circuit.

Manager Pete Palangio, arena manager Morris Snider and Clarence Rennick, chairman of the arena commission, said they will seek an entry in the league at the annual meeting of the OHA Junior A council.

The move follows a suggestion by Major Hap Emms, coach of the Barrie Flyers. A canvass of the league showed most managers willing to consider North Bay as an entry.

Major item facing the organizers is obtaining pledges for subscribers' seats. Palangio said 1,500 seats would have to be pledged before the OHA could entertain any thoughts of accepting the new team.

Must Revaluate School System Says Speaker

TORONTO (CP) — Ronald S. Ritchie, employee relations manager for Imperial Oil Limited, Monday called for a revaluation of vocational training in schools.

He told the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association that rather than train an individual for his first job, a school system should prepare him to cope with the working world of change and growing complexity.

School training should be regarded as grounding in the basics which would fit a person to continue on-the-job training.

The vast new educational system which had grown up in industry and commerce was either "a proper part of the new scheme of things or else it reflects the failure of our school system to respond to the needs of a changing world."

Charlton Heston Has Agent Looking for Comedy Script

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Charlton Heston, whose classic portrayals of heroic figures have made him one of moviedom's most seen actors, wants to be a comedian the next time out.

"I've got my agent looking for comedy scripts on a top priority basis," says Heston. "I must have it for a change of pace."

By next year, Heston will be the star of three of the top five box-office movies. The Ten Commandments and The Greatest Show on Earth are already there and Ben-Hur is a cinch to make it.

"I have been offered Charlie-magne," he confides, "and I will probably do it but I must have something light in between."

Even before his recent Academy Award for best actor, Heston was on the comic kick.

"I was all set to do Let's Make Love with Marilyn Monroe but then came a chance to do a Broadway play with Sir Laurence Olivier directing. The play was a flop but I don't regret my decision. The chance to work with Olivier was worth all the time. Comedy can wait. Image is my cup that the play cost me."

General Tendencies: There is a big chance to reduce those big fibers and plans which you had worked out yesterday, or before, to a really workable execution but keep your mind open for new methods and systems which can be time-savers or expense-cutters. Think in terms of fame and your reputation for best use today and tonight.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) An influential though mellow and jovial higher-up will give you excellent advice and support today if you but make it a point to be within his, or her orbit. Be sure to follow through on ideas. P.M. be active. Help those in need.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) An ideal day to be with a clever friend looking into some new enterprise which can mean greater success for you both. Meet the right people and get as much pertinent data as you can. Be very observant.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Much backing can be had in public circles now if you give serious attention to civic or professional matters. Consult authority on credit affairs or any perplexing problems you may have. P.M. entertain higher-ups at dinner, etc.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — Do so much research work on your own. Since you are filled with inspiring ideas. Tonight is fine for going to some place of charming atmosphere with an associate for relaxation and discussing joint interests.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 21) — Now Every opportunity is yours now to consult with a clever worker or authority in practical lines so that you can get pertinent information that will help you to really succeed. Be broad-minded for best results.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Intimate tete-a-tetes with partners during day hours reveal best way to cement better relations and make the future more profitable and happy. Evening fine for recreation and laughter to lift your jagging spirits.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Important you please close ties today by doing all the work that is required and adding the artistic and inventive touches at which you are so adept. Confer with co-worker.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — It will be possible today to have a good time, but it is imperative you first complete any letters connected with interesting new outlets efficiently. Then full speed ahead — have fun!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Seek out that quite famous and wealthy friend today who will give you the advice you need so that you can take rapid strides ahead. Then impress others with your ability and acumen. Be generous.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle everyone with true wisdom today. Then be clever in finding just the very things you need to buy at a good price. Evening should be spent having a good time with long-time and compatible friends.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Spend a good part of this day conferring with experts in monetary and career matters so that you can achieve a far greater success. P.M. plan future activities and investments wisely. Take throat treatments.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Here is an ideal day to show appreciation to associates and good friends for past favors by entertaining them in some way, at dinner, etc. Give a charming little party and add to your circle of acquaintances, too.

If your child is born today... The lucky child that is born today can be most successful in life for his keen reason that there is a great ability to tackle new projects and whittle them down to practical size. Also, there is a flair for infinite detail. But you must learn to give early training in the spiritual realm. This is absolutely necessary in order to avoid any human tendency of atheism.

Many University Courses Under the Broad Heading of Adult Education in Canada

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In Prince Edward Island, trawler skippers went to school to sharpen their knowledge of navigation.

Jail officials and policemen may study criminology at the University of Montreal.

And at the University of Toronto there's a night school course in how to write for radio and television.

STILL LEARNING

A Cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press showed that more than half a million people are supplementing their education by studying subjects offered through universities, high schools and community programs.

Some 250,000 adults annually attend public lectures arranged by schools and nearly 750,000 take in educational films, dramatic and musical performances.

Not all are strictly educational, but the National Film Board productions seen by more than 6,000,000 persons each year they are informative.

Canadians, generally working fewer hours a week, have promoted a boom in adult education with a growing thirst for knowledge. For many it is simply a means of broadening cultural interests. Others, particularly those taking university extension courses, are looking to improve their job status. And for many, such as new Canadians learning to speak English, adult education is vital to economic security.

FEDERAL FUNDS

While education is constitutionally a provincial matter, the federal government has contributed to the cost of vocational programs involving some 300,000 Canadians and is directly involved in teaching Eskimos and Indians.

A number of national organizations, some acting independently of governments, contribute to the promotion of education of the adult population.

Hundreds of thousands of the 1,500,000 members of the 2,900 co-operative enterprises operating under the Co-operative Union of Canada are involved in educational programs, says Dr. A.S. Laidlaw, national secretary.

A large proportion of the 2,000,000 members of credit unions and caisses populaires are learning such things as thrift and money management through organized courses.

CLC COURSES

Some 23,000 members of the Canadian Labor Congress attended CLC schools last year and took courses in such subjects as welfare and social legislation, political science and international affairs. Thousands more took courses given by individual unions.

Since 1947 some 150,000 persons have enrolled in veterans affairs department correspondence courses given free to veterans, servicemen and prisoners of reform institutions.

Women's Institutes run an educational program involving women in all provinces.

Immigrants are not the only people learning such basic subjects as English. In these days of compulsory schooling and exceptional educational opportunity, says the Saskatchewan department of education, it is sometimes forgotten that there are citizens, natively intelligent, who as children lived in remote areas and who never had an opportunity to learn to read or figure.

SIGNED WITH X

It noted, for example, that in Prince Albert some 287 persons recently signed their name with an X on an application form.

To meet this sort of situation, the province sponsors a course called "fundamental education" designed for the needs of "functional illiterates" by teaching them basic skills in the three Rs.

British Columbia has perhaps the most ambitious provincial program. Some 250,000 grown-ups are enrolled in courses and community projects costing $100,000 a year.

"We are very adult education minded in this province and are expanding all the time," says J. H. Panton, director of B.C.'s community programs branch, organized in 1953 and with 278 communities now enrolled.

TEACHING LOAD

"We do have our problems with teacher load. In many cases the classes are being conducted by teachers who work a full classroom day as well and I think the time is coming when we will have to have separate slates of teachers to conduct these night classes. They could be retired teachers."

During February and March more than 400 unemployed attended special classes in Edmonton in subjects including basic English, blueprint-reading, drafting, welding, plumbing, typing, diesel engineering and practical mathematics. The cost was divided between federal and provincial governments.

The University of Alberta sponsored 255 classes, conferences and workshops for 7,680 adults last year in such subjects as astronomy, office management, church history, oilfield practice, air photo analysis, horticulture, interviewing methods and real estate.

Perhaps Canada's most beautiful adult education centre is the Banff School of Fine Arts, nestled in the Rockies 80 miles west of Calgary. Students from across Canada and from many other countries go there to study painting, writing, ceramics, drama, ballet, handicrafts. The centre is also the scene of the annual Alberta conference on adult education.

Saskatchewan established a special division of the education department for adult education in 1945 and spent about $225,000 last year on extension programs.

BETTER MEETINGS

Recently Saskatchewan launched a program called How to Conduct Better Meetings. Fifty one-day institutes staffed by specialists from the division have been held for 3,500 persons from 250 communities.

Prof. A.S.R. Tweedie, director of the University of Manitoba extension department, said that last year 179,081 Manitobans took advantage of facilities offered, including educational films, mobile libraries with 50,000 books and a variety of non-degree courses in such subjects as construction and traffic management. University lecturers and professors are sent from Winnipeg to teach courses out of town and some students form car pools to drive as much as 80 miles to lectures in Winnipeg.

One of Ontario's aims, says K. L. Young, director of community programs, is to assist in developing community leadership.

"Research in co-operation with the home and school association and with recreation committees to educate municipal workers in their jobs."

COURSES AT BRIDGE

The intimates there are about 120,000 adults enrolled in courses in Ontario that include contract bridge, dancing, music, drama, driver training, domestic skills and vocational instruction.

Although Quebec has no centralized body for adult education, it spent $663,000 on locally - run programs last year. School boards and universities offer a broad selection of courses for which 130,950 adults are enrolled and more than 500 night classes in rural communities are recognized by the government.

The criminology course at the University of Montreal is instructed by Prof. Denis Szabo, Belgian - trained, Hungarian-born expert. It deals with psychology, sociology and methods of handling criminals and deals with policemen, social workers and reform institution officials.

New Brunswick's adult education program now is largely in the hands of the universities although Stanley Spicer, director of vocational education, says the government may move deeper into the field.

TRAVELLING TEACHERS

Prof. R.J. Love, head of the University of New Brunswick's education department, says some 40 courses are offered in six communities, most of them handled by instructors who travel from Fredericton.

A group on citizens in Saint John recently organized Adventures in Learning — a series of six lectures on such subjects as modern literature, investment, political institutions, moral philosophy and modern education.

In Nova Scotia emphasis is on vocational classes, in which 8,000 of the 10,500 taking adult education courses are enrolled.

"We cannot understand why there is not more demand for our correspondence courses," says W.D. Mills, vocational education director. Many paid for American courses when they could get as good or better instruction from the province for a much smaller fee.

The province's cultural program, which offers some 200 classes, includes conferences for Negroes. First started 15 years ago with classes in reading, writing and arithmetic, they have progressed to more advanced subjects as the literacy rate rose.

Prince Edward Island is taking a survey to determine what its people want in the way of adult education. Its program, in operation two years, has 250 people enrolled.

The province has no Quebec problem. "They are notoriously underpaid so they are glad to do some extra work in the evenings," says S.M. McInnis, adult education director.

Newfoundland is largely concerned with a fundamental attack on illiteracy and plans to establish night schools through the province, at the same time increasing the availability of correspondence courses and making greater use of radio for education purposes.

A comprehensive and co-ordinated province - wide policy now is being planned, says Gerald E. Ottenheimer, director of adult continuation classes, whose department employs 26 part-time and 12 full-time teachers.

ASKS NUCLEAR BAN

LLANDUDNO, Wales (AP) — The Co-Operative Party, an affiliate of the opposition Labor movement, came out Sunday for unilateral denunciation by Britain of nuclear weapons. The policy was laid down by resolution at a Co-operative conference. The Co-operative Party has members in Parliament under a joint Labor-Co-Operative label.

EDUCATION IN ARTS — Thousands of courses each year are offered in adult education projects across Canada. One of the most inspiring centres is the Banff School of Fine Arts in the Rocky Mountains of southwest Alberta. A group of adult students is shown walking from sleeping quarters of the school to the classroom building. Courses include painting, drama, ceramics, classic literature, writing. The Banff school is also the site of the annual Alberta conference on adult education. (CP Photo)

Canadian, French Leaders Achieve Meeting Of Minds

No Agreement on Policy But Know Other's Aims

OTTAWA (CP)—A meeting of minds, if not agreement on common policy, has been achieved by Prefich President Charles de Gaulle and Prime Minister Diefenbaker, diplomatic sources said today.

The French and Canadian policy-makers now know, as a result of their private talks during Gen. de Gaulle's 36 - hour visit to Ottawa, what each other is striving to achieve.

The ultimate goal is common to both: Disarmament and lasting world peace.

But the two leaders differ on details of how the objective is to be reached. These differences are natural, stemming from the divergent individual histories and the histories of the two countries.

WANTS END ARMS RACE

Against these backgrounds, Canada wants an end to the arms race as quickly as possible. France will continue testing atomic bombs until there is a complete ban on them, as well as disarmament, too—ultimately.

A Canadian official closely connected with the de Gaulle visit said the private talks and cabinet meetings Tuesday will run according to expectations.

Common policy for France and Canada was, of course, not sought and could not be achieved. But as a result of the visit, Canada and France each have a better understanding of the other's course for the future.

Gen. de Gaulle is reported to have described principally his recent state visit to London, and Russian Premier Khrushchev's visit to France. He also brought the Canadian government up-to-date on the French government's assessment of its progress towards self-determination in Algeria.

For Canada, Mr. Diefenbaker and External Affairs Minister Green are reported to have told the president of the French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville that the Western powers generally expect the Western -Big Three— British, French and United States—to have all their interests in mind at next month's summit meeting. Particularly, it is felt Ottawa is to be fully consulted on all NATO interests, both military and economically.

Gen. de Gaulle is understood to have agreed that full consultation is a prerequisite to solidarity among the free peoples.

Mr. Diefenbaker had this sentence to the French president at the luncheon: "We will be following with intense interest each stage of the summit and, on occasion requiree, we will not fail to express our views in full candor so that you and your Western colleagues at the summit will be in no way handicapped as to stand." But he did not deliver the part after "intense interest."

An official of his office said later that the speech was cut because the luncheon was 20 minutes overtime, but that the text of his speech had in advance to the press represented the Canadian view.

OTTAWA (CP)—French President Charles de Gaulle let it be known Tuesday he does not expect any agreement on Germany to result from next month's summit conference between the Western Big Three and Russia.

His appraisal, reported, however, that progress can be made towards nuclear disarmament. As a first step he proposed the elimination of atomic carriers, "over which eventual control is still practicable."

President de Gaulle, here on a state visit, outlined his views at a luncheon given in his honor by the Canadian government, and in a subsequent press conference. He arrived in Ottawa Monday and left here today for Quebec City.

Tuesday night, topping off a crowded day, the 69 - year - old hero of war and Mme. de Gaulle entertained at a dinner and reception at the French Embassy. Guests included Governor - General and Mme. Vanier, and Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker.

SECOND OCCASION

It was the second such affair for Gen. de Gaulle and his wife here. He was guest of honor hours after their arrival here by air, they were guests of the Governor - General, Government House, where the de Gaulles slept during their visit.

Much of the president's time Tuesday was taken up in conference with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and members of the Canadian cabinet. He is expected as host with the cabinet as a whole, in, and Foreign Ministe Maurice Couve de Murville twice conferred privately with Mr. Diefenbaker and External Affairs Minister Green.

In his luncheon address Gen. de Gaulle said that "What must be avoided now is fruitless discussion of insoluble problems such as, for instance, might arise in connection with the reunion of people."

Underlying at the press conference immediately afterward was a feeling that there may be a detente we must recognize that there are certain issues which cannot be decided at present."

This was not to say he would not favor a Western summit conference, "but we recognize that there can be no agreement under present circumstances."

Gen. de Gaulle spoke entirely in English. He also spoke in French at the press conference, which remarks being translated by an interpreter.

He was introduced to the luncheon by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, who spoke in French as follows:

Mr. Diefenbaker, noting that Gen. de Gaulle was acquainted with the elements of Canadian thinking on the great issues of peace, said:

"None of them is greater than that for the human race with its financial burden on national economies and all its grave dangers to peace."

Says Mortgages Will Be Cheaper

TORONTO (CP)—First mortgages on houses will probably be cheaper in two months than they now are, A. M. Greenaway president of the newly-formed Ontario Mortgage Brokers Association, said Tuesday.

He said the interest rate on conventional, best-list first mortgages will probably drop to seven or 6¾ per cent by June 15. Current rates are 7¼ or 7¾ per cent.

Rent-Free 'Grace and Favor' Residence for the Newly-Weds

LONDON (CP)—Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones will move into a rent-free "grace and favor" residence at Kensington Palace shortly after a mid-June.

This indicates a short honeymoon.

A spokesman at Princess Margaret's home said the couple would move into their home after their honeymoon.

He said they probably would be back in London by mid-June as Margaret is due to begin treatment after her wedding May 5 but will be on June 24 when she will open a concert.

A statement from Buckingham Palace said:

"The Queen has offered to the Princess Margaret and Mr. Antony Armstrong-Jones a grace and favor residence at Kensington Palace which they have been very pleased to accept."

Kensington Palace, in the west end of London, was the birthplace of Queen Victoria. In recent years it has been divided into separate apartments and houses for relatives of the Royal Family and others to whom it is given long service to the royal household.

The 25-year-old princess and her commoner husband, 30, will be able to refashion them upon their return to Britain from their honeymoon in the royal yacht Britannia.

A "grace and favor" residence is awarded by a king or queen rent-free to members of the Royal Family or royal household or people who have given distinctive service to the nation.

The house is an unpretentious 18th century building put up by King George III as part of an extension to the palace, adjoining Kensington Gardens, a public park.

NEW TEACHING MACHINE SHOWN AT CONVENTION

Educational Theories Topic of Discussion

TORONTO (CP) — Business on the second day of the Ontario Education Association convention Tuesday ranged from discussion of educational theories to a practical demonstration of a teaching machine.

American educationist Oliver T. Caldwell made a plea for teaching programs to include a comprehensive study of other cultures as a contribution to world peace.

Mr. Caldwell, assistant United States Commissioner for International Education, Washington, D.C., said if children understand the motivating faith of other peoples they may be kinder and more tolerant than old-er generations.

Although about a third of the human race lives in the Far East," he said, "our curriculum seems to pretend that these men and women do not exist."

VIEWS ON TV

The subject of television for children produced divergent views from two Canadian educationists.

Teachers were warned by R. B. Irwin, director of news for the CBC's school broadcasts department, against the danger of television becoming the master of the schoolroom.

Miss Rose, of Toronto Teachers' College claimed, however, that the evils of television for children are largely exaggerated or untrue and urged teachers to beware of one-sided notions on the subject.

Mr. Cice told a meeting of kindergarten teachers television does not encourage delinquency and does not impair children's reading habits. Rather, it en-

Unemployment in Mid-March Within 21,000 of 1958 Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment in Canada increased to 568,000 in mid-March, a rise of 11,000 from a month earlier, the government estimated today. This put unemployment within 21,000 of the post-war peak of 587,000 in March, 1958.

The rolls of jobless in mid-March, normally the peak month for unemployment, were 41,000 above a year earlier, the government's monthly job survey reported.

The number of persons with jobs showed little change between the survey dates of Feb. 20 and March 19, rising by 5,000 to 5,858,-000. But this was 118,000 higher than the 5,532,000 in mid-March, 1959.

The estimates were made by the bureau of statistics, based on a survey of 30,000 households.

At the same time the government announced that 1,000,000 persons were registered for Jobs at National Employment Service offices on March 17. This compared with 830,494 a month earlier and 1,-015,000 a year earlier.

The NES registrations figure is not considered an accurate guage of unemployment since it includes an unknown number of persons seeking to change jobs and persons who have found work by their own efforts or through other organizations.

The estimated unemployment constituted 9.1 per cent of the country's labor force of 6,234,000. This compared with the March, 1958, figure of 8.8 per cent, when the labor force stood at 6,077,000. The post-war record unemployment in March, 1956, was 10 per cent of the labor force at that time.

A government statement accompanying the statistics indicated the unemployment this year was of shorter duration than last year. Of the 568,000 persons without jobs and seeking work, 39 per cent had been seeking work for three months or less compared with 25 per cent a year ago. Nine per cent had been seeking work for more than six months compared with 13 per cent last year.

The number of persons classified porary layoff at mid-March was an estimated 49,000, about 13,000 more than last year. Some 80,000 workers were on short time, 14,-000 more than last year.

Referring to the 5,000 gain in employment from February to March, 1959, About three-quarters of the increase was in Ontario.

Employment in agriculture was 30,000 below last year at an estimated 380,000. Non-farm employment rose by 146,000 to 5,079,000.

Canadian Labor Congress Forced to Seek More Revenue

OTTAWA (CP)—The costs of Canadian organized labor are going up.

Next week the Canadian Labor Congress, which claims 1,150,000 members, will seek increased revenues from its affiliates to keep its expanded operations in the black.

The deficit of $70,000 — deficit for the 1960 calendar year otherwise, its surplus in 1959 was a skimpy $1,216.

The CLC biennial convention in Montreal Monday to Monday will be asked to approve an increase in the per capita dues paid by affiliates. Increases in the 1960 budget are spread through all departments except the organizing and rising costs over which the CLC has no control.

The dues question is one of four main subjects expected to gain most attention at the CLC convention. The others are support in principle for a new left-wing party and the status of the Seafarers' International Union of North America—expelled 1957 during expulsion for raiding and the other found guilty on two raiding charges.

Granted an increase in dues the CLC will have to consider a sound working margin for the next year or two at least.

It proposes a $1,500,000 budget this year, $89,000 more than a year ago. Anticipated revenues at existing rates at $1,220,000.

Organization is the main expense at $450,500 while head office operations take $225,000. Political education and public relations will get more money.

Internationally - chartered unions provide most of the CLC finances and this amounted last year to $671,000 in monthly payments based on per capita membership. The CLC proposes that this fee be increased to 10 cents a head from seven cents.

Locally-chartered unions, a declining force as the CLC encourages these unions to tie up with bigger units, kicked in $281,000 last year.

National unions—bigger ones purely Canadian in setup—provided $112,000 last year in per capita dues.

Uranium Miners At Bancroft Get Wage Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — Settlements have been reached in labor disputes involving 600 employees at uranium mines at Bancroft and Elliot Lake area of Ontario, the labor department announced Tuesday.

About 500 members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) employed by Rio Algom Mines Limited at Bancroft have won a seven-cent hourly wage increase in a new contract effective from last April 1 and extending to Sept. 30, 1962.

At Faraday, a savings plan will be instituted in preparation for a pension plan to be established due to a drying up of American markets for Canadian uranium. Employees will put $4 monthly into the fund and the company will match their contributions.

Should the mine shut down, any employee laid off within six months of the closing date will get back what he has put in, the company contribution to his fund.

SHOTS FIRED WITHOUT ORDER WHEN 67 KILLED

Police Officer Heard By Judicial Inquiry

VEERENIGING, South Africa (Reuters) — Police opened fire without being ordered to do so outside Sharpeville police station March 21 when 67 Africans were killed, a police officer told a judicial inquiry today.

Captain H. G. Theron said he went to Sharpeville with 16 white and nine African policemen. The white policemen had machine-guns, rifles and revolvers. The Africans had clubs.

When he arrived at Sharpeville police station there were about 10,000 to 15,000 Africans there and the crowd was steadily increasing.

"Everything then went very quickly," Theron said. "Stones were thrown at the police and one policeman grabbed at his face as if an object had struck him. Without being ordered, one of our men fired a shot and other shots followed."

Police Arrest Gormley Man In Traffic Death

HOLLAND LANDING (CP) Police arrested a man Tuesday at nearby Gormley in connection with the traffic death Saturday of a 19-month-old Holland Landing child.

Calvin Preston, 35, was charged by township police with failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

The child, Chesley Bellar, was killed while pushing a stroller along the highway in front of his home in this community 30 miles north of Toronto. The stroller was found a number of a mile from the accident scene.

Police said they are looking for two persons believed to have been passengers in the car involved in the accident.

United Arab Republic Says Israeli Plot to Poison Nasser Uncovered

CAIRO (Reuters)—The United Arab Republic announced today that six Israeli spy rings had been uncovered and 10 spies arrested—five Europeans and five Egyptians.

The U.A.R. information department confirmed a newspaper story that an Israeli agent had plotted to poison President Nasser's.

The information ministry said the spy rings had been operating for the last three years in the U.A.R. and in Rome, Geneva, Munich, Zurich and Amsterdam. Those arrested included two Italians, two Greeks and one Dutchman.

Radio sets had been seized by the U.A.R. general intelligence agency, which arrested the men. The newspaper story was written by Mohammed Heikal, editor of Al Ahram and a friend of Nasser's.

Heikal said the plot was discovered in the last moments.

He said Israel had made contact with an employee of a Cairo hotel, Mohamed Hassan, in charge of organizing banquets, and persuaded him to use of their "work of agents."

The agent was to pour some drops of poison into President's glass "whose effect would appear after a few days with total calmity, and thus everything would not be finished."

When the plot was discovered the agent confessed and handed over the poison bottle. Interrogation which he used to write to Israel and a letter sent radio messages in the agent's name to Israel and received replies, Heikal said.

The story did not specify the date of the poison attempt but observers believe the alleged plot must have been discovered shortly before Nasser's visit to India. They recalled that special food was taken aboard his plane.

President Rhee Promises Redress Of Grievances

Death Toll in Seoul Riots Now Totals 92

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — President Syngman Rhee today pledged South Korea's people redress for their "other grievances" as soon as order is restored to their riot-torn country. Three martial law is ended, said the 85-year-old president in a statement, "the government will devote maximum energy to the investigation of the recent disturbances. Those who are guilty can be assured of punishment. Those with major grievances can be certain of redress".

It was Rhee's first statement on the nine days of anti-government demonstrations that culminated in riots in Seoul Tuesday in which at least 92 persons were killed. That was the official death toll announced by the government today, and at least 1,000 of the hundreds of injured were in critical condition.

CAPITAL QUIET

With martial law proclaimed Tuesday in Seoul and four other cities, much of the capital was quiet. Most shops closed early, quietly to work. Schools were closed, bus service was still disrupted by the destruction of 200 streetcars in outlying districts of the capital, but many themselves and discussing the riots.

Army troops on guard at major government buildings, police kept up operations against remaining bands of demonstrators roaming the outskirts of Seoul. A curfew was in effect Tuesday through the night, and shortly after dawn police shot and killed three members of an armed group defying the curfew.

April - government demonstrations were reported in Taegu, Kwangju, Suwon, Inchon, and Inchon, but no casualties were reported. Both Taegu and Kwangju are under martial law.

The demonstrators are demanding the resignation of Rhee and his vice-president Lee Kibung. Rhee won a fourth term and his running mate, Lee Kiang-goo, defeated Vice - President John M. Chang, both in questionable votes. The demonstrators charge that Rhee's liberal party rigged the elections and also accuse the police of brutality against election day demonstrators.

HEXTER'S CHARGE

The demonstrations drew support in a speech Tuesday from United States State Secretary Christian A. Herter, who charged that Rhee's government had adopted "repressive measures unsuited to a free democracy." Many Koreans interpreted the statement as a slap at the elections.

Rhee's statement appeared a move toward meeting the complaints, but its full meaning remained in doubt. Reaction to the statement was read to reporters by Rhee's secretary. Rhee himself did not appear.

The riots have thrown the South Korean people to "display their patriotism and follow the instruction of responsible authorities."

Rhee's cabinet met throughout the day, discussing the situation and Herter's censure. Tanks and armed combat troops guarded the cabinet building and other major public buildings in Seoul.

Negro Townships Raided and 500 Rounded Up

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—South African police backed by armored cars today raided Negro townships between Klipsloot and East London, rounding up 500 persons.

Armored police and armored cars moved in at dawn on the Duncan village settlement outside the Indian Ocean coastal port of East London, arrested 340.

More police and troops helped in the raids on Mdantsane and two townships at Fort Jilkshoft and detained 160 Tuesday. A police official said they were after, "undesirables."

It was the second big raid on Duncan Village in three days and brought the number of arrests there since Monday to 152.

In a 11-hour trial Tuesday, an East London court sentenced 271 of those arrested Monday to imprisonment of varying lengths.

Police said the raids are to clean out Negroes who have burned their passbooks in defiance of government regulations. Passbooks permit Africans to enter regulations, "loafers" and criminals who are not employed in East London.

The raids have considered a government move to prevent this week - long work stoppage by 10,000 South African Africanist Congress tried to launch this week. Leaders say strikers went to work under the watchful eyes of police Tuesday, and the boycott fizzled.

Failure of the work stoppage heightened calm in Cape Province.

Nun Refuses To Let Crosby Sing in Choir

AIKEN, S.C. (AP)—A well-dressed, middle-aged man appeared in the choir loft of St. John's Roman Catholic Church and asked the nun directing the children's choir if he might join in singing the offertory hymn.

"I'm very sorry," she said politely but firmly, "only choir members are permitted in the loft. Here, you may go down-stairs."

After mass the rejected vocalist, who has been visiting the area, joined the pastor, whom he had met previously. They chuckled over the strictness of the choir director.

"Someday I'd like to audition you, sister," a smiling Bing Crosby said as he left the church.

Planting Season Said Latest In 25 Years

Despite what is claimed to be the latest planting season in more than 35 years, indications are for a good crop this year with fall wheat and meadows apparently having wintered in good shape.

David Hollinger, R.R. 4 Stirling, who farms in the Oak Hills south of the village, stated today that this has been the latest planting since 1924 when he sowed his first field on April 8th. This year he has just now completed sowing his first field of spring wheat and is cultivating other fields for spring sowing.

His early sowing is not always necessary to get a good crop, according to Mr. Hollinger. Back in 1934 when there was also a late start in spring work, there was a bumper crop. This year with the amount of moisture in the ground, wheat and meadows are showing up green and even, and indications are there will be a good crop.

CHILLY — Temperatures below normal are predicted for most of Canada in the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau for the mid-April to mid-May period.

Map shows detail the predictions, and also the expected precipitation across the country.

These maps are based on predictions of the weather office which says its monthly outlook is not specific forecast and that a change in weather pattern may produce major errors. (CP Newsmap.)

Two Station Wagons Stolen Off City Streets

Station wagons must be in demand by the car thieving gentry. At least two such vehicles have been stolen in Belleville in the past few days and both are still on the missing list.

The police reported that some time this morning a 1955 station wagon was taken from the driveway at the home of Douglas Bowen, 252 Herchimer Ave.

Late last week a 1956 model vehicle owned by Harry Morrison was taken from where it was parked at the corner of Pinnacle and Campbell Streets. Neither vehicle has been recovered.

Council Likely To Set Tax Rate Next Meeting

Belleville taxpayers will learn the 1960 mill rate early next week.

That is the expectation of Finance committee chairman Ald. Herman William Jarvah, who said it was the intention to present the estimates to council on that day for approval.

"We are definitely got to clean up the budget this week and the intention is to present it to council next week," Ald. Jarvah said.

What is expected to be final budget preparations were expected to get underway at city hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon when a special budget caucus meeting is being called. If the budget cannot be finalized today then final details will be worked out at another caucus meeting tomorrow.

Last year the mill rate was 1960 mill rate is anyone's guess but with the education tax up and certain other commitments made by council, the feeling is that it will be over last year.

And in addition there will be the special levy to pay off the city's flooding debenture. The payers are expected, however, to have the privilege of spreading payments of the special levy over five years if they so wish.

DECIDE LATER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate foreign relations committee agreed Tuesday to decide next Tuesday whether to have hearing on a bill to authorize diversion of more water from Lake Michigan. The bill already passed by the House of Representatives. It would authorize the diversion next year for further consideration of Canadian objections.

Vessels Already Using Bay But Buoys Not Out

Although navigation on the Bay of Quinte is not officially open until the busy leader "Grenville" makes its spring trip setting out markers, boats are already plying the waters.

Late last week the CSL laker Rosemore, out of Montreal, loaded 2,800 tons of cement, while yesterday, the first boat of the season passed through the swing bridge at Rossmore.

The boat was the Canadian Steel Carrier, owned by the McNamara Construction which passed eastward down the bay without stopping at Belleville.

This morning another barge pulled by a tug passed west up the bay and through the Murray Canal.

Bridge attendants at Rossmore said that the busy tender Grenville was expected in the Belleville area for this week-end. Navigation is not considered officially opened until the buoys have been set out marking the channels.

Mac Smith, harbormaster at Belleville, said this morning the small boat of the tender was not expected to dock at Belleville until April 29th, although there was a possibility an other may come in prior to that date.

Giant Safety Rally Will Be Held in Trenton

The town of Trenton has been selected by the executive committee of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations as the most appropriate town in Eastern Ontario to hold a Giant Safety Rally. Speaking recently at the meeting of the Executive, chairman of the Quinte district, which comprises more than 1,000 members throughout the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland and all the cities and towns within them, stated "The town of Trenton has the logistic figures for such a rally because of the excellent record for safety shown by the Trenton industries. During 1959, although one accident recorded was fatal, they still established leadership for the best record in all Canada. Having already set a very worthy example in the many towns in other towns, it is the belief of the Rally Committee that the 1960 objective of the reduction of accidents should start in Trenton.

Several committee meetings have already been held in the city for the first rally, which will be free and open to the people who are employed by industries.

It will be held in the high school auditorium and the program will include top-ranking professional artists of radio and TV appearing in person and contributing their talent to this worthy endeavor, which will be held Thursday, April 28. More than 100 of the member industries are contributing to the function in various ways. Some prizes have been donated, that will be distributed to the lucky ticket holders and about 1,000 free admission tickets will be distributed. These are all numbered and will be drawn from a barrel drum, and each winner given a valuable prize.

General chairman for the Trenton rally is Arthur Duncan, public relations officer for the Bata Shoe Company of Canada Limited, and working with him are such people as Mr. E. Blow, divisional secretary; Mr. Fred Ethier, district chairman; past district chairman Mr. Sam Collerjohn of Central Bridge Company, and Mr. Mike Cooper of Northern Electric Company.

The last rally of this type was held at Quinte Secondary School in Belleville and was attended by more than 1,000 people. Similar interest is anticipated for Trenton.

B.C. Officials Refuse Licence To Mom Whyte

SUMMERLAND, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte has blamed provincial health authorities in Canada for the refusal of the British Columbia government officials to grant her a licence to operate a home for old people.

Mrs. Whyte, whose home for children in Ontario was closed by provincial authorities there, said Tuesday she was baffled by the decision.

"We were assured before we moved to this place that if we brought the home up to certain standards a licence would be granted," the 70-year-old matriarch himself gave us this promise. We have been approved by the local authorities, the fire marshal, and the chief inspector of homes in Vancouver, and we visited him and everything would be fine.

"It is a result of their promises we went ahead and spent $1,000 on renovations and took in old people who had come on Mountain View Home.

"I don't know where we stand now. We just have to stay here for three years. We have to lease and we'll just have to stay on."

In accepting office, "Ted" Courneya asked for the cooperation of all members of the Chamber in making 1960 a most successful year. "We cannot undertake any project unless we have the support of everyone," he urged.

Anderson and Jim Halpenny; membership, Dick Sloan and Jim Lesage; retail merchants, Cartha Cassidy, D. A. Rupert; dinner ticket sale, Ray Woolgar Frey and J. A. Thompson.

Rejection of Anti-Communism By Castro Giving Opponents Rallying Point Against Leader

By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's rejection of anti-communism as a stand appears to be further driving many of his opponents into the arms of communism.

In the midst of a controversy raging over the issue, the powerful Cuban premier headed for the television studio and published a signed column and foreign-affairs counter-revolutionary.

It is, he said, a tactic to divide and confuse the people, a weapon which all enemies of its revolution employ.

Castro's chief press spokesman, the newspaper Revolucion, has labelled anti - communism "the weapon of internal treason, of the fifth column and foreign aggression."

CUBANS MUST CHOOSE

Castro says Cubans must choose between the revolution and anti-communism. It has undoubtedly cost the Castro supporters.

Opposition forces still lack organization and popular leaders, but in anti-communism they have a definite issue around which to unite. It could rally popular support in this predominantly Roman Catholic country, even though the church hierarchy has not publicly come out with the dispute.

Castro made it clear early last year that neutralism would not become a target of his regime. Neutralism, he said, "humanism" was not opposed to any political ideology, he said.

Again he has had become much more inflamed since then, with a rising string of defectors underlining the Communist issue and evoking governmental rage against anti-communism.

The national uproar touched off when a well-known radio-television commentator, Luis Conte Aguero, lashed out at the Communists last month again spotlighted the anti-Communist issue. Aguero's denunciation over the radio outlets immediately began to polarize Cuba politics. He called the Communists a traitorous "divisionist" who was attempting to confuse the Cuban people. The campaign of denunciation was capped by a fourpage letter by Castro himself against his former close friend.

FLED TO U.S.

Aguero's actions took refuge in the Argentine Embassy, then fled into exile in the United States.

The Conte Aguero affair coincide of the most violently debated issues in Cuba, the question involving the issue rather than the fact that Conte Aguero was not a prominent political figure.

Three crises rocked the government last year, and confusion still played a central role in each.

Foreign Minister Manuel Urrutia blasted the Communists in a speech last summer and was fired. He and a Communist remarks were deleted from a published version of the speech after the original text was delivered.

Earlier the air force chief, Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz, had charged his post, fled to the U.S. and declared Communist in his report as Communists.

Last October Maj. Hubert Matos resigned as commander of Camaguey province, also charging Communist infiltration. He was court-martialled and sentenced to 20 years for sedition.

Cuban naval attaches in Mexico and Washington defected, claiming that the Communists were grabbing the revolution.

Determined Effort Must Be Made to Solve Problems Facing World Members Told

If Canadians are to survive in this complex world they must clear their thinking and make a determined effort to try to solve the problems which are "formenting a dangerous atmosphere" in the world today, Mrs. Dew said.

This is the advice given close to 100 members of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club at their final meeting of the season last night by Mrs. Dorothy Dew, Associate Editor of Chatelaine Magazine.

The meeting was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, on Front Street, and was under the chairmanship of president Bill Holway.

Mrs. Dew, who is co-ordinator of Chatelaine's four services departments — Fashion, Beauty, Home Planning, and Institutes — has travelled extensively in her domestic duties with husband Frederick and during one of her sadience to take some action toward solving the problems facing Canadians, including import trade, and economic unrest, without waiting for leadership from Ottawa.

"We need a willingness to want to solve them," she said stressing that it is the duty of every Canadian to "delve into these problems" instead of merely "reading about them."

The speaker, a columnist for "Marketing," said answers to problems must be considered particularly those affecting the country's economy. Answers are sought from M.P.s from local ridings.

Outlining changes in everyday living which she believes will bring about increased use of electronic age, and the problems which will arise, Mrs. Dew suggested "an over-haul" of the financial system which she feels is inadequate to meet the demands of this fast-paced age.

PREDICTS CHANGES

Among the changes which she predicts will be commonplace in the not distant future will be the printing of newspapers and magazines in homes, similar to cylinders of microfilm or tape which can then be shown on a screen, the greater automation and use of integrated foods, and the usurping of the role of teacher in the school curriculum by television.

To meet the demands of the fast-paced electronic and missile age, people must "clear their thoughts" and "think for tomorrow," she said.

A former speech teacher for 13 years in Ottawa and Toronto, Mrs. Dew noted Canadian speech is marked with cliches such as "the rat race," and "keeping up with the Joneses."

"We must eliminate these phrases and overcome this negative type of thinking," she stated.

Eleven Qualify For Certificates In Divers' Course

Eleven local SCUBA enthusiasts qualified for their divers' certificates following the ten-week course held at the local YMCA which concluded with a written and practical test last weekend. George Woodhouse, president of the Sportsmen Underwater diving club, led the class followed by Dr. Stephen Murphy and Dennis Kent. Others successfully completing the course were Ken Easton, Norm Lightfoot, Rod Follwell, John Vernb, Larry Gerow, John Gallow, Gerry Ackerman and Brian Dierk.

The course, a new series on lectures and practical training in the art of diving and skin diving will commence. The age minimum or skin divers in nine years and the course lasts for divers 17 years. Those who have failed to attend either of the two courses offered are advised to attend this Saturday night's meeting, which commences at 7:00 o'clock.

The skin diving course lasts five weeks. Lectures and films will be held each Tuesday in the pool. The proper methods of swimming with diving equipment on and the safe way to dive will be covered.

Those who fail (self-contained underwater breathing apparatus) course will run for two weeks. Underwater diving safety, how to wear equipment and how to treat it will be taught by demonstration, slides and lectures.

Instructors for the course will be John McDowell, Peter Gardner, Ron Cronkrite and Ron Chapman.

Council Agrees To Give Gas Co. Land Use

TRENTON — Town councillors agreed at Monday night's council meeting to allow the Lakeland Gas Company an easement through property directly north of the Sidney St. subway.

The company agreed to permit the public works department and Canada Public Utilities Commission to lay sewer and water pipes in the same trench with the gas pipes, thus saving considerable expense. However, the PUC will have to secure approval from the Ontario Water Resources Commission before taking advantage of the offer. The gas company will either reade or patching job —in fact anything but building—to be placed over the gas pipes.

At last Thursday's committee-of-the-whole meeting, Councillor R. J. Whitley said that he thought the gas company should pay the town for the land, but town engineer Walter Murray said Monday night that since the company would save the town money by letting the water and sewer pipes lie in the same trench as the gas pipes he felt the town should not be compensated.

Councillor C. V. Graham, reporting for the traffic committee, recommended that the traffic by-law be brought up to date. The necessity for this move, he said, was brought about by the difficulty encountered during the winter with persons who ignored council's order to clear the streets of cars on certain hours of heavy snow removal.

Councillor Graham also recommended that earth taken out during the building of the new Bridge St. bridge, and the crossing be used to build up a temporary road to detour traffic from the subway. The town engineer said that this purpose was suitable for this purpose and also that two temporary engineers would be required. He also thought the project would be too costly.

LONG DISCUSSION

There was prolonged discussion concerning the offer of an all-day parking lot in front of the parking meters in the Front St. area, but with dual meters. The firm had offered to pay $13 each for the old meters, pay up the balance of debt on the old meters and allow the town to repay that debt on the new dual meters with one-half of the proceeds from new meters.

Mayor Hollingsworth said the old meters were worse than useless because they broke down when pennies were used in them.

Councillor Whitley suggested that the A. & P. store be approached on the possibility of building a tunnel from the property to the north side of the street, where the new store will be built, to the parking lot, in lieu of having the lot taken over by the company for the customers' convenience.

Councillor Graham recommended that all town meters, other than meters on Front St., be replaced. Councillor H. G. Aziz said he had a bill for $134 for two months' repairs to the present meters. He believed the town was losing money by keeping the older meters.

The town engineer was asked to look into the merits of a one-hour parking limit meter to be used on unpaved town streets, with special reference to Dundas St.

The various committees reported they had reached decisions on items which they had been asked to consider at last Thursday's committee-of-the-whole meeting, with the exception of the Lakeland Gas easement.

Present at the meeting were: the mayor, councillor D. J. Whitley, D. R. Fraser, H. G. Aziz, Vayo Turner and C. V. Graham, Walter Murray and R. Campbell, town solicitor.

Applause for de Gaulle Finds Little Echo in His Homeland

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The warm applause and admiration that are certain to greet Company General de Gaulle during his Canadian tour find little echo in France.

It is another tribute to the general's enormous personal stature that has felt able to leave a political void behind him during his extended visit to North America and the West Indies.

The dispatches are piling up at home. Right-wing politicians are becoming increasingly restive at the limitation of their parliamentary powers under de Gaulle's constitution, and there are stirrings on the left as the Socialist Party groups for a new coherence.

ALGERIA DOMINATES

The Algerian problem, as usual, dominates everything. Some accounts suggest the beginnings of a military revolt in the Algerian army, exasperated at its impotence, and all those who oppose de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for the Algerians.

In such circumstances partisans of "French Algeria" would use the discontented right to block any liberal solution to Algeria — eventually, perhaps, to try to dislodge de Gaulle himself from power.

Criticism of de Gaulle is becoming somewhat less restrained and the political lobbies are quietly canvassing the possible leadership possibilities of former Premier minister Antoine Pinay and Jacques Soustelle, ex-minister for the Sahara, who have in common a burning ambition to get into office.

On the left, the Algerian question arouses entirely different reactions. Last Sunday morning, the organization representing high school and university students declared that the war in Algeria territory has jeopardized France's economic future, divided its youth, caused thousands of deaths and rendered the cultural disappearance of many civil liberties.

The left-wing Paris newspaper L'Express, commenting on the declaration, warns the issue may be near when groups of young men will refuse to serve in the French forces in Algeria or in Germany.

Domestic discontents are widespread. They include the complaints of small farmers who find that agriculture cannot keep pace with industry; of miners in a French coalfield who speak coolly of civil servants and employees of nationalized industries, whose salaries are often lower than those in private industry.

Pilot, Woman Passenger Safe, Missing 3 Days

TIMMINS (CP)—A both pilot and his woman passenger, after being missing more than three days on a flight in the James Bay area, arrived here safely by car late Tuesday night.

Larry Sawicki, 32, of North Bay, and Mrs. Alice Scott, 40, of Fort George, Que., were reported in good condition.

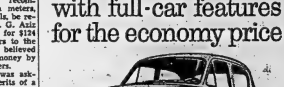
While six RCAF aircraft and several civilian planes droned overhead searching for them Tuesday they stumbled into Abitibi Power and Paper Company camp on Lake Abitibi, 100 miles north of here on the Ontario-Quebec border.

Pilot Sawicki said he landed on the lake, about 72 miles off his course between Rupert's House, Que., and nearby South Porcupine, Ont., on a stretch of ice. He said the single-engine Norseman was undamaged and he could fly it out. He has been taken to a hospital.

SINCE SATURDAY

The two took off from Rupert's House on Sunday morning. Mrs. Scott, mother of two and wife of the Hudson's Bay Company manager at Fort George on the Quebec shore of James Bay, 240 miles northwest of here was on her way out of the north country for the summer.

Searching aircraft had covered more than 30,000 square miles of the rugged bushland during the Monday search. An RCAF Lancaster spent most of Monday with 20 miles of the downed plane.



The area is the same in which Dr. Henry Kissinger and Dr. Ivan Ilko, defenceman for the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, died in 1958. No trace of the plane or occupants was found and the two most extensive air search in Canadian history.

Dangerous Situation in Korea

Korea is in the news again and the whole world, remembering the days when men of many nations fought to check the tide of world Communism in their unhappy and divided land, will hold its breath easily until the present disturbances are ended.

One thing appears clear—the Communists have played no important role in the present discontent. That, however, does nothing to remove the danger that, if things appeared to favor them, the Reds might attempt to interfere, touching off a new struggle.

President Syngman Rhee must bear much of the blame for what is now happening in South Korea. The indomitable old man was a tower of strength to his country during its most trying days, a thorn in the flesh of negotiators when peace was sought and now perhaps has become an obstacle to the firm establishment of true democracy in his homeland.

Though he may give lip service to democracy, it is evident that Rhee believes that he and his followers enjoy something akin to divine right to rule the country and that he has abandoned the principles he proclaimed in his determination to prevent the opposing Democrats from superseding his Liberals as the ruling party.

If there is any nation which cannot afford internecine strife of this nature, surely it must be South Korea, perched on the edge of the Communist world and with only a few brief years of self-rule behind it after being liberated from the grip of Japanese imperialism.

It is interesting to note that students appear to be taking a leading part in the anti-government demonstrations. It would be erroneous, though, to regard their opposition to Rhee as merely youth and political inexperience. Rather it suggests that amongst those opposed to Rhee's methods are many of the best informed people in the land.

It is to be hoped that Rhee follows the advice of the U.S. ambassador, Mr. John P. McConaughy, and instead of merely attempting to suppress the unrest does something concrete to remove the causes and remedy the grievances which have given it birth.

A Foolish Statement

There is no organization in this province for which we have greater respect than the Ontario Education Association, now holding its annual Easter convention in Ontario.

It is therefore with regret that we read a report that one president, Mrs. Jessa Watson of Innerkip, had said that low pay and long hours are responsible for the poor health of many school inspectors.

Mrs. Watson may be right when she says that the number of inspectors has not kept pace with the growth in student population, and that the many hours entailed in addition to those which has adversely affected the health of some inspectors.

But when Mrs. Watson mentions low pay as a factor she does not make sense. Perhaps some inspectors are being paid less than they should be, having regard for the salaries paid teachers, but we doubt very much that any inspector is in poor health because the maximum salary he can expect, $10,000 a year, is "at least $2,000 less than most senior principals in Metropolitan Toronto." If any salary less than the $12,000 maximum for Toronto senior principals was a threat to health, the majority of teachers would be in danger and many of the rest of us would be on our death-beds.

A Pity—If True

Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, former chief of the Canadian Army general staff, says that "well-trained military forces of high morale will never be obsolete."

General Simonds may very well be right. It is not with the accuracy of his statement, but with the evident approval of such a statement, that we would quarrel. It ought to be the devout hope of everyone that the time will come when all military forces are obsolete. The suspicion grows that if such a time is never reached, it will be because the whole human race has been made obsolete in a world whose radioactivity it cannot survive.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

—DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

NEVER WITHOUT FAULT

In 1715 Sofia, the Greek tribute, opened the gates of Nauplia to the invading Turks. He had sold out for a price. Henceforth for many years his people were to be under the bondage of a cruel foe. Nauplia was at that time the capital of Greece. A man of no conscience had delivered his brethren over to the savagery of a cruel enemy.

One thinks of Benedict Arnold and the horror of his defection from the American cause in 1780. The first time Arnold put in his appearance at a theatrical performance after he had committed that treason, the British officers and soldiers hissed him out of the building. During the whole of his remaining life, he was treated with contempt by the men he had betrayed to disaster.

Sofia and Arnold. Yet there is a little of the traitor in all of us. We are pilloried at Sofia and Arnold. Yet how many times we live up to the ideals we know to be right? How true are we to ourselves? How true are we to the creed of statements which we recite in all solemnity? We are not traitors, and yet, that weakness and unfaithfulness by which we sin all the best comes in to mar the picture in some degree. Treason to country is infamous but so is our daily unfaithfulness to God and to the things which we believe and know to be right.

Maybe we should not call such things treason. Nevertheless, they are evil and decimating, and they lead to disaster.

Strictly Personal

Why Poetry Has Lost Its Appeal

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is no doubt true that we tend to blame the public schools for many flaws in our society that are not their fault, but I can agree with John Clardi that the educational system is largely responsible for the general lack of interest in poetry today.

Clardi, himself a first-rate poet and critic (as well as a teacher of English at Rutgers) took an audience in St. Louis recently that the schools have foolishly "put alive much sacred-cute poetry that should have been allowed to die.

"Poetry — such as the collected works of John Greenleaf Whittier and most of Longfellow — with its obvious rhythms and its trite philosophizing, has developed in millions of souls a lifelong allergy to all poetry. Some people never recited all the unspoken-thousand sing-song verses of 'Hiawatha,' you have had it.

Although as a budding writer, I was passionately interested in English at school, I was far more bored with most of the poetry we were forced to read than words were. Even Shakespeare was reduced to dry-as-dust inspection of rhyme schemes by many of my teachers, and all the real poetic beauty of the plays was systematically steam-rollered out.

As a result of uninspired teaching and a lack of contemporary poetry has no meaning for Americas. It is not, for the average man, something magical and irrelevant — indeed, almost effeminate — that has nothing to do with society. This, of course, was not the fault of the schools alone, but of the past, when poetry was an integrated part of every educational program.

It is hard to believe that the Greeks used to sit in the art hours and move on hard cold benches in outdoor theatres, listening to verse plays that often had been heard year after year. To them, what the Athenian dramatists had to say about man's experiences and fate was not something "cultural" discovered in a book, but was instead a central act of devotion to the gods, and to the state.

This respectful attitude has quite disappeared in modern society. We are confronted with "facts," not with "feelings" — and ignoring the most important fact of all, that how we feel determines what we do with our facts.

I would rather see no poetry taught in the schools at all (unless the poetry can be taught continuous the present system of reducing poetry to dull recitations and deadly analyses of Whittier or Longfellow, if modern poetry has become willfully "obscure," it may be because no one has ever stood to defend the traditional forms.

St. Bernard Supplanted

Sudbury Star

Engraved in the "picture memory" of many adults is the one of a noble St. Bernard dog with a brandy bottle slung around his neck struggling to the side of the stranded Swiss Alps. Saint Bernard is a mountain pass in the Alps where it is said a monastery was founded by Bernard of Menthon to aid the succor of travellers. The pass was traversed by armies in the Napoleonic wars and also later by Napoleon's army in May, 1800.

The famous breed of St. Bernard dogs was replaced many years ago by the Newfoundland breed for the rescue of travellers, as the Swiss monastery of Switzerland which states that Alsatian dogs are being trained for the purpose, and in recent operations of persons buried in by snow avalanches in the Alps. The Alsations are used because of their great strength and keenness of scent, one food than larger breeds of dogs.

Methods used in training the dogs were simple. First they were trained to a high level of obedience, a hole was then made in the snow and the owner would bury the dog to a few inches. When released, the dog would search out the man and bring dug away the snow. Next the owner was placed in a deeper hole and finally the animal placed on top of him. The dog, when finding the scent of his master, found a stranger but continued to dig down to get to the latter. After several such "rescues" the dog was ready to look for the stranger alone. The next step was training was easy because dogs generally like snow and treat the rescue as a game.

The St. Bernard and his brandy bottle have gone over the mountain. Nor is there any evidence that the dog records of the Alsatians carrying brandy. Could it be that St. Bernard took his bottle with him.

Child Rights Are Upheld

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Two years and three months ago Mrs. Louis Yet Sun, 39, was admitted to Canada on a visitor's permit valid for six months. While she was here she gave birth to a baby boy, which she organized her plans for return to her husband and two other children in Hong Kong. In law the baby was a Canadian citizen. She appealed against the deportation in Canada as she wished him to be brought up here. Judge Hardy rightly that he could have a better life here. But after a hearing in Ottawa the court made an order recommending deportation of the child. No order could be made against the child because of his Canadian citizenship. Mrs. Sun appealed against that recommendation and the Supreme Court quashed the recommendation.

In announcing the decision Mr. Justice J. H. Rinfret said: "It seems to me that a natural-born Canadian citizen has certain rights from the moment of his birth, and one of those rights is that he cannot be expelled at the instance of those rights is the right to live in the care of his mother, at least during his tender years".

Instances like this may be compared with the separation of a child from its parents. Many foster-parents and children are separated by court order after several months, or years, spent of loving companionship. This child is almost two years old now, and to deprive him of his mother would be a sad event. It is to be hoped that the Justice King's dictum about the rights of a child will prevail in other courts. future cases in Ontario when repossession of a child is asked.

Mrs. Sun has not yet her husband and two other children over here. Having regard to the laws in Canada, so far as police intervention is concerned, there are no obstacles for those who conduct themselves as well as the Chinese.

This Is 'Ard On Aardvark

Christian Science Monitor

What has befallen the poor aardvark—the ant-bear—whose main distinction lay in his starting off all the alphabetical lists?

The owner of a Chicago telephone directory recently called a meeting to litigate his way into complete desolation. It is the opening of that city's phone book. He has given his firm ten thousand dollars from a string capital A through AAAAAAAAA. He and this directory are now busy wiping over his plan.

To those of us who grew up on the pronunciation of aardvarks in dictionaries and encyclopedias, the aardvark is a loss. The fair has come as a shock. The ten-A answering service and one of each letter alphabetically covering the memorably "large burrowing mammal of Africa, feeding mail" out of his position of alphabetical finality. One of our Chicago correspondents reports that the local phone directory shows 1,000 A-1 Companies (130 of them) and 200 Aaa-1 Aardvark Plumbing Company, A-Able Pest Exterminators, and A-Abea Furniture Company.

That being the case, the aardvark has a better day ahead in Chicago, where he doesn't have a chance, and remains buttressed in nocturnal Assadrive, where he can remain leadless, if not king, of the beasts.

"The citizens of Belleville have little to complain about when it comes to the cost of equation in this city," asserted Mr. Kennedy Hill of the staff of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School while speaking to the Y.M.C.A. on the subject of "Educational Costs' last evening. "True enough Belleville spends about $1 per cent of its taxation on Education, but this includes both maintenance and debenture load payments. When you consider that our four public schools and our collegiate have all been built since 1911 quite a proportion of the 51 per cent is for capital expenditure and not for maintenance. In our public schools the cost per pupil-day current expenditure is 14.8c as against all city schools or a total of 34.7c in the city schools or 46.1c and we still have $177,061.00 to pay on our public school debentures," stated Mr. Hill as he gave statistics to prove his statements.

New Police Car Purchased by Town Council

DESERONTO — Acting on the recommendation of the Police committee, Council on Monday night purchased a new police car from the Burley Auto Sales. Apparently the Police committee had had a special meeting following the ditching of the old police car and considered all the tenders submitted. The one from the Burley Auto Service was the lowest for an eight-cylinder car and therefore was the one recommended.

There was some slight discussion regarding the attendance of the mayor at the school at Arnprior for the three-day session under the Emergency Measures Organization. Council passed a motion that they were in favor of continuing the local Emergency Measures Organization and a letter to that effect is to be forwarded to the local co-ordinator. Another motion was in favor of the mayor attending the school at Arnprior.

The Property committee recommended the sale of the water rights in front of his property to Albert Marks for the sum of $25, and all fees pertaining to the sale both legal fees and the cost of the survey.

Councillor Detlor on behalf of the water committee stated that the crew were now drilling a ten-inch well on the island and were down some forty feet. It was told that the drilling would be completed shortly and he would be able to advise council if the water will obtain sufficient pure water at the site.

Considerable argument was evoked when the Streets committee tabled their report suggested a spring clean-up campaign for the town. Councillor Lott thought the idea was sound and moved that such campaign be instituted. He suggested that the town truck be used to remove the debris from yards and lawns. Councillor Howard objected to this and said that he would agree to cleaning up the streets but not the private yards. He felt this would be cleaning private property at the taxpayers expense. The matter was finally left to the By-law committee for its action.

The financial report revealed that following the passing of the by-law governing trailers only one trailer had paid the required fee. Council advised the clerk to write the trailer owners advising them that if the fee was not paid council would take legal action.

Two Cows Found Dead in Stable, Lightning Cause

PICTON — Telephone service which was interrupted in many sections by lightning, was restored yesterday afternoon. Some of the lines had been out of commission since Saturday while others were affected by the severe electrical storm Sunday night.

Two cows at the farm of Glen Flake, just east of Picton, were found dead yesterday and lightning was given as the cause. The dead animals were discovered when Mr. Flake went to do the chores. Investigation showed that lightning had entered the building by the electric light wires. The other animals in the stable were not affected.

SEVERELY BURNED

Lawrence Robinson of Demorestville suffered burns to the hands and face as a result of an explosion of gasoline fumes at his garage. He was in the pit working on the gasoline tank of a car. The gasoline had been drained from it and time allowed for the gas fumes to escape. However, when Robinson lighted a torch to do some welding, the fumes remaining in the pit exploded. His hands were the most severely burned but his eyebrows were burned off and his face singed. Fortunately the car did not catch fire.

McFARLAND GETS CONTRACT

The McFarland Construction Company of Picton has been awarded the contract for the erection of a new five-roomed school at Milford. This will serve South Marysburgh school area and will result in the closing of five schools. The McFarland tender of $90,000 was the lowest of four tenders. The school will be one-storey, chiefly of concrete block with glazed tile finish. Construction is expected to start shortly and be completed for the fall term.

VERWOERD UP

PRETORIA (AP) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa, shot twice in the head in an attempted assassination 11 days ago, was allowed out of bed for the first time Tuesday. A hospital bulletin said: "The prime minister is progressing steadily and favorably."

ECONOMY CAR? . . . Not quite; above may be seen a special sports-racing car which is the favorite project of a couple of members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club. When completed it is expected to be able to get up to speeds of around 150 to 160 miles per hour on the sports car racing circuits of Ontario and Quebec.

Bank Manager Transferred To Brockville

PICTON — Manager of the Picton branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here for the past four and one-half years, Eric Base yesterday was advised of his transfer as manager to the branch at Brockville. Date of his departure, or his successor here, were not announced.

Mr. Base has been with the bank for 34 years and came here from Cobourg. During his residence here, he has been active in the business and social life of the community. He is a member of th executive of Branch 78 Canadian Legion; member of Prince Edward Curling Club; member of the finance committee of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene; former director of Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce; member of executive of Prince Edward Yacht Club and honorary member of RCAS Officers' Mess.

Mrs. Base is widely known for her work among retarded children, each day taking a carload of such children to school in Belleville and assisting with instruction.

Specially Designed Racing Car Being Built in City

Garages and attics are usually quite interesting places because one is liable to find almost anything stored in them. It would not at first glance seem too unusual, perhaps, to find an automobile in a garage, even if it was a sports-racing car. One's interest, however, might well be whetted when informed that the car had never yet been out of the garage, and that it had, in fact, been constructed therein.

Such is the case with a specially designed and constructed high-power sports-racing car currently under construction by Vince Murray and Vic Yachuk, members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club. The machine is to be powered by a highly-tuned Chevrolet Corvette engine, which the two racing enthusiasts expect to deliver well over 300 horsepower with top reliability.

The chassis of the car is built almost entirely of round tubing of from one to three inches in diameter. The front suspension of the machine is a modified Chevrolet unit with the rear suspension being specially designed by the builders. The body of the car is being specially built on the basic body shell of an Austin Healey 100 with considerable alteration to the front end.

BALANCE ALL PARTS

Extensive modifications are planned for the engine. These will include such steps as balancing all moving parts, using light alloy high compression pistons, a lightweight flywheel, special inlet and exhaust valves, special valve springs and a competition camshaft. All of these changes will go unnoticed by the casual observer, but there is one change, which he could not miss. The engine will be topped off by a special six-carburetor fuel intake system, whose yawning orifices greet anyone taking a look under the bonnet of the engine compartment.

Work on this car has been going on for some time, occupying most of the spare hours of Mr. Murray, who has been doing the construction work. Mr. Yachuk, who constructed the country's most outstanding and successful "Canada Class" racing car to date, has been handling many of the chassis design details, making excellent use of his previous building and racing experience.

Completion of the car, as yet unnamed, is anticipated within the next couple of months so that it will be able to see some action in the various sports-car racing events scheduled for this summer. Designed to combine the attributes of reliability, light weight, and lots of horsepower the new machine should prove to be one of the foremost contenders in the highly competitive "big" car class races on the circuits of Ontario.

Farming in British Isles Outlined to Kiwanis Club

Farms in the British Isles are not as mechanized and as modern as farms in Canada, Hastings County farmer, Harvey Homan, told members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

Mr. Homan, who was awarded one of two scholarships issued annually by the Rutfield Foundation last year, spent six months studying agriculture in the British Isles. The scholarships are awarded to "practical farmers" to enable them to study practical farming methods in England, Ireland, and Scotland.

Kiwanians were taken on a "pictorial jaunt" to the British Isles, via colored slides, to see for themselves how farming is done in those countries. They were also "taken" on side-trips to Denmark, Sweden, and Holland, to view interesting sights other than agriculture, on the continent.

Views included the famed Tivoli Gardens in Copenhagen, Denmark, a new dike in Holland, Blarney Castle and Galway Bay in Ireland, Picadilly and the world famous Stonehenge on Salisbury Plain in England, as well as pictures of threshing operations, hay curing, and livestock in the various parts of the Isles.

Active in 4-H club work for eight years (the maximum), and a member of the Hastings County Junior Farmers for the past 14 years and its honorary president, Mr. Homan spent much of his time abroad touring agricultural projects.

He related the chief difference between farming in the British Isles and Canada, is that in the British Isles farming is done more intensively while in Canada it is done more extensively.

Mr. Homan said the average-sized farm in Great Britain consists of 80 acres. He also reported there are 37 breeds of cattle in the British Isles as compared to 10 different breeds in Canada and the United States.

The speaker was introduced by Don Dickson and thanked by Ron Godden. He was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by Tom Simpson, who was chairman for this week's dinner meeting in the Kiwanis Centre.

Peanut Drive chairman Ken Pinder gave a report on the forthcoming Peanut Blitz, one of the club's fund-raising projects. The one-night blitz of the city will be held Wednesday, April 27th, from 5.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m.

He urged all Kiwanians to cooperate in this venture and make it a success.

"We can make $500 on it, and with your co-operation I know we can do it," he stated.

Chairman Tom Simpson announced next week's program will be in keeping with the observance of U.S. - Canada Good Will Week. An inter-club from Black River and Watertown, N.Y., will be guests of the local club.

W.H.A. Plans Fashion Show, Views Exhibits

The members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary at their April general meeting were privileged to enjoy a preview of the splendid new Nurses' Education Building, which is to be officially opened on Hospital Day, May 14. Guide for the tour was Mr. L. F. Burfoot, administrative assistant of the Belleville General Hospital, who has been engaged during the past year in purchasing materials for the new building and supervising its construction.

Mr. Burfoot, who was introduced by Mrs. Harry J. Fuhs, auxiliary president, addressed the meeting, describing the new building and the steps in its construction. The appreciation of the Auxiliary was conveyed to the speaker by Miss Nellie Merry.

The business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. E. E. Burley. Several members of the late Mrs. W. S. Mikel, honorary president of the Auxiliary, were exhibited, illustrating gifts her long connection with the hospital. These included the teaspoons from the auction with which she turned the first sod for the construction of the hospital April 1912; in October, 1954; the key with which she opened this wing in October, 1956; and a certificate of honor from the chairman and the board of governors of the hospital commemorating Mrs. Mikel's 30 years of service. Representatives are a gift to the Auxiliary from Mr. Mikel's daughter, Mrs. F. M. Jeffrey of Toronto, and are to be kept on display in the hospital.

Mrs. Herb Hanley, convener of the Coffee Shop, announced that the shop is now in operation throughout the entire weekend as a service to hospital visitors and staff.

It was reported by Mrs. N. C. Macfie, holiday treats convener, that cards had been sent to all patients, and that gifts had been provided for the children and elderly patients by the Auxiliary to mark the celebration of Easter.

FASHION SHOW PLANS

Preliminary plans were discussed for the annual fashion show which the Auxiliary intends to sponsor at the usual time in the fall.

The lucky winner of a beautiful silver fox stole, which had been donated by a member of the Auxiliary, was Mrs. George E. Whalen, 41 Crowfoot Avenue. The raffling of the stole was in charge of Mrs. Dave McDonald, and the winning ticket was drawn by Mr. Burfoot.

A social hour followed the meeting with Mrs. Ben Safe and Mrs. Stan Kvarda as hostesses.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Easter has come and gone; maybe you purchased spring finery or at the very least had a flower on your hat. Now it seems as if winter has come again, but let's not countenance it for a minute.

One very sure evidence of spring is the rash of teas, rummages sales, exhibits and so on, that fill our days and even some of our nights at this time.

About a week and a half back we attended the exhibit and tea of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club and were amazed at the variety and excellence of the work displayed. Not that we didn't think you could do it girls, but we must admit it came as a kind of envious shock. There was the feeling of "if you can do it, why can't I?"

The plain fact is that most of us could do something of this sort but we do not realize it, try it, or make time to try it. There was a time when a lot of these crafts were quite necessary parts of housekeeping. Now it is all easy not to do these things and we find our time being taken up with activities much less productive.

We saw a definition of education the other day but do not remember its author — with teachers' federations meeting and education conferences being held, it is hard to keep track of all the announcements. But in essence it said that education should be the process of releasing and then guiding the creative instincts to be found in each of us. An article in one monthly magazine, 'India,' entitled, "Cats Link Past and Future," seems to fit aptly into the picture.

"It may be said that the vitality of a people finds an important part of its expression in the taste that is brought to bear on making things of everyday life. We are not speaking here of the professional artist, painter, musician or decorator, but of the common people who have an urge for the beautiful and express it in the ordinary articles used in everyday life. We may say that the standard of taste that has the leisure and the good taste and the fine things to feed it on, but rather considers the larger portion of society, which seems almost to know by instinct just where to place a flower in the hair, or how to match the colors of garments.

"Here is found the hand that tracks, unaided and untaught, cunning patterns before the front doors and on the house floors; the patterns of flower and color in the floral strings for the hair; the shape and decoration of an earthen pot or a bamboo; the birds twisted out of two palmyra leaves. We are apt to take these things for granted because we have grown up with them, and they are not spectacular; we are also apt to talk of folk art and handicrafts without taking such manifestations of innate taste into account. Yet these are precisely the expressions which reveal the genius of a people, and the time and care which the folk feel it must give to providing just that little extra which makes all the difference between barren utilitarianism and emotional beauty.

"The snapping of the link between the creative impulse and livelihood—that is the inevitable outcome of mechanization, and the introduction of an alien concept of designer as distinct from the craftsman has only destroyed further the craftsman's natural response to good form."

This above quotation, of course, deals with arts and crafts in India. The membership in our arts and crafts groups is increasing in most parts of the country. Quite a few of the exhibit were astonished at the cleverness and quality of the work, while the workers assured us that it was a complete joy to lose themselves in creating something of themselves.

We see many instances of high pressure advertising which has come from Madison Avenue in a bad name. Here is a short story from the Canadian Association of Consumers Bulletin:

"Two cows were calmly munching grass in a field beside the highway when a large dairy truck passed by. Emblazoned on its side was printed: "Grade A Milk—Pasteurized, Homogenized, Fortified with Vitamins A & D." One cow contemplated this then turned to the other and remarked: "Tends to give one a strong feeling of inadequacy, doesn't it?"

Canadian LA Plans Zone Rally

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, Belleville, held its general meeting, April 19th, with the president, Comrade G. Hughes, in the chair.

One new member, Mrs. Gertrude Bowler, was initiated and welcomed into the auxiliary. Correspondence was read and a financial statement given, also reports from the sick, euchre, social and rummage sale chairmen.

Final plans were made for the social evening this coming Friday, also the zone rally in May to be held in Madoc.

A draw for tea aprons was held, the winners being Comrades Bradford and Shuttle.

After general business was completed the meeting was adjourned and refreshments served by Comrade Bemm Sr., and her committee.

Diefenbakers Had Dinner With de Gaulles at Embassy

By ELIZABETH MOTHERWELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Diefenbakers went next door Tuesday night for dinner with the de Gaulles.

The occasion was a reception for President and Mme. de Gaulle at the French Embassy, adjacent to the 24 Sussex Street home of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Some 40 guests attended the dinner preceding the reception. Then about 600 guests crowded three reception rooms in the embassy.

To pay their tributes to the French couple.

For the second time Tuesday the de Gaulles and Diefenbakers were served consomme and lobster. They had the same at a luncheon given by the prime minister.

Chicken braised in champagne, green peas and French cheese were other meat items. Ices served were cakes bearing the Cross of Lorraine, Gen. de Gaulle's personal symbol.

GOWN OF SATIN

Canada's first lady, Mme. Vanier, wife of the Governor-General, wore a gown of heliotrope satin over taffeta, styled with cross-over bodice embroidered in silver beads and sequins.

A gown of pink peau de soie trimmed with fitted bodice and belle skirt was worn by Mrs. Diefenbaker. The gown was accented with amethyst jewelry.

Mme. Francis Lacoste, wife of the French ambassador, chose a gown of spring water green, figured with deep green and gold.

Bayside H-S Assoc. Plans G.G.-B. Tea

The Bayside H. and S. Association held its April meeting last Thursday in Bayside School.

During the business session, Mrs. Grayson told of the final plans for the "Fun-Fair" to be held in the school on April 29th, at 7 p.m. There will be tables for candy, baking, sewing, refreshments, Fish-pond and white-elephant goods.

Rooms will be set aside for tea and coffee, games and movies. The admission for adults will be one item of canned goods. The posters in the Bayside area list the admission for children incorrectly, and should read, Children, an item for the white-elephant table. There will be a preparation night next Tuesday night at the school, and all members are requested to have their 50 cents of Fish-Pond goods at the school by this time.

At the next regular meeting on May 12th, the teachers will be in their class rooms 30 minutes before the start to interview the parents of the respective students.

There will be a Scout scrap drive on Saturday, April 30th. There will also be a "Guides' and Brownie Tea" in the school in May.

The association has decided to present his graduating honor student of grade 8, a plaque suitably inscribed.

Mr. Bird's class won the percent' attendance trophy for the month of April.

After the business session, a film on "First Aid" was shown, after which Mr. Frost of the Canadian Cancer Society, spoke briefly and closed the film, "The Traitor Within".

Canvassers volunteered to cover all homes in the area, between the city limits of Belleville and the town limits of Trenton.

Tea or coffee and doughnuts were served to all present.

Scout, Cub Aux. Completes Banquet Plans

On Wednesday evening a well attended Auxiliary meeting was held by the Scout and Cub members of the 10th Belleville Troop.

Mrs. Dyble, secretary, conveyed an invitation to the members for a pot-luck supper at Tabernacle United Church, in May. It would be appreciated if those planning to attend could contact Mrs. C. Agar or Mrs. J. Dyble as soon as possible.

The business remaining from the father and son banquet was finalized and Mrs. Chris Hoard reported a tent for the boys had been purchased.

Material to make a dozen more scarves was distributed by Mrs. Metcalfe. Eighteen had been finished and turned over to the Scout and Cub leaders.

A summary of the Scouting conference held in Brighton on April 2 was given by Mrs. Ruth Bateman. She was pleased to report that Belleville was well represented.

Mrs. Margo Agar appointed Mrs. Helen Chipps nomination chairman with Mrs. Dolly Scott as assistant for the coming election of officers.

The explanation of Cub regulations and the earning of badges and stars, by Mrs. Ruth Bateman, was of interest to the mothers with sons just starting Cubs.

Before Mrs. Janitch served coffee and a wide variety of cookies, a few of the games of proprietr badge tests had to be passed. Some agile mothers qualified.

Wedding

CROSBY — MARTIN

St. Andrew's United Church, Coe Hill, was the setting for a lovely spring wedding when Margaret Joan Martin, of Coe Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, became the bride of Gordon Archie Crosby, also of Coe Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Austin Crosby. The Reverend G. Ballantyne officiated before a background of white chrysanthemums and pink gladioli.

Miss Ann Giles, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Reginald Peters, who rendered "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in her full-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over satin taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice adorned with swirls of iridescent sequins, and having a bateau neckline and "V"-pointed finger-tip sleeves. The full skirt was accented by tiers of matching Chantilly lace. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiara headdress, and she carried a cascade of Easter lillies. A single strand of pearls completed her costume.

The maid of honor, Miss Alleen Coe, of Bancroft, wore a street-length gown of midnight blue silk organza over peau de soie, with full skirt, fitted bodice, having a cowl collar, and small back bow, matching shoes, bandeau and gauntlets. She wore a matching pearl choker and carriage, and carried a semi-cascade of feathered white carnations with touches of midnight blue throughout.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Aileen Bailey of Toronto, and Miss Eileen Pitt of Madoc, were gowned identically in midnight blue, with accessories. Both carried semi-cascades of white carnations.

Mr. Parry Whitmore, of Coe Hill, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Douglas Martin and Murray Crosby, brothers of the bride and bridegroom, respectively, ushered the guests. The male attendants were attired in grey flannels with navy blazers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier all white wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, beneath an arch of pink roses and misted about the base with white tulle, flanked by silver candelabra with pink and white candles.

The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of British navy shantung in jacket-sheath style, having an empire waistline and portrait collar, with white feather cloche, long white gloves, black accessories, and corsage of white carnations. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in royal blue silk crepe sheath with shirred cummerbund effect, white floral hat, long white gloves, black accessories, and corsage of white carnations.

For travelling to Western Ontario and New York State, the bride wore an Italian wool tweed suit, moon-mist grey boxy jacket, white locks hat, long white gloves, moss-green shoes and bag, with corsage of white carnations.

Guests attended from Coe Hill, Ormsby, Madoc, Trenton, Belleville, Picton, Peterborough, Toronto, Bancroft and Queensboro.

Previous to the marriage, the bride was entertained at a kitchen shower in Belleville, with Miss Alleen Coe as hostess, and Miss Eileen Pitt as co-hostess, when she was presented with a wool blanket from the co-workers of the Bell Telephone control office; also at a miscellaneous shower with Mrs. Bill McCaw of Coe Hill, as hostess, and at a community reception and dance held in Coe Hill, on April 8.

The bridegroom was presented with a telephone table and stool by his co-workers of the Department of Highways previous to the wedding.

The young couple will reside at 413 McDonald Avenue, Belleville.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a social worker, a police, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Harvey E. — My daughter doesn't treat my friends right.

Phyllis R. — I'm trying to save him from a bad experience.

Harvey E. — I am a widower of 70. My wife died two years ago and I came to live in my daughter's home.

I have an independent income and can well afford to live elsewhere, but Phyllis persuaded me to come to live with her family because she would worry about me too much if I was alone. I did it just to please her.

Since I've been in this community I've made quite a few friends and have been dating a very nice widow. I've only known her a short time, but I think I can say I'm seriously interested in her. However, my daughter is not 'it'-at all plus...In fact and has caused me much embarrassment. If Phyllis can't treat my friends right I don't want to live here.

Phyllis R. — I'm just trying to save my father from a very bad experience. He thinks he is 20 years younger than he is just because he's in reasonably good shape. But he's no spring chicken and he shouldn't try to act that way.

This widow Dad has taken up with is at least 15 years his junior. She loves night life and makes him take her out to "the spots" several nights a week. Dad gets home in the wee hours (not too sober) and then sleeps all the next day. I'm up half the night worrying about him — and I've got plenty of work awaiting me the next day.

I'm pretty sure this widow wouldn't be interested in Dad if he didn't have a good income. He's too naive to see it.

The Council: If Phyllis sincerely feels her father has fallen into the clutches of a cold, calculating gold digger, she should make an attempt to save the situation. However, she is going about it in the wrong way.

In effect, she is telling her father he is old, washed up, undesirable and useless except for his income. At the same time the widow is telling him, in essence, that he is young, attractive and loads of fun.

If Phyllis battles on these terms, she is sure to lose. It is human and natural to gravitate toward those who present us with a favorable picture of ourselves and shun those who belittle us in any way. As long as Phyllis treats her father as if he is doddering along in second childhood her influence will be cancelled out.

Beyond that, we think Phyllis is jumping to conclusions as far as the widow is concerned. We see nothing particularly sinister about a woman who enjoys night life and is interested in a second husband with a good income. Such a woman might be generous and a fine companion.

Phyllis can only find out more about her, however, by making the woman welcome in her home. She should be completely cordial, giving her the opportunity to reveal herself under favorable colors.

On the whole it seems Dad is doing very nicely and the only people who should be worrying about him are the other drivers on the road when he comes home in the wee hours.

New Service Will Introduce Visitors to British Home Life

By JUDITH AYER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The trouble with being a tourist in Britain is that there is little chance to meet the people who live here.

This is too precious. What with castles, museums, art galleries, theatres, shops and The Tower, it is small wonder that visitors have little time or energy left to get acquainted with Britons.

But now, a meeting conspicuously people can be arranged.

Mary Leach, a young woman from the Midlands of England, has devised a scheme to introduce visitors to British home life. She has founded the Tourist Hospitality Service which operates from London's West End.

The THS, although only two months old, already has more than 300 names of people willing to entertain the tourists that will be pouring into Britain this summer.

Miss Leach's main task now is ranking files of prospective hosts and hostesses to ensure that when someone from another country visits a British home, the guest and hostess will have common interests, if not necessarily common age and profession. A doctor from Montreal could meet a doctor from Dorset, or if he would rather forget his work for a while, he might prefer a candlemaker from Cleethorpes.

The idea is that the visitor will be entertained. The details are left to the hostess. It would usually involve meeting members of the family and friends. The service does not, however, include accommodation.

One of the most reasonable aspects of this service is that the entertainment, which can be fatal to a family's weekly budget, is paid for by the visitor himself. He pays Miss Leach a fee of 50 shillings for an introduction card and gives the card to his hostess who sends it back to THS and pays all for her services.

"We feel that the average visitor would rather enjoy an evening's entertainment in a home with congenial people than eat in a restaurant on his own."

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The first meeting for April of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose hall on Victoria Avenue, with Sr. Regent Nellie Shandrew presiding.

Two new candidates was balloted on and accepted.

The charter was draped for Madeline King. The service was read by Fog Jeffery.

Last arrangements were made for a trip to Watertown on April 23.

The draw, donated by Mary Hall, Fenny bingo and lunch served by Mary Johnson and her committee closed the meeting.

OUTDOORS WOMEN

W.M.S. Holds Lovely Dessert Luncheon

STIRLING — St. Paul's Silver Cross Women's Missionary Society sponsored a dessert luncheon and thank-offering service in the church parlors on Tuesday, April 12th.

The rooms were a picture of loveliness with mums and gladioli. The literature secretary, Mrs. Earl Eggleton, had the African books on display. Two tables, draped with silver tea services and a large array of lovely deserts were set up at the east end of the room. Quartet tables were placed around the room and were centred with Easter flowers. Forty ladies enjoyed a choice of desserts.

At the conclusion of the luncheon the president, Mrs. A. Packman, extended a welcome to all. Mrs. Volney Richardson presided over the Easter devotional, "At the Name of Jesus", as outlined in the March issue of "Missionary Monthly."

Prior to the Litany, Mrs. Packman and Mrs. Harry Philp sang a duet and later Mrs. Packman gave "The Message of Easter."

Mrs. George Carlisle, first vice-president of the Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S., introduced Mrs. Percy MacMullin, literature secretary of that organization, who was one of three secretaries chosen as delegates to attend the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch, WMS, held in Brockville in March.

Mrs. MacMullin brought a half-hour message to the group and outlined "The Highlights of the Various Sections." The special speakers at that meeting were Miss Bessie French, All Peoples' Mission, Hamilton, and Dr. Ruth Taylor (Mrs. Hugh D. Taylor), Overseas Mission executive secretary. The theme was "Mission to the Uttermost."

Mrs. R. B. Duffin thanked the speaker and presented her with a gift.

Mrs. V. Richardson gave a message on stewardship and outlined the finances to date by means of a budget chart.

Mrs. James Hough reported the remittance of $145 to the Presbyterial treasurer. Several items of business were discussed and plans made for supply work.

The Easter thank-offering was gathered an dedicated and a special prayer was offered for the prayer partner.

TEACHING A CHILD TO DANCE

Is your child going to have fun at a party where dancing is to be on the program, or is he going to know nothing but fear and embarrassment, and a heartfelt wish that everything could be "magicked" back to the familiar and reassuring days of ring-around-a-rosy?

Most parents seem to be a bit baffled as to how to go about starting Junior's dancing career. I think the suggestions made by a famous dancer, on how to teach children the art, are an excellent solution.

He feels that, at the very beginning, children should be taught individually. In the first phase, he thinks that parents can do as much for their children as can professionals. To begin with, you should never wait until the week before a party to give your child dancing lessons. When he is about five or six, he usually has a natural desire to dance and will improvise patterns of his own to music. He is not self-conscious and has no feeling that "only sissies dance." This is the ideal time to get him started.

Suppose the child doesn't want to learn. Should he be forced? No. He can be shown by example that the ability to dance is desirable and can be fun. If Mother and Daddy, or older brothers and sisters get into the habit of dancing together every so often, a time a week, to music on the radio, TV, or record player, the child soon will want to try it himself. Never make the mistake of teasing or joking about his first attempts. Refrain from "constructive criticism", look for something to praise.

Teach him rhythm. It is an exploded theory that you'll never acquire a sense of rhythm unless you were born with it. Have the child clap his hands and tap his feet in time with the music. He will soon get a natural pleasure out of keeping time.

When your child shows additional confidence in executing the dance movements, he is ready to dance in partnership. Be sure to teach a little girl to stand on her own feet, rather than lean on her partner. Teach a little boy to keep a weather eye out for the girl's feet.

Above all, take it slowly, so Junior won't be made to feel that dancing is a chore. In future life his ability in this direction can mean a great deal in his social contacts. During the "growing up" period, learning to dance will not only develop his social poise and help to overcome self-consciousness, but will be conducive to good posture. It is easy to understand why the wise parent will see to it that Junior starts his dancing training at an early age.

Beautiful Food In Flight

by Mary Moore

The story I am about to tell is an obvious one, but oh how often we need to be reminded of it. It stresses the importance of the appearance of food.

I am in Camberley in England. I was flown here by KLM Royal Dutch Airlines and, as usual, am going to talk about food — the beauty of it is developed by an airline cabin staff.

Purposely hungry, I boarded the plane at Montreal looking forward to my supper. To call the five-course meal I was served "supper" is an understatement so you can judge for yourselves.

FIRST COURSE:

Lobster, melba toast a relish dish consisting of a small tomato stuffed with tiny peas and diced cooked carrot in mayonnaise; asparagus tips in half of a hard-cooked egg with a firm butter-and-pulk swirled garnish (a clever little trick you and I can copy easily).

SECOND COURSE:

Filet Mignon done to just the right turn, nicely browned in its juices, pink, moist and tender inside, topped with a mushroom and tomato sauce; braised celery heart dotted with broiled cheese; French fried potato balls; tiny French peas. A symphony of lovely colors, and flavors to equal them.

With a smile that will not wipe off, Mary Moore alights at London Airport. She was not a few minutes later by Capt. and Mrs. H. C. Pitts, her son-in-law and daughter and her three grandchildren Gary, David and Susan.

THIRD COURSE:

Side salad of bright green Bibb lettuce, Chinese cucumber, pickled pearl onions and gherkins.

FOURTH COURSE:

Generous slices of Dutch (Edam) cheese with the fine red wax rim left on and rich crisp crackers (Canadian I think).

(At this stage the intercom. announced that it was 4 a.m. Dutch time and here we were still being served our previous night's supper.)

FIFTH COURSE:

By now I had had enough good food to nourish me until I reached England but then came Fresh Fruit in Season: Jaffa oranges, British Columbia apples, Guatemalan bananas, Ribier grapes, Oregan pears arranged into a picture by an artist. Coffee.

Then, my friends, a hot damp napkin perfumed with eau de cologne to wipe milady's fingers.

Going to bed is quite simple. When you are ready the purser tips back your seat, tucks a blanket around you, and if requested, gives you a little pink sleeping pill.

The next I heard was a Texan drawl announcing the rising of the sun, then the pretty Dutch stewardess enquiring if I would like orange juice. It tasted like heavenly nectar.

Breakfast was another beautiful meal featuring chilled grapefruit sections, individual rolled omelettes, smoked back bacon, hot French croissants made in the Schipol kitchens and somehow transported and rehoisted to be served on the West-to-East flight as if they were hot from the oven. A little fruit bun that intrigued me I had the pleasure of eating. It was unabashedly dissected. It was filled with orange peel, currants, raisins and grated lemon rind. By some means I am going to beg that recipe from the chef at Schipol on my return trip.

To bring this to a beautiful finish, coming down over Amsterdam I saw green fields, forsythia in bloom and Sunday crowds eating outside on the decks of Schipol Airport. With only ten minutes to make my London connection clutching passport, running behind the stewardess who carried my typewriter, bless her — I boarded the plane for London. Again a beautiful lunch was served in one hour flat. Then, oh joy, London Skyport came into view. While waiting for luggage the Customs chap smiled indulgently and let me go up the concourse to find and wave to my loved ones behind the barrier, and, above all the din of an International airport, I could hear loud and clear, Gary's voice shouting "Mummy — there's Grandma".

FAMOUS SOLDIER ARRIVES — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery (left) is shown on his arrival in Montreal where he was met by Major-General J. M. Rockingham, General Officer Commanding Quebec Command. Viscount Montgomery will attend centennial celebrations of the Queen's Own Rifles at Toronto and receive a degree from the University of British Columbia.

Committee Proposes Draft Treaty in Economic Move

WASHINGTON (CP)—A draft treaty to help reduce the threat of a dangerous European trade split and to give Canada and the United States stronger voices in Europe's economic affairs was proposed today by a committee of four "wise men."

The proposal would establish a new economic forum in Paris aimed at achieving international solidarity between Europe and North America, based on reduction of trade restrictions and expansion of aid to underdeveloped countries.

Specifically it would eliminate the 18-country Organization for European Economic Co-operation in which Canada and the U.S. have only associated membership and replace it with a more powerful 20-country organization for economic co-operation and development.

Canada and the U.S. would have full membership in this new body which could go into operation by Sept. 1, 1961 if at least 15 countries ratified the proposed treaty by that time. Perhaps by next July spokesmen for the 20 governments may gather to hammer out some preliminary understanding on whether to accept or reject the program.

The new forum would bring together at one table the principals in Europe's trade rivalry — the six - country Common Market, headed by France and West Germany, and the seven - country Free-Trade Association headed by Britain.

Britain has complained the U.S. seems to be giving more encouragement to the Common Market than the Outer Seven. Britain also has expressed fears Common Market countries may ring themselves with a high tariff aimed against Britain's vital exports. Canada also has expressed concern over the fusion of two European markets in view of increasing rivalry between the two trade blocs.

Committee chairman W. Randolph Burgess, U.S. ambassador to the North Atlantic alliance, reported on the treaty.

Working with him in a hurried three-month effort to devise a replacement for the crumbling Organization for European Economic Co-operation were Sir Paul Gore Booth of Britain, Bernard Clappier of France and Xenophon Zolotas of Greece.

The committee emphasized that its proposed treaty would respect existing sovereignties though it urged that countries which take out membership consult frequently.

Acting as a sort of general manager with strong powers would be a secretary-general appointed for at least five years.

The new body initially would give these countries membership: West Germany, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Spain, United States, France, Greece, Ireland, Iceland Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Netherlands, Portugal, Britain, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey.

The committee suggested members of the new organization increase the flow of private and public capital into underdeveloped areas and that Europe increase the life of export credits. On trade, it conceded that Europe will have to live with its two trade blocs but suggested the organization become a forum for "joint examination" of trade policies to remove obstacles standing in the way of trade liberalization and expansion.

Work Stoppage Being Considered By Postmen

OTTAWA (CP)—Dan Cross of Kingston, president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, hinted Tuesday that postmen may go through with a 24-hour work stoppage if the government doesn't raise postmen's salaries within the next four months.

Asked by a reporter to comment on the association's decision Monday to withdraw from the joint action committee set up by several federal civil service associations for unified action for pay increases he said:

"We are finished going to the powers that be in government on our hands and knees. We are through with begging. From here on in we either get our increases, or else."

Boy Is Placed In Custody Of C.A.S.

TIMMINS (CP)—A 13-year-old boy charged with murder in the Good Friday knife-slaying of an elderly widow was remanded Tuesday for 30 days and placed in the custody of the Children's Aid Society.

Court officials said it was probably the first time in Canada that a person facing a murder charge has not been remanded to jail custody.

The Grade 7 schoolboy appeared briefly in a closed session of juvenile court before Judge W. S. Gardner. He was represented by lawyer Garry Sullivan.

He was charged six hours after the slashed body of Mrs. Valeda Laurin, 62, was found in the bedroom of the apartment where she lived alone. The woman lying in a pool of blood, apparently had been attacked first in the kitchen. She was stabbed in the back, chest and arms.

Crown Attorney S. A. Caldbick said it would be "entirely up to the Children's Aid people" whether the boy was placed under guard. He said it was not certain whether the case would be ready to go to a preliminary hearing in 30 days.

Harold Knight, society administrator, said the youngster may be given a mental examination.

All the crown exhibits involved in the case now are undergoing tests at the attorney general's laboratory in Toronto. They include two knives — stained knives and clothing taken from the dead woman and the boy.

DROP PFC HEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Power Commissioner William R. Connole, who has acknowledged backstage talks with a natural gas company lawyer, is being dropped by the Eisenhower administration. Congressional sources said today the 57-year-old Connole was told by the White House he would not be renamed for another five-year term when his current term expires June 22. He denied any wrong doing.

Finance Minister Upholds Present Govt. Policies in Dealing With Trade, Finance

TORONTO (CP)— Government controls, by interfering with freedom, cause confidence to falter, initiative to freeze and capital to take flight, Finance Minister Donald Fleming told the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Fleming Tuesday upheld present government policies for dealing with Canadian financial and trade problems and rejected suggestions that more stringent remedies be applied.

"What are the alternatives to such policies? A program of government controls? Imposition and enforcement of import restrictions and quotas? Individual restraints upon Canadians desiring to travel abroad and on the amount of money they can take with them? Creation of a centralized capital-issue committee which would indicate to governments, municipalities and to private business where, when, on what terms and how much they can borrow?

Such measures may be justifiable in the midst of a national crisis, in peace and prosperity, they are needless, they are not warranted, indeed, some of them would be unconstitutional. Moreover, I believe some of these so-called remedies would actually cause the disease they are supposed to prevent or cure."

REPEAL RE DOLLAR

In regard to suggestions that the government should deliberately "devalue the dollar," Mr. Fleming said:

"Any attempt artificially to lower the external price of the Canadian dollar would involve borrowing or raising by taxes very large sums of money with which to buy up foreign exchange. It might well be that the government could not reduce the inflow of goods sufficiently without imposed direct controls on capital movements and then on the movement of goods.

"Apart from the economic objections to such policies it would be very difficult to work out effective technical means of control. Even then the controls would be ineffective unless the objective were one that commanded the broad public support which both countries."

Turning to trade with Japan, Mr. Fleming said Canada attaches great importance to good relations with that country.

"Japan," he stated, "is a valuable market for a number of our key exports, including grain; moreover, she is a good friend and a neighbor occupying an important strategic position in the cold war."

He added:

"I wish to make it entirely clear that the Canadian government accepts the principle of orderly growth of Japanese exports to Canada. But there should be no misunderstanding about what we mean when we talk of orderly growth.

"We have in mind for individual products which are highly competitive with Canadian production and which already supply a significant part of the market, increases of about five to 10 per cent in a year in which Canadian demand for the products is rising.

"This does not mean that imports should increase by this amount in products where our market has already been flooded or that in extreme cases some outback should not occur; nor does it mean that larger increases cannot be expected for products where the Canadian industries are not experiencing difficulties.

NEGOTIATE FIRST

"In 1959 increases were experienced in a number of quite sensitive items which greatly exceeded any reasonable definition of orderly growth. We have had these in mind from the outset and in present consultations with Japan.

"It has been alleged in some quarters that these efforts to defend the legitimate interests of Canadian producers will damage our export sales to Japan. I do not believe this is so. Only by avoiding disruption of Canadian markets can our trade in both directions be developed on a basis which can be sustained over the years, to the mutual advantage of both countries."

Urgent Need for Additional Power for Industry Given As Reason for Cost of Land

TORONTO (CP) — An urgent need for additional power on the part of Sarnia industry was given Tuesday as the reason the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission paid $7,000 an acre for land which had recently sold for $2,500 an acre.

Charles Tidy, special negotiator for Hydro, made the statement to the Royal Commission inquiring into the deal. The commission was set up Feb. 23 following opposition criticism in the legislature.

Mr. Tidy said Hydro purchased the land from Dimensional Investments Limited on March 11, 1959, picking up 175 acres of former Sarnia Indian Reserve land at the most economical price possible — a total of $1,250,000. The land was for a transformer station and extension of power lines.

"Would you regard the price as too high?" asked R. L. Kellock, retired judge of the Supreme Court of Canada. Mr. Kellock holds a watching brief for the Liberal members of the legislature, who charge that Hydro paid too much for the land.

"We would have liked to have got it for less money," he said. "Our original offer was from $2,000 an acre for the transformer station site and $7,500 an acre for land where Hydro had easements.

"BEST DEAL"

"Under the circumstances, it was the best deal we could make at the time to get the power through."

Dimensional paid the Indians $2,300 an acre.

He said Telford Adams, chief of the Chippewa Indians at Sarnia, told Hydro officials on July 22, 1956, that sale of reserve land was of keen concern to the tribe and careful study would have to be made of all offers.

Mr. Tidy said a month later the chief reversed his decision to negotiate with Hydro. He said the chief called council meetings on Aug. 27 and 28 at the office of Donald White, Sarnia solicitor, with William Clark, special representative for Crown Trust Company of Toronto.

Crown Trust acted for Dimensional in the purchase.

Hydro was advised of the meeting Aug. 29 by Ward Leroy, Sarnia Indian agent.

Questioned by Allan Arnup, Hydro solicitor, Mr. Tidy said he had not known of the meeting until a letter from Mr. Leroy next day had he heard Mr. Clark's name mentioned before.

The meetings resulted in the withdrawal of permission for Hydro to negotiate.

HAD THREE CHOICES

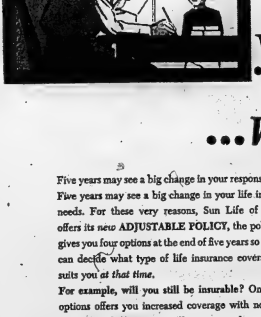
Mr. Tidy said Hydro then had three choices—it could have built the transformer station and lines through sought permission to expropriate or purchased the land from Dimensional.

He said Hydro's engineering division considered the original site the best in the area. And the Indian affairs branch at Ottawa refused to recommend that Hydro be given expropriation powers on Indian lands.

"They said it was not the policy of the government to allow expropriation if there was a chance to get the land in any other way," said Mr. Tidy.

He said he met with Mr. Clark of Crown Trust in Toronto Sept. 17, 1959, and at several succeeding meetings but was told that "under no circumstances" should any Hydro representative go on Indian land or contact the Indians because that might "upset our proposals."

He quoted Mr. Clark as saying that when Crown Trust purchased the land, Hydro could obtain what it wanted directly from Crown Trust. He said Mr. Clark would not divulge the name of the principals for whom Crown Trust was acting but suggested a tentative price of $10,000 an acre.



PERHAPS IN JUNE

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia likely will go to the polls in June. The last possibility of a May election was ruled out Tuesday in an interview with Progressive Conservative Premier Robert L. Stanfield. The informant said no announcement of the election would be made Tuesday. Provincial election law provides for the writ of election to be issued at least 42 days before polling day.

Five years may see a big change in your responsibilities. Five years may see a big change in your life insurance needs. For these very reasons, Sun Life of Canada offers its new ADJUSTABLE POLICY, the policy that gives you four options at the end of five years so that you can decide what type of life insurance coverage best suits you at that time.

For example, will you still be inurable? One of the options offers you increased coverage with no further medical evidence . . or . . will you want a larger income for your retirement years? Another option allows you to change your policy to an endowment at age 65 . . or . . will you want to reduce your premium outlay without reducing your protection? Then you can change your policy to a lower premium, whole life policy . . . Or you also have the option of keeping your original policy — which will be fully paid for at age 65 — in effect. This plan may meet your personal and family insurance needs for a lifetime.

With its four valuable options, Sun Life's Adjustable Policy looks to your future and considers

- your financial circumstances
- your family's protection
- your retirement income
- your insurability

Let the Sun Life agent in your neighborhood put you and your family on the right road to security. Why not ask him today for full details of this flexible new policy?

Researchers Hope Farmers Will Be Restocked With Disease-Free Pigs

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—Pigs delivered by Caesarean section are being used at the Ontario Veterinary College here for experiments on swine disease.

Dr. H. C. Rowsell, pathologist in charge, says about 250 pigs have been delivered by Caesarean operations during recent months. They were completely free of common pig ailments such as virus pneumonia and atrophic rhinitis.

As soon as the pigs are taken from the sow through an abdominal incision, they are placed in sealed isolation units designed to assure they do not contract a contagious ailment.

The eventual aim of the program is to produce disease-free swine but the immediate idea is to provide pigs which have never been exposed to the usual diseases, and thus have not had the opportunity to build up antibodies which would give them natural resistance to the ailments.

They then are ideal subjects for experimental work since they can be infected and observed under controlled conditions.

Work on the pigs is being carried out chiefly by Dr. Charles Rowe and Dr. Thomas Alexander, concerned with producing disease-free piglets, and Dr. Mickey Savan, involved through his interest in virus diseases.

In the long run they hope their efforts will lead to the restocking of farms with disease-free pigs.

"Eighty per cent of Ontario pigs are afflicted with virus pneumonia in comparison to 20 per cent a few years back," Dr. Rowsell said.

During a hearing scheduled today, the immigration department will be required to show why a writ of habeas corpus should not be issued to provide for Miss Rebrin's release.

Pros May Oust Three Rivers, Seek Kitchener, North Bay

MONTREAL (CP)—The Eastern Professional Hockey League, newest circuit in the ranks, may take in another Ontario city next season but will not expand beyond its present Six-club set-up.

President Ed Rousion, interviewed during the Supreme EPHL final playoffs, said Trois-Rivieres Lions were a financial loser this season and may lose their franchise unless they are better able to fulfill their league responsibilities.

If the Lions don't operate next season, Rousion said North Bay, Kitchener and Hamilton are most likely cities for replacement.

"All three are ripe for our league. There is a $100,000 rink waiting away in North Bay. That city's proximity to Sudbury and the fans would help in scheduling and gained the northern sector and would cut travelling costs."

AREZZA (GOOD) good

He said the EPHL is interested also in Kitchener because of its great hockey background and its excellent arena. Hamilton would be an angel in the opinion of some EPHL clubs, said Rousion, but at present it appeared the selection would be either Kitchener or North Bay.

"We won't subsidize the Trois-Rivieres team again like we did this season," he said. "It isn't good business and it isn't fair to the other clubs."

It is estimated the Lions will take $25,000 from the EPHL reserve fund to cover financial losses.

Fate of the Trois-Rivieres club is expected to be decided at the EPHL annual meeting in Montreal in June.

ARK GUARANTEE—

It is understood among registered voters in the Lions would have to guest would be guarantee of 1,500 season ticket sales and consideration of renovations to the Trois-Rivieres Coliseum.

The league, outgrowth of the defunct Quebec Hockey League, has completed its first season with teams in Montreal, Trois-Rivieres, Hull-Ottawa, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sudbury and Kingston.

Rousion said total attendance was more than 300,000. Three clubs topped 100,000 — Sudbury, 131,000; Soo, 110,000, and Hull-Ottawa, 102,000. Montreal Royals drew only 80,000, but Rousion said the Royals are the best drawing team on the road.

Two items on the agenda for the annual meeting are possibility of an all-star game next season and consideration of arranging a post-season series between champions of the EPHL and the Western Hockey League.

TeePee Coach Moans Over Series Outlook

MONTREAL (CP)—Rudy Pilous, president of St. Catherines Teepees as well as coach of Chicago Black Hawks, talked himself into a gloomy outlook Wednesday over the chances of his slow hockey team.

The Teepees hold a seemingly 3-1 lead in games over Brockville Junior Canadiens in the best - of - seven Eastern Canada final of the Memorial Cup playoffs. The teams meet here in the fifth game tonight.

"We won't win another game," moaned Pilous. "We're playing lousy hockey."

Asked how his team managed to win the first three games, he replied:

"Canadiens suffered from lack of competition during the regular season and we were able to get by with them. But now that they have played four games they are going real well.

"They're getting better as they go along, and the longer the series lasts the better they will be."

Pilous said he plans seven lineup changes. He will drop Bob Maki and Bill Ives and use two defencemen from his Junior B squad—Tom Trasher and Rick Pridmouth. Don Grosso will miss the game because of an injury.

Coach Claude Ruel of Canadiens said the Teepees "have a great club but if we play as well Wednesday as we did last Sunday we should be able to prolong the series."

Swede, Patterson Will Sign On Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson had better set his sights high if he figures on regaining the world heavyweight crown from Sweden's Ingemar Johansson at the Polo Grounds, June 20.

Ingo says he's better than ever.

"I'm much better now than when I came here the last time," said the 6 ft. 4 in., 210-pound shinned Swede today. "My right hand comes faster and faster. But it's not only my right hand. My left hand comes faster, too."

It took the unbeaten Swede all of eight minutes and three seconds of fighting time to knock the crown off Patterson's brow last June 26 with seven knockdowns.

It took a couple of hours longer Tuesday to get Johansson to agree to a shift of the return bout contract-signing date from Wednesday to Thursday.

Johansson arrived by plane all set to sign Wednesday, but the state athletic commission wanted time to inspect the contracts.

The wary victor was perturbed Ingo said: "I've got to be back in Switzerland on Wednesday night for personal reasons," but reluctantly agreed.

The last major obstacle to the return fight was cleared when State Attorney-General Louis Lefkowitz completed some unfinished business of the first fight with Feature Sports and Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager.

All parties agreed the state would get $25,000 settlement of the taxes owed on the ancillary (the television, movies, etc) rights of the first fight.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian Olympic Association officials for years have had a pat answer for Canada's sorry showing in Pan-American, British Empire and Olympic Games. It is a lack of competition on a national and international basis.

Without this, they've been saying, Canadians can't expect our athletes to win anything or even finish high up. The easement, particularly University of British Columbia crews, have exploded this theory with medal-winning performances in summer games but other athletes, particularly those in track and field, have been also-rans.

So, it wasn't much of a surprise to Jim Worrall, a vice-president of the COA, when he learned of Russia's large-scale preparations for the Aug. 25-Sept. 11 Olympics at Rome. The Reds probably have the most ambitious training program of any country in the world.

Individual Russian athletes of all sports on the Olympic program will compete in about 100 competitions, national and international, before the flame is lit at Olympic Stadium. In addition, they've got about 30 team-event competitions lined up.

FEW FOR CANUCKS

Canadian athletes would be lucky if they competed in two or three.

"I'm flabbergasted at this. Well —not really," Worrall amended in an interview.

"The Russians can compete in these competitions without travelling any farther than the 1,500-mile distance between Toronto and Winnipeg. Our athletes are handicapped by the long distances they must travel for a national event and also by the lack of funds to pay expenses."

The Toronto lawyer, general manager of Canada's 94-athlete team to Rome and an Olympic track and field athlete before the Second World War, wondered where the Reds got the money to send athletes to the various competitions.

GOVERNMENT AID

"I can only assume they do it with government assistance," he said. This brought up an interesting point.

Worrall said the COA had budgeted for $258,000 to cover expenses of the 1959 Pan-American Games at Chicago, the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., in February and the Rome Games. At the end of 1959, the association had "received less than half of this amount—$119,313.

"We'll have an up-to-date report when we meet in Toronto on April 23," Worrall said.

"We asked the Dominion government for $80,000 and we received $60,000. Of the $250,000, we budgeted for $150,000 from the public, business corporations and cities and at the end of last December, we had collected only $34,000 from these sources."

Grants from provincial governments at the end of 1959 totalled $16,255. Ontario contributed $10,000, Alberta and Nova Scotia $1,000 each and Prince Edward Island, $250.

"We are quite satisfied the other provincial governments will kick through," Worrall added.

The Russians expect to send about 300 men and women to Rome.

"It would be interesting to know how much this is going to cost and how they will get the money," Worrall wondered.

DRUNKEN SPARROWS

TOKYO (Reuter) — Agricultural officials in western Japan have been using rice soaked in alcohol to trap sparrows, which are easily picked up while staggering around and roasted for food. The sparrows are a winter pest, eating grain meant for farmers' chickens.

CAR TAXES

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (CP) — Canadians can buy a car for what a New Zealander pays in sales tax alone on a larger model, said Rhys M. Hale, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada in an address here recently. New Zealanders pay 40 per cent less against 17 per cent in Canada.

RARE, MEDIUM, 'WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Here's a tip to the sweet young things who should grow up into soft, curvy, cuddly dolls. Sad, if they adhere to athletics, will become mockeries of muscle and might.

Don't trade your beauty and cook-books for sports manuals.

Don't invest an electric frier for a golf club, or your dancing shoes for a pair of ski boots. Don't member with softball mitts or fiddle with fish-poles. Don't trade your hairpins for a set of darts nor the softness of your living room chesterfields for the harshness dank of a pole vault.

If you do, you'll grow up into an unwwomanly shape with stringy limbs, a hard face and arrested bust development.

The authority for that statement is Mr. Percy Cerutty, rampson Australian track and field coach, who warns women away from his training camps. Says all things pertaining to sports are detrimental to women who cannot hope to keep up strenuous training without surrendering their sex.

If that is the case it's our duty to string along with Cerutty.

Who wants a stringy-limbed, flat-chested, wire-haired unreasonable facsimile of womanhood to wind up and throw a soup-bowl strike after a hard day at the office?

Who wants a muscle-bound, ever-upbuilding maid with a deep chest that is her credit in staid living but, when brie-a-brac if you're out too late with the boys some night?

And supposing you married a sweet young thing who later developed a yen for professional wrestling. Imagine going through life with a Madame Yukon Krie who would not only throw her weight around, but yours besides.

Or a gal who prefers the "Golden Gloves" to fancy carrings?

But we do not agree wholeheartedly, if at all, with Mr. Cerutty's theory.

We have seen Barbara Ann Scott, Sonja Henie and Barbara-Paul make men sigh as they swept by in breathtaking figure-skating beauty. We have seen Mary Williams gliding through a pool with graceful precision-like strokes, a thing of nastical enchantment. And we saw girl skiers gliding down the slopes of the Swiss Alps, in rhythmic motion.

And in the ski chalets and club lounges later, we noted they were far from being "stringy-limbed, flat-chested, wire-haired" pieces of femininity who slowly but surely were separating themselves from the 98%.

Cerutty's point is fairly obvious. The attempts of women at athletics are only facsimiles of what men can do. No girl can do it better. You never see a picture of a man-woman dragging the sled mate along a mountain trail, carrying a chis and looking for a one-room honeymoon cave.

Back's couple of decades we had some pretty good ladies' softball teams in this village. And they drew good crowds of old timers, Bombertowers, Kingers, Lawyer Warner, Corbins, and other squads. Most of 'em are in the city at the present time, with growing families.

And unless these sports-worn optics are misting badly, they have lost little of the feminine charm and physical attributes they had in the good old days when they were running bases, blasting hits and combing umpires in strong feminine language, some of it garnished with strong masculine adjectives.

Mr. Cerutty should visit some of our Canadian golf-courses. Here at the Bay of Quinte he would have no trouble distinguishing any of the club's Marlene Stewarts from a driver. We haven't seen any "stringy flat-chests" on the course so far, and some of those gals have been slinking pails these many years.

No, after thinking it over, we do not agree with the Cerutty theory. There may be some "stringy-limbed flat-chested" lady athletes in some parts of the world, but in the majority of cases, they were "string-beans" when they came out of the family garden.

Tigers Take Indians' Scalp As White Sox Shade Kansas; Dodgers Topple Giants 4-0

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Writer

The world champion Los Angeles Dodgers are all alone in first place after their first run-in with San Francisco Giants, but the guys with the smiles in the National League are the St. Louis Cardinals.

They finally won one.

The Cards, after winning 18 exhibition games against six losses, discovered all sorts of ways to lose in their first true regular season game. But Tuesday night, with injured Joe Cunningham back and Stan Musial slugging a two-run double, the Cards broke through for a 5-2 victory over Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers topped the Giants out of a share of the lead with a 4-0 decision at San Francisco as Johnny Podres and Ed Roebuck combined for a five-hit shutout. And the Philadelphia Phillies won their first under new manager Gene Mauch, beating Pittsburgh 4-3 behind Jim Owen's three-hitter.

WINNER AT LAST

Southpaw Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell struck out 10 and gave up seven hits while becoming the Cards' first winner. He needed Lindy McDaniel's relief help in the ninth, but had a three-run lead after Bill White hit his first home run of the year in the eighth.

Wilmer also doubled home the Cards' first two runs, in the second. But it wasn't until the fifth that St. Louis drew ahead to stay. Cunningham, sidelined by a leg injury after playing in the season opener, was 2-for-4 and scored the two runs. He broke a 2-2 tie on Musial's double off loser Seth Morehead (0-1).

The Cubs had tied it in the third on Ernie Banks' third home run—a line drive that gave the slugging shortstop a tie with Gabby Hartnett as the Cubs' all-time home run champ with 231.

DROPS FIRST START

Los Angeles got the run it needed in the second on Carl Furillo's triple and a sacrifice fly by rookie Tommy Davis again Billy O'Dell (0-2), a loser in his first NL start. The Dodgers added three more in the ninth against Billy Loes and Stu Miller as John Roseboro's run-scoring single and two of the Giants' five errors. Podres, gaining his first decision of the season, struck out eight and walked two.

Owens, pitching with a 9600 fine for playing too hard off the field during spring training, was all business in his first appearance for the Phils. An error, Dick Groat's single and Bob Skinner's home run gave the Bucs their three in the third. The only other hit Owens allowed was Bob Clemente's single in the sixth. The young righthander walked but two and struck out nine. The Phils chased loser Harvey Haddix in the third.

The first showdown in the Rocky Colavito - Harvey Kuenn swap was a flop, but another old-season trade pulled by Cleveland's Frank Lane paid a quick return — for the Chicago White Sox — as the American League completed its late season opening.

Minnie Minoso, the outfielder who has spent his major league career shifting between Cleveland and Chicago, drove in six runs, walloped a grand-slam and a second, tie-breaking homer in the ninth as the defending champion White Sox beat Kansas City 10-4 Tuesday.

Colavito, the Cleveland favorite pulled a big muscle as the Tigers defeated the Indians 4-2 in 12 innings. The New York Yankees, running for a comeback, ripped Boston 9-4, and Baltimore gained a 3-2 victory over Washington in other games.

FANS FOUR TIMES

The league drew 162,336 for Tuesday's games and the largest crowd, 32,710, showed up at Cleveland, where Indian fans turned out to see what the Golden Boy would do in a duel with Tiger uniform. Colavito, who traded Lenny McDaniel's relief help in the ninth, but had a three-run lead after Bill White hit his first home run of the year in the eighth.

Wilmer also doubled home the Cards' first two runs, in the second. But it wasn't until the fifth that St. Louis drew ahead to stay. Cunningham, sidelined by a leg injury after playing in the season opener, was 2-for-4 and scored the two runs. He broke a 2-2 tie on Musial's double off loser Seth Morehead (0-1).

The Cubs had tied it in the third on Ernie Banks' third home run—a line drive that gave the slugging shortstop a tie with Gabby Hartnett as the Cubs' all-time home run champ with 231.

Podres, gaining his first decision of the season, struck out eight and walked two.

BREAKS UP GAME

Minoso, returned to the White Sox in a seven-player deal broke it up for the White Sox on a 3-1 pitch by reliever John Tsitouris. Kansas City had rallied to tie with two runs in the ninth on one Norm Siebern's home run, but Minoso's peg from left nailed Jack Williams at the plate and Bill Tuttle was caught on a double play.

A record Comiskey Park opening day crowd, 41,881, saw the Sox score a 5-5 lead, in the earned, in two innings. But 20-year-old Juan Pizarro was chased in a three - run fifth opened by Whitey Herzog's pinch hit homer.

Roger Maris, obtained from Kansas City as part of the Siebern deal, hit a pair of homers, a double and a single and drove in four runs for the Yankees. Righthander Jim Coates went all the way to win, giving up nine hits. One was Ted Williams' 494th home run, his second of the season. It broke a tie with Lou Gehrig for fourth place on the all-time list. Tom Brewer was the loser.

A seventh - inning double by Gene Woodling broke a 2-2 tie for the Orioles. Jack Fisher and Pete Ramos, tagged for Brooks Robinson's two-run homer, was in the third.

Edmonton's Junior A Kings Head East for Memorial Cup

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Oil Kings, new western junior champs, head east today for the Memorial Cup title series with a club bolstered by three star players, including controversial centre Cliff Pennington.

Coach Harry Allen then announced that he had lined up Pennington, who performed for the senior Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in the recent Olympic hockey tournament, from Flin Flon Bombers and two Brandon players, right winger Ed Ehrenverth and defenceman Dunc McCallum.

The westerners go against either St. Catharines Teepees or Brockville Canadiens for the cup and Canadian junior crown. Teepees lead their best - of - seven eastern final 3-1 with the fifth game in Montreal tonight.

All games in the championship series will be staged at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens starting next Sunday.

CAUSED STIR

Pennington caused a stir when he returned from the Olympics, where the Dutchmen placed second to the champion United States, and head for Flin Flon, Man. After charges of ineligibility, he eventually was allowed to perform for the Bombers, who were eliminated in the playoffs. They wrapped up their western final Tuesday night with a 6-1 decision over Brandon when Wayne Kingy, taking the bot-seven set 4-3.

Bobby Cox, picked up by Edmonton for the series from Lethbridge Native Sons, paced the Oil Kings with two goals. Ed Joyal, Wayne Muloin, Don Pasutio and Ted Demchuk scored the others. Brandon's goal was by Wayne Fawcett.

One three Edmonton teams have advanced to the Canadian Memorial Cup playoffs: Edmonton Athletic Club in 1924 and 1925, and the Edmonton Oil Kings in 1954.

The 1936 Calgary Canadians are the only Alberta team on the list of Memorial Cup winners.

Aussie Coach Says

There's No Place for Women In Olympic Games Contests

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Facilities Australian track coach Percy Cerutty has raised a storm here by his claim that there is no place for women in the hard sphere of Olympic Games competition.

Sport for women, he says, should be conducted as it was in the Victorian age.

Cerutty, general coach of many world record breakers, has extreme ideas of training for athletes. He teaches them to think of themselves in jungle conditions and to compete, lacerated, every faculty strained in a fight for survival.

BECOME MASCULINE

He is credited with producing such middle racers as Herb Elliott, who ran the mile in three minutes, 54.5 seconds.

But he warns women away from his training camp. He says the regime he demands would mean their surrendering femininity and becoming masculine.

"Having women running, jumping and throwing was all right when sport was truly amateur and largely the province of schoolgirls," Cerutty says. "It was the same with women in tennis in Queen Victoria's day. They weren't taken seriously and nobody minded.

"But sport today is on new levels. Men train and condition themselves in strength and fluidity. All these things are detrimental to women. They can't hope to keep up without surrendering their sex."

Athletics in Australia and New Zealand challenge Cerutty's claim. Some agree women should set a limit to their effort, but others dismiss Cerutty's theories completely.

New Zealand track and field administrators and coaches point out that two of the greatest Australian women runners, who have just been touring New Zealand, are particularly feminine and glamorous.

WOMAN HATER?

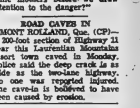
They are Betty Cuthbert, triple Olympic gold medal winner, and Mrs. Marlene Mathews - Willard, multiple breaker of world sprint records.

Neither is impressed by Cerutty's warnings. Said Betty Cuthbert:

"Mr. Cerutty is being old-fashioned. Times have changed since girls were barred from doing anything. I think he just hasn't got used to the idea."

Mrs. Mathews - Willard declared:

"I don't know what Cerutty has against us. Just see how many women athletes are married—and they certainly are feminine. He must be a woman hater."



This charge 65 - year - old Cerutty indignantly denies. "I'm no woman hater. I love 'em," he says. "But they must be womanly. I've never wanted to make a weight - lifting amazon yet."

Cerutty says he is not criticizing any present-day women athletes but merely lasting a warning on what will happen if they attempt the physical conditioning undertaken by top male athletes.

"They'll have to have muscular stringy limbs, hard faces, arrested bust development, unwomanly shapes. Do we have to wait until our girls cannot become mothers before we draw attention to the danger?"

ROAD CAVES IN

MONT ROLAND, Que. (CP)— A 200-foot section of Highway 11 near this Laurentian Mountain resort town caved in Monday. Police said the deep crack is as wide as the two-lane highway. No one was reported injured. The cave-in is believed to have been caused by erosion.

Mr. Fullmer Heavily Favored To Eliminate Mr. Giardello

By FRANK FITMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP)—Joey Giardello, getting his first title shot in 12 years' campaigning, aims for the National Boxing Association world middleweight championship tonight against rugged Gene Fullmer, defending his crown for the second time.

The 13,200-seat fieldhouse on the mountain-rimmed campus of Montana State College is nearly sold out for the nationally televised (ABC-TV, 10 p.m. EST) 15-round match.

The expected box-office gate of more than $100,000, with $30 tops, and TV receipts of $100,000 guaranteed monetary success for Montana's first championship bout since Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons battled in a 1923 financial flop. That nearly bankrupted Shelby, Mont., 200 miles north of here.

ADVANCE SALE HEAVY

Fullmer collects all the $100,000 TV payoff and Giardello, veteran of 106 fights since 1948, pockets $25,000 plus $5,000 expenses. Co-promoters Fran Haun and Norman Rothschild said the advance sale had topped 10,000 tickets and $90,000 receipts.

Cowboys, cattle ranchers and wheat farmers from hundreds of miles away flocked into this college-and-cow town of some 15,000 population. Special buses from as far away as Fargo, N.D., and Ogden, Utah, brought hundreds of fans. TV has been blacked out of Montana, Utah, and parts of Idaho, Wyoming and Washington.

Bozeman's accommodations bulged and the fight crowd spilled over into nearby towns like Livingston, 26 miles east of here, where Giardello, Brooklyn native fighting out of Philadelphia, trained since March 27.

Fullmer, renowned for his superb physical condition, said "I figure Giardello will be coming out fast in the opening rounds, but I always go into the ring expecting trouble." The 28-year-old champion from West Jordan, Utah, is among those who think the fight could go the distance.

FAVOR FULLMER

Fullmer is a 13-to-5 favorite tonight. He has a 31-4 record with 22 kayos and was knocked out only by Sugar Ray Robinson in 1957.

Giardello, ranked No. 7 by the NBA and No. 5 by Ring magazine, boasted of winning and claimed he is better shape than he has been for several years.

Although this is his first 15-round bout, the 29-year-old ring warrior said "don't worry about Joey going the distance. I sparred more than 100 rounds in training. Fullmer's the guy that better be in shape."

Joey's record is 83-17-5, with one no-decision. He has knocked out 30 opponents and has been counted out three times.

At San Francisco, meanwhile, matchmaker Benny Ford of the San Francisco Boxing Club said Tuesday he has offered Fullmer a $125,000 guarantee to fight there. The fee would be the winner of next Monday night's bout at San Francisco between Henry Hank of Detroit and Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y.

Eastern Bowlers Almost Sweep Title Honors

CALGARY (CP) — A band of Ontario bowlers made evident Eastern Canada's five-pin bowling supremacy Tuesday.

Only Portage la Prairie shooter comeback, managed to stop the eastern attack, taking a 38-point victory to become the Canadian singles champion.

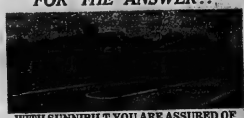
The eastern champions won in the men's and women's team events, swept the mixed teams competition and left it to St. Catharines' Marjorie Summer to edge Mary Currie of Calgary by seven points for the women's singles title.

The West threatened at times to overcome leads built up Monday by the East in the first half of the competitions, but only Mrs. Currie managed to threaten as in grinding 10 - game events reached the wire.

The Western Canada singles champion rolled a final game 315 to force the decision to the last frame of her match with Mrs. Summers. Harrison's winning performances for the singles title took a similar turn when he rolled an amazing 356 in his 10th game after setting a 16-point deficit at the outset of the match.

The eastern champion Lakehead men threw away their chances for the men's title as they fell apart in the final game, losing by more than 300 points.

Among the top Ontario performances in the mixed-event was that of 19-year-old Ottawa schoolgirl Gayle Holford who rolled 316 in one game and 698 in another.



The East finished the mixed competition 441 points ahead.

PERCH PRICE SET

WHEATLEY (CP)—The price of perch levelled at six cents a pound here Monday after setting an almost record high of 27 cents a pound two weeks ago. Fishermen say an over-abundance of the small fish on both sides of Lake Erie is responsible for the decline to normal prices.

Viewers Now Given Choice To Write Own Commercials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Do television commercials annoy you? Are you irked by fatuous smokers, pounding hammers, shaddy-ing shavers, Great Danes jumping into station wagons?

Relax. Now you may write your own sales message. A big oil company plans a commercial-writing contest extolling its gasoline. Actually, the contest is just a switch on the tried-and-true "I like Ike bread-buttered-" line, with the usual vacation trips and automobiles for prizes.

But while it is an amusing enough idea, I don't think it will serve to release the pent-up emotions of the commercials-weary viewer.

Curiously, there is something about a commercial — and some TV shows, too—that arouse passions never touched by advertisements on the printed page.

I know a man who is so emotional about The Gale Storm Show, he will come from another room to switch the dial when he hears the star's voice. I know a woman who dislikes so intensely a detergent commercial she can't watch the soap opera (which she does like) that surrounds it.

Producer David Susskind's packaging agency plans to turn out between eight and 12 specials a season under a new deal with the Reader's Digest. Susskind has been making a lot of remarks this year about TV's lack of creativity, and at the same time producing a steady stream of TV adaptations of vintage movies. His new plans involve adaptations from condensations from originals.

Recommended tonight:

Nicolchka, AEC, 8:30-10 p.m. EST—with Maria Schell, Zsa Zsa Gabor and Gig Young.

Bob Hope Show, NBC, 9-10 p.m. —Windup for the year.

Steel Hour, CBS, 10-11 p.m.—The Girl Who Knew Too Much with Mona Freeman.

Many Great Singers Come From Same Neighborhood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One way to make your son famous is to see that he's born and reared in a certain neighborhood of south Philadelphia.

That intelligence came after a chat with rock 'n' roll singers Frankie Avalon and Fabian. Both come from the same neighborhood in south Philadelphia that produced singers Eddie Fisher, the late Mario Lanza, James Darren, Bobby Rydell, Al Martino, Buddy Greco and Jody Sandz.

"All of us come from an eight-block radius," says Fabian, and Avalon adds:

"It's the only place in the country where mothers ask: 'How's your son's record doing?' Instead of 'How's your son doing?'"

Although Fabian, 17, and Avalon, 19, compete for the same rock 'n' roll dollar, they are the best of friends—even share an apartment here.

BOTH IN MOVIES

Both boys are doing very well in the movies. Avalon was in Rains of the Timberland with Buddy Ladd and just finished The Alamo with John Wayne.

Wayne calls him one of the finest young acting discoveries in recent years.

Fabian is making a movie with Bing Crosby. He says Bing is a swell guy but he's not his favorite singer. What's that?

"Elvis, our leader, who else?" answers Fabian.

Avalon's favorite is Frank Sinatra.

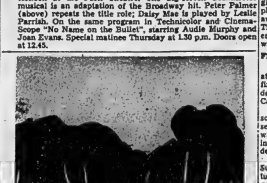
Royals Edge Wolves 3-2 To Even Series

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Floyd Curry's hard fighting Montreal Royals gave Sudbury Wolves a lesson in technique Tuesday night as they stretched the Eastern Professional Hockey League finals to the full seven games.

The lanjury - stricken Royals edged the Cup Wolves 3-2 to tie the series for the Tom Foley Memorial Trophy.

Both teams played defensive hockey in the first two periods, which had the Forum crowd of 3,117 yawning.



With two periods played, Wolves led 2-0. Then Royals, who were missing two players and using four injured regulars, opened up the game and scored three goals to win going away.

Veteran centre Kelly Burnett started the rough with two goals and captain Lulo Denis, another old lead, counted the winner.

Sam Bettio and Gene Ubriaco scored for the Wolves. Both teams flew to Sudbury almost immediately after the game for the final contest tonight.

American Grid Exhibition Irks Alouette Boss

MONTREAL (CP) — Reported arrangements for the exhibition game in Montreal between two teams of the National Football League brought caustic comment Tuesday from general manager Perry Moss of Montreal Alouettes.

It was Moss' opinion that the newly-formed American Football League may be forcing the NFL's hand.

Reports said the New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys have agreed to play Aug. 29 in Delormier Stadium, home of Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League. It was the former home of the Als, who now play in McGill University's Molson Stadium.

The game is reported promoted by Exhibition Football Enterprises of Toronto, which has scheduled an exhibition game in Toronto Aug. 15 between the Giants and the Chicago Bears of the NFL.

The Toronto game is reported to carry a guarantee of $25,000 each for the Giants and Bears, or 33 1-3 per cent of the gate. Tickets are to sell at a $7.50 top.

SAYS NFL WORRIED

"The NFL teams claim they are not worried in the slightest about the AFL," said Moss. "Then how come all of a sudden they have to find new territory in which to play their exhibitions?

"This is the second try the Giants have made to play a game here. They obviously are digging to find a place to play. It looks as though the AFL has got the NFL worried already."

Plans for an Eastern Grid Bowl game here Aug. 13 were said to have cancelled because the Alouettes open their Big Four league schedule at home the following day.

The game is said to have been picked by Exhibition Football Enterprises and scheduled for Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

MONTREAL (CP) — Four games under the lights open baseball season tonight with all the brass confident of a great year despite the political upheaval in Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The eighth elder launch the schedule amid persistent speculation that a franchise shift by the Havana Sugar Kings is imminent.

Jean (Shag) Shaughnessy, the IL's 76-year-old president who flew to Havana Tuesday for the opener there, said he was "sick and tired" of repeating every time a day for baseball in Cuba.

"Once and for all there is no franchise transfer planned," he said.

At IL headquarters here league secretary Harry Simmons added: "There is no reason for that type of transfer talk. The Cuban people take their baseball sport from politics".

Both joined Havana's general manager Paul Miller in denying a report from Rochester, N.Y., by Phil Rizzuto, former Yankee star that the Sugar Kings would move to Jersey City, N.J., after the club's 12-day opening home stand.

Fidel Castro is to throw out the first ball in Havana's game.

The sugar kings won the little world series last year after eliminating the pennant-winning Buffalo Bisons in the IL playoffs.

In other openers Montreal Royals meet the Jets in Columbus, Richmond Virginians host Toronto Maple Leafs and the Bisons play the Marlins in Miami.

ONE INCIDENT

Last season, two members of the Red Wings were slightly injured when nicked by gunshots fired by eaglerock Cabana in a rousing celebration to mark the success of Castro's rebel movement.

Simmons anticipates a pennant race so tight this year that he said it would be foolhardy to predict a favorite.

The Red Wings provide an interesting study in coincidental statistics. They have won the flag in the last three turn-of-the-decade years—1930, 1940 and 1950.

At the gate, the league anticipates a substantial improvement. Simmons foresees a total attendance of 2,000,000, a mark the IL has reached in 1953.

The IL is the oldest minor league. It was founded in 1884.

Peewee Tourney

GODERICH (CP) — Teams from St. Lambert, Que., and St. John's, Nfld., will make their first appearance here today in the week - long Young Canada Week peewee hockey tournament.

The St. Lambert club meets Woodstock in an evening match, one of seven A series games scheduled today while St. John's entered in the AA series, sees action in an exhibition contest against a host team from Goderich.

In Tuesday's play Tillsonburg defeated Goderich 3-2 in the B series, went on to win 4-1 over Byron and meets Walkerton in the B championship game Thursday night. Walkerton gained the finals with a 4-1 win over Georgetown.

New Hamburg and Exeter reached semi-finals of the C series. Exeter defeated Mitchell 5-2 and downed Rockland 3-0. New Hamburg beat Oakridge Acres 5-4 and eliminated Port Dover 7-4.

The elimination was a bitter blow for the Rockland Boosters—the team has Rockland's Canadiens' Bernard (Boom Boom) Geoffrion as honorary president.

The boys made the trip only because the townspeople chipped in $1,200 to meet expenses.

In another C series game, Port Dover whipped Palmerston 11-0 and the first game of the A series saw Guelph defeat Lindsay 7-0.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Make a favorable impression upon higher-ups today by doing your most efficient work. Be devoted tonight to that individual who is uppermost in your affections or means so much to you career-wise. Courtesy is also a must.

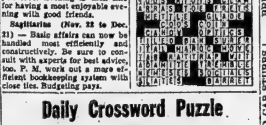
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You are in a most creative mood today and can accomplish a great deal with home and career interests. P. M. remain at your own fireside and get everything in order in that sphere.

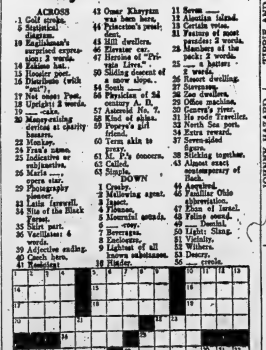
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If attuned properly astrologically, you should arise feeling very happy and full of life. Then spread sunshine among those you love. Evening is then fine for having a most enjoyable evening with good friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Basic affairs can now be handled most efficiently and constructively. Be sure you consult with experts for best advice, too. P. M. work out a more efficient bookkeeping system with close ties. Budgeting pays.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Systematic activity is wisest today, especially in the company of one who is clever and interested in mutually beneficial outlets. P. M. discuss your plans far into the future. Be astute, but very courteous.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Financial affairs should be of prime importance to you today. Confer with powerful individual who can lend you to greater success. P. M. accept the fine ideas of trusted pal of long standing. Put them in motion quickly.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You are inspired now how to best progress in all of your fundamental affairs. Express your desires to those who can help you to achieve them. Be friendly, courteous. P. M. have fun with serious and clever comrade.

If your child is born today — The clever child that is born today will early show a very serious and practical nature which is indicative of much success in adult life. An excellent chart for whatever has to do with large sums of money or a career in the musical or artistic world. A fine combined course of education is best here, with early training in the spiritual values.

NEW TEACHING

courages curiosity and interest in reading.

DOUBTS VALUE

Doubts that a person could become truly educated through radio, television or movies was expressed by Professor H. L. Tracy of Queen's University, Kingston. He said these media provided quick, easy and transitory presentation of knowledge but did not develop close and sustained thought. Such a habit was more likely to be acquired from the study of a book.

Dr. Waldo Severud, a University of Michigan professor, demonstrated a teaching machine he claimed is one of the greatest aids to teaching since the printing press.

The machine uses a roll of paper with questions which can be answered only one at a time. The answers follow the questions, but the student cannot turn the roll back to correct a wrong answer. Dr. Severud said the experimental machine allows students in large classes to answer a large number of questions and save the teacher time taken in correcting conventional test papers.

PROVINCIAL SHARE

Education Minister Roberts told the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Associations the province will not abdicate responsibilities in assuming its share of the increasing education costs at both the municipal and provincial level must be kept in the academic interest.

He warned that additional demands on tax revenue inevitably mean tax collections must be greater within the framework of existing taxes or that new taxes must be imposed to provide the revenue needed.

Dr. John Deutsch, Principal of the Ontario College of Education, Toronto, said educationists who demand profound knowledge for the gifted student and the bare essentials of education for the majority are trying to wreck the concepts developed through generations of thought and experience.

WARNS OF RACE

A warning was sounded by Rev. W. A. Young, chaplain of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, that the race with Russia for scientific supremacy must not blind Canadians to methods being adopted in the west. Many educational philosophy leans toward the development of machines rather than the building of human character, he said.

Dr. Eric Harrison, head of the history department of Queen's University, Kingston, condemned educational systems dedicated to turning out students in the form of an image called economic man.

"Graphs, intelligence questions, statistical analyses and teachers' college jargon are not the stuff of learning," he said.

NEGRO TOWNSHIPS

white elements for an end to the emergency regulations, under which the government raids the Negro settlements without search warrants and holding hundreds of Africans in jail with their arraignment and trial delayed indefinitely.

Despite the liberal climate, the government gave no indication when it would lift the emergency restrictions.

The acting head of the government, Lands Minister Paul Sauer, did say Tuesday that South Africa would "reconsider in earnest and in sincerity her whole approach to the native question." He added that "if this did not mean apartheid—the government's long - range program to segregate white and colored residents is completely separate areas—would be abandoned.

While Sauer's speech in Nationalist newspapers as a major policy statement, it remained to be seen whether Prime Minister Verwoerd—one of the chief architects of apartheid—would heed Sauer's call for a "new spirit" in race relations when he resumes control of the government.

Verwoerd is in a Pretoria hospital recovering from two bullet wounds in the head suffered in an assassination attempt last month.

HUNTS SOME EASING

Sauer said there must be an important change in the practical application of the apartheid without deviating from it. "Small grievances" that made for unrest and resentment among the Negro population will be removed, he said, and "Africans must be given hope for a happy existence and not the feeling of frustration among whites and non - whites should be removed."

But the minister of Bantu (Negro) Administration, Dewet Nel, said Tuesday night he was convinced apartheid would yet prove as a model the world for the establishment of good race relations.

"So long as our actions are governed by our Christian conscience, we have no need to fear anyone and we have assurance we will win through eventually," Mel said in a speech in Capetown.

TALK WITH UN

Meanwhile, it was announced the government has agreed to permit South Africa's racial problems with United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold at a meeting in London next month.

Hammarskjold said in New York he arranged the talks under the April 1 Security Council resolution asking South Africa to drop race segregation. The government's agreement to meet with Hammarskjold was a marked change in policy, since it has always ignored previous UN resolutions on South African racial issues.

Foreign Secretary Eric H. Louw announced he will take Ver-

Canada, U.S. To View Event On Television

By STEWART MACLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones will be the biggest television project ever undertaken in Europe. The United States and Canada also will see the event on TV.

Sixteen TV organizations in continental Europe will carry the event from the time the royal party leaves Clarence House, the princess' home, until the newly-married couple return to Buckingham Palace for the wedding breakfast.

All television facilities in Australia, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Monaco, Holland, Norway Sweden and Switzerland will be devoted to the event.

The actual filming will be done by the British Broadcasting Corporation which will channel the program over the Eurovision network. Sixteen foreign commentators will sit before monitor sets at BBC headquarters and describe the wedding in various languages.

The National Broadcasting Company of the United States will use the London-Montreal cable to transmit sections of the wedding films across the ocean. They will be shown in the United States and Canada about two hours after the ceremony.

This will be the first time that TV cameras have been allowed inside Westminster Abbey to cover a royal wedding ceremony. But no microphones will be allowed near the altar, and no close-up pictures will be taken while the couple are exchanging vows.

Dozens of cameras will be used along the procession route, where no restrictions are being imposed.

Virtually every TV station in the Western world is expected to carry filmed reports of the wedding within a day or two of the event. Films will be dispatched from London airport to destinations around the world within hours of the ceremony.

NEW ATMOSPHERE

TANGIER (Reuters)—The once international city of Tangier—long famed as the mecca of tax evaders, money changers, smugglers and spies—today becomes respectable and like any other city in Morocco. From now on citizens will pay taxes, visitors will pay customs and the old atmosphere of "anything goes" will be ended.

Mapledoram Co. Report in Error

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Clare Mapledoram, former Ontario minister of lands and forests, has criticized a Canadian Press dispatch of March 30 which erroneously said Clare Mapledoram Agencies Limited is a firm operated by Oscar Lehtinen and himself and is selling land at Dog Lake, received by Mr. Lehtinen in an exchange of lands with the department of lands and forests.

Mr. Mapledoram emphasizes that his company has not and is not selling the land and does not have the land listed. He also says that Mr. Lehtinen is employed by the company only as a salesman and that he has no other interest in the company.

A similar statement was made April 1 by Mr. Lehtinen.

The Canadian Press regrets its error and apologizes for any embarrassment or inconvenience caused Mr. Mapledoram or Mr. Lehtinen.

Malaya's Ruler Declares Reds Are Defeated

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) —Malaya's paramount ruler Tuesday proclaimed victory in the 12-year war against Communist guerrillas and promised lifting of the state of emergency July 31.

Emergency regulations, with curfews, food controls and mass resettlement of Chinese squatters, which have been enforced since June, 1948, also will go.

In his first address to parliament, the new sovereign, Sir Hisamuddin Alam Shah, also said Malaya attaches great value to its ties to the Commonwealth.

But he declared "Commonwealth partnership cannot blind us however to the terrible implications of the policy of apartheid being pursued in defiance of all true feelings of humanity by the government of South Africa."

Canned Surplus Pork Available

OTTAWA (CP) — Canned surplus pork from government stocks went on the Canadian retail market Monday under regulary commercial trade names.

The same pork also is available in carload lots labelled as Canadian government canned pork luncheon meat. The movement of the pork to the retail market was announced earlier by Agriculture Minister Harkness.

Monday, a department official said the disposal scheme duplicates the system used in 1952 to get rid of 60,000,000 pounds of surplus pork.

Packing houses would use their own labels on the meat from government stores, he said, and there was no concern felt about disposing of pork carrying the government label.

MORE SCALLOPS

Canadian Atlantic fisheries produced 4,000,000 pounds of scallops in 1958, compared with 2,900,000 pounds in 1956.

Says Citizens Confused About Role of Schools

TORONTO (CP)—Confusion on the part of citizens as to what to expect from schools is having a detrimental effect on the development of pupils, Dr. S. R. Laycock, former dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, said Tuesday.

Addressing the Ontario Educational Association meeting here, he said there is a chronic conflicting views on how children should be educated to become good citizens of our democracy.

Padre W. A. Young of Guelph's Ontario Agricultural College said Canada is in grave danger of adopting Russian methods in the mad race for scientific supremacy.

Dr. Charles E. Phillips of the Ontario College of Education said there has been a growing realization during this century that a person learns better if he sees value in what he is learning.

But, he said, modern critics have made loud demands to have the academically gifted segregated for preferred treatment and would like to see a narrow curriculum of bare essentials for the majority.

He said these critics are trying to wreck the concepts developed through six generations of thought and experience but despite them, educational practice will continue to progress.

Britain Works on Secret Ray To Explode H-Bomb Warhead

LONDON (Reuters)—A second London newspaper claimed today that British, American and Soviet scientists are working on a radar device that would be able to explode an H-bomb warhead while it was still over the country firing it.

The mass - circulation Daily Mirror said a "super - strong electric ray" was being developed by all three countries and added:

"British scientific think they are in the lead."

Wednesday, the Evening Standard said Britain was developing such a device—which would detect a rocket missile by projecting a radar beam over the curvature of the earth "deep into the heart of enemy territory."

The Standard said the British government had ordered a "flat-out" research program" to perfect the instrument.

The British defence ministry has denied the reports. The U.S. defence department in Washington said Wednesday it has never heard of such a device.

The Daily Mirror, however, called the Evening Standard report and went on to say that "British scientists . . . are now working on the super-ray project" but "the system is a long way from perfection."

It also said Britain had just taken off the secret list an electronic device which could "confuse the electronic brain in the enemy missile by feeding it false orders"—and thus put it off target.

The Mirror said the device was being developed for use in Britain's force of V-bombers.

U of T PROFESSOR CRITICIZES ONT. HISTORY TEACHING

Squeezed Into Series Of Signs, Symbols

TORONTO (CP) — Much of the history taught in Ontario schools has been squeezed into an arid series of signs and symbols, says an assistant professor of history at the University of Toronto.

Dr. J. F. Saywell said Wednesday that history students take notes from lectures and compose books that are already compressed to write colorless compressions of history in essays and examinations.

"Later," he told the convention of Ontario Educational Association, "the student brings the signs and symbols back—and life has to life but to language and ticks."

"History is sensitivity to people, places and events," he said. "It is judgment and appreciation; it is directed curiosity; it is the past in the present and the present in the past."

"Nothing in the way of knowledge or judgment of history is carried over by a high school into university by the great mass of students.

"I must believe then," he said, "that the whole system is wrong, its objectives so undecided as to be non-existent, the methods of instruction and quality a combination of all three."

Professor Saywell, a former geography teacher at Moscow University, said student geography expeditions in various parts of the U.S.S.R. have had their expeditions in various parts of the U.S.S.R. have had their expedition supplies confiscated during the planning the Soviet economy.

The professor was visiting Canada at the invitation of the OEA executive.

Dr. R. R. Laycock, former dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, told delegates that the gifted child is often resented by parents, teachers and classmates.

Wise counsellors and enthusiastic teachers can help the gifted child develop a desire for achievement, he said. Sometimes parents can be helped to see their gifted child's need for stimulation and challenge.

Donald M. Ritchie of Parry Sound was named president of the association.

Other officers included:

Vice - presidents: Miss Gordon Walls, St. Thomas; Jack Rose, Wainfleet.

Elementary school section: Olive Anglin, Haliburton.

Inspectors: J. Campbell Webster, Brantford.

Rhee Cabinet Out Opposition Asks New Election

Death Toll in Seoul Riots Is Placed at 147

SEOUL (CP)—President Syngman Rhee was left in lonely control of South Korean affairs today after both his cabinet and the central committee of his Liberal party resigned en bloc.

The cabinet and the party organization accepted responsibility for the bloody riots this week in which hundreds of anti-government demonstrators were killed or wounded.

Following the resignations, Rhee summoned six senior "neutral" politicians to his heavily guarded residence to discuss the crisis.

NEW ELECTIONS URGED

But Dr. John M. Chang, the opposition leader who was vice-president until his defeat in the March 15 elections, said the only real settlement was new presidential elections.

Chang, whose democratic party claims the elections were rigged by the ruling Liberals, said President Rhee's promise of a "new goodwill" could bring peace to South Korea when added directly to the country's ailments.

The 85-year-old president's party said Wednesday that his promise of redress for those killed "was unsatisfactory and insufficient. The promise came in the wake of bloody anti-government riots in various cities that brought martial law to the capital and other major industrial cities.

There were no reports of renewed violence as troops and police patrolled the cities. But opposition newspapers said bodies of demonstrators shot by police were turning over to weeping, wailing relatives.

AT LEAST 1,000 SHOT

With at least 1,000 persons shot during the riots, the known death toll stood at 147. Hundreds more still were critically ill and in hospital.

Vice - President John M. Chang, leader of the opposition Democratic party, declined there would be no compromise in his party's demand for new elections.

"Anything short of that would never have the fundamental question," he told a press conference, "such as the announcement of the cabinet's resignation.

Chang, who has bid for re-election last month to Lee Kipoong, Rhee's Liberal party running mate, has been run unopposed for his fourth term after the death of the Democratic party candidate, piled up the biggest vote of his career in the election.

PRINCIPAL ISSUE

The election was the principal issue behind the uprisings. The Democrats have charged the Liberals with rigging the voting and widespread ballot box stuffing in favor of Rhee.

Rhee should the aged president not live out his full term of office, will run in the 1956 election.

Other outgoing cabinet ministers were generally considered to be "yes men" to Rhee and Lee's proteges.

Their resignation appeared to be mainly an apology for the bloodshed and not a move to change basic underlying causes of discontent.

United States diplomats and Walter P. McConaughy met with Rhee for an hour to press the U.S. demand for an impartial inquiry as a solution to the situation.

The fire, destroyed the top two floors of the building where the victims all lived.

Gallic Enthusiasm Bubbles Over in Quebec As President de Gaulle Pays Fleeting Visit

QUEBEC (CP)—Gallic enthusiasm bubbled over here Wednesday as President de Gaulle of France paid a fleeting visit to this capital of New France on the end of step of a four-city Canadian visit.

Everywhere he went there were cries of "Vive de Gaulle," and "Vive la France." Street crowds were not large, they were enthusiastic. At each stop, France's strongman evoked the ancient ties between Quebec and France.

At city hall—where he signed the same Golden Book he signed in 1948—he said that recognition of French Canada is believing it.

At Laval University—where he addressed an overflow crowd of 2,000—he congratulated the university for its contribution to French thought and "especially for maintaining the colonial power in the main motherland, France."

"HUMAN SUCCESS"

And at a state banquet Wednesday night he said that what is being done in Quebec province is a "great human success and a great French success."

De Gaulle and his party arrived here from Ottawa in chilly winds and sunny blue skies.

At each of his Quebec stops, he reaffirmed his faith in France and expressed his pleasure at being in French Canada. He termed his welcome "splendid and touching."

He told a city hall gathering—mostly city councillors — that French thought and feeling are vital to the world.

IMPRINT OF FRANCE

Everywhere he looked he could see the imprint of his native country.

Whether it was a narrow street lined with high stone buildings topped with Norman-styled roofs or a religious institution, the French artisans at the time France was a colonial power in America he could see the work of Frenchmen who founded and built the old city.

For President de Gaulle his visit to Quebec was a sentimental journey as well as a courtesy call to Canada's only city where French is spoken by more than 90 per cent of the population.

Today's Chuckle

During a week when husband and all three wives are at the house, a second young wife commented: "The toughest thing about being a housewife is that you have no place to stay home from."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A low pressure centre moving across Northern Ontario today brought rain and overcast skies to most of the north country. A band of showery weather extends to the south of this low as far as Kentucky. The unsettled weather will pass across the southern regions of the province today. Tonight will bring clearing skies and slightly cooler temperatures to all regions followed by increasing cloudiness and a few more showers on Friday.

MONTREAL (CP) — French President de Gaulle arrived at Montreal airport in suburban Dorval at 10:11 a.m. EST today for a whirlwind visit to this second largest French-speaking city of the world.

The RCAF plane, arriving from Quebec, touched down four minutes ahead of schedule.

Four pieces of artillery fired a 19-gun salute as the plane taxied up to the airport buildings.

A 100-man guard of honor from College Militaire Royal at St. Johns, Que., and the band of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps took part in the official ceremonies.

The six-hour daytime stopover in Montreal was between the French president's tour of Quebec City, heart of French Canada in a flight lasting to Toronto, hub of Canada's Anglo-Saxon majority.

Bigger Candy Bar Selling At Old Price

TORONTO (CP)—Chocolate bars are getting bigger in Canada this year with no increase in prices.

One manufacturer, William Neilson Limited, has already increased the size of bars and they are on sale across the country. The company says some of its 15-cent gold bars has been increased 30 per cent. At least one other manufacturer, Rowntree Company Limited, has plans for increasing the size of its bars.

The reason behind the increase is the reduced price of candy bar ingredients.

PRIME MINISTER FLIES TO MEXICO FOR STATE VISIT

Trade Will Be Subject of Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker left Ottawa by plane at 8:27 a.m. EST today for a two-day state visit to Mexico, expected to include talks on trade and international relations with President Lopez Mateos.

The transport department Viscount, also carrying Mrs. Diefenbaker and Mexican Ambassador Rafael de la Colina, was scheduled to stop at New Orleans for refueling about noon and to arrive in Mexico City about 2 p.m. The party will return to Ottawa Sunday night.

Diefenbaker's trip follows the two-day state visit paid to Canada last October by President Lopez Mateos.

At that time, Mr. Lopez Mateos said he looked forward to expanded trade between the two countries. This is expected to be the main theme of the two leaders' talks in Mexico.

Officials have said Canada and Mexico have no problems to be settled. The talks will be confined partly at r eaf firming friendship.

Most Municipalities Switch To Daylight Time on Sunday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most municipalities in eight of Canada's 10 provinces will turn their clocks ahead an hour after midnight Saturday in a switch to Daylight time.

A Canadian Press cross-Canada survey shows that for most of the municipalities, Daylight time will begin shortly after midnight and end Oct. 30, a period of 193 days, one more than in 1959, ended Sept. 25.

Ontario and Prince Edward Island will remain all year round on Standard time. They have already switched their clocks ahead to Daylight time.

In British Columbia and Newfoundland Daylight time is mandatory. It is optional in the remaining provinces. For most of B.C., Daylight time will continue until Sept 25.

In Saskatchewan some centres will observe Central Standard Time and others Mountain Standard Time. Eastern Saskatchewan and the Central zone and western Saskatchewan in the Mountain zone.

Regina will go on MST per-manently Sunday. This was approved last fall by the voters.

Most Ontario municipalities will observe the Daylight time period from April 24-Oct. 30. Exceptions are Chatham and eight area municipalities and St. Thomas and Sarnia. Chatham and neighbors will revert to Standard time Sept. 4, while the others will do so Sept. 25. In Northern Ontario, the community of Dryden will return to Standard time at the beginning of October.

Port Arthur, Fort William and Windsor and its nearby communities of Wheatley and Leamington will stay on Standard time.

Most of Quebec province will plan Daylight time April 24-Oct. 30.

U.S. practice varies widely. Among the states where daylight time will be observed are California, Wisconsin, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Maine, Illinois, New York, New Jersey and Rhode Island. Washington, D.C., also will operate on Daylight time.

In some states, the change is any date.

Nine-week-old Prince Andrew stayed behind with his nurse.

The Queen and the two children left Windsor Castle in a car with the Duke and Duchess of Beaufort and whose property the trials are held.

BUT NOT TO STAY

But Prince Philip, who was not originally expected to go to Badminton, flies on to Suffolk Friday for an equestrian event.

Printed Word Called Form Of Anaesthetic

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—University Professor Alan Thomas says radio and television are the best means of communication and printed word is the "greatest form of anesthetic."

"National library week, like the vote - a - year - bicycle - safety campaign, is completely irrelevant," he said in a letter to the editor. "The effect it doesn't matter what you read, but read. The great percentage of books today are just tripe."

Prof. Thomas, with the extension department at the University of British Columbia, addressed the annual convention of B.C. Parent-Teacher Associations Wednesday night.

Venezuelan Rebels Flee Toward Border

CARACAS (AP) — Rebels forced the resident President Rojo Betancourt abandoned their last stronghold today and fled toward the Colombian border.

The rebel remnant quit the Barquisimeto area after the government in San Cristobal as loyal government troops and tanks closed in on the city, capital of Tachira state.

The rebels fled to escape a major battle promised by Betancourt a move that would leave underlying causes of discontent.

United States diplomats and Walter P. McConaughy met with Rhee for an hour to press the U.S. demand for an impartial inquiry as a solution to the situation.

Canadian Red Cross Official Tells Of Reds' 'Fountain of Youth' Clinic

HAMILTON (CP)—A man of 93 did himself credit on a desk a Red Cross official said Wednesday night in describing treatment at a drug being used behind the Iron Curtain.

Lorraine Aitken, past president of the Canadian Red Cross Society, told the annual dinner of the society's Ontario division that the drug may have enabled the man to speak more than an aid to longevity.

Mrs. Aitken said he was impressed with the results obtained from the drug at the Institute of Geriatrics in Bucharest, which he visited last fall.

He said Dr. Anna Aslan, director of the clinic, showed him three patients who had been treated with the drug and the drug, a derivative of novocaine called gerocaine.

He said the British Medical Society had branded Dr. Aslan's treatment as completely phoney.

"One man of 113 years of age was just remarkable," Mr. Aitken said. "He was sitting in the back of his neck were like those of a young man. His head was a thatch of hair was beginning to turn black at the roots.

"Another man of 93 came out and did handstands on a desk and a lady, who was 86 and a former opera singer whose voice had been trained by the arias and she almost shook the room."

Mr. Aitken also told of Toronto's treatment of the aged at the clinic. She looked like a fresh hospital patient but said the treatment was helping her.

Mr. Aitken said he was offered three of the capsules by Dr. Aslan but refused them.

"However, it's common gossip around Bucharest that Nikita Khrushchev uses the capsules. That's why he's got so much energy and is robust."

REFRESHER COURSE HELD FOR SCALERS

A refresher course was held for Tweed district scalers at the Sawyer-Massey mill at Massanoga north of Coleman on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. This course is held annually in the district to provide an opportunity for the scalers to "brush-up" on scaling practises and discuss scaling and other timber problems.

A large number of scalers are employed by the Department of Lands and Forests to measure and record the volume of timber cut from Crown Lands. On the basis of this measurement, approximately $13,000,000 in Crown dues is collected annually from timber operators across the province.

In addition, it is the responsibility of the scaler to inspect all operations on which he is employed to ensure that the cutting of timber is in accordance with the regulations of the Department.

Longshoremen Refuse to Cross Picket Lines

NEW YORK (AP)—White-collar workers of New York shipping firms went on strike today and their picket lines set up by local 1814, The Office and Professional Employees International Union, and also refused to work on some piers where pickets had not appeared. Only about 300 pickets were actually on duty.

The longshoremen are members of the International Longshoremen's Association.

Passengers from the American Export liner Independence, which docked just before the pickets appeared, had to carry their own luggage off the ship. They were met by the American Export line's office personnel and ship crew members.

New Administration Bldg. For High School Board Will Be Built in Near Future

Tenders for the construction of the proposed new administration building for the Bay of Quinte Secondary High School Board are expected to be called in the near future, it was learned this week.

Before tenders are invited, however, board members will confer with architects Watson and Wiegand, regarding the possibility of changing some construction details with the view to reducing costs.

The new 4 storey addition building is planned to be built on College St. on board property between the Quinte Secondary School and King George Public School.

Board members decided at their April meeting held this week that no definite statement with respect to acceptance of additional students beyond the present school area, will be made until June.

Cafeteria operators at the town high schools will be placed on a salary schedule which will allow for $50 increase per month in a maximum of $240 per month on a ten-month operating basis. After a probationary period cafeteria operators are paid $200 per month and then will become eligible for the $50 annual increment for the next eight years.

Hiring of teachers for the commencement of the fall school term is now well along, according to board secretary Roy DeForge. To date approximately 12 resignations from local high school teachers have been received and these, resignations together with additional teachers required for the new courses, will call for the hiring of about 25 teachers for the fall term.

CONTRACT AWARDED

Charles Hyde and Son have been awarded the contract for the replacement of four drinking fountains at PCI, the installation to be on a trial basis. Replacement of the fountains was recommended by the city medical health officer.

Hyde's will also install hot water lines to cafeteria sinks at the Quinte Secondary School.

Herman Kugel of Foxboro will construct a dustproof paint room for use in connection with the woodworking shop at Quinte, while E. W. Varner and son have been authorized to complete the redecoration of halls and stairways at BCI.

Tenders will be called for the construction of a temperance fountain for an agricultural building at Moira School, similar in size and appearance to that at Quinte.

Construction of the buildings will be done by the school students.

Members of the agricultural class at BCI were authorized to re-seed portions of the school campus, while seeding of the Quinte campus was also authorized by the board.

Two students from each of the three city high schools, a boy and a girl, will go to the athletic leaders' training camp at Lake Couchiching. Transportation expenses, incurred will be paid by the board. Train fare for local students competing in Spring finals at Toronto this week was also authorized paid.

A special committee of the board will investigate complaints that school lockers at Quinte are standing up. Locks and other parts of the lockers are claimed not to be standing up.

NO ACTION TAKEN

No immediate action was taken on a resolution from the Oshawa School Board submitted to the local board of labor conciliation which asked that dependents eligible to be claimed for income tax deduction, be allowed under the hospital services insurance plan.

The resolution will be sent back to Oshawa for more information.

The portion of the cost of a dinner for the graduating class of Quinte Secondary school at BCI will be paid by the school board. The dinner is not an annual affair but is given only at the conclusion of the three-year course.

The board will take under consideration the suggestion that a night school course be held on maintenance for air cooled motors such as are used on lawn mowers and for outboard motors. Other courses to be considered for night school are taxidermy, horticulture and advanced bookkeeping.

WILL VISIT SCHOOL

Agricultural students will be authorized to visit the Trenton-ville Agricultural School, while authorization was given for shop director Clive Hyde of the Quinte Secondary School to attend a weekend conference at Barrie. Appreciation will be extended to the Chrysler Corporation, 4 and also to the J. J. Morris Company for the donation of certain vocational equipment at Moira.

And finally authorization for the purchase of commercial classroom equipment at Quinte was given. Equipment to be purchased included six standard typewriters, three electric typewriters, calculators, three office machines, a pegboard and a sewing machine.

Department Plans to Rebuild Madoc Road if Approval Is Given by County Council

Subject to ratification by Hastings County Council when it meets for its spring session next week, members of the county roads and bridges committee have given their approval to a Department of Highways offer which would see the Madoc-Foxboro county road completely rebuilt over a three or four-year period.

Announcement of the Department of Highways offer was made yesterday by Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings East.

According to the plan the Madoc road, long a subject of controversy in an attempt to have it rebuilt, would be provincial highway, would be rebuilt in sections, each commencing at a point south of Moira Lake.

A preliminary survey of the first section would commence this year with grading in 1961 and paving in 1962. The first section to be rebuilt would extend from the south as the village of Ivanhoe.

The road would be rebuilt as a provincial highway under the Ontario Department of Highways in all engineering, letting of grading contracts, and paving. The county would be expected to provide the necessary right-of-ways.

Two short sections of the Madoc Road were rebuilt several years ago under the provincial road development scheme. These were south of Madoc and extending to below Moira Lake, and at the Hallowey cut-off.

HANGING FIRE FOR YEARS

However, the balance of the county road was never designated as a development scheme and for some reason the project had been hanging fire for the past few years.

It is expected that all stages —engineering, grading and final paving of the three miles of the Madoc Road would take up to five years.

Good news for motorists driving No. 3 Highway in the Millbrook - Peterborough area announced by Mr. Rollins.

According to word received by Mr. Rollins from Highways Minister Hon. Fred Cass, plans are now in progress for a bridge and intersection at Millbrook, which, in recent years, has been the scene of numerous traffic accidents.

Plans are to include work of improving the intersection in a Highway extension contract for which tenders are to be called in the near future.

United Appeal Publicity Group Holds First Meet

The first meeting of the newly formed Belleville United Appeal publicity committee was held on Tuesday night at the home of the Ontario Hydro.

The new committee is under the chairmanship of E. G. Gurnett, publicity committee chairman.

Mr. Gurnett explained that he organized to "assist in informing the citizens of Belleville regarding the Belleville United Appeal and its campaign for participating agencies for 1960."

Stated chairman E. G. Gurnett: "Our effort will be greater this year to try and meet the needs of the participating agencies, but it is fully recognized that this can only be accomplished if people are made as fully aware as possible of the needs of the agencies and of the objectives and aims of the United Appeal in their behalf."

Members of the committee are: Mrs. John Haig, Mrs. J. Leslie, Miss Gladys Hutchinson, Mrs. Henrietta Miller, Mrs. Jane Forrester, Mr. Leslie Maracle, Mr. J. C. R. Punchard and Mr. Knox David.

During the meeting several suggestions for publicizing the work of the agencies and promoting the support of the citizens were discussed.

One of the suggestions was that merchants be requested to co-operate with the Appeal by including a short message urging citizens to support the Appeal's financial campaign in any advertisements they may be carrying.

It was stressed the efforts of the publicity committee will be supplementary to news of the agencies which will be provided by the agencies from time to time, both in The Ontario Intelligencer and over CJBQ.

In addition advertisements publicizing the campaign will be placed in the near future "over the air," and speakers will be provided to give short talks to service clubs, women's organizations, and all types of public gatherings which may take place before or during the 1960 campaign.

Indians Being Treated As Second Rate Canadians

TRENTON — A plea to members of the Canadian Legion to do something about racial segregation in Canada was made Wednesday night by Major Aubrey Howel, addressing the annual Flapjack Party of Trenton Legion.

Major Howel said that Canadians read about atrocities against the Negro in South Africa and the southern States and think complacently, "It couldn't happen here in Canada."

"Canadians have been guilty of the same offence," he said. "We have degraded and debauched the Canadian Indian until he no longer wants to be known as a Canadian. Our forefathers enriched the Indians out of their land, and today we herd them onto reserves and tolerate complete legislation designed to keep them there forever."

Major Howel revealed that the percentage of Indians who had fought for their country was higher than among white Canadians.

He said that the 54,000 Indians in Canada today were treated as second rate Canadians. While they were not given equal opportunities with white Canadians for education and employment, they had produced outstanding leaders.

"It's a dirty problem—a nasty problem and we should have a conscience about," he said.

Major Howel complimented the Legion members on their new hall. He said he could see the day when a planing mill stood on the same spot.

Kenneth Craddock, vice-president of the Trenton branch of the Legion, thanked Major Howel for the address, followed by Lorne Foster.

Doctors Find Italian Girl Has Two Hearts

PARIS (Reuters)—Doctors here have found the reason for 17-year-old Italian girl's illness which had baffled experts for years—she has two hearts.

The girl, Carmela Di Felice, who lives in France with her family, was admitted to a hospital near here complaining that she was constantly tired and out of breath—the trouble that had afflicted her for as long as she could remember.

Doctors back home in Bari, Italy, had diagnosed heart trouble and prescribed injections.

But the French doctors went a step further—they x-rayed her.

They discovered that Carmela has two hearts—one on each side of her body. Even more remarkable, one heart—the left one—has two aortas and the other has three. The aorta is the main blood vessel in the heart, and most hearts have only one.

Carmela is under observation in hospital at Saint-Germain-en-Laye while doctors decide whether an operation is possible. They are reported to have asked for an observation period of two years before any surgery is attempted.

Arab Unions Map Reprisals

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters) — Leaders of trade unions throughout the Arab world met here today to map out reprisal measures against the signing of an Arab ship in New York.

The executive committee of the Arab International Trade Unions organization held a special meeting to discuss the counter-moves developed against the New York pact signed by Israel and Republic liner Cleopatra which started eight days ago.

Stevedworkers at the Syrian Mediterranean port of Latakia refused to unload a 6,685-ton American freighter Examiner, and seized starting Wednesday day with an American cargo.

Boycott moves are also in the air against four other American ships in Syrian ports.

Transport executives of 11,000 shipping company workers along the Syrian Mediterranean coast decision Wednesday night to stop supplying Americans ships with food and ordered starting Monday unless the boycott on the Cleopatra was ended.

American maritime unions are boycotting the Arab-Israeli pact because of Arab refusal to let Israeli cargoes through the Suez Canal.

Relatively few Arab ships call in New York ports but most are American ships enter Arab ports.

Crown Appeals Acquittal of Three Bailiffs

TORONTO (CP)—Bailiffs who enter a home and forcibly repossess furniture are guilty of trespassing, the Crown argued in the Ontario Court of Appeal Wednesday.

William B. Common, deputy attorney-general, was speaking in the appeal by the Crown against the acquittal last February of three licensed bailiffs charged with theft causing bodily harm. The court reserved judgment.

CCFer Says Govt. Has Not Kept Promises

RADVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Hazen Argue, CCF parliamentary leader, said Wednesday night a "great disillusionment" has occurred on the Prairies because the progressive Conservative government has not kept its promises.

He said the party would be unable to "elect a corporal's guard" there in the election now called immediately.

In an address at a CCF rally, Dr. Argue said the people of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta gave Prime Minister Diefenbaker's party overwhelming support" in the 1958 federal election, putting Progressive Conservative members in 47 of 48 prairie seats.

But since the election the prime minister had failed to keep faith with the voters.

"There is a great disproportionment was in agriculture, Mr. Diefenbaker promised his party would be a party prices." He had said he would relate agricultural prices to agricultural costs.

This had not been done.

"Instead of parity prices, hogs and eggs have been dumped unceremoniously on the market on the pretext that these commodities were being supported by deficiency payments. The result has been the lowest prices in a decade for hogs, considerably lower prices for most grades of eggs, with only a meagre payment on Grade A large eggs."

Education Minister Robarts Promises Statement Shortly After Parley With Trustees

TORONTO (CP)—A delegation from Trenton Board of Education was told by Education Minister Robarts Wednesday afternoon that he would do what he could to help settle a dispute between the board and Trenton high school teachers.

Mr. Robarts said he expected to be able to make a statement on the problem in a week or so.

The board claimed it was pilloried by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation after it refused to hire a high school principal E. S. McIlwain, who resigned about a year ago to together with 11 of his staff of 27.

Meanwhile, in Trenton, Mrs. E. Bedford, who recently resigned as chairman of the board of Education, issued the following statement:

"Having resigned from the Trenton Board of Education on matters of principle over which I have already stated, I have no further comment to make on the present dispute between the Trenton Board of Education and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

"I cannot, however, keep silent regarding the public statements which have been made by certain colleagues, Robert Barlow and George Greer, and the counter-statement by the chairman of the board, Mr. T. S. Kellett.

"In Mr. Ketcheson's reply to the statement made by the Board of Education members George Greer and Robert Barlow, he refers to two events prior to the vote of non-confidence Mr. Greer had suggested that the motion be brought before the board.

"This I agreed to the board met in committee. At this meeting Mr. Greer suggested that the motion should make a resolution of confidence in high school principal Eric Smith. I have checked with Mr. Greer and he assures me but this is the one and only motion he has suggested involving the high school principal.

"I would suggest that there is a vast difference between making a motion of confidence and a motion of non-confidence and therefore resented to me that a misunderstanding exists in the minds of Mr. Greer and Mr. Barlow and Mr. Aziz on this rather important point.

"I ask Mr. Greer and Mr. Barlow, I voted against the motion of non-confidence in the principal because the few reasons which were advanced in support of such a motion appeared shallow and surely trivial."

200 Persons Out of Work When Big Factory Closes

TRENTON — More than 200 persons will be unemployed when Canada Wallpapers (Eastern) Ltd. of Canada closes within three weeks.

The company said in a statement Wednesday that "poor trading conditions for the past year or so" had forced it to shut down. It called itself in a difficult financial position and endeavored, during recent months, to reduce its new capital, but its efforts were "unsuccessful".

The aluminum manufacturing company opened its Eastern branch in Trenton six years ago and since has been recognized as one of the mainstays of the town.

In order to deal equitably with contractors and creditors, a voluntary assignment has been made. An orderly liquidation is planned. Creditors will be called to a meeting within three weeks.

FEATHERED FIRE BUG

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP)—A fire which did a small-scale cigaret but Wednesday to its ashes in the upper reaches of an 1815 century building at Ford's Greenfield Village. Firemen doused the blaze but not before several timbers were charred and some plaster was damaged. The building was brought here piece by piece from England by the late industrialist Henry Ford.

Hobby Sideline Started in '50 Blossoms Into Big Business

Today marks quite a milestone in the progress of a local Front Street business, which originally started out as a hobby sideline back in 1950 for Doug Smith. It was then that Mr. Smith opened a small shop in the basement of his residence to cater to the needs of local model airplane builders.

Through a gradual increase in the demand for hobby materials and model kits he expanded his space into an adjoining eventually taking over a small grocery store premises on Pine street and then moving onto Pinnacle Street into a "ten by ten" shop with a capital.

Today under the name of The Hobby Shop which name has been applied to the present corporations as a limited company, model and train enthusiasts on the area find new doors open to them and a very spacious and well laid out store where they may shop around at their leisure. Besides the lines which have been carried up to the present they still see a number of power tools which will delight the do-it-yourself person.

PASSING THE BUCK

Flo-glaze paint is another new line and Mr. Smith says that there will be more and more customers and more seasonal goods in stock as well. Coin collecting is also a hobby and coin-operating items also. Scientific instruments and chemistry and drawing equipment complete the list of various goods which are to be found here.

As a person browses through the store he will see products and kits from the four corners of the world. Wares from England, Germany, Italy, Mexico, Japan and the United States and domestic goods may be seen. Truly Belleville now has one of the finest hobby shops in the province, a business that might be found in any urban centre of a similar size or, perhaps, slightly larger size in eastern Ontario.

Besides Doug Smith, he has found that his avocation is now his vocation and is in business on a full-time basis after having been employed by the Ontario Steel Warner and the Stephens-Adamson firms as a draughtsman for a number of years.

Canada Reduces Wheat Stockpile By Seven P.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada reduced its wheat stockpile by nearly seven per cent in the year ended March 31, it was the third straight annual decline.

The bureau of statistics Wednesday placed total Canadian wheat stocks at 685,200,000 bushels, 48,300,000 bushels below the figure a year earlier and well down from the 1957 peak of 904,400,000.

However, the total still is some 50,000,000 bushels above the 10-year average stocks of 636,000,000 bushels.

Brazilia Opens Doors in First Day as Capital

BRASILIA (AP) — This unfinished city in the wild Brazilian heartland, crammed to overflowing with 100,000 residents and just as many visitors in a carnival mood, today celebrated its first day as capital.

The festivities began at midnight Wednesday night when the modernistic city which President Juscelino Kubitschek carved out of the wilderness officially replaced Rio de Janeiro as the seat of government.

Pope John sent his blessings by radio from Rome. The jubilant throngs hailed the change of capitals with flashing lights and fireworks. A papal legate, Manuel Cardinal Goncalves of Portugal, celebrated mass.

It was a moment of deep emotion for Kubitschek, who doggedly started the $500,000,000 project from scratch three years ago despite severe criticism.

The city is the culmination of a century-old dream of Brazilians of an inland capital to open up the undeveloped interior of this vast country.

Still a long way from completion, Brasilia will soon become the centre of government operations for some time. The bulk of the government will remain in Rio until stores, transportation facilities, communications and the like set up here. Only a few officials will remain here with President Kubitschek.

DENIES REPORT

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The United States defence department said Wednesday it had never heard of a revolutionary anti-missile radar device said to be under development in Britain. A newspaper report here claimed that the device could explode the Soviet Union's rocket-launched missile while it was still over the country which fired it, and it said the United States was showing "eager interest" in the development.

Will Investigate Drugs Taken By Diabetics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate drug price investigators said today an alleged monopoly in the sale of medicines diabetics take by mouth is next on their list for scrutiny.

The Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee's chief economist, John M. Blair, testified Wednesday that diabetes patients who take oral medication "are virtually limited to two drugs, tolbutamide (Orinase) and chlorpropamide (Diabinese)."

"A complete monopoly of sales of the former is held by Upjohn and of the latter by Pfizer," he said. These are two of the big pharmaceutical houses in the United States.

The subcommittee is looking into allegations of exorbitant profits and monopolistic practices in the drug industry. It resumes hearings Tuesday.

Clarification Of Apartheid Speech Sought

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The white government should request from an opposition political party today to clear up confusion over the future of racial segregation caused by the nation's acting premier.

The demand for a clarifying statement came from Harry Lawrence, chairman of the Progressive party, after reading a report from the main opposition United party.

He referred to a speech Tuesday by acting cabinet chairman Paul Sauer who said there would be an important change in the practical application of apartheid (racial segregation).

Lawrence told a party meeting Wednesday night that the government should make it clear whether the "new policy" of Negroes urged by Sauer reflected its official views.

Business Plans Expansion

If the Federal Department of Trade and Commerce has achieved its customary accuracy in its annual forecast of private and public investment in the year ahead, talk of a depression, sometimes heard, would appear to be groundless. The Canadian Bank of Commerce, in its commercial letter for April, remarks that the value of this forecast "as an economic barometer is not open to question as it not only reflects the degree of optimism in the industrial and business sections of the economy, but gives some advance indication of the demands likely to be made on the money market."

The significant point about this year's forecast is not the total investment predicted, (although this, at $6,770,000,000, is 4% per cent above last year and is exceeded only by the $8,823,000,000 of 1957), but that "in the differing rates of increase in its constituent parts." As the Bank sees it, the most important point about the forecast is that it predicts that business will lead the way. This must surely be interpreted as an indication that businessmen themselves expect the economy will remain buoyant. Just as, during the depression years, fear was one of our worst enemies, reasonable optimism can be one of our best friends. By expecting good business, and preparing for it, we can in large measure help to make our expectations come true.

The Bank of Commerce cautions that there is one unfavorable aspect to the predicted heavy investment by business. A considerable proportion of this investment will be in imported machinery, which last year was a significant factor in Canada's unfavorable balance of trade. Purchases of capital equipment are forecast at $2,828,000,000, up $215,000,000 from 1959, while construction costs, at $5,942,000,000, will be only $144,000,000 higher.

Manufacturers will spend the most money, with papers, metals and chemicals setting the pace, pulp and paper firms to keep pushing their expansion programs in world demand by 1976, steel firms to broaden their range of products and meet foreign competition and chemical firms just to keep abreast of new developments in the industry. The Energy Board's decision to permit the export of Canadian natural gas will mean heavy expenditure by that industry. With the exception of automotive trades, all classes of wholesale and retail distributors are planning new or expanded facilities.

"There will also be significant investment in institutional services, in the need for new schools and expanded hospitals figuring largely in the biggest increase in a 14-year upward trend, with $825,000,000 being the estimated expenditure, up $94,000,000. Hospitals are planning an increase of 25 per cent in their capital expenditure. In spite of this, total government capital investment will be up only 1.8 per cent, thanks to a reduction in the Federal Government's capital expenditures.

The public, as distinguished from business and government, is expected to reduce its capital outlays, with new housing expected to decrease by $63,000,000. This, though, still leaves estimated expenditure on new homes at $1,696,000,000, so that the outlook is far from as gloomy as some recent forecasts would have had us believe.

There is, however, one phase of the report which ought to give us real cause for concern, although we shall not immediately feel the effects of it: that Ontario account for about 60 per cent of the increase in expenditures and about 36 per cent of the total. There will be no increase in capital outlays in Quebec. Since Quebec has made giant strides in recent years, this may not be quite as alarming as might appear at first glance, but one could have wished that more than 100 per cent of the increased expenditures had been planned for those parts of Canada most badly in need of an economic stimulant. While it is encouraging to note the rate of expansion in Ontario, this can only be a second, in the final analysis, to the rate of expansion is able to keep pace. It is particularly unfortunate that predicted expenditures in two of the Maritime provinces, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, while higher than in 1958, are below the 1959 figure.

Folk Music Is an Antidote — Sometimes

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Folk music, which one ought to find regularly for not having his head filled with the kind of tripe that is the baked ore from the street, a house should no more be permitted to be disfigured with it than an obscurely placed number than an automobile is permitted to go without license plates.

Why is it that people who insist on playing for your benefit the recording of a musical show they liked when they last saw it without constant interruption by their running commentary on the show?

The very effort to be anti-philosophical defeats itself; the man who says that he has "no use for a philosophy of life" is expressing a philosophy of life.

This column's long-standing campaign against miniature automobiles has received a powerful unlooked aunts with a pronounced dislike for children — it will be called an utter failure: the world is flooded with such useless brie-a-brac, which are not big enough for a fly to take a bath in, and too small to hold cigarette butts.

It is interesting to note that the man of Czech descent is President of Brazil: our own democracy in the United States is not a full-fledged cough to permit the same to happen here (as a man doesn't have an "American-sounding" name, he is simply not likely to be considered as a candidate.

Wasn't it silly to consider all gambling as "immoral" per se; and I agree with Chesterton that "the right to go right to hell if you have a right to lose" — the trouble with most gamblers is betting that ultimately they risk what they have no right to lose.

Folk music is not to be excluded, but not much of a dote: the fad which we are running to death against so much junky popular music, but a great deal of folk music is not folk music at all, though its devotees are reluctant to admit it.

Wasn't it Cardinal Newman who asked why so many people are bored by immorality, when they didn't know what to do with themselves on a long Sunday afternoon?

When a man says to me, "I'll bet you," I say, "I raise a high-toned suspicion in my mind that the level is not his customary angle of transaction.

Mathematics Set to Music

Christian Science Monitor

A teacher of arithmetic has found that children learn multiplication tables more easily and accurately by singing them, as verse can be recalled more readily when set to music. Such a discovery has its serious side.

The possibilities, however, need not be confined themselves to the merely practical. They have a place sometimes about them appropriate to this age. They might, for example, add interest for all we know, songs and sums may be only different ways of saying the same thing, and where, perhaps the greater mystery and wonder of the universe cannot be expressed without a smile.

In such a realm the duty of the multiplication table is not the punishment fit the rhyme!

Three times two is simply four, nothing less and nothing more. Five times five is twenty-five; and six times six is 36 flat.

If your teacher's really fussy, get the answer from Debussy, or division from Bach's "48", try some Rimski-Korsakov.

Square equations you forget, dance them in a minuet. Tables of the "from" and "sade," set themselves to arabesque.

The French may call eleven zone, but you can add it to Beethoven's fifth; when a fraction gets too vulgar, chasten it with Edward Elgar.

Oranges and apples mingle, when you find the magic jingle. Relativity is easy, when beaten out by Mr. Munch.

If you're floundering in roots, square them with a trill of flutes. No one need be phased by math; just remember Mozart's "Tenth."

Mathematics can't go wrong, if you do it with a song. Einstein knew the way to win; Einstein played the violin.

Incentive

Capetown Die Landstem

A young man who lost a large wager on a racehorse wailed for the horse to run in another race and shot at it three times. Fortunately, he was as bad a shot as he was a gambler. The horse, however, was so startled that it took the bit in its teeth, ran as it had never run before.

How He Lost His Marbles

Hilda Lester Letter

"Nowadays you don't often hear the old saying that so-and-so has 'lost his marbles', said Lionel Lumsden in a recent BBC broadcast. This expression, once common in the British Empire, implied that the person referred to was anything but all there. I am fascinated by 'quite all there.' At first sight this seems a little contradiction, between stupidity and a harmless game, but connection there is, only it can be got at by a rearsive farmer called George Kirk who lived in the town of Nelson some 150 years ago.

"A great marbles player, his fame spread throughout South Lancashire ... and across into Yorkshire," said Lumsden, "and fittingly George had an unrivalled collection of marbles—probably proof of his prowess." When Kirk heard one day that his great friend Charles Worsley of Burnley had died and that all his marbles were on view in the British Museum, he had taken this as a challenge not to be beaten. He immediately packed up his hard-won collection, went to the centre of the maiden aunts with a pronounced dislike for children — it will be called an utter failure: the world is flooded with such useless brie-a-brac, which are not big enough for a fly to take a bath in, and too small to hold cigarette butts.

It is interesting to note that the man of Czech descent is President of Brazil: our own democracy in the United States is not a full-fledged cough to permit the same to happen here (as a man doesn't have an "American-sounding" name, he is simply not likely to be considered as a candidate.

Even Money War Coming

By H. L. MacPherson in the Windsor Star

Philip Noel-Baker, British Labor MP, is a gloomy Gus. He looks in his crystal ball and sees a 50-50 chance of world nuclear eruption before 1970 years. But let him be heard in his own words, as spoken recently in England:

"I think it is quite likely that [I] myself will live to see what I say it was about events—that within ten years the government will not have disappeared. We shall have had a nuclear war, and our children and grandchildren will all be dead or living in the stone age, with a lifeless, radioactive, incinerated globe throughout eternity."

Do you say, Who is Philip Noel-Baker?", "Who does he think he is, throwing this kind of scare talk around?" let it simply be stated that he was the winner of the 1959 Nobel Peace Prize.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

The largest metal smoke shop in Eastern Canada in Belleville is now being assembled at the Belleville Foundries on Station Street for the Quinte Milk Products factory at Wellington, Ont. More than six tons of metal were required in the operation. The erection of the stock will present an unusual problem as the first 90 feet will have to be dropped through an opening in the roof. The remaining 70 feet will have to be raised and then bolted to the first section.

Evidence of the willingness of the Belleville Municipal Band to co-operate in the improvement of other bands of the district was in evidence last night when the city musical organization played a high-class entertaining concert at Brighton in aid of the local band of that town.

"Strike are running," the familiar spring cry echoed today amongst the Isaak Walton fans of the city. A large run was noticed yesterday in a creek that borders the 3 hills way about four miles east of the city. Although bands licked for the first of a spoon there is a little matter of Game and Fisheries regulations that enforces the bore to be onlookers until the season opens.

Dirty Trick On Grouse

Financial Post

Every male has a right to some privacy. There are a few things that wives just should not know about. But what's happening to the privacy of the male sex-life of grouse is a shocking tale of his human counterparts.

Silk male grouse will be equipped with one-ounce battery-powered transmitters that will send signals to receivers in the Cloquet Forest Research Centre in Cloquet, Minn., the Press dispatch.

The purpose is ominous: "Biologists manning two receivers are expected to get an idea of how the grouse spend his time."

This obviously is the thin edge of the wedge. Once the basic fact scientists first try out on animals those things destined eventually for human.

So after the grouse, the species.

It's only a matter of time until some entrepreneur offers housewives a similar contraption, than can be easily attached to wandering husbands.

Just think of the little woman crouched over her receiving-set trecking the incoming beeps on her husband's pebble about town.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

POSTURE ISN'T AS GOOD AS IT USED TO BE

"Dear Dr. Molner: I wish you'd write about all these problems of school children. I have attended 4 of my little tykes from two through five have been truthful, great carriages. And the primitive people carry themselves magnificently. Could it be through forcing our children to sit so long during school, and then through sedentary occupations at home, be spoiling our posture? The climation toward an upright carriage? — G. F., Jr."

Yes, I repeat, yes, but with only, like exception: It isn't the time spent in school seats; it is the rest of the time not spent in activity.

You are quite right that up to our five children naturally have an erect carriage. This is because they are physically active. They have good reason to keep them so start with.

As they grow older physical activity tends to decrease. There are exceptions, of course. There are, also exceptions to the happy "rule" that our children have good posture.

The required amount of gymnasium work (or outdoor play) or other activity in school is replaced by "sittin'-down work."

True, there is, and will be, a handful of youngsters who engage in athletics after school hours. I have no objection to these activities. Quite the contrary. But when a child has to be urged to go to every short trip, that is nonsense. It is worse than that. It is harmful. It is stupid. Call it by the strongest word for it!

Our darling dull jokes and cartoons based on the notion that pass-grip, "when I was a kid, I walked three miles to school every day, through blizzards and 40 below zero." Well, why can't Junior walk down to the mail box with this letter?

This is supposed to be a joke these days.

It isn't. I grant that old goats may be stupid enough to the amount of walking we did as children — and the present generation should remember that she was glad Angora got them anyway. But not this one. Times are of a sterner breed. Not only did the Soviet Union succeed in the dress of the mistake, she has created a second intelligency of the Postal Service, thinking darkly that if it happened once, it would not them.

This is in the great tradition of Sir Edward Coke, Oliver Cromwell and the Glorious Revolution. Royalty, beloved and deeply reverenced as it is, has its place in the Constitution. It should not be allowed to keep stray parrow to support what I've just been saying.

You're right. Posture isn't as good as it used to be, and there are reasons for it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: To impress your's eyesight, what are the best foods or tonics' — O.A.M."

As a general rule you will not improve the eyesight with foods or tonics. The exception there is something seriously wrong with your diet. In such a case the diet should be improved for any number of reasons. There is no specific that especially helps vision.

Post Office Made Error

Montreal Star

There is something delightful in the refreshing behavior of the English housewife whose gift of baby clothes was delivered by accident to the Palace. It turned out, as was right for the infant offspring of a Princess, that the parcel bearer of the package "To His Royal Highness the Baby" and the Postmaster General—who is a Royalist and an avid reader of Marryat—had been considered it with all dispatch—a Royal Command—both complying with the rest of the accident.

Most housewives in such a situation, on receiving a thank-you note from the Queen, would have blushed coyly, blessed the Postmaster General and the stars, and started knitting afresh for the wrong-ed infant. But this housewife herself: that she was glad Angora got them anyway. But not this one. She wrote a sterner breed. Not only did she have the courage to tell the dress of the mistake, she has created a second intelligency of the Postal Service, thinking darkly that if it happened once, it would not them.

KEEP DIGGING

One never knows what is hidden in the ground until one has dug for it. Digging, digging, digging, human knows what is hidden in the ground until one has dug deep until he has dug deep into them. For, usually, the deeper they dig more and more hidden treasure!

Many start out excited with the ordinary pay gravel on the surface of things — and soon find that there is wanted to discover a streak of 99 per cent gold ore! And he finds it. In some cases to a great degree, by keeping to his plan of digging deeper. But, as you dig, keep in mind the thing you want to discover!

Many start for one thing, only to dig up something far more valuable than that which they originally sought. That's why the idea of digging is so sound.

Surface things are only suggestive. They are not their only value lies in the things to which they lead, if followed.

Every inch of progress counts. Do not get discouraged because the digging is slow, because and long and causes your back to ache. Keep at it, and keep very sure — that those whose backs are bent from toil and hardship, soon have no backs to carry them along.

Keep digging. You will surprise yourself yet. You may be carrying around a lode history in your soul. Who knows? The world's greatest artist, musician, singer, business man, statesman, writer, may be hiding somewhere in all those backs. Others' — and dig — and dig!

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DEALING WITH THAT SINNER

Who is the most unmitigated, the pure grace, of God, he is not unreasonable, ornery, stubborn saved at all. We can sinner you ever encountered? Think about it for a moment. Yes, you are right — that sinner is yourself. I was for a few thirty years and met all types of sinners during that time, yet never did I encounter a more willful and recalcitrant sinner than myself.

The Bible says that the fear of God is the beginning of wisdom. It implies that the beginning of all moral reformation starts with candid self-appraisal. So long as we measure ourselves by our neighbors we never get a deep sense of the hopelessness of our moral plight. Yes, hopeless it is, for without God we are indeed hopeless. Unless he is saved by pull ourselves up by our bootstraps. It can't be done even physically.

The term masochism has come to be on the tongues of almost people in recent years. It means that many people seem to have to torture themselves in order to experience with a sense of sin but, if we do, we are as unreasonable and sinful as if we insisted on overlooking all our wrong doing.

Try to get balance in your appraisal of everything. You are a sinner — yes, but a sinner saved by the grace of God. On one side of our natures we are all creatures of the lower order; we are sons and daughters of God.

Program Engineer for Dept. Outlines Work to LODA

A comprehensive description of the manner in which the Ontario Department of Highways determines the most feasible sequence of serving the highway needs of the province from both the long-range and the immediate point of view was given to over 90 persons attending the Zone 7 meeting of the Lake Ontario Development Association yesterday evening by William Biddell, program engineer for the department.

The manner in which the postwar era of a tremendous backlog of necessary highway work is resolved with the need for the building and improvement of new highways was gone over in some detail by the engineer who indicated that the burden to be placed upon the provincial treasury during the next decade or so will probably amount to over $1,000,000,000 of which some $476,000,000 would be required to bring existing highways into a proper and safe condition.

Mr. Biddell also gave a description of the department's plans for the highways which are within the Lake Ontario area in the zone of the LODA, saying that approximately 1,000 miles of the total highway mileage in this area will be due for improvement during the next ten years, the extensive of the work required on Highway 401.

Mr. Biddell's address was followed by an active question and answer session, during which he was thanked by Elmer Sandercock, Zone 7 Director and Mr. Sandercock remarked that the meeting had been one of more important men from throughout the county present and taking an interest in the work of the LODA.

Mr. Charles Rollins, M.L.A. for Hastings East, who introduced the speaker, made an announcement to the effect that pending the approval of estimates the Department of Highways would construct a by-pass around Madoc over a development road.

GENERAL MANAGER HEARD

Also present at the meeting was Don Kingston, general manager of the LODA, who spoke briefly on the benefits of "promotion through co-operation". Mr. Kingston gave a history of how the association since its founding in 1956 with 37 members, in commenting on the benefits of LODA he mentioned the pooling of funds by which used for the common good, the distribution of industrial information booklet on the area, the letters to industrial prospects that are interested in locating in this area and the personal contact which creates a definite interest in locating a new plant.

Mr. Kingston spoke of the tourist promotion work and of the booklet which had been set up at three sportsmen's shows this year. It was stated by Mr. Kingston that the $5,000 spent on advertising in this booklet alone would be more than brought a return of $150,000 to the area by tourist trade dollars.

Les Gribble, M.P. for Hastings South, commented on the work of the LODA and suggested that everyone could sell the County of Hastings to people by writing to promote the tourist industry. He said that the district place on earth, let's sell it."

suggested Mr. Grills, adding that "we have the water right and friendly when they come to see us." Mr. Grills closed by urging the good word about this area.

The executive of Zone 3 for the coming year was elected with R. W. Rose of Frankford being elected chairman. Vice-chairmans is H. Cleave and Earl M. Dafoe of Thurlow will be secretary-treasurer. Mr. Sandercock and H. W. Sweetman were elected as directors.

Minerva Chap. OES Sponsors Charming Butterfly Tea, Bazaar

Like a spring idyll was the "Butterfly Tea" yesterday afternoon, sponsored by the Minerva Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star at the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue. Lovely flowers, Easter lillies, pink hyacinths and ferns formed a charming entrance through the simulated latticed doorway leading to the spacious auditorium. Here beautiful colored butterflies fitting over the dining rectangle, adorned the various booths.

Leading to the tea room one passed beneath a floral archway massed with pale pink, cream, and rose-tinted chiffon flowers, which was sentinelled by two white pedestal lamp posts, with lighted lanterns, and effects of white "mums, lemon and pink gladioli sprays, a most charming picture of spring in all its pristine prettiness.

BOWER OF BEAUTY

Welcoming the guests into this bower of beauty was Mrs. M. Finkle, W.M., and Mrs. I. Sire, wife of the W.P.G., who, with a gracious smile and warm handclasp, passed the guests on to Mrs. Clare, A.M., and Mrs. F. Lennox.

Mrs. cakes of all kinds, cookies, orange and date loaves, buns, chocolate macaroons, jelly tarts with dots of meringue and jars of jam, jelly, pickles and relishes.

MICE APRONS

The apron booth had a valance in pink and green, with tiny crepe aprons and colorful butterflies flitting about the border. On display were some hand stitched bed spreads, with several all-over in gay floral prints, and in combination of various shades and colors. Mesdames N. Thompson, N. Cranston, K. Burnett and G. Batchelor, were in charge of these.

On the last table, in charge of Mrs. B. Jordon, P.M., there were children's cowboy hats in red and white, a little fancy hat in pink with wreath of tiny flowers, and many beach and garden hats in green and white, red and white, and yellow and white, with broad brims. All were most reasonably priced.

MISCELLANEOUS ARTICLE

The miscellaneous table displayed almost anything one might want or need: lace-edged handkerchiefs, needle cushions in the shape of tomato cans, emery and strawberry emery for the needle, pin cushions, pretty lovely frilly white doilies, crochested ecru doilies, lacey as a powder puff, pincushion, stencilled in rose design, baby bootees, knitted bags, jewellery, pictures, vases, clothespin flowerpot container, rosy-tinted oblong fruit dish in basket pattern, Africian violet, plant waterean, silver dish, ashtray and other flowers; basket of potatoes; pots of Africian violets, pots of foliage ivy, peony roots; ferns, as well as eggs and hand towels

Getting Sunburn Looks Unfeminine Says Zsa Zsa

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Eva Gabor's advice to wives who want to hold their husbands is "don't get sunburned."

"I am definitely against a sunburn," she said. "It looks unfeminine.

"A wife should always look white, delicate and feminine. Then she can play any role and be mischief. Her husband won't mind."

Miss Gabor, now wed to broker Richard Brown, is a member of a Hungarian family renowned for two generations for its man-taming skill. She feels, with some justification, that she herself is an "international authority" on how to attract men.

"But just because a man puts a ring on your finger doesn't mean you've got him forever," she said. "That's only the beginning. Then is when the trouble starts.

NEVER RELAX

"You can never really relax in a marriage. Too often men people marry the wife stops growing and the man begins to grow. Unless the wife does something, he is bound to get bored."

We asked Miss Gabor if she would disclose a few European secrets in the art of winning and holding a husband. She gladly obliged.

"The main thing a woman must always remember is to look feminine.

"She should always wear a hat and never take off her gloves, except when she smokes. She looks glamorous in gloves.

"European girls know how to flirt, and in this art is a big help. A hat with a wide brim is a big help to a girl with pretty eyes.

"But few women wear a flowered hat she should never wear a busy-looking dress. It puts her out of focus."

Here are a few more of her suggestions:

1. Never wear low-heeled shoes. It's better for a girl to go barefoot.

2. Eat in a dimly lit restaurant. Then, if a girl has a wrinkle, even the glare from it won't blind her escort.

3. In wearing a hat, be sure all the hair is tucked in. Then no one can mistake a girl for a man.

4. Wear dangling rather than button earrings. They're sexier.

5. Don't let yourself get too thin.

NEWED CURVES

"It's not just because I myself am round and European," said Miss Gabor in explaining that last point. "But I do not think men like women who are so thin they look like boys.

"A woman should have curves."

Eva believes that, by and large, North American women are doing very well. Her biggest error is in dressing "to please each other.

"What is the good of it if another woman thinks you look chic, and your husband thinks you look terrible?"

But the biggest lesson most women need to learn in the field of romance, she added, is how to make their men feel more manly.

"European women know better how to make the man feel he is the boss. This a man needs.

"If his wife tells him 'you are the greatest,' her husband has the resources to fight again tomorrow. I cannot stand women who are bossy to men. It makes me shrivel to hear them.

"A wife can get anything from her husband if she only learns how to make him feel he is the boss."

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart H. Rosenberg

Interior decorators are fine people. I have no quarrel with them. But they ought not to decide what books will line our shelves. Things probably would not be that bad; they only seem that way. Yet more and more homes give the unhappy impression that what few books they do possess are not chosen for reading. As one casts an eye over the shelves, he gets the feeling that the books and book jackets were chosen with a careful regard for the color scheme of the room.

In this television age, the art of reading is, for many, relegated to the archaeological past. Many of our homes seem nothing more than display cases in which much is on view, but little is discussed, analyzed or thought through.

There is no substitute for good reading. Audio-visual aids such as movies and film-strips may be useful classroom techniques. But they do not, alone, produce the educated man. We are still wondering about some of the "90-day wonder" men in Army "educated" in haste in the recent war. You can "train" an animal in 90 days but you cannot educate it. And so with human.

The purpose of education goes far beyond the acquisition of techniques and hastily-organized skills. Its purpose is to put us in touch with great ideas, ideas that can help change our lives for the better.

Ideas come down to us from the past and are distilled in the minds of great men who have reacted to them in their own unique way, from as the glacier leave reactions to life in the thrilling, throbbing, stimulating and surprising words that have found their way into books.

The trouble, it seems, with many so-called "educated" people is that they never read a book and never got over it.

To be truly educated means to be open to new challenges of thought — all the time.

It imposes the risk of rethinking our accepted conventions — all the time.

It requires an ability to sit down coldly and make friends with new books — all the time.

A charitable person is not someone who once gave money to a noble cause. It is a person of sensitive character and conscience with a continuing sense of obligation.

And so of those who would call themselves educated. It is not what they once knew, but rather their willingness to search out the old ideas they've missed and the new ideas still absorbing.

We just never can get "all booked up."

Enduring Classic

By VERA WINSTON

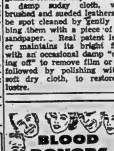
On and on goes the shirtwaist dress, and on the smartest women, too. The latest version of this enduring classic makes much use of striped and patterned silks. This one is of beige and white striped silk, complemented with beige piping, buttons and belt. Pockets are slashed into the side seams of the full skirt as well as detailing the bodice.

Leather Box Bags Take Fashion's Eye

Leather box bags in every size and shape give artful emphasis to spring's youthful fashion silhouette. Balancing fashion's new lowered waistline and adding a pleasing note of contrast to fluid line skirts shooting the latest leather box bags appear in flat, oblong, and swagger shapes.

Leather textures in box bags play a fresh and unique fashion role—matching or contrasting with fabric surfaces on new spring suits, coats and dresses. Smooth and grained leathers in neutral bone, oatmeal or sand tones, with texture inferred in shibbed silk shantung dresses or bulky knit and tweed suits. The rich glossy surface of real patent leather box bags in ebony black provides a touch of elegance to the new season's silks, cashmeres, gabardines and dressy lace silhouettes and chiffons. Real patent leather bags brighten an more durable than ever, are available at prices to suit any purse and are "must buy" in accessories.

Brushed and suede leathers in box bags impart a textured look that is strongest in the grey and brown color scales, ranging from light misty grey to dark grey, and from light beige to toasty tan. While basic in grained and smooth leathers will accent colors and tints of spring suits.



Color, shape and texture are only part of the new handbag story. New box bags show smart style detailing, such as self-leather handles that may be flexible, or firm like luggage handles. Many of the larger versions have luggage buttons and locks.

SIMPLE DESIGN

The 1960 look in leather bags stems from the simplicity of design that relies on the shape of the bag itself for eye appeal, rather than on fancy trim, stitching, handles, or metallic ornamentation. These new leather beauties create their biggest fashion impact when they make a statement in color and trim, and remain simple in shape.

In addition to box bags, the always popular grained leather pouch in navy blue and black, a full range of tan shades will appear in many spring styles, along with pouch-shaped glovegrained leather bags in many intriguing styles and pastel colors. Shoulder bags, smart women's companions on shopping trips, are larger than ever this season and sport handy outside pockets.

Fashion-right and eye appealing, light-colored bags are easily cleaned. Smooth and grained leathers wipe clean with a damp suday cloth, while brushed and suede leathers can be spot cleaned by gently rubbing them with a piece of fine sandpaper. Real patent leather maintains its bright finish with an occasional damp "shining off" to remove film or soil, followed by polishing with a soft dry cloth, to restore its lustre.

QUESTION BOX

Question: I recently spent a few days with a friend of mine in another city. Another of my friends (who lived in the same town) called and invited me to have dinner with her. She did not ask my husband. As I felt this was wrong, I made an excuse and did not go. Am I right that she should have asked the woman I was staying with?

Answer: You most certainly are! It is extremely rude and thoughtless to invite an out-of-town visitor and not include the person with whom she is staying. You certainly handled it well.

Question: I am sixteen years old and have a problem that is bothering me. How do you get rid of a boy that you like only as a friend, while he likes you as a girl-friend? I don't want to hurt his feelings, but I do not think I am old enough to "go steady," which is what he wants to do.

Answer: You sound like a very sensible girl! My suggestion would be to have a frank talk with this young man. Explain the way you feel. If he is agreeable, have a date with him from time to time, but be bluntly frank and tell him you don't wish to see him any more. When you are certainly "too young" to "go steady," I would like to say that personally I am against the idea for all teenagers. To see one boy all the time completely cuts off the chance to know other young men, and this is not good for young girls. Much better to have several beaux. Believe me, you will have a lot more fun that way!

Question: I wonder if some of my friends have made a mistake. Their daughter is to be married in May. The wedding is to take place in a church and is to be followed by a reception at a hotel. How should one address invitation to the reception but not to the church, should I send them and tell them about it? I'm sure they have just slipped up.

Answer: By no means! Get in touch with them! Very often a mistake is bad with one of the members of the family present. A reception is then given to friends afterwards. This is obviously the case here.

Question: When a married woman is separated from her husband, but not divorced, what does she do in the following instances: How should she register at a hotel? How should her social correspondence be addressed? How should she wear her wedding ring?

Answer: When a woman is legally separated from her husband, but not divorced, she is still married to him and would register in a hotel in the usual manner, "Mr. James A. Webb," She should be addressed in social correspondence in the same manner. As to whether or not she wears her wedding ring, this would be up to the individual. However, it would seem more fitting that the ring be worn until divorce terminates the marriage.

Question: I am sixteen years old and in my grade 11 in a collecting business in the neighborhood in which I live. I have one very attractive friend who my parents in dropping by at the house when I am baby sitting. I do not think this looks well. How can I tell him so without hurting his feelings?

Answer: I would suggest explaining to him that you look upon your job of baby sitting just as you would any other business that you might hold. If you were working in an office, he would think of intruding during working hours. I am sure he will understand if you will place it on this business-like basis.

Question: I recently had to pay a social call on business reasons, if you know what I mean! As I did not have any social cards, I left my business one. A friend of mine tells me that this is wrong. Is it proper to have a pet with him that it wasn't, I would appreciate your advising it for me.

Answer: I'm afraid you lose. It is considered very bad taste ever to use a business card when paying a social call. Better to leave no card at all.

Moulded Strawberry Party Dessert

by Mary Moore

Somebody in this country has to start being thrifty and since we women spend the bulk of the money the responsibility is on our shoulders.

For instance, the head of the Bank of Canada and Canadians are on a spending spree the like of which never happened before and (we) are stretching their (our) credit almost too far.

Dinner Menus

SUNDAY (Guests)

Roast Stuffed Chicken with Apple Salty Cream Gravy; Riced Potatoes; Asparagus with Lemon Butter; Sliced Cucumber and Tomato Salad with Blue Cheese Dressing; Orange Mousse (see Thursday); Coffee.

I've elected myself as a consumer committee to stop Mr. Gallon's dairy from a price increase.

So I bought a 2-lb. poly bag of unsweetened strawberries for 79c and made two party desserts from them. The one I am giving you today made dessert for eight people for which was a party. (The other was a cheesecake with strawberries.)

It is true I added whipped cream but it is so delicious and not much more economical than most company desserts.

You will need a 3-oz. mousse and chilled it in two moulds. One was a four-cup mould and the other a two-cup mould. The two moulds were given to the little 4-envelope boxes).

And also 2-4 cup sugar and stir over heat only until milk is hot and sugar and gelatine are dissolved. Cool and add juice of 1 medium lemon and 1 teaspoon vanilla extract and the strawberry puree, stirring well. Chill until it becomes thick, but still stirable. Fold in 1 1-2 cups heavy cream which has been whipped until stiff, and sweetened with 1-4 cup icing sugar. Fold in whipped cream and add enough red food coloring to give it a rosy glow. When the mixture is smoothly blended and no syrup tends to form in bottom, pour into moulds to chill and set snugly covered with foil. To turn out, dip mould into a bowl containing very hot water and count 10. Loosen top edges with tip of knife and invert on chilled serving dish. A comport is ideal. Serve with barely thawed whole frozen sweetened strawberries.

NOTE:

When fresh strawberry time arrives you can still use the above recipe. Simply place the slightly thawed frozen unsweetened strawberries in the mashed washed fresh strawberries.

Health Hints

(by Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa)

Mumps, a common communicable disease is more dangerous to adults than children. Germs may be spread by sneezing, coughing or kissing; symptoms may appear three weeks after exposure to the disease.

The appendix, an apparently useless organ, can, if inflamed, become a serious hazard. This condition, known as appendicitis, is usually indicated by pain in the abdomen, nausea and a rise in temperature. No medicine, food or drinks should be taken. The doctor should be called promptly.

Candida's Food Rules provide a good guide to balanced meals. Five essential food groups are listed and these supply the necessary nutrients for the normal diet.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. K. J. — She won't find anyone as good as Neal.

Carol J. — Bid I felt so much more for Bill.

Mrs. K. J. — I'm terribly concerned about my daughter Carol, who is 24 and engaged to a very fine young man. Unfortunately she doesn't appreciate her good luck.

A couple of years ago Carol was desperately in love with another boy who kept her on the string and finally married one of her best friends. We feared she would have a breakdown, but the shock of Neal came along in the nick of time and saved the situation.

Now Carol has begun to find fault with Neal for trivial things. She feels very shaky about the marriage, but I am sure there is no real reason for this. Neal is a good looking, dependable, maker a good living, comes of a fine family and is kind and thoughtful. Carol won't find anyone as good.

Carol J. — I realize that all my mother says of Neal is true. Everyone likes him and thinks I am lucky to get him — and I guess I am. Yet I can't help comparing the feeling I have for him with the feeling I had for Bill and I know this doesn't measure up.

It's true that Bill was never as kind and considerate as Neal is and he isn't even as good looking or successful. Yet I know the feeling I experienced for him was so overwhelming and intense it can't be compared to anything I feel for Neal.

I know marriage with Neal couldn't be bad. It would probably be as happy as most, but I am afraid I'll still think about Bill—and that would be bad for both of us.

The Council: Although Neal is so desirable a young man, the engagement is unfortunate since it was contracted on the rebound and is now being held together by pressure from without.

Marriage requires a deep commitment of mind and feelings. Satisfactory marriages cannot be made when they must be bolstered from the outside.

Mrs. K. J. isn't being really helpful to her daughter when she overpressures her. She is right to speak up in favor of a desirable marriage, but she should make it clear that her responsibility must end there. Carol must consult her own mind and feelings before making the final decision and she can't do this when the outside clamor is too great.

Carol shows herself as rather undeveloped emotionally. Her description of her feelings for Bill reveals only infatuation. Most human beings go through at least one such experience in a life-time, but if they develop further emotionally they look back upon it with a rather skeptical eye — recognizing that they could hardly endure day-to-day existence with the object of the infatuation. When such a "love" stands between a young man or woman and all future relationships, it is simply being used as a device to avoid mature love.

Carol needs more time for growing up. Her engagement is premature as long as she has these many doubts about the marriage.

HAMILTON (CP) — After 34 years of separation Steve Chwastiak's wife Eva has arrived here from Moscow. Mr. Chwastiak, who chuckles "we are both capitalists now," will retire in September.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Fred McKeown, of Springbrook, was hostess to the Women's Association of Rylstone United Church on Wednesday afternoon last for their April meeting. There was an attendance of 11.

The Scripture reading, Romans 8, was given by the hostess. Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, president, read the Scripture story.

A thank-you note for flowers was read from Mrs. Jack Spencer and readings, "Too Busy" and "Thoughts of Easter Time" were given by Mrs. Will Rutherford and Mrs. Jim Milne; an accordion and vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Bob Spencer, "Have You Talked to the Man Upstairs?"; other readings were "My Easter Hat" and "Love," given by Mrs. Ray Stewart and Mrs. Will Rutherford. An Easter story was read by Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn.

Mrs. H. E. Bender gave the topic "Easter."

The meeting closed with the hymn "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross."

The next meeting will be in the form of a "Neighbors' Tea" and will be held at the home of Mrs. Will Rutherford on May 20th. Members to invite their neighbors.

Caribbean Couture

The idyllic islands of the blue Caribbean have served as inspiration for some of our leading designers of millinery and sportswear. Designer Mac Shore does a Caribbean-inspired overblouse of drip-dry cotton broadcloth, a fine traveller. District Pres. Pays Visit To Laurel Lodge

She was accompanied by four members of Tweed Rebekah lodge. Other guests were from Quinte Queen Rebekah Lodge, Trenton.

Sister Marion Carter had the honor of introducing the District Deputy. The guard of honor were Sisters. Ilene Dafoe, Helen Bailey, Joyce Richardson, Marguerite Sine, Doreen Ackers and Martha Weis.

In her official address Sister Fisher gave an inspirational message on the theme "Sincerity." She stressed that this was the link behind Rebekah Odd Fellowship.

Sister Fisher was presented with a gift for her lodge by Sister Beverly St. Pierre, for which she expressed her thanks.

Following lodge, Sister Dorothy McCaughen convened an interesting program.

Sister Marion Heath, PDDP, sang a solo, with Sister Cleta Elliott as accompanist. Sister Florence MacMullen gave two readings, one of which was "The Legend of the Easter Lillies." Sisters Beverly St. Pierre and Lillian Johnson conducted a spelling match and each group received a box of chocolates.

Sister Mary Pitcher and her committee convened the luncheon in the banquet hall where the tables were tastefully decorated with spring flowers and Easter favors.

At the close of the evening Sister Fisher expressed her appreciation to all who had assisted with the program and lunch, and complimented Laurel lodge on their efficient lodge proceedings during the evening.

RISING COSTS — Rapid expansion of television in Canada has been matched by increasing operating costs for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Despite a continuing drive by the CBC for additional commercial revenue, a large part of its operation revenues come from public funds in the form of parliamentary grants.

Graph shows how the total revenues needed to run the CBC has increased from about $30,000,000 for the 1953 fiscal year to an estimate of more than $90,000,000 for 1961. Of this latter figure almost two-thirds will come from public funds.

Despite the heavy cost the CBC estimates that the total price tag from public funds for TV and radio services works out to less than four cents a day. (CP Newsmap).

SEEKS CANCER LINK — Professor Gordon Townsend holds a small white mouse in his Ontario Agricultural College laboratory at Guelph, where he is experimenting with the effects of royal jelly, produced by worker bees, on cancer. The 44-year-old scientist has found that cancer cells mixed with the jelly do not cause cancer in another mouse. (CP Photo).

OAC Professor Tries to Find Cancer Cure With Bee Colony

The 44-year-old scientist is experimenting with royal jelly, a glandular secretion fed to queen bee cells by worker bees. He hopes there is a link between the jelly and a method of killing cancerous cells.

"It's a stab in the dark, anyway," he says.

Concentrating his experiments on leukemia in mice, Prof. Townsend has found that when cancerous cells are removed from one mouse and mixed with the jelly, they do not spread when transferred to another mouse.

PROMISING SIGN

He considers this a promising sign, although "many poisons do the same thing."

"The jelly has not worked when it has been injected into a mouse," he said. "No mice have been cured this way." The injections have not been tried on humans.

His research assistants are brother and sister immigrants from Yugoslavia, Ivan Kukovica, 35, and Mrs. Mary Kress. The professor himself is only able to devote 20 per cent of his time in his research laboratory, tucked away between the dirtiest lawns and trees at the college. Most of his time is taken up with college lectures.

Prof. Townsend began his experiments with royal jelly in 1939 when he was working at the Banting Institute in Toronto.

"Jest a Second"

"Looks like we're in for another one of his sermons."

Work stopped during the war and began again only six years ago.

GETS GRANTS

Since then Prof. Townsend has been awarded grants totaling $14,000 a year from the Ontario government and the department of national health and welfare in Ottawa.

And on that sum he is trying to find the missing medical link that still eludes researchers the world over.

"I must stress that we have not cured cancer here," says Prof. Townsend. "But everybody working in this field has great hopes of a cure."

Twice-Weekly Radio Program For Students Designed to Raise Standard of Spoken French

QUEBEC, (CP) — Public and high school students—and their parents—are listening to a twice-weekly radio program designed to raise the standard of spoken French.

The students have to listen—they may be questioned about it next day in class.

The 15-minute program, Comment Parles Vous? (How do you speak?), is broadcast by CHRC Quebec during the supper hour when parents not only can make sure their children listen, but can take advantage of the opportunity to improve their own French.

The program format is simple. Marie and Pierre, two school-age youngsters, read a brief dialogue that is chuck-full of poor pronunciation, bad grammar and odd corruptions of English words. Nothing is exaggerated.

WRONGS CORRECTED

When the two-minute conversation is finished, two grownups pick it apart line by line, explaining the errors. At the program's end, the dialogue is repeated in precise, well-enunciated French.

The program has two main aims, says Jean-Marie Laurence, a distinguished teacher who is its creator and writer. These are, to improve the standard of everyday French and "to interest parents in the work of the students."

"The schools can never improve language by themselves. They need at least the moral support of the parents. We want the parents to have the good mental attitude of wanting their children to speak better."

Chief dangers to the language were poor pronunciation "which eventually creates a change in the pronunciation of words," the tendency to substitute Anglicisms for French words, and poor vocabulary. "If people had a store of words, they wouldn't need to fill in the blank spaces with Anglicisms."

10 BROADCASTS

The first 20 broadcasts are taking place this spring. Ten are devoted to phonetics and 10 to grammar and syntax.

Roland Madeau, director of studies for the Quebec school commission, says he is convinced the programs are a success.

A classroom survey showed that 64.6% of students, parents and friends listened to one program. Of these, 10,500 were students—more than one-third of the 28,000 under the commission.

The programs are rebroadcast in Jonquiere, in the Saguenay region 110 miles north of here, and several other stations may carry them later.

FOUR IN CAST

The parts of Marie and Pierre are played by Gisele Bertrand, 10, and Robert Petit, 11. Elise Desbiendrings and Benoit Thibault, announcers at CHRC, are the critics.

One typical program was a breakfast conversation between Marie and Pierre which opened with the awkward question: "Comment estces que ca va?" (How are you?). The grownups changed it to "Comment va tu?"

The youngsters were also told to pay attention to the distinction between making and preparing coffee. And in place of "un oeuf frit ou boulli" (a fried or boiled egg) it was suggested they use "oeuf sur the plat" and "oeuf a la coque."

Canadian Papers Point Out Discount Rate on American Money Set by U.S. Banks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian newspapers have not worked up any particular indignation over the United States' generous suggestion that Americans spend their vacations at home, to avoid the Canadian discount on U.S. currency.

A Canadian Press survey of reaction in this country shows papers pointing out that the discount rate is set in the U.S. money markets and also noting sardonically that in most parts of the U.S. Canadian cash can't spend their money despite its premium value.

What impelled the Detroit Times' front - page suggestion today was the recent decision of Canadian banks to discount U.S. cruisers, previously accepted at face value though paper money was discounted.

"Tourists only of cupidity but also usury," The Times said.

"Let's make it easy, don't go sore," admonished the Ottawa Citizen. "It's not our fault . . . it's the money men, the bankers and sentimental." Four American newspapers quoted over 96 cents Canadian on Wall Street.

SHARP PRACTICE

The Toronto Globe and Mail said sharp money boys have been working a legal racket by buying Canadian, converting it to Canadian notes at par and changing it back to U.S. at par money at the discount with the result that a 96-cent dollar is put into circulating in Canada were Americans.

The banks had been forced to protect themselves from this "legal racket".

"The splenetic outburst of The Times was composed more of poetry than reason, of emotion than considerations," the Calgary Albertan commented.

"A moment's reflection is all that is necessary to recall that it is the value of money which discounts the American dollar, it is the U.S. which has, by paying more for Canadian dollars".

MIGHT EXPLAIN

The Halifax Chronicle - Herald suggested that Canadian tourist authorities "instead of decrying the unfortunate change," should try to offset adverse propaganda being voiced in the U.S.

"This might well take the form of a lucidly written letter of explanation to be widely circulated and distributed at the border, on the whys and wherefores . . ."

The Regina Leader-Post, in the interests of science, send one of its reporters to Buffalo to purchase with a pocketful of Canadian money to try to speed up the process of exchange. The Montreal Star advised: "His experience is worth reading."

Montreal Gazette:

"The time has to come when U.S. Canadians would be excluded from circulation in Canada. . . . Then the problem of the U.S. currency was being dumped in Canada by the device of taking advantage in the differential in the rate of exchange. . . . It has become, in short, a racket, pure and simple, and it is counterfeiting or clipping of the most vicious strain."

NO CANADIAN PLOT

"We can sympathize with our friends to the south," the London Free Press said. "But if it makes him any happier we can assure him that there is no Canadian plot. We didn't plan to coin the U.S. dollar into Canadians in responsible positions would like to see parity restored. It's their way and merely because the Americans keep shoving their dollars at us for investment in Canada."

The Toronto Telegram called it a subtle, unofficial, "go home" proposal "an extreme view." It would be unfortunate if the cash discount became an issue of pride and petty spite.

The Telegram suggested that at points of entry Canadian officials should provide facilities to exchange U.S. coins into Canadian.

The Ottawa Journal commented:

"We don't know the age of the Detroit editor, but if he's over 15 and 20, which he very well might be, he can remember when Americans discounted our Canadian dollar not by three or five per cent but by as much as 15 and 18. How one-sided was Canada - U.S. friendship then?. . . ."

CHANGE OF HEART

ATLANTA (AP)—Thieves who broke open a church safe Easter Sunday night apparently had a partial change of heart. Mrs. D. C. Meadows Jr., secretary of the Convenant Presbyterian Church, said she received a letter in the mail Wednesday, containing about $600 in cheques, a $500 savings bond and a bank book. The thieves did not return another assortment of cheques.

Union Leader Says Industrial Spies Operating

MONTREAL (CP) — A Steelworkers Union leader said today industrial "spies" operating with codes-names and code-and-agent secrecy are working among union members in the Elliot Lake mining area.

Larry Sefton, director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said he was revealing the information on spying because the time has come for the labor movement "to question the ethics of employers resorting to industrial spies."

It was contained in his report to the USWA national policy conference today, but released to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. Sefton is director of District 6—an area from Ontario to British Columbia covering 336 local unions and 73,000 employees.

THROUGH NES?

He said worker-agents are recruited through the National Employment Service and sent to a mining group convention and the bait is a small fee in addition to their regular mine wage.

"The agent is given a code-number with which he signs his monthly or weekly reports to the agency," Mr. Sefton said.

"He is asked to report on proceedings of union meetings and other group conventions and the like job."

Mr. Sefton quoted from what he called "an instruction letter" sent to an agent:

"You, with your ears and eyes, have to supply this starting point. Now you will see that to you might not appear to be important could fit into our plans. Unless we are aware of it we must remain in a quandary."

CLAIMS DEFECTED

The USWA learned of the spy technique when several "agents" defected to the union.

"This play at undercover operations would even be funny if the possibility existed that income company, executives might be using these sections on the spy agency's information," Mr. Sefton said in his report.

"But we are backed by now employers would steer clear of employing agencies. Then many agencies operating in this field were thoroughly exposed in the United States and Canada in the mid-30s. Their activities were generally condemned."

Fifteen British Boys Come to Canadian Farms

LONDON (CP)—Fifteen British boys leave for Montreal Friday, determined to become successful Canadian farmers.

They have been working on British farms for three months, being watched by experienced farmers to see whether they have the basic ingredients for Canadian farming. All passed the test and were chosen.

The boys, between 15 and 17, were chosen from the Fairbridge Society, a 50-year-old organization devoted to the expansion of the Commonwealth by migration of one of the chief interests of the society.

The society is working in conjunction with the colonization branch of the CPR, which will look after the boys from the time they leave Liverpool by express of France until they have completed two years service on farms in the Lake St. John Quebec farms.

Farmers employing the British boys will pay them $60 a month during those two years.

Philip Wade, a director of the society, said today this is the first time the organization has moved a group of teen - agers from Britain to Canada.

"We hope it is something for our youth," he said, "and we feel this is a good way to go about it."

MORE LATER

Fifteen boys will leave a week later. The society has already selected a new class of 30 boys who will go to farms mostly on British farms 'as a preliminary training for Canada later this year.

"We hope the scheme will keep growing," Vaughan said. "There is no limit for it."

The society is paying the boys' passage, except in particular cases where parents can afford to assist.

ACCIDENTALLY HANGED

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)—A three-year-old boy accidentally hanged himself Wednesday in his back yard. Alan Lewis Francis was playing near a walnut tree. A $500 savings bond in it. The bond dangled from a branch. The boy got the loop over his head, tripped and was strangled.

Sarnia Indian Reserve Land Buyer Knew Hydro Needed Property, Commission Told

TORONTO (CP)—An official of Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission testified Wednesday he strongly suspected Dimensional Investments Ltd. it it would not have bought part of the Sarnia Indian Reserve had they not known Hydro needed a section of the land.

Harry Hunter, director of Hydro's property division, also told a royal commission investigating Dimensional Investments that Hydro paid $1,250,000 in escrow in the bank for 175 acres of reserve land Hydro urgently needed for power development.

"I think there is no doubt that the money placed in escrow in the bank was to help finance the deal," he said.

Mr. Hunter was testifying before Mr. Justice George Argo Metcalfe who is inquiring into Hydro's purchase of the 175 acres for $7,000 an acre after Dimensional bought some land for 3,450-acre reserve for about $2,200 an acre.

The price paid for the land "would not seem to be excessive," Mr. Hunter said. The principals took substantial risks.

"The corporation has during the last year only been able to get about 200 acres of this land at an average price of $1,500 an acre. The company has to deal with the Indians in parcels of $5,521,946 before March 1, 1961.

J. F. Tidy, a negotiator for Hydro's property division, said Hydro had only seven days to negotiate with the land owners before the Indian Council for Crown Trust Company, agent for Dimensional Investments, exclusive negotiating rights. Hydro had then to negotiate with Crown Trust and Dimensional because the Indian Affairs branch at Ottawa refused to allow Hydro to expropriate.

"We had specific instructions from Crown Trust not to negotiate with the Indians," Mr. Tidy said. "If we had gone to the Indians and Crown Trust cancelled their offer the Indians would have been antagonized."

Hydro had not been able to make even one offer to Dimensional for the 175 acres required.

At one council meeting, Mr. Tidy said, Hydro said it would not give less for the land per acre than Crown Trust, but no set price was mentioned.

Asked by R. L. Kellock, appearing on behalf of the Ontario Liberal party, why Hydro and Dimensional had reached a settlement before signing of the company's agreement with the Crown, Mr. Tidy said Hydro needed the land urgently.

The money was held in escrow in the bank until Hydro got title to the property.

Mr. Tidy was questioned by Kenneth Bryden, CCF member for Toronto Woodbine, about the part played in the Crown Trust negotiations by Jack Gray, Metropolitan Toronto assessment commissioner. Mr. Gray had been described in earlier testimony as "Mr. Fixit" of Crown Trust's executives.

Mr. Tidy said he met Mr. Gray "a number of times after offer hours" to discuss Hydro's requirements.

Repressive Actions by Rhee Could Undo All Sacrifices Made by U.S. in Korean War

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The irony in the South Korean situation is that repressive actions of a regime which has done possibly good in time of sacrifice and generosity by Canada and others made by United Nations troops in time of war a decade ago.

The United States diplomats say they have no way of knowing to what extent the anti-Rhee upsurging in South Korea may be inspired by Communists, but they have said there are behind the rioting, but thus far has not produced any evidence to substantiate charge.

Certain American authorities do know that through foreign broadcasts and demonstrations and leaflets over one territory, the Red North Koreans are giving encouragement to the South Korean uprising. It is possible, they say, that some of the Red North agents may already have infiltrated into South Korea to give physical support to the rioters.

In any case, events in Seoul and elsewhere followed the pattern that Rhee's re-election was rigged. Not a ripple of pro-Rhee propaganda, speech, brutal police action and its mounting toll in dead and injured all testify to Rhee's growing unpopularity among his 20,000,000 people.

In an unusual move, State Secretary Christian Herter has called for an end to "repressive" measures in South Korea—a call which could bring charges that the U.S. is interfering in the internal affairs of another country.

But Rhee, perhaps fearing that he could not put off vitally needed economic aid, has repeatedly made it clear reluctantly, saying he will redress major grievances when martial law ends. He also will punish those found guilty in the disturbances.

Under such circumstances it is possible that a dissatisfied and depressed people may turn to Communism as a better alternative opposed to what Rhee is supposed to stand for—democracy. But actual political upheaval might give Communists the chance of conquest blocked by United Nations action in the 1950-53 Korean war.

Aside from complaints of election rigging, the South Koreans grumble that with the U.S. has poured about $2,500,000,000 into their tiny country, most of this has gone to support the 25 military divisions maintained to prevent another invasion from the north.

Rhee President Eisenhower, the Korean situation holds a double embarrassment, since he is scheduled to visit Seoul June 20, after his Russian tour. He is unlikely to keep that appointment if current conditions still prevail.

Founder French Assoc. Honored At Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—Ten pioneers of the organization of French-speaking groups in Ontario were honored here Wednesday night in a gala ceremony inaugurating the 15th congress of the French-Canadian Education Association of Ontario.

The association, marking its 50th anniversary, presented the pioneers a recognition of services to education to the 10, all of whom participated in the congress in 1910.

Recipients included Rev. Lionel Seguin, SuSoury and J.-Amedee Chevrier, Cornwall.

Dr. Damien St. Pierre, another recipient, spoke for them and paid tribute to the organization.

He said it has been able to unite thousands of French-speaking Ontarians—600,000 today—into a single community for the defence of their rights and the advancement of their cause.

CONTINUE WORK

Dr. St. Pierre called on the younger generation to acknowledge its debt to the association by continuing its work throughout the province and by giving it the money necessary for carrying on with its tasks. There was a sad lack of funds at present, Louis P. Cecile, Ontario Welfare minister, said the association has accomplished in admirable fashion its task of getting the rights of the French in Ontario recognized.

The province, he said, is no longer the scene of heroic struggles for the recognition of bilingual schools, but blessed with decisive direction, the school system continues its advance.

Another convention being held here during French Week launched the Ontario School Trustees' Association in planning to ask the provincial government to give school boards greater autonomy and independence from municipal councils.

The plan was disclosed by Rinfret Tremblay of Ottawa, ASsociation member, in a speech to the annual convention of the Ontario Billingual School Trustees' Association.

NEXT SEPTEMBER

He said the Association, which provides liaison between the independent majority of school trustees' associations, will have its request in a study to be presented to Premier Frost next September.

There appeared to be a move towards subordination of school boards to municipal councils. The trustees' council opposed this trend.

Mr. Tremblay said French-language school children in Ontario do not get enough education through television.

The Provincial Teaching Association of Ontario announced it will concentrate in future the salary scale for 2,000 men and women teachers be based on qualifications as well as experience.

PRESENT SCALE

At present the scale, which calls for a minimum annual salary of $2,800 and a maximum of $6,000, is based on experience only.

The new scale set up by the association lists nine different categories with a minimum salary of $2,800 and a maximum of $8,000.

The association felt salaries should be the same in all schools, regular or denominational, and the Ontario English - Catholic teachers' Association has approved the new scale.

Sudbury Man Sent for Trial On Murder Count

SUDBURY (CP) — A Sudbury man charged with the murder of his wife "appeared normal" at the time of the shooting in a nearby Bayside Township tourist house last September, a preliminary hearing was told Wednesday.

Allenda Lalbas, 36, was committed for trial after the hearing before Magistrate Anthony Petretta.

At the outset, Labus told the court he was not ready to proceed. "I want to see Dr. Dixon," he said.

Assured that the evidence today would not prejudice his trial, Labus agreed to go ahead. Dr. Toon Dixon is a Sudbury psychiatrist.

Labus was not represented by counsel at the hearing. Arrangements will be made to provide him with legal aid.

Mrs. Alex Cierkas said the shooting occurred while she and Mrs. Lalbas, 28, were in the kitchen with the seven Cierkas children.

"When I was going to the cupboard at the sink, I saw the second cousin of the client under the stairs," Mrs. Cierkas testified.

"He had a gun in his hand. He said to his wife to come outside. She refused, 'please stop it. He told her to shut up. Then I heard a shot. Labus was sitting on a chair. She fell down."

Labus then ran outside, Mrs. Cierkas continued. She saw him place the rifle under his chin and fire it. Later from his solitude, Labus appeared "normal," she said.

Labus recently was discharged from the hospital after recovering from his surgery done after he was shot.

Senator John Kennedy Seizes Early Lead in State Primaries For Democratic Nomination

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator John F. Kennedy has seized an early lead in the country's big political popularity contest — the state primaries.

But can he hold this lead? The Democratic ring is becoming crowded with presidential hopefuls. Competition among them is stiffening. There's talk now of party competitors ganging up on Kennedy—on the religious issue —to slow his supercharged presidential drive.

An important test for him comes May 10 in West Virginia, one of the 13 of the 30 states which hold pre-convention primaries—open voting by party faithful to select delegates, in some cases favoring one candidate or another, to vote at the party's national nominating convention.

Past experience has shown the primaries are not entirely reliable as political weathervanes pointing to convention decisions. The problem is that delegates to the national party conventions help the convention fight and often vote their wishes from one candidate to another.

But they do add a touch of modern democracy to politics. And in Florida a half-century ago, the primaries are designed to give the rank and file a chance to elect their party's presidential candidate. It took 40 years to produce the powers of professional politicians.

But 33 of the 50 states still select their delegates through district committees or conventions.

First of the 1960 primaries was in New Hampshire March 8, and was followed by Illinois, Massachusetts, virtually unopposed, rolled up a big vote indicating a solid bloc behind the Democratic side. Vice-President Richard M. Nixon was unopposed on the Republican side, and also scored heavily.

But the Democratic situation is of more interest because of indications that about five men will compete for the nomination at the Democratic July 11 convention.

Though New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller is sitting on the sidelines with regard to political winds, Nixon seems to have a clear lead for the Republican nomination at Chicago July 25.

Some of the Democratic contenders are steering clear of the primaries. Stevenson that he really mean nothing when it goes down to nomination time at the convention.

But primaries are give a lift or fall to preliminary campaigning. In 1948 Harold Stassen, a Republican from Minnesota, scored heavily in the primaries and also in Oregon. Then Governor Thomas E. Dewey beat him, and from then on Dewey's prospects brightened and Stassen's darkened. Back in 1944, the late Wendell Willkie made a bid to Dewey in the Wisconsin primary. Willkie pulled out of the race. But his considerable popularity had broken his spirit.

Australian Trade Mission Opens in Vancouver Tuesday

MELBOURNE (CP)—In their short hops and long hops between Vancouver, Montreal, Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa on their Canadian tour, the 40 executives of the Australian trade mission could well become known as the 40 kangaroo men.

This would sprin from their distribution to Canadian friends of various boomerangs that are likened unto depicting a golden kangaroo rampant, in the light of the tremendous popularity of similar pins during a visit to the United States by a trade mission which presented to Premier Frost next September.

There appeared to be a move towards subordination of school boards to municipal councils. The trustees' council opposed this trend.

Sport of Skiing Growing Rapidly in B.C. But Away From Population Centres

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, (CP)—Skiing is growing up rapidly in mountainous British Columbia, a province just made for the sport.

Surprisingly, the boom seems biggest in areas far from the main population centres.

Community after community in the Interior has discovered as it's ski area and it is there that winners are produced.

There are about 125,000 skiers in B.C.—from the shaky-legs who don skis once a year to the addicts who get the bends when they drop below 3,000 feet.

27 CLUBS

Almost half are in the southwestern section—in and around cities Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria and suburbs. Six clubs were formed last year, bringing the total to 27.

B.C. was host to the first Canadian ski championships—in 1908 at Red Mountain between Rossland and Trail—and the world's first laminated ski is said to have been put together by Vancouver boat-builder Hamish Davidson about 1930.

But until about 10 years ago, those who skied generally did so without such refinements as steel edged lifts, lodges and plowed access roads.

Although the most highly developed spears in B.C. is in the mountains rising out of Burrard Inlet overlooking Vancouver, skiers there aren't doing it.

MOSTLY SIGHTSEERS

For example, 4,100-foot Grouse Mountain has a lodge and chairlift with about 5,000 members and up to 10 instructors but draws more people for the view than the skiing. Last year about 60,000 sightseers used the two chair lifts on the sunny south side during the summer while only 40,000 people went up in the winter. And half the winter visitors also took the ride out for the breathtaking view of the Vancouver area.

With $300,000 invested in equipment and property, says manager James Beaton, Grouse is not in a position to cut off the tourist trade to please the skiers.

Although Hollyburn Ridge to the west of Grouse has a 1,500-foot-long aerial lift and other amenities, its best ski area is controlled by the Greater Vancouver Water Board which doesn't like skiers trespassing.

"The government has spent considerable sums developing 4,700-foot Mount Seymour, a provincial park, and it draws the largest crowds because of its accessibility by car and closeness to Vancouver. But most of its development is aimed at sightseers since it is below the 3,500-foot level acknowledged as the main snow line in winter.

INDIFFERENCE CHARGED

"As long as we have the present indifference to skiing development in Vancouver, we will not develop top skiers," says Bob Bartley, western representative of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association. "We're going to fall behind while the Interior moves ahead fast.

The Interior has already produced Canada's leading amateur skier in Verne Anderson, 22, of Rossland, and sisters Elizabeth and Nancy Greene and Pat Nora, all of the same community, were on the women's Olympic team.

Nearby is the latest provincial Interior spot is Silver Star, a 6,300-foot mountain in the east end of Vernon. Winter conditions there were ideal with snow up-to 12 feet deep with little rain. It has a road almost to the peak, a 2,500-foot lift and 1,000-foot rope tow.

Comparable conditions exist at 5,005-foot Red Mountain, one of the toughest hills in B.C. It has a 3,800-foot chair lift and 900-foot T-bar.

BANFF OVERFLOW

Two areas in eastern B.C. have begun to draw the overflow from Banff and other Alberta resorts. Revelstoke features the Nels Nelson Hill, with one of only two ski jumps in North America approved by the International Ski Federation. Kimberley boasts the longest T-bar lift in the world, a mile-long affair that runs up Northstar Hill.

Other areas in operation or being built include: Forbidden Plateau on Vancouver Island and, in the Interior, Kamloops, Lac Le Jeune, Salmon Arm, Kelowna, Summerland, Nelson, Fernie, Prince George and Dawson Creek.

Attention swung recently to Garibaldi Provincial Park, 50 miles north of Vancouver, almost inaccessible now but being considered seriously for development as a possible site for the 1968 Winter Olympics.

Revelstoke, Kimberley and Vernon have organized committees to try to get the Games themselves.

SKI BOOM — These two skiers whipping down the powdery slopes of Mount Seymour in British Columbia are among an estimated 125,000 making use of the province's rapidly growing ski centres. An even greater number use the facilities just for sight-seeing. Garibaldi Park, 50 miles north of Vancouver, is being considered as a possible site for the 1968 Olympic winter games and three other communities have organized game committees. (CP Photo).

Argonauts' Coach Releases Roster of American Imports

By WILF GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Lou Agase, coach of Toronto Argonauts, Wednesday reeled off the names of the new Americans signed by the Big Four Football League club for the 1960 season, leaving listeners wondering about the quality if not the quantity.

Agase opened at a press conference the 16 new Americans whom Argo officials disclosed they've signed and said he hopes to have 32 new imports on hand for camp opening Saturday, June 11. Nearly all the 32 have been signed and Argos will disclose other names in the next couple of months.

Of those already revealed, have been out of football for a year or more, some have been injured in the past and two have failed to make other Canadian pro teams in previous seasons.

Agase, however, expressed confidence that he has the foundation for a strong club.

NO PREDICTIONS

The former Michigan State assistant coach, signed by Argos last December to a two-year contract as head coach after they finished out of the playoffs for the fourth straight year, refrained from making any rash predictions, but said Argos would play interesting football and would not be pushovers for the other clubs in the league.

A good part of Agase's optimism is based on quarterback Tobin Rote, a 10-year-veteran of the National Football League.

"I feel without reservation that he wants to do an outstanding job in Canadian football," Agase said.

Rote, who played out his option with Detroit Tigers last season and then was signed by Argos, is reported to be getting around $25,000 for the season.

BUFFER SETBACK

One of the pass - receivers Agase had been counting on for Rote likely will be lost to the club as an offensive player. He is Bob Jewett, a speedy end from Michigan State, who Agase said is the type of player not many defensive men can cover.

Some of Jewett's fingers on one hand had to be amputated after an industrial accident a few months ago. Agase said he didn't know yet whether the player would still be able to play offence but added Jewett is also a great defensive player and will be given an opportunity at defensive halfback.

Agase said Argos have signed Bill Bucek, six - foot - one, 185-pound halfback from Rice Institute and 13th draft choice of Baltimore Colts of the NFL. Bucek was Rice's leading ground-gainer last season.

B.C. Girls Win Cage Game

HAMILTON (CP) — Richmond Merchants of British Columbia picked up a 45-43 victory over Hamilton's Quigley Flyerettes Wednesday night to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series for the Canadian women's senior basketball crown.

The fourth game is scheduled here tonight. A fifth, if needed, will be played Saturday. The West has monopolized the series since it started 15 years ago.

Wednesday night's game saw the lead change hands four times and Richmond's final edge was not achieved until the last minute of play. Lou Sheppard broke a 43-43 tie when she took a long pass, split the Hamilton defence and scored a neat basket.

BAD FOR HEART

Health experts say that running for the bus may tax the heart of persons over 40 years old or overweight.

Missing Molars Cause Team To Lose Game

COPENHAGEN (AP) — A Danish soccer club is up in arms because a referee searched for his lost false teeth during a league match — and missed a goal.

Referee Henning Erikstrup lost his teeth just as he was about to blow the final whistle, and spent several costly minutes recovering them. In the meantime, the Eberioft team scored a goal to tie Noerager 4-4.

Erikstrup promptly blew his whistle, cancelled the goal, and awarded a 4-3 victory to Noerager.

Eberioft protested that the match had ended formally when they scored the fourth goal.

Erikstrup admits this, but claims extraordinary circumstances.

"Why, I simply had to get my teeth back. Otherwise, some player might have put his big boot on them and crushed them," he said.

Knows Nothing Of Montreal Grid Squawk

DALLAS (AP) — General manager Tex Schramm of Dallas Cowboys said Wednesday the controversy involving his team's National Football League exhibition game with New York Giants at Montreal was "news to me".

Manager coach Perry Moss of Montreal Alouettes said his club would do everything in its power to prevent the exhibition scheduled for Aug. 29.

"Our negotiations have been strictly with the Giants", said Schramm. "They asked us if we'd be willing to play them in Montreal and we said yes. I don't even know the name of the Montreal promoter. I'm not even sure the deal has been completed.

"I don't see how the game possibly could infringe on anyone's rights, though. Boy, it's getting so certain people own certain towns in sport. Two Canadian clubs played in Philadelphia last year and the NFL didn't squawk. Ted Workman Montreal Alouettes president is a good, close friend of mine. He's always been one of the Canadian league's most co-operative persons, but like I said, it's the Giants' deal. I'll have to get in touch with them to find out what it's all about".

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—The annual meeting of the Canadian Trotting Association, the administrative body of harness racing in Canada was held by president Hugh Proudfoot of Ft. Coulonge, Que., today that the association's schools for officials will be held here April 25 and in Toronto April 26.

Clifford Bradley of Brighton, Ont., was appointed Canadian supervisor of racing and Montreal's R. O. Guy was named his assistant, a new post.

The executive granted a provisional licence effective July 1, to Gerald Hess of Morrisburg, Ont., a driver suspended last year for a racing infraction.

NAME EXECUTIVE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tommy Richardson of Williamsport, Pa., president of the Eastern League, Wednesday was named to minor league baseball's executive committee. He was appointed by minor league chief George M. Trautman to succeed Charles Hurth of New Orleans, who resigned the Southern Association presidency to become general manager of the New York club in the Continental League.

45 Current Night Shows Slated for Discard in Fall

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Satire time probably has pick holes in Wednesday night's ABC television's adaptation of the 1958 movie hit, Minotchka.

It was just memories of the great Greta Garbo that interfered with this viewer's enjoyment of the romantic, high-speed comedy. It is hard, if not impossible, for a 1960 audience to regard dedicated Communists as figures of fun and subjects for satire.

This carefree, pre-war silliness almost needs a period piece cast of the play. And the necessity for compressing a full-length motion picture into a 90-minute TV show also made Minotchka's transition from stern exploiter to sweet girl in love extremely abrupt. Her motive for changing seemed to have been that her lover fell on his chair—hardly enough.

Marie Schell in the title role was lovely to look at and listen to. Attractive Gig Young made a dandy dashing swain. And Zsa Zsa Gabor added a proper note of spice and sparkle as the other woman.

ABC, CBS and NBC TV networks are fairly well set on fall schedule plans now—most of the shows are already sold, in fact. And if present programs plans mature, it looks as if about 45 current night shows are headed for the discard pile.

Among the present stalwarts which have no spot open in September are Markham, M Squad,

Says Snead Is 'Mental Heavyweight'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Edward Benjamin, president of the Starmount Forest Country Club in Greensboro, N.C., Wednesday described Sam Snead "as a mental heavyweight who has developed a contempt for his fellow players."

He said he would be happy if Snead played his golf somewhere other than Greensboro in the future.

Snead won the Greater Greensboro Open last week on the Starmount course. He won it six times previously.

In the award presentation ceremonies, Snead criticized the conditions of the course, calling it lousy and added: "I hope it will finally get to Benjamin to do something about his golf course."

Benjamin mentioned in reply the record score of 270 Snead carded this year.

Benjamin said other players paired with Snead in the tournament complained of the West Virginian's contemptuous action.

Thorne Wood, first-round leader, told him, Benjamin said, that Snead would putt out before the other players had a chance to walk off the green with the gallery behind him.

While Gary Player was lining up his putt on the 18th green Sunday, Benjamin said, Snead started taking golf balls from his pocket and throwing them across the green to his caddie, Benjamin said.

Chuck Connors, Former Ball Player, Likes Acting Best

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Chuck Connors played baseball, other players labelled him a "that actor."

Now that he's successful in movies and television, other actors label him as "that ballplayer."

"I can't seem to belong to the right group at the right time," moans the six-foot, five-inch former first baseman for Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago Cubs, Montreal Royals and Los Angeles Angels.

Connors, whose confidence is reminiscent of Dizzy Dean's, took me with him to the Los Angeles Dodgers' opener with the Cubs.

NO REGRETS

As the crowd roared, I asked Connors if he ever regretted giving up baseball for acting.

"You want the truth?" he answered. "I don't regret it one bit.

"As a ballplayer, I was a good minor leaguer. As an actor, I'm major league—I can get the other actors to accept me as such."

A few years ago, Connors observed an Oscar nomination as best supporting actor for The Big Country. His portrayal of the mean son of Burl Ives is a classic of screen villainy, but he didn't get the nomination.

"The many actors refused to vote for a ballplayer," he says.

STARRING TV ROLE

When he was offered the starring role in TV's The Bitter-man, Connors carefully predicted the show would make TV's top 10 its first season. It did—and it's still there.

"I wouldn't have accepted the role if I hadn't thought so," he says with a likable cockiness. "I could have had good movie roles instead."

For a change of pace, he has a role coming up soon in a big budget epic to be filmed in Europe.

As a Dodger rookie, Connors was noted for reciting about The Shooting of Dan McGrew, his devasting imitations of owner Branch Rickey and manager Burt Shotton—so devastating that he got farmed out to Montreal after one performance in front of the subjects.

In 1952, he was earning $6,000 a year with the Angels here when he put his histrionics to spare time use in the movies.

"I got $500 for the first three days I worked in the movies," recalls Connors. Other parts followed and he doubled his Angels salary in his off time. Now he earns $120,000 or better a year—double what Babe Ruth used to make.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If crow-eat, bow-tied Gerry Moore ever includes Canadian hockey in his television program, he will scarcely call the 1959-60 season "last wonderful year." Unless, of course, he is a dyed-in-the-wool Montreal Canadien fan.

In that sense it was wonderful—for the Hab fans. In many other ways it was wacky and weird. But its aftermath is interesting.

The Eastern Professional League team claims its freshman year was a "wonderful" one. Wonderful, that is, for Sudbury, Hull-Ottawa and possibly the Soo. But—Three Rivers may get the gate—and what about unmentioned Kingston? Montreal is another question mark.

The story out of Kingston is there will be a shake-up—that a manager-coach will replace the dual set-up of Coach Cal Gardner and Manager Johnny Carr-Harris. No mention is made of the Kingston attendance or of its financial status.

But—as I mentioned in this column a short time ago, the Eastern play-for-players are on the prowl again. They want another club to replace the Three Rivers team "if the Lions do not meet with league requirements," and have their eyes on Kitchener, Niagara Falls and Windsor.

The story out of Kitchener is that it will not go for a professional club. North Bay wants to get into the junior "A" swim—and Hamilton is about as ready for a pro club, as Mr. K is of embracing to the United States.

And some veteran Kingston observers state that tinings are not as rosy as the EPL would have you believe, in the Limestone City. Some Montreal promises by the parent NHL sponsor did not materialize. The club finished in the cellar and the fans stayed away in droves.

Owl west the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey Association wants to shake the shackles of the CAHA and enter into a direct agreement with the National Hockey League.

The Shaky plan, its top brass says, would embrace junior "A" organizations in Manitoba and Ontario. All this, of course, for certain financial considerations from Campbell Soup Company.

Another evidence of the professional octopus reaching out its power-seeking tentacles was the statement of Stafford Smythe, top banana of the Toronto Maple Leafs "Silver Seven," which urged no organized hockey for youngsters until they were 12 years of age. This would make for a higher-class grist for the professional mills.

And all was not beer and skittles in the amateur ranks. Also OHA and CAHA executive attract fire from several of their component parts, and the batteries at the moment are merrily resting on their guns.

The big barrages will be let loose at the annual meetings of the two organizations. The CAHA convenes in Toronto on April 30, and a lot of the shells aimed at it won't be duds.

It is felt in many quarters that what is badly needed in both amateur bodies is a strong commissioner to administer the rules. In the case of the CAHA without reference to outside bodies, and in the case of the OHA to do away with junior and senior councils which operated with considerable success the past season.

Yet strangely enough the OHA senior "A" group, despite senseless bickerings, alleged poor administration by its councils, and endless argument, decided it learned a lesson in its 1959-60 "wonderful year," and is looking forward to a banner season next puck-chasing term.

It weathered a five-team playoff round-robin; two clubs did not pay franchise fees; a club that got a full-time goalie after the playoff started; the last-place team made eligible for playoffs and a club that twice threatened to withdraw, yet went on to win the league title, and seems headed for the Allan Cup.

Many predicted this year would see the swan-song of senior hockey. And at one stage of the game it looked like it—in Ontario.

Yet, as was mentioned, the OHA senior circuit is looking for a bigger and better season next year, with possible expansion.

And for those who think senior hockey is near the coffin stage, the word from the prairies is "let's get back to it."

It is said the success of the revived Saskatchewan senior league this past winter was an eye-opener for some of the centres which have been struggling to stay alive in the Western Hockey League.

Saskatoon Quakers were early casualties, and it is stated that with the move of the league into U.S. centres, Winnipeg will be dropped once they are admitted.

Sports columnist John (Winnipeg Tribune) Robertson says: "Isn't it about time the prairie teams were looking toward senior hockey for survival."

Saskatchewan tried the switch this year and the Quakers ended up drawing as many customers on a pre-game basis as their pre-counterparts did in years before. In addition Regina and Moose Jaw rounded out the league with Yorkton, showed healthy bank balances at the end of the season.

Dejordy Named Rookie of Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Neminder Denis Dejordy, 21, of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds has been named the rookie-of-the-year in the Eastern Professional Hockey League's first season, it was announced Wednesday.

The St. Hyacinthe, Que., native a sure-fire NHL prospect, received two first-place votes and three for third place from the six governors for a total of 13 points.

He had a two-point edge over last winger Gilles Tremblay of the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens who was picked first twice and once for third.

Other first-place votes went to Gerry O'Gorman of Sudbury Wolves and Gerry Ouellette of Kingston Frontenacs. Five points were awarded for a first-place vote, three for second and one for third.

Dejordy, con sidered Chicago Black Hawks' top netminder after Glenn Hall, had a 3.74 average in his first pro year, allowing 258 goals in 69 games and picking up one shutout.

A graduate of St. Catharines Teepees of the OHA Junior A Series, he kept Thunderbirds in the battle for a playoff berth right down to the last game of the team dropped to fifth place.

Gene Fullmer Is Held To Draw By Joey Giardello

Retains Middleweight Crown After Bloody Butting Battle; Both Fighters Used 'Heads'

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP)—Gene Fullmer's world middleweight boxing crown still rested on his bruised brow today after tilting dangerously in a bloody slugging and butting duel with Joey Giardello.

The officials ruled the 15-round brawl Wednesday night a draw.

Giardello, a 3-to-1 underdog, chanted afterward "I'm the champion, I'm the champion!"

Fullmer ignored Joey's claim and said he'll never again fight the Philadelphia veteran, who just missed in his first title shot after 12 years in the ring.

"He doesn't deserve a rematch because of the way he butted me in the fourth round," said Fullmer, recognized as world king by the National Boxing Association.

SCORES DRAWN

Fullmer's manager, Marv Jenson, echoed the champion's mind. "Gene's my boy but I'm not that, I have no feeling about giving him a rematch. You couldn't tell me I didn't get up in front."

"Sure, I butted him," Giardello said. "But I only did it after he butted me."

Giardello's head-butting action followed referee Harry Kessler's warning to Fullmer in the third round against butting.

Kessler, from St. Louis, scored 144-142 for Giardello, Referee Ruy Evans of Butte, Mont., gave it to the champion 145-142. Judge Billy McFarland of Minot, Mont., called it even at 143-143. The Associated Press scored it 144-144 and even in rounds.

More than 12,000 fans jammed in corners of $110,000 round-built into the Montana State College fieldhouse for the bout.

GOT MONEY'S WORTH

They got their money's worth in the slugfest that brought the 26th draw in a title match. It was the first for Fullmer, champion Robert Cohen of France and Willie Towell of South Africa battled to a 1958 standoff at Johannesburg.

Fullmer who just made the 160-pound weight limit, collected all the $100,000 television receipts, Giardello, who weighed 158¼ pounds, received $25,000 plus $5,000 expenses.

There was confusion at ringside for several minutes after the split votes of the referee and judges were announced. The status of Fullmer's crown remained uncertain until Sonny O'Dey, chairman of the Montana Athletic Commission, stepped to the microphone and told the crowd: "The decision has to be a draw. Fullmer retains his crown."

Fullmer said it's next bout probably will be in Salt Lake City, Utah, June 15 against Carmen Basilio, the middle from West Jordan, Utah, won the title from Basilio last August.

Gustaw "Bull" Rodz, Cincinnati counselor, is also in the picture with a possible date this fall in San Francisco.

BLOODY AND FAST

The action was fast and furious in the early rounds. By the fourth, blood streamed down the faces of both fighters. Kessler's grey shirt and trousers looked as if he had stepped out of a slaughter house.

Giardello peppered away with his left and found Fullmer's right-hander countered with a relentless body attack too which made Joey wince half a dozen times. Although both suffered heavy jolts throughout the bout, there were no knockdowns.

Giardello's record now stands at 31-6-1 and Fullmer's at 36-3-1. He has 23 knockouts to his credit.

Habs Thrash Teepees 10-5

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Bobby Rousseau and left winger Gilles Francour of Brockville Canadiens teamed up Wednesday night to deal a stunning blow to Mr. Mercury Cup hopes of St. Catharines Teepees.

The "terrible twosome" accounted for six goals and four assists as the Habs thrashed the Teepees 10-5 in the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final to keep alive their Dominion final hopes.

St. Catharines lead the best-of-seven series 3-2. Next game is at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto Friday night and the seventh, if necessary, is the Montreal Forum Saturday night.

The winner will play Edmonton Oil Kings, western champions, in the Dominion final.

Rousseau scored four times and Francour twice. Single goals came from Andre Drolet, Keith McCreary, Wayne Preiss and Germain Munger.

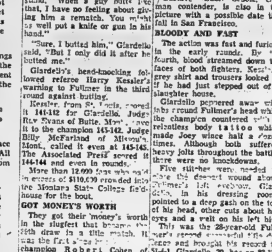
Ye Hadfield scored twice for Teepees and Chico Maki, Murray Hall and Rick Predowich got one each.

HEAVY SCORER

The 22-year-old Rousseau, one of the top prospects in junior hockey today, has scored 19 goals and six assists so far in the playoffs. Francour had collected six goals and five assists.

Next Tuesday's game on the Habs roster is Andre Drolet with two goals and five assists—an indication of the heavy scoring of Rousseau and Francour.

Before the game, stunned by a small crowd of 5,000, Toronto Rudy Pilous, owner of Teepees and coach of the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks, said: "We won't win any other game. We're playing lousy hockey."



The series has been a comeback for the Habs who trailed 3-0 after the 43 win in Toronto last Sunday.

Colavito, Kaline Come Through

Detroit Clips Cleveland 6-4 For Second Straight Victory Giants Win, Yanks Beaten

By ED. WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

If you're scoring the Cleveland-Detroit trades, give round two to the Tigers and at least a nod to Al Kaline, the forgotten hero.

Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash, a pair of ex-Indians, brought Detroit from behind with homers but it was Kaline who delivered the knockout punch in the fatal seventh-inning rally as the Tigers clipped the Indians 6-4 Wednesday.

Kaline's first 1960 home run cracked a 4-4 tie and triggered the ninth inning rally. He broke up Tuesday's opener with a two-run single in the 15th for a 4-2 edge.

With the defending champion Chicago White Sox 2½ games behind, Detroit (2-0) wound up atop the American League standings.

BOSTON'S FIRST WIN

The Boston Red Sox, winless their first on the third try, spilled the Kansas City Athletics and Washington dropped Baltimore 4-1 in the only other games scheduled in the AL.

Colavito, the fan favorite traded by Detroit general manager Jack Kuenn, made up for Tuesday's 0-for-5 with a 2-for-4 performance, three-run homer that tied it in the fourth, Then Cash, exchanged for Kaline, connected with a pair two weeks ago, crashed a pinch homer for a 4-4 deadlock in the eighth.

To make it worse for the Indians, it was the first week for Rocky Colavito, Kaline and Cash.

The Tigers got their clinching run in the ninth when Kaline tagged Jim Perry (0-1), and Colavito walked and Steve Demeter forced Power. The other run came in the fifth on reliever Don Mossi's sacrifice fly after three errors by Eddie Yost that tied the modern one-inning record for Detroit batsmen.

Right - hander Jerry Casale made it six in a row with a five-hit job on the Yankees. He walked three, struck out eight and chipped in a two - run single as the Bob Scheffing crew scored four in the second for a 5-0 lead against loser Bob Turley.

A double by Chuck Hinton and a single by Roger Maris scored the New York runs in the third.

The Senators won their second game from Orioles tripled and Billy Gardner singled in the eighth. Harmon Killebrew, who had Colavito for his AL homer title with 42 last season, socked the first of the year in the fifth inning and then gave the Nats a 7-6 tie with a two-run single in the seventh.

Tex Clevenger won it in relief. Billy Coleman lost it.

Chatham Maroons Meet Trail In Allan Cup Finals

Take Eastern Canada Title With Explosive 19-0 Win; Cup Series Opens on Monday

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons roared into the Allan Cup final Wednesday night, swamping Hull Legion 19-0 with the most prolific scoring burst ever seen in this Southwestern Ontario city.

Maroons bombarded Hull goalie Roger Fortin with 55 shots as they clinched the best-of-five Eastern Canada Senior A final 3-1.

Chatham opens the best - of - seven cup final against Trail Smoke Eaters, the western champions, in Trail, B.C., Monday.

Leading the devastating Chatham attack were four-goal scorers Gary Sharp and Billy Forhan. Jim Connelly got three. George Ahlenz scored two. Singles went to Elmer Skov, Joe Male, F. Pietsch, Jack Stoddard, Merle Klinck and Ted Power.

The Power - Connelly - Sharp line picked up 30 scoring points and the Forhan - Male - Stoddard combination 23.

Every Chatham player except goaltender Cesare Maniago collected at least one point.

Maroons could do no wrong. They skated exceptionally well and time and time again broke through the Hull defence. Fortin played well despite the score. It would have been higher but for some of his fine stops. He was often left alone to face Maroons' attackers.

Chatham's defenceman Jack Douglas was out of action with a broken hand and Klinck was brought in as a replacement from the club's Senior B Woodstock affiliate.

Hull sorely missed former National Leaguer Lee Gravelle and defenceman Giles Lacelle, who was felled by the stick of Frank Battaglia Monday. Battgale drew a one-game suspension for his part in the fracas.

Peewee Tourney

GODERICH (CP) — New Hamburg and Woodstock posted important wins Wednesday as Western Ontario teams continued dominating the Young Canada Week pee wee hockey tournament here.

New Hamburg captured the Series C championship with a 6-3 victory over Seaforth after disposing of Elmira 10-4.

Woodstock shut out St. Lambert, Que., 3-0 to knock the defending Series A champions out of contention in the nine - day tournament. Either Waterloo, Ont. or Mount Royal, Que., both of which play their first games today, Will face Woodstock in the second round later in the day.

All Woodstock goals were counted in the last six minutes of play. The marksmen were Jimmy Patterson, Norm Morris and Bob Scott who scored the final tally 17 minutes before the end of the game.

North Bay came up with the strongest performance in Wednesday's Series A play, drubbing Preston 16-6. Today they face St. Thomas in a second-round match.

Stratford, winners of the A little two years ago, won twice Wednesday, 5-0 over Owen Sound and 5-2 over Guelph.

Leamington defeated Brampton 4-2, Galt beat Wallaceburg 5-1 and St. Thomas shut out Penetanguishene 3-0 to round out the day's Series A action.

DECREASE PROMINENCE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Tuesday night's fight here between unbeaten Jackie Donnelly and thrice-beaten Bobby Kendall has been moved up to a 12-rounder for the New York State lightweight championship. The state athletic commission changed its mind on the issue Tuesday night, apparently on the basis of the records of the two South Buffalo fighters. There is no recognized state champion now.

Maple Leafs, Rochester Win International Loop Openers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The whirlwind finish of the Havana Sugar Kings that evened 13-0 deficit and tie the score in the sixth. But Rochester, who outhit the Cubans 8-4, got the winner in the 10th to give Luis Arroyo the loss.

Ken Lehman gave Miami only six hits but was helped along by a wild pitch, a hit batsman and a run scored by Bobby Morgan with the bases loaded in a 1-0 run and losing Lehman drove in the last two runs with a bases-loaded single.

Toronto, held to two hits by Jim Bronstad for six innings, scored three runs in the seventh and singletons the last two innings that gave Russ Heman the victory, his Eastern league win for the Leafs.

Bill Hunter, up from Green Bay, gave only one hit in three relief innings for Montreal. The Royals screwed up things with a four-run sixth inning, helped by three walks and three hits. Montreal Connie Grob got the victory.

Royals Eastern Pro Champs

SUDBURY (CP) — Montreal Royals, playing on what coach Floyd Currie called heart but no legs, are champions of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The Royals, many of them veteran National League competitors, edged Sudbury Wolves 4-3 Wednesday night in the seventh game of the final to become first winner of the Tom Foley Memorial Trophy.

It was a spectacular comeback for Montreal, which wasn't optimistic about its changes against the Sudbury youngsters.

"We have heart, but we haven't got the legs," said Currie after his team took a 3-2 game lead in Montreal Sunday.

Former Montreal Canadiens Gerry McNeil, who said after the game he will retire now, was a standout for Royals. The little netminder was sparkling and an almost' airtight defence helped his cause.

RALLY FALLS SHORT

The score was 1-1 after the first period but Montreal was out going into the third, when each team scored once. A last-ditch effort by Sudbury failed. The Wolves pulled goalfender Gerry McNamara and scored once but couldn't get another.

Billy Sutherland, Kelly Burnett, Gary Mork and Reg Grigg scored Montreal's goals. Jimmy Moore, John Sleaver and Real Chevrefils were Sudbury marksmen.

EPHL president Ed Houston presented Montreal captain Lulu Denis with the trophy after the game.

Montreal defenceman Wally Cline, 30, also said he is retiring.

'Grandmaw', 60 Is Ardent Hockey Fan

GODERICH (CP) — A 60-year-old grandmother from Pittsburgh who craves hockey games is counting on seeing every match in the Young Canada Week Peewee hockey tournament here.

Mrs. Grace Tolbert, a switchboard operator at Pittsburgh Magee Hospital, is among the first to enter the arena every morning.

Warmly dressed, with a wool cap on her head and a blanket around her feet, she greets friends she has made in her two previous trips here and sits until the day's last game is over.

LOVES HOCKEY

"It's very simple why I am here," she said. "I just love hockey and I go wherever I can to see plenty of hockey on any one trip."

When the Peewee tournament, Canada's largest, is over, Mrs. Tolbert will have watched almost 100 games this season.

She managed to get up to Leamington for a tournament there, Kingston for another, visited my daughter in St. Paul, Minn., last Christmas, I took in Detroit and Boston."

Mrs. Tolbert's first contact with hockey was through radio broadcasts.

"The newspaper she read about the Goderich tournament, wrote for information and made her first trip hereto 1958.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Friday, April 22

General tendencies: This is a day when some surprise pleasure can be yours, but you have to be open-minded to accept it or it can easily pass you by. Make sure that you do think out just what you want today and visit or do something kind and helpful for shut-ins or those less fortunate than yourself. Get rid of all behind-the-scenes restrictions.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be certain you show in some tangible way how much you value being allied with vital persons in your life. Take them out to dinner, send small gifts, word of praise, etc. Cement better relations, too. P. M. be very sociable.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Secretly doing the things that bring pleasure and security to loved ones is highly commendable today. Become more closely knit. A. M. avoid that new acquaintance. Keep busily occupied at what is important to you.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — An ideal day to go shopping or to lunch with delightful companions and carry through with plans for some activity that will be mutually lucrative, enjoyable. Do research work, buy the items you need. P. M. enjoy sports or go to the theatre.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — By being very affectionate and devoted today, you can reach greater rapport with those who mean so much to your personal life. P.M. avoid irate associate looking for a whipping boy.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Look to that new acquaintance for fine ideas concerning how to advance more quickly. He or her, experience is greater and more varied than yours. Be open-minded to the modern. P.M. get any medical care you may need.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Make it a point in your spare moments to be devoted to close ties and you will be pleasantly surprised with what happens. Go out socially in the evening, but take care you do not spend more than you can afford. Be happy.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You can easily get dynamic associates and clever firms or friends to go along with you in your constructive plans, provided you express yourself clearly and specifically. P. M. maintain order and peace at home.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Adding color and art, order and efficiency to your surroundings today is very wise. Also, get wardrobe fixed properly. Make an excellent impression on higher-ups. A. M. drive, walk and act most carefully.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If living according to your best planetary influences, you should arise feeling full of vim and vigor, and can think big so that you get big. P. M. have fun without being extravagant. Simple pleasures are the best.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Replace old furniture with new, restore to clean surroundings, add art objects, etc. Later, put financial matters in better order, too. P. M. a change of attitude can rid you of depressed feelings. Be cheerful.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — First peruse your paper, then sit with a trusted friend to the investigations so important to you right now. Also, look into some interesting new outlet. P. M. clear up those dull chores quickly.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Budget or invest funds very sensibly today. Also, be wiser with expenditures for pleasures or entertainment. P. M. do not permit a depressed comrade to throw cold water on your somewhat rosy outlook on life.

If your child is born today — The interesting child born today is the type of inquisitive little individual who wants to learn about everything firsthand. Teach to avoid dangers, but do not curb this fine trait. Wonderful chart for the theatre, designing, whatever brings your progeny before the public in general. Career can start very early in life so that there is a real abundance and lots of spare time in old age.

Lead Poisoning From Car Fumes Said Widespread

VICTORIA (CP)—A University of British Columbia geology professor says many illnesses may be caused by lead poisoning from automobile exhausts.

Prof. Harry V. Warren told a meeting of public-health specialists Tuesday that trees and plants growing beside highways have an abnormally high lead content. Tetra-ethyl lead additives used in gasolines caused the contamination.

Vegetables, fruit and cereals were also found to be absorbing lead and North Americans may suffer as a result of it, he said.

"This seems to be a serious thing. Between 100,000 and 150,000 tons of lead are used every year in North America in making tetra-ethyl lead additives."

Kennedy Gets His Irish Up

WHEELING, W. VA. (AP)—Jack Kennedy got his Irish up Tuesday.

The Democratic senator from Massachusetts, obviously irked at the persistent needling of Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and his supporters, accepted Humphrey's challenge to a face-to-face debate in their presidential primary fight and made the issue of his religion a major topic in his hop-and-skip speeches.

The two moves, in the West Virginia primary, represent a complete turn-about from his method of campaigning in Wisconsin, where he defeated Humphrey earlier this month.

No time or place has been set for the debate.

De Gaulle Leaves With Comforting View Of Canada

Came to See if Canada Could Be Relied Upon

TORONTO (CP)—President de Gaulle of France left Canada today with avowed confidence in this country's role in defence of freedom.

As he neared the end of a four-day visit, he said yesterday night his stay has brought him a "very comforting feeling" of reliance on Canada.

Today, he flew to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower, taking off at 10 a.m. after a brief ceremony in front of city hall in the downtown section of this city of 1,500,000. He placed a wreath at the war memorial there.

Thursday's travels brought him from Quebec, ancient centre of French culture, into and out of Montreal, and finally to this Ontario capital to the accompaniment of a 99-gun salute.

As in the case of the French centres, his reception here was warm, though only a relatively handful of people saw him as he was hustled from place to place to attend four functions between his 8:16 a.m. arrival at the near-windsight end of a white-tie dinner given by the provincial government.

DISCORDANT NOTE

A minor jarring note developed at Malton Airport, 16 miles from here, when a group of pro-Arabs silently unfurled placards critical of France's Algerian policies. It was doubtful whether the French leader saw them as he went through the arrival ceremony of meeting provincial and city officials and reviewing a guard of honor.

Leader of the group was Issa Fahel, 36, of London, Ont., member of the Canadian Friends of the Middle East and an Arab. Others were from Montreal and Toronto.

Elsewhere, crowds of up to perhaps 500 clustered at various stops of the general, applauding and cheering as he was whisked in and out of the legislature building and two hotels during the evening.

About 300 diehards waited until 11:30 p.m. to see him emerge from the formal dinner, evidently weary after a long day but smiling and waving.

SPEAKS IN FRENCH

The general spoke in French at the dinner—an interpreter provided translations for two sentences—and said two major reasons he had stopped over in Canada were to see for himself how the ties between Canada and France were "still living," and Another serviceman in the car was treated for serious injuries and released by the RCAF base of Grostenquin declined to release the names of all the victims.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:— Sunny spring weather covers southern Ontario today and is expected to last through the weekend with afternoon temperatures reaching the 70s and dropping at night only to near 36. A weak disturbance pushed a few showers across Northern Ontario Thursday night and one is further expected for Saturday.

ARE NO PROBLEMS FOR DIEFENBAKER ON MEXICAN VISIT

Will Discuss Ways Of Expanding Trade

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker began a busy weekend visit to Mexico today, the first by a Canadian prime minister and Mr. Diefenbaker's second since his 1958 honeymoon trip.

Officially he is repaying a visit Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos made to Canada last year.

Canadian officials have said there are no problems to be settled on the talks between Diefenbaker and Mateos, but the two leaders are expected to discuss ways of expanding trade between the two countries and look at the international situation.

Diefenbaker, who arrived Thursday night from Ottawa via New Orleans, was to deliver an address today at the University of Mexico on the meeting between the Mexican foreign minister and the first prime minister he was to make before returning to Ottawa Sunday.

In the afternoon, he will address the National Bar Association of Mexico and receive an honorary membership.

The Canadian prime ministry and Mateos are expected to confer tonight when Diefenbaker and his party are guests of the president at home.

Mateos was at the airport to greet Diefenbaker, Mrs. Diefenbaker and Rafael de la Colina, the Canadian ambassador to Canada also were aboard the Canadair transport department Viscount airliner which flew Diefenbaker here.

Thousands turned out to cheer the Canadian visitors as they drove from the airport to the city.

The Diefenbakers, who bored moored in Acapulco in 1953, are staying with Arthur Bettis, Canada's ambassador to Mexico.

HOPE FOR SUMMIT

During a brief stop over Thursday in New Orleans, Diefenbaker expressed hope that next month's

Another Negro Twp. Raided, 100 Arrested

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Troops and police raided a Negro township near here today as the South African government continued its drive to stamp out opposition to its strict segregation policy.

About 1,000 troops and police descended on Langa Township, one of the main trouble spots in the last month of racial unrest, and arrested some 100 men. Another 70 were held for "screening."

Seven armored cars patrolled the streets as police searched a bus from huts where many of Capetown's Negro workers live.

The arrests bring the total to more than 1,600 the number of persons taken into custody since the government declared a state of emergency March 30 following bloody clashes between Negroes and police.

Justice Minister Francois Erasmus told the House of Assembly before today's raid that 94 whites, 1,451 Africans and 39 others (mixed blood) persons had been arrested under the emergency regulations.

British Tailor Flooded With S.A. Orders for Bullet-Proof Vests

LONDON (Reuters) — Tailor Leonard Barratt said today his order-books are flooded with South Africa wanting bullet-proof vests.

He has been kept busy in his speciality work by requests for armored vests since the outbreak of racial unrest in South Africa. Barratt said in the exclusive London tailor's shop where he works:

Most customers are unknown to him by name, Barratt said. They usually send their requirements by mail or personal representative and do not advertise themselves.

Barratt, who has been making armored clothing for 40 years, said that, apart from the orders from South Africa, the demand for such clothing has been dropping.

Barratt said his hand - made vests are guaranteed to stop an automatic revolver or pistol shot at six yards.

The standard vest weighs 20 pounds, but his clients especially those in the Middle East, prefer lighter versions, which he has constructed from a specially - treated steel alloy.

Barratt said he once made a bullet-proof vest for Italian dictator Mussolini. Employees of various oil and public companies and banks in Cyprus called on his services during the Mediterranean island's five-year crisis.

South America has been a good source of orders because of its revolutions and Barratt has sent more than 200 of his vests to the Middle East.

For Mexico, Barratt sends out an extended vest designed to handle the sudden upward knife thrust or an attacker expert at throwing knives.

Day-Long Parade Is Staged By 10,000 Korean Students

SEOUL (AP) — Two-thousand college students paraded all day through the Seoul today in the biggest anti-government demonstration since the "Bloody Tuesday" riots.

The peaceful mob in the city city 30 miles west of Seoul smashed four windows in the headquarters of Rhee's Liberal Party and chanted demands for the resignation of vice-president Lee Kee-Poong, shouting that his March election with Rhee was crooked.

There was no bloodshed. Police fired three shots in the air when demonstrators but otherwise made no attempt to disperse them.

The demonstration followed a five-minute scuffle in the National Assembly here between opponents of Rhee and deputies from the party in the Kee-Poong security.

Minor student gatherings were reported in two other cities. A few hundred high school students tried to organize a march at Kyongju, 200 miles southwest of Seoul, and several 100 youths tried to stage a demonstration at Kwangju, southwest of the capital. Both efforts were broken up by police without difficulty.

The general public was quiet in

Louw Makes Slashing Attack On Press Reports on Africa

CAPETOWN (CP)—Eric Louw, Canadian minister for external affairs, made a slashing attack Thursday on the press coverage of South Africa's current racial crisis.

He urged in Parliament that "if ever there has been a case of abuse of the freedom of the press, South Africa has had it in these past few weeks."

Louw made the attack in answer to a request to make a statement on the case of Norman Phillips, foreign editor of the Toronto Star, who was jailed for seven days in Capetown last month after the post office refused to pass on a message handed it to the justice ministry.

The ministry said the story was exaggerated, was based on second or third hand, and detained Phillips under the state of emergency regulations.

Phillips then was released and expelled. He returned to Toronto he wrote what he said he found conditions to be in South Africa.

Dealing off with the Phillips case, Louw, who himself is frequently criticized in South Africa's English - language newspapers, blasted the general news coverage.

He said documents and papers found in Phillips' room had included two telegrams with instructions from his paper.

The telegrams, said Louw, called for a series of articles which would create anxiety and violence. The second said "two weekly stories should be broadcasted on how the present situation in South Africa is a direct result of the Nationalist Government's policies."

Louw said that when he returned to Canada, Diefenbaker and Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association saying Phillips "had observed the best traditions of the free press in reporting what he had seen observed them and without prejudice," he added. "In my view this puts the Canadian press and the Toronto Star in a particularly bad light."

"A four-point reply by Louw to the COPA protest was rejected by The Canadian Press April 11 all South Africa, but also by the Toronto Star the following day.

Pioneers in Rubber Industry Caught in Cost-Price Squeeze

TORONTO (CP)—Gutta Percha and Rubber Limited, a pioneer firm in the Canadian rubber industry, is caught in a squeeze between the country, announced Thursday it has been forced out of business by increasing costs and a flood of tariff protection against imports.

Voluntary liquidation of the 77-year-old company will leave 265 persons, all but 40 in Toronto, jobless.

General chairman M. O. Simpson, Jr., told employees: "The Canadian rubber market can no longer be sold at a profit owing to the ever-increasing cost of labor and materials experienced during the last decade by Canadian manufacturers."

Mr. Simpson said Canadian industrial rubber manufacturers today have productive capacity "considerably in excess of the needs of our markets." His company, he said, does not expect to continue production beyond May.

Founded in 1883 by H. D. Warren, the company began meeting United States competition in 1916 when it was forced to abandon its extensive line of rubber footwear.

Belgian Airliner Hits Mountain, 35 Aboard Die

BRUSSELS (AP) — A Belgian airliner crashed near the top of a mountain in the Belgian Congo early today, killing all 35 persons aboard.

The Sobelair Airlines said its DC-4 destroyed in the crash set at Bogor, near Bunia, about 1,100 miles from the summit of a mountain." It was bound for Bunia, in the northeast Congo near Lake Albert.

A spokesman said most of the 35 aboard were Belgians, seven crew members—were Belgians. He added that possibly one German woman was aboard.

Jo Betion, Richard Whiteside, was pilot of the airliner, which left Brussels Wednesday. Just before taking off, airport sources said, the plane taxied back because of a defect in the radio system but the trouble was fixed without the passengers leaving their seats.

RECORDS BROKEN IN EVERY FACET OF EDUCATION

Minister Speaks To H and S Association

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Roberts says records are being broken in almost every facet of education in Ontario.

School population is reaching new peaks each year, he told the meeting of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations Thursday. Since 1946 secondary school enrolment increased 92 per cent to 350,000 last year.

To keep up a record 5,851 students were attending teachers' colleges.

Bursaries were being encouraged to higher education by more than 2,300 bursaries valued at more than $500,000 last year, he added. Similarly, Ontario scholarships of $400 each were awarded 1,800 students including minimum averages of 80 per cent in Grade 13 papers.

He said that in the first year of operation the fund for students from low - income families was $545,000. The $500,000 scholarship fund established last year in honor of Lord Queen's visit will provide 10 scholarships of $1,500 each to graduate students of Ontario universities.

Loss Of Bomarc And F-108 Brings Open Squabble

Kuter Says Only Small 'Island' Can be Guarded

WASHINGTON (CP) — The commander of the Canada-United States air defence system and the head of the U.S. defence department have split openly on the effectiveness of North American defence against enemy air attack.

Defence Secretary Thomas S. Gates told a press conference Thursday he believes the general U.S. defence situation "is in good shape" and that he feels "very good about it."

But Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, Chief of the North America Air Defence Command, told a Senate subcommittee that current U.S. programs and plans lead him to "far less encouragement and optimism than a year ago."

"DEFENSIVE ISLAND"

Two years ago he had counted on plans for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, the F-108 aircraft up by the proposed F-108 fighter interceptor and a 1,800 mile air hour. Plans for the F-108 now have been cancelled and Bomarc at 40 Bomarc sites, there would be only enough to provide "limited protection" for the eastern and in the northeast, leaving the rest of the populated areas unprotected by Bomarc."

"A year ago we counted on a defensive net of all aircraft in North American air space and effectively navigating long-range atomic weapons to those we knew were hostile by a secure command and control system of solid state computers known as hardened Super-speed Sage super-combat centres.

"In the past few weeks the hardened super-combat centre program has been cancelled. Half the above-ground radar warning and alerting system), with which we are left, does not have the capacity to handle both civilian and military air traffic and thus greatly reduces our ability to differentiate between friend and foe."

NOT FAILURES, TIMING

Gates, countering Kuter's remarks, said reports the main reason why Bomarc deployment has been reduced is not because of the numerous failures in Bomarc-B missile tests but because of the length of time it would take to develop a new type of electronic control which would have been linked with hardened and underground Sage, a more automatic ground environment.

This new computer, which he said "is in the air now" would take so long to perfect that it is not known whether it would be completed in time to be of efficient use especially when the enemy would have a reduction in the future enemy bomber force.

In other words, the bomber force is not changing. The shift was to missile attack.

But Kuter argued that while the Bomarc programme may have become a major threat in three years' time it would be only a minor threat for the next 10 years.

Gates told reporters that Kuter's statement that beam'carefully reviewed by the joint chiefs of staff and it was considered that the current program is satisfactory.

Initial, Renewal Claims for Insurance Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The number of claimants for unemployment insurance edged upwards during March to 223,000 at month's end from 214,000 at Feb. 29, the bureau of statistics reported today. The total, including 50,000 claimants for special seasonal benefits, was seven per cent higher than the 191,000 claimants a year earlier.

Meanwhile, initial and renewal claims filed during March rose by almost 20 per cent to 283,500 from 240,300 in February.

The bureau said part of this increase represented persons who had exhausted regular insurance benefits and were applying for seasonal benefits.

Insurance fund payments in March totalled $14,200,000 as compared to almost 20 per cent from the previous month's $12,400,000 and 14 per cent higher than the $12,400,000 payments in March last year.

The increase is total number of claimants between Feb. 29 and March 31 was caused wholly by the increased number of claimants for seasonal benefits, it said. Claimants for seasonal benefits rose from 59,000 to 77,100, while claimants for regular benefits declined to 574,500 from 597,400 to 100.

CITIZENS ASKED TO FILE REPORTS ON BOULEVARD

Leaves which local citizens have been raking off their lawns and placing in the streets or gutters have been creating a serious problem in that they soon get into the catch basins whenever it rains and serve to block the storm sewers.

Because of this, which can easily cause flooding in affected areas, the Public Works Department is requesting the co-operation of all citizens to pile their leaves on the boulevard rather than in the street and to call Woodland 6-5355 to have the refuse cleared away.

Most Revolutionary Force In Africa Is Christianity Says United Church Moderator

The most revolutionary force in Africa today is Christianity, This is the belief of Rev. Dr. Angus McQueen, of London, Ont., Moderator of the General Council of the United Church of Canada.

Dr. McQueen was guest speaker at the second annual dessert luncheon sponsored by Bridge Street United Afternoon Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of the church Sunday School room Thursday afternoon.

Having recently returned from an eight-week missionary tour of Africa, Dr. McQueen in a thought - provoking address, vividly described the problems facing this vast, "radically disturbed continent."

He outlined the introduction of Christianity, western technology and western democratic ideas into Africa as the catalyst which caused the present "ferment" in African life. The clash of economics, politics, morality and religion is violent.

"This is a good thing —Africa has to be disturbed if it is to be awakened to a new life," he declared.

He explained that Africa, four times the size of the United States, with a population of 250,000,000, is in the throes of a revolution. Because of this revolution, Africa is facing a crisis," he said.

Dr. McQueen explained the native African people are being rooted from their ancient tribal religions and gods, and badly need a new faith and culture.

However, Mohamedanism, (80 million Africans are Moslems) a secularism planted by North American and communism, are all vying for the African souls, the speaker disclosed.

If Christianity is to win this battle, it will depend on its missionaries, who are representing Christ in Africans, and they must not make the mistake of equating Christianity in Africa with the Canadian or American way of life," he warned.

DEMAND INDEPENDENCE

Commenting on the fact that 10 African countries have already achieved independence and seven will do so this year, Dr. McQueen said whether they are ready for self-government or not is irrelevant.

"They are demanding it, and they are going to take it," he said. "The African knows there are no white men's races, and he knows he is able to run his own affairs, if he is educated and trained for this task.

One of the solutions for peace in Africa is the amalgamation of black and whites into an inter-racial political party, he said.

Although it will be difficult to organize a multi-racial or inter-racial political party in Africa, it is vitally necessary because there must be no barrier or curtain — whether it is banboo, iron or any other — separating white from black people," he stated.

The drums of Africa can be heard "Christ is the hope of Africa, or it is of Caesar, or even Belleville."

The distinguished speaker, the youngest man ever to be elected to the highest office in the United Church, was introduced by Rev. Harry M. Davis. He was thanked by W.M.S. president, Mrs. J. E. McArthur.

Mrs. Malcolm Gibbs chairman for event and welcomed the approximately 70 W.M.S. members from Belleville and surrounding communities and presided during a small group of men. She thanked Mrs. Harry Davis and Mrs. G. Hibbard for the excellent job of arranging the event.

At the conclusion of the speech, a delectable assortment of mouth-watering delicacies and coffee were served buffet style to those in attendance.

GUESTS WELCOMED

Guests were graciously received by W.M.S. president, Mrs. J. E. McArthur, and Mrs. (Rev.) Harry Davis. Hostesses were Mrs. G. Hibbard and Mrs. N. Macfie.

The Sunday School room and entrance hall were tastefully decorated with baskets of variegated spring flowers. The head table on the stage was centred with a large bouquet of yellow, pink and white spring blooms, flanked by tall, lighted, yellow tapers. The decorating was done by Mrs. C. Howie.

The treasurers for the afternoon were Mrs. C. Wilmot (who was in charge of tickets) and Mrs. W. H. Finkle. Mrs. Kenneth Bird was pianist. The committee in charge of the luncheon was convenor, Mrs. Arthur Brewer, assisted by Mrs. S. Hibbard, Mrs. P. Jones, Mrs. N. Macfie and Mrs. C. Massey.

Board Troubled By Number Of Out-Houses

TRENTON — The question of whether or not any municipal improvement has the power to interfere with a person's way of living, provided the steps were within the confines of established law, was discussed at Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Health.

Chairman H. S. Pane said he had received no indication that a resident of John Street would co-operate with the town in a plan to install sanitary services on his premises. These services now consists of two outside toilets with a well, the source of drinking water for the establishment, situated midway between the two privies.

With the approval of the health minister, Mr. Pane had written to the owner, proposing that the town assume the cost of installing one or two toilets and a septic tank, on the understanding that the sum involved be paid back by the owner over a period of five years, incorporating in his tax bill. No reply has been received.

The house is occupied by 10 persons: the owner and his family and two other families.

Dr. Pane pointed out that the arrangement is the fact that for a number of years the owner has paid $200 per year in taxes, more somewhat dampening any hope that the town would be able to receive any pay for the installation.

Another problem was that if the town insisted on installing the facilities, compliance would to this "new fangled pumping-in-the-ground" idea, and refuse to use the town for cutting up his lawn.

A PROFIT?

It was decided that the chairman should approach the owner and ask if he would rather have the toilet and water facilities installed or have the "unfit for human habitation" placard slapped on the house.

Another possibility of an infringement on the rights of an individual was discussed. The board had asked the town solicitor to write an individual from a house trailer at 23½ Water Street. The dwelling had been condemned by the fire department. The bailiff had reported to work but the eviction order because he could find no legal basis for his actions. Since the man pays no rent on the town-owned property, he would not be liable for taxes, but he pays no taxes on the property, he wasn't included in his taxes. The board decided to have the town solicitor investigate and to write to the bailiff and to evict the tenant and destroy the trailer.

Another problem confronted the board was the condition of a house at 19 Water Street where there is no inside or outside toilet. It was decided that the town would be asked to install a toilet or demolish the house as the board decided it was unfit for human habitation.

"We have only one fruit trouble with Water Street," said Mr. Pane.

He read a letter from the fire chief suggesting that the vacant house at 16 Water Street, owned by an estate, remain empty until it could be repaired to the point where it could no longer be classified as a fire hazard. Mr. Pane was instructed to write to the public trustee and suggest that the house be repaired or demolished.

Mr. Pane read milk reports from the two local dairies, town and township, for the month. He said that the hospital report for cleanliness was good.

The health inspector, F. E. W. Dow, said attendance at the last polio immunization clinic had been small.

Walter Murray, town engineer, pointed out to the chairman that waste was floating down the river at an abnormal rate. The engineer suggested that Dr. Pane investigate and responsible for the waste, it should be reprimanded. Mr. Pane thought Sq. Leslie was breeds and grasses from higher and that the Ont. Dept. of Water Resources Commission should be notified.

PUC Sets Water Rate for RCAF Station Trenton

TRENTON — The Public Utilities Commission has set the rate for water which will be supplied to the RCAF after June.

The rate, which includes services, water necessary to run the filtration plant, and a percentage of office expenses, will be 21.89 cents per 1,000 gallons of water.

Some time ago the PUC and the Department of National Defence came to a mutual agreement about the rate. The commission said it had been supplying water at a loss for the past few months and pointed out the increase was necessary.

At Thursday night's PUC meeting, Engineer Amos Pepper said that work on the Sidney St well is progressing. Three test wells have been completed and the digging of the main well will start soon. The casing for the main well pipe has been ordered.

The commission decided to go along with a suggestion from the town that it share the cost of a town plan, showing lot and contour lines, with the Bell Telephone Company, the Lake-land Gas Company and the town's public works' department. The cost to each will be $200. The commissioners thought it would be money well spent. It was decided to have 25 copies of the plan which will be acquired soon.

Five local insurance agents will be asked to tender for the commission's insurance. The tenders must be submitted before May 1.

The commissioners voted to repay the town $3,047 on $18,000 it borrowed on Saturday.

Employees at the utilities office have asked to have a two-day pension plan. The meeting of petroleum and natural gas workers on 36 parcels in certain areas of the province. The total revenue would be from rent and gas since the 1947 Leduc discovery now is more than $1,000,000,000.

Activities of Two Corps Outlined to League Meeting

The activities of the Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Quinte and the local Navy League Cadet Corps were the main topics of discussion in the meeting of the Navy League in Belleville held yesterday evening in the wardroom of Quinte.

Lt. Commander Hall, commanding officer of the Sea Cadet Corps gave an outline of the divisional officers' training course when the officer commissioned at HMCS Cataraqui in Kingston every Monday night.

It was stated that the officers would be given the Royal Canadian Navy's examination on this course sometime during the early part of October. He also mentioned that officers would now putting three nights a week on Sea Cadet activities. Captain Jack Walker, chairman of the local Navy League, stating that Colonel P. H. Wills had extended an invitation for the cadets to visit at his home in Northport for a short cruise. Both the Sea Cadets and the Navy League Cadets will be attending this outing and plans for this are now under discussion by the executive committee of both corps. Lt. Donovan announced that considerations of a band by HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston, and its commanding officer Commander Cheeseman, to making available one of the motor launches attached to this unit for the transportation of the cadets on this weekend.

It was also announced that the Sea Cadets would be having a weekend cruise on May 7th to 8th with a church parade on the Sunday to mark the Battle of the Atlantic, which is the start of Navy Week across Canada. In the absence of the ship's company of Quinte will be attending the clean-head ceremony at HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston, as part of the activities celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Navy.

BOARD CO-OPERATION

It was reported that the full Cadet Corps co-operation has been forthcoming from HMCS Cataraqui rs any requests, for the use in the operation and betterment of the local Sea Cadet Corps property. It was also mentioned that the Sea Cadets had been active in organizing a series of dances by which they hoped to raise funds to help supplement the equipment and activities of the Corps.

Some discussion centred on the question of increasing the membership of the local Navy League and the request from the national body that membership be increased. It was felt that membership should be on a voluntary basis with no cash value other than what the person might wish to contribute. It was also suggested that complimentary membership should be sent out to the parents of Sea Cadets and Navy League Cadets.

A meeting of the local unit is to be held before the establishment of the Sea Cadets and during the interim estimates are to be obtained for the replacement of the stairs in the building.

Among the special guests present at the meeting were Harry Rollins, chairman of the Harbor Commission; Mrs. Enid Ponton and Lt. Commander H. Meyers from the Quinte Area Office, Toronto.

Appeal for Aid for Refugees

There is an old, and true, saying that talk is cheap. It would perhaps be unkind to suggest that nobody knows this better than the men and women who direct the affairs of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. Nevertheless, of the 43 national organizations which sponsored the Canadian Committee for World Refugee Year, the Federation stands out for a worthwhile individual initiative. It has requested its Ishmaelship of mayors, reeves and wardens to proclaim next week "Refugee Austerity Week" and instead of letting its observance wallow in a flood of platitudes has devised a plan to give money a chance to talk. Here in Belleville, and in hundreds of other communities where the Federation's suggestion is being followed, citizens will be able to contribute cash to the cause. Donations will be received at the fire hall or office in the City Hall here. The money collected here, and in other Canadian communities, will go to the World Refugee Year Central Fund, with the objective of clearing the refugee camps of Europe, providing vocational centres and training for refugees in the Middle East, helping the million Chinese refugees from Communism in Hong Kong and providing transportation for 8,000 refugees still on the mainland of China.

The Week has a general slogan: "Don't Spend It. Send it to World Refugee Year," and in Port Hope a worthwhile publicity stunt, "Take a Refugee With You," with residents being asked to add a dollar per sum for a refugee when they take a coffee break, make a trip, attend a show, eat out or buy their weekly groceries.

That such a drive for funds is necessary is not open to debate; that it should be necessary is a disgrace to the nations of the world. It is now 14 years since which have elapsed since the end of the Second Great War, they should long since have found new homes and built new lives for all those whom this war displaced from their homelands. Even the flood of new refugees should not have proved too great for them to solve this problem. But it has not been solved. It is almost as if the nations decided to let the problem die a natural, and a hastened, death, as hopeless refugees aged in camps. But instead, there has grown up a whole generation which knows nothing of any life outside these centres of frustration, babes replacing the aged.

Some progress has been made; if it had not been it would not be possible for World Refugee Year officials to even dream of finally closing and burning the shack camps in Europe. But the only realistic verdict is that governments have failed miserably so far. So far from relieving us of personal responsibility, only serves to enhance this responsibility, for how many of us have protested hitherly and continually against the paucity of the aid our own and other regimes have given these refugees? Let the whoopers up to show our concern in a concrete way, and to congratulate the municipal officials here for their co-operation with the Canadian Federation of Municipalities in its fund-raising project.

An Excellent Plan

Our congratulations to Faraday Uranium Mines Ltd. and to the 600 members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers employed in that mine.

A new agreement between the mine and the union provides for the institution of a savings plan. Employees will put $4 monthly into the fund and the company will match this amount. This is much like many pension plans. But in Faraday's case the plan is not designed to care for the workers when they reach old age, but to cushion the inevitable shock of layoff when the U.S. no longer buys uranium from the mine. Should the mine shut down, any employee laid off within six months of the closing date will receive not only his own savings but also a matching amount contributed by the company.

For the employees, this plan provides an admirable example of self-help. The company's assistance doubles the value of the plan and shows clearly the mine has the interests of its employees at heart.

Finds Hospital Too Noisy

New York Times

The visitor entered, eased himself into a chair, explored several pockets until from one he produced a cigar. He carefully peeled off the transparent wrapping and the red band before lighting the blunt end with a kitchen match, fired by a flick of his thumbnail. It was at once evident that this cigar was of no Indolinta quality; twenty years ago it would have been smoked only by one who today is content to smoke no one five cents, or perhaps six. Only a man who was on the unlikely name of Balbus Prewn would consider this cigar and the hire cigar quizzically. He clearly was accepting a gamble, and he was not disappointed. Where was Mr. Prawn's black brier pipe? Did he not smoke lovingly the aromatic corn cob?

• • •

He was, Mr. Prawn said, only recently released from a hospital in which he had been sadly suffering from symptoms of gastric indigestion. The comfort and general malaise, he said, that one has long by physician had enjoined him to avoid such simple delights as pipes, cheap tobacco and dirty pipes. Smoking of a pipe, said Mr. Prawn, allegedly over certain tars, and other by-products supposedly irritating to the lungs, made people at certain times, and since he was paying out for the cigar advice (he said) he planned to humor his physician for a time to see whether or not his indisposition would go away. Hence, he said, the cigar, the cigar's wrapper, which threatened to unravel, and there—his excellent cigar.

• • •

But what he really had on his mind, said Mr. Prawn, was the noise that seemed to produce noises in hospitals. He had toyed with the idea of forming a Committee for the Reduction of Sounds in Hospitals until he realized that the inevitable initial designation of the committee would become CRASH, which he felt inappropriate. Therefore he was considering a name for it that would "make my day Noise, the initials of which would be SILENT, and was remarked that something was missing; to be specific the "T" in SILENT was unnecessary. It would cross that when he got to it.

It will be noted, Mr. Prawn said, that in the hospital where he had rested—so to speak—for ten days, there was a sign reading, "QUIET PLEASE. Remember the Sick." This said Mr. P., obviously was addressed to visitors who, without exception, left their manners at the door and walked softly, and not to hospital employees, who apparently appeared to be hard of hearing. It is encouraging to note, he said, that they no longer is awakened in hospitals at 5.30 or 6 o'clock in the morning by a nurse who washed and left in a state of considerable exhilarancy until 7.30 for a clinical thermometer and/or bed breakfast. These days, he said, one is allowed to sleep—if one can — until almost 8 o'clock.

• • •

Then, said Mr. P., begin a grinding and creaking as of tumbrels, which turns out to be the early tea, which breakfast arrives, and the clang of cymbals, which may be the uninhibited banging of meat dish covers, occasionally punctuated, for special effects, by the tinkling of broken glass and the gay chatter of dietic department personnel. This brou-haha, Mr. P. said, is a distressingly source of unrest.

• • •

In the background, of course, said Mr. P., from the paging system issues a stream of calls to doctors needed in some place they were not. Mr. P. failed to off the names he had, for each time he listened they were different and unpronounced. To this, said Mr. P., add the intermittent ringing of telephones and the wailing sounds of the world outside which penetrate the cave of the peace-loving sick by radios and television sets of the not-so-sick. He was, said Mr. P., glad to return to the quiet of home. He also, he added, glancing—at his cigar—even more noxio : now that it had gone out—would be glad to return to his pipe. Then he said, he proposed to do immediately, stomach or no stomach.

Collecting Signatures Baffles Syd

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A recent advertisement for dictating machines showed Raymond Moley in his office, the walls of which were covered with framed (and presumably signed) photographs of famous persons.

I have never understood this need or desire on the part of so many people to surround themselves with signs of importance.

I, for my humbler vanity, I grant you, but one that is simply explicable to me. I have met a fair number of well-known men and women in my time, but it never occurred to me to document our relationship with an autographed picture.

Collecting the signatures of the great leaves me equally baffled. What the world would I do with the signature of a famous person on a sheet of paper? It would be meaningless to me, and I refuse to scribble "To my dear friend" under his signature.

Likewise, first editions of books autographed by their authors leave me utterly cold. I am interested in the contents of a book, and it doesn't matter to me if it is printed on a rotoboard and is the umpteenth edition.

Some temperaments, I am sure, receive much pleasure and contentment from this vicarious association with the great, just as the people who patiently stand in line for hours to shake hands with some luminary. I envy that they can tell their friends and children that they once met So-and-So, or barrassed to shake hands with a person who did not know me from Adam's off ox when I was just performing some impersonal ritual.

It pleases me, frankly, when readers come up to shake my hand and tell me how much they enjoy my column. But this is just a human and unpretentious gesture, and not what I am talking about. I am referring to the dedicated autograph hound, the picture-collector, the signature-collector, the autographed-edition bound.

My office walls, by now, could be filled with the portraits of famous authors and actors and musicians and, to what purpose, except to look around on wet days and assure myself that I haven't been forgotten by know them; if we are genuinely friends, I don't need a "To my friend Sydney" picture on the wall; if we aren't, then the pictures are a fraud to impress strangers.

Which reminds me of the lawyer who boasted to an acquaintance, "My first editions are very rare." "Yes," he was answered, "and your second editions are even rarer."

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 22nd, 1949

The outlook for baseball is anything but promising in Belleville for the season of 1940. Baseball, once a flourishing game along the shores of the Bay of Quinte and a pastime that drew thousands of patrons through local turnstiles, has hit the doldrums in the local sports parade. During the 19 years' existence of the old C.O.B.L., Belleville won three league championship more times than any other club of the league. Seven times to be exact. Also of this the local senior O.H.A. won two provincial baseball titles, again more than any other club in Central Ontario. It would almost seem as though Belleville won its many titles for its own good and subsequently for the good of the game, for during the past two seasons baseball has been carried on in a haphazard manner in Belleville until today there is little, if any, interest shown.

The jarring reverberations of the explosion caused that shook houses, rattled dishes and caused furniture to move, alarmed residents of the entire east section of the city today. Several called to windows to ascertain the cause, with villagers perhaps of seven miles are overheard. However there was no cause for alarm as officials of the Canadian Cement Company at Point Anne reported that a heavy blast of explosive had been set off in the company's quarry.

The out-of-town guests in Belleville for the Potter-Weaver wedding included Mrs. C. A. Weaver, Tottenham; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bowes, Boulton; Miss Margaret Weaver, Toronto; Mr. Reginald Peck, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Bowes, Lake Fafayette, Indiana, where she—visited Anne is being shipped to Toronto by water; the first shipment of this season passed up the bay yesterday.

The steamer Belleville will commence to run on her regular trip on May 3rd.

The marsh across the bay was burning last night and the sky was brightly illuminated. Mr. Russell Wotten of Toronto on business.

Mrs. Frank Templeton, of Edmonton, Alta., formerly of the D. and D. Institute here, is visiting friends in this city.

The Rev. Charles G. Smith of the Church of Christ, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, is receiving acquaintances in the city.

Bobby Pin Saves Plane

Sudbury Star

Thanks goodness girls still wear bobby pins in their hair! Seventeen passengers in an Australian airline plane shared the same thought.

A bobby pin worn by the air hostess helped to prevent the crash-landing of the plane when the nose wheel wouldn't come down. It was placed across two electric plugs in the floor of the cuit and permit the pilot to wa- ning alert to the passengers that the wheel could be dropped. The plane then made a safe landing.

Members of the bobby pin brigade tell us there are a number of ways in which the bobby pin can be made useful other than for holding the hair in place. It can, in a pinch, be used as a temporary safety pin or, in an emergency, replace a burned-out fuse in a car to light the way home.

The bobby pin can also require an explanation when found by a wife in her husband's automobile. Women, it seems, have secret methods of whether the bobby pin came from the head of a stranger.

To Your Good Health

OUR CHILDREN SPEND TOO MUCH TIME IN IDLENESS

Yesterday I agreed with a reader who thought that too much sitting was playing mischief with the posture and carriage of our children these days.

And I promised that today I would produce some figures to support this impression.

A few years ago a report from New York stirred some concern over the posture (and, as important, the physical ruggedness) of the younger generations. It prompted the President to call a conference on physical fitness and this was followed by a study which — although it, among others, have discussed it for years — still has not had anywhere near the notice it deserved.

Our children: between the ages of 6 and 18 were compared with European children. The tests were simple but significant — muscular strength in legs, back, abdomen, etc.

Well, 50 per cent of our youngsters failed. Only 10 per cent of the children abroad did so. Children in the "fit" showed 20 per cent more failures than those in rural areas.

This is not something that can be laughed off.

Now, how do our children spend their time? About 31 per cent, it is along, is in school. All right. But less than one per cent in physical education. (That, too, might be all right if the data made up for it in physical activity elsewhere.) They spend 15 per cent of their time in class rooms, 10 per cent at meals, about 10 per cent in miscellaneous activities, five to eight per cent in "travel" time (TV, riding on school buses, dressing, homework.

Dr. Jack Kraus, who, with some associates, made the study, comments that certain diseases seem to be related to the sedentary city of physical activity — this being especially true of postural defects.

Coronary heart disease (heart attacks) is twice as frequent among people who lead a sedentarily inactive lives. Diabetes, too, is about twice as common. Ulcers are somewhat more common among habitually inactive people. And the ache in the "small back pain" is about eight to one between those who have little exercise.

And what can we do? As parents we can encourage more out-door play. We can encourage (or insist upon) more walking; less use of the family car for trivial errands; restriction of TV and other sitting-down activities; encouragement of independence in the developing years.

Maybe the schools can do their bit by stressing required physical education and by making instead of "permissive" exercise.

Let anyone who has ideas on this country that something ought to be done, send me a note or postcard. If I find that others really care, I'll say so. And then we can convince this country that something ought to be done.

Just How High Must Spy Fly?

One of the little black boxes in the American "Iron Curtain eye" satellite has packed up its radio. That, a most convenient coincidence, the thing can't take pictures of Russia.

So they shot Vanguard I. Most convenient.

Russian spy-keepers will be mopping their brows with temporary relief. Because the law of gravity will catch up with space technology.

It needs to, fast.

In the works behind the Three there is the Samos satellite, which they say, is capable of clouds, like the Tiros, but pure military stuff.

The United States Air Force is all steamed up about the Samos, with which it hopes to keep a permanent watch on Russia.

But has it the right?

And how would it react if the Russians got up there first, with a satellite bristling with armament watch on the United States?

Firing a reconnaissance aircraft over their territory at 30,000 feet would be classifiable as a hostile act. Rewarding that would be perfectly justified in sending up fighters after the snooper.

Could they similarly send a missile against a reconnaissance satellite?

And what, indeed, if any, does snooping become legitimate?

Maritime powers are just getting around to extending the three-mile limit lay of the sea, which was the convention 331 years ago and predicated on the then range of cannon.

It would seem that the law of the sky demands a somewhat less leisurely examination.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY NEIGHBOR AND YOURS

One of the ways to my office I pass a beautiful building with these words engraved over the door, "My Neighbor as Thyself." I have often wondered what kind of people, beside myself, read that inspirational inscription? I hope many, many do. We ought all to be a world of neighbors, living to make life easier, happier, better world. Why isn't it done? Why such an unhappy world — this one?

How little cheer in the columns of our newspapers! Instead of using the beloved American poet, said to be one of the greatest who ever made good neighbors, but how much more it takes to make a happy world of happy working neighbors.

Each day I go neighboring in my books, for you can select the kind you would like to read. Each can be a neighbor. One does not have to read a book that is not to it read. It takes no effort to destroy it. There are millions of such books to read and treasure. I don't agree that all books should get into our great libraries. A book is indecent it should not be there.

Every intelligent person is a good judge of either a good or a bad book. There will never be too many good books.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

How long will the motion picture industry, which has already been sadly disturbed by TV, leave the field of commercials to television? How soon will it be before we are regaled every 15 minutes with a couple of scenes of brief pauses while the stars of the picture make a short pitch for some product or other sponsored by the film?

As a matter of fact, in the early days of the movies, it was the general custom of the management to run as much as 10 minutes of advertisements for the local merchants on the screen during the intermission between the feature picture and the newsreel. I am told that in many an up-country motion picture palace, this tradition still survives.

You may say that the movies would never dare to introduce commercials in the middle of a screenplay, since the customers pay to see it. But since we pay to see television, and pay a fee, which would pay for hundreds of minutes of the movies, we already subsidize TV advertisers and their commercials most handsomely.

The truth is, of course, that we are already getting our commercials in the most reputable movies all along, in the shape of the clothes the actors wear, the cars they use, the furniture, decorations, equipment, cigarets, food, drinks, everything. Are we to suppose that the motion picture moguls have passed up the chance to collect a little bit from their various slices there?

It has had to be discreet, of course. But discretion is the motto of big business. Copyright: Canada Wide

District Grand Encampment of OddFellows Held

PICTON — The annual meeting of Encampment District 20, Grand Encampment of Ontario, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was held in Belleville with a full representation from Belleville, Campbellford, Stirling, Trenton and Picton Encampments.

Past Chief Patriarch Howard Akey of Belleville was chosen District Deputy Grand Patriarch with P.C.P. Farley Parcell of Stirling as District Marshal, Warden and P.C.P. Arthur MacDonald, Picton, District Scribe. The new D.D.G.P. will receive his commission at Grand Lodge of Ontario in June.

Mr. Akey will succeed Ross Jeffery of Picton as D.D.G.P. During the past year the Picton Lodge had had the distinction of having three Grand Lodge officers—Ralph W. Hubbs as Grand Patriarch for the jurisdiction of Ontario; R. Jeffery as D.D.G.P., and Edward Bolton as District Deputy Grand Master of the Subordinate Lodge, I.O.O.F.

Prior to Mr. Hubbs becoming Grand Patriarch, only three others in this district served as Grand Patriarch, George Hall of Belleville, 1944-45, and Earl Fox of Stirling, 1956-57. Only other Grand Lodge officer from Picton Lodge was the late E. C. Garnett, Grand Treasurer, who became Grand Patriarch of Grand Encampment in 1906-07.

At this meeting a presentation was passed that Grand Patriarch Hubbs be awarded the highest honor in Odd Fellowship, the Grand Decoration of Chivalry. During his long membership in the Order he has been active in all branches and has been a great deal to promote the good of the Order. Since his appointment last year as Grand Patriarch, he has travelled more than ten thousand miles.

Fish-Game Club to Have Sports' Museum

CAMPBELLFORD — The Campbellford District Fish and Game Association held its annual election of officers and meeting in the parish hall on Dossee Street.

The ladies and gentlemen in attendance decided to return president Benny Powell to the office, but Mr. Penhale declined to serve another full term. His decision for this reason for so deciding, the local sportsman announced that he had commenced his education in the hopes of entering Knox Theological College in Toronto. From the satisfaction derived from social work with Christian groups in the past, Mr. Penhale believes that the ministry offers him the maximum opportunity to serve others. His explanation was readily accepted by those present, but the sense gathering remained hopeful Mr. Penhale to continue with the club's presidency for another six months. This was agreeable with Mr. Penhale.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Another former president, Forrest Dennis, was elected to succeed Mr. Penhale as president this coming fall. Ralph Nuttall was elected vice-president and Ralph Wilson, secretary-treasurer. The position of first and second vice-president and is to be decided at a future meeting.

Directors elected were elected to office and these were: Bill Brady, Cliff Gibson and Donald Lindsay District, a lively discussion on future club projects was held.

SPORTS MUSEUM

The club decided to make inquiries as to a suitable location within the town for the establishment of a district museum of interest to all sportsmen.

The museum would house interesting examples of mounted fish and wild life, as well as serve as an information centre to acquaint the visiting sportsmen with local fishing waters and game laws.

It is hoped that this project will be launched in the coming next two months in advance of the heavy local tourist season.

The meeting concluded with the president reminding all present of the sale of fishing tackle to take place early in June. Mr. Penhale said that a date for this interesting event would be decided upon at once, and that location will be held prior to the opening of local pickerel fishing on May 14th.

James De Genova Terminates Over 50 Years of CNR Service

A Belleville man who, as a 12-year-old arrived from the sunny shores of Italy, was doing a section hand's job on the railway in Northern Ontario, has retired this week after over a half a century association with the old Grand Trunk and the Canadian National Railways.

He is James DeGenova, 27 Bramsey Street, who since 1916 has worked with the CNR in this city. Back in 1908 he started as a section hand with the old Grand Trunk west of Cochrane and eight years later came to this city, going to work in the locomotive shops. For 29 years he was in charge of coaling and watering locomotives at the coal chutes and for the past three years has been with the local car department.

"I was a big boy for my age and when I came to Canada, my brother told railway officials I was 18 so I could get a job," recalls Mr. De Genova.

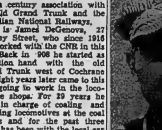
He worked on the railway west of Cochrane for five years and in 1913 went to work for Big Dome Mines at South Porcupine. He remained there for two years.

Then he learned an Italian family he had known back in Italy had moved to Belleville, and decided to visit the DiLalla family in this city.

MARRIED IN 1917

So he gave up gold mining and decided his future was with the railway in this city. He came to Belleville in 1916 and early the following year, on January 6th, Mr. DeGenova were married at St. Michael's Church here.

The brother who got him his first job at Cochrane later returned to Italy with his father, but the Belleville ex-railroader still has two brothers in Canada. One brother Dominic lives in Belleville and the other, Michael, in Toronto.



Four of five DeGenova sons have followed their father's footsteps as railroaders. Patrick is in Montreal, Tony in with the CNR department, Michael is a carman, and John a fireman, all in Belleville.

Another son Donald works at Northern Electric here.

There are four daughters, Mrs. Fred (Lena) Liberty; Mrs. Pete (Cecile) Tomaso, Mrs. Fred (Mary) Burgess, and Mrs. Roy (Kathleen) Racette, all of Belleville.

And just to perpetuate the DeGenova name there are 30 grandchildren.

Now on leave prior to his official retirement next month, Mr. DeGenova will be 65 on May 14th.

JAMES De GENOVA

Thursday afternoon Mr. DeGenova was the honored guest at a retirement party staged by members of his family and fellow workers of the CNR.

A retirement gift from his nine children was a gold watch and wallet, while Mrs. DeGenova received a lovely bouquet from the family.

Offering congratulations were a large number of friends, fellow workers and relatives who visited the DeGenova home during the evening. On behalf of his fellow workers assistant car foreman Douglas Leggat presented Mr. DeGenova with an electric coffee percolator, while Mrs. DeGenova received another bouquet from J. Stapley.

Jim Hunter, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Employees, local 128, presented the retiring railroader with a cheque in recognition of his long and continuous membership in the union. Numerous gifts of money were also received from other friends and relatives.

Although now through with the railway, Mr. DeGenova still doesn't feel like retirement and expects to do considerable work this summer in his big vegetable garden.

But he doesn't expect this will keep him completely busy and with his rain tiller is ready to help in the preparation of other people's garden plots.

tion United party said Philip Frankel was the lack of objectivity not worthy of a senior journalist sent to report events in South Africa.

"To what extent the dispatches did damage to relations between South Africa and Canada, he considered but there was also the question of whether the arrest of Philips did more damage to relations than the stories he sent.

Louw, in his long address, said some short-term visiting foreign correspondents came here "yearning for sensation" and had fled exaggerated dispatches.

STRINGERS CRITICIZED

He also alleged that some South African people engaged as "specialist reporters" for foreign papers "sold their country for 30 pieces of silver" to peddle exaggerated accounts to their papers.

"In spite of this intensification and the increased campaign against South Africa in which untruths and exaggerations were used, the union never took any steps which could be construed as against the freedom of the press.

"Apart from the one case of Norman Phillips of the Toronto Star, the union government has not interfered at all."

"As a rule there was not much reason for complaint against resident correspondents of overseas papers. They did not often exaggerate or write falsehoods. But there have been trouble in some cases.

TIME, 1PT CITED

"There had, for instance, been the representative of Time magazine who sent the most exaggerated and false information about South Africa abroad. He had been removed.

"Apart from this, there had not been much trouble until very recently when there had been a dispatch by a correspondent of the world-wide news agency United Press.

"This was the dispatch which I quoted in Parliament little more than week ago and which was a clear case of falsehood.

"Since then, the head of the European service of United Press called on me and told me that both United Press representatives in South Africa had been recalled."

However, "these were isolated cases as far as resident representatives of overseas newspapers were concerned."

A spokesman for Time magazine in New York said it has heard of the protest from South Africa and has not been informed of the removal of any Time representative.

United Press International said it had no immediate comment.

Ottawa Glebe Institute Wins Gymnastic Meet Held in City

Belleville gymnasts put up outstanding individual performances during the Ontario Federation of Schools' Athletic Associations Grade-Team Gymnastics Meet held yesterday afternoon at Quinte Secondary; Ottawa Rushlow of Belleville College-Institute, and John Peoples of Moira Secondary won the individual awards for Grade 9 and 11 classes respectively. Another local competitor, Roblin Blake of Moira Secondary, placed third in Grade-11 competition.

The team award for the meet was won handily by the Ottawa Glebe sextet, with Belleville pointing during the 15 events. They were followed by a team from Toronto's Jarvis Collegiate which earned 75 points. The remaining standings were: Belleville's BCIVS (75 points) and Moira Secondary (59½ points), Brockville Collegiate (47½ points) and Richmond Hill (14 points). Individual competitors from Ottawa Nepean and Ottawa Broadview Intermediate School also attended the meet.

One of the highlights of the meet took place at intermission when three members of the Scarboro Youth Club gave a most excellent demonstration of free calisthenics which was very well received by the 38 competitors present as well as the audience of some 75 people.

THREE ATTENDING CLUB

Points were accumulated by teams depending on the placement of their athletes in each of the 15 events. There were three groups of five events each. Groups were according to the school grade of the competitor and the events included tumbling and exercises on four pieces of equipment.

Trophies were presented to the individual grade winners and crests were awarded to the members of the winning Glebe team by Mr. Pete Beach, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Schools' Athletic Associations. He also expressed the thanks of the Federation to Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary, Bay of Quinte High School Board and Mr. Jack Perry, convener of the meet, for contributing to the success of the event, which is the second to be held in Belleville. The first was held at Queen's University last year.

Special judges for the meet included Professor J. L. Orr, Faculty of Queen's University, Don Webb, former Ontario gymnastics champion, and George Beard, a former varsity gymnast at the University of Toronto. Recorders for the meet were Jack Sisson, Jack Perry, Ralph Countryman and Larry Regensburg.

A veteran of 40 years in the pulp and paper industry and secretary-treasurer of the Ivanhoe Falls District High School board, he was praised as having made everything, even his own health, secondary to ... securing the best plants, equipment and teachers, and undertaken effectively to provide at all times the best brand of education the community could afford."

Mr. Adams was appointed secretary-treasurer of the board in 1930. Four years later he led a move to organize a high school in the Northern Ontario community, 40 miles east of Timmins.

In 1934 Mr. Adams organized a scholarship fund to assist Iroquois Falls High School students in higher education. A total of $15,000 has been paid out since the fund's inception.

The nomination also mentioned Mr. Adams' work in establishing a bus service for rural students attending the school.

Mr. Adams is superintendent of scaling for Abitibi Power and Paper Company Limited. He is married, and has a son, Dr. Kenneth Adams, attending Queen's University.

Proper Outlets Should Be Provided for Brilliant Child

OTTAWA (CP)—If a child has learned to deliver complete sentences at the age of two, it may be a sign of superior intelligence.

Further conclusions may be drawn if a baby has a vocabulary more than 25 words at 18 months or if a five-year-old has taught himself to read.

These and other vocabulary and intellectual capacity is discussed in The Brilliant Child, book of a pamphlet published issued by the federal health department.

It emphasizes the importance of identifying bright children early so proper care and training may be provided for their ability.

Bright children have a never-ending curiosity and appetite for learning and are generally active by 10 they show an interest in scientific discoveries and encyclopedias and are generally superior in most subjects although they may not be superior in penmanship.

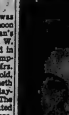
Drawing from a U.S. study of gifted children, the pamphlet debunks the myth that intellectually superior children are physically weak, socially underdeveloped, spectated and boobish.

The study showed that intelligent children tend to be superior in size, strength, muscle control and general health and usually are free of happy well-adjusted adults.

"Only a head start at a child is very likely to keep this lead throughout life."

MAY BE OVERLOOKED

A danger is that the bright child will go unnoticed in the classroom. Apt to find his work too simple, he develops sloppy work habits and ways of thinking deceptive to adults.



Some intelligent youngsters have been known to play "dumb," just to be like others because of the importance to children of being one of the gang. Nursery school is described as useful for gifted children but when the family budget doesn't permit this, the child's need for stimulus can be satisfied by inexpensive children's books and simple creative objects such as crayons.

Trips to the library and family excursions to points of interest are suggested as one way for parents to keep a child's active mind occupied.

Women Swedish Ministers Raising Storm of Criticism

By CARL O. ROLAND

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Three women have recently stepped into pulpits of Sweden's Lutheran State Church, touching off criticism and episcopal threats of removal.

The three, all unmarried, are the first women in Swedish history to be ordained priests.

The question whether to let women take priestly office came divided the Swedish state church into two camps, and has rocked relations between church and the state.

Some bishops campaigned for a boycott of the first women priests, while others including Archbishop Gunnar Hultgren of Upsala, the Primate of Sweden, have welcomed them into their dioceses. Still others have not made up their minds.

KEEP SILENCE

Those against women priests base their argument on the First Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians.

Yet women keep silent in the churches (I Cor. 14:34).

And the church assembly, an advisory body composed of clergymen and lay laymen, in 1958 voted 78 to 48 against women ministers. Two members abstained.

But the government has the law on their side. The priestly office for women is available, by law, to any act of Parliament that went into effect on Jan. 1, 1960.

The sharp division of the church became apparent during a meeting of the bishops of the Stockholm diocese.

Bishop Bo Giertz, whose diocese is dominated by strict believers in the Swedish Church, said in a firm stand against women priests. He has been fighting the proposal for 10 years.

Soft - spoken, scholarly Archbishop Hultgren, on the other hand, bridge the gap between the two camps, and he has made it clear he showed by word and action that he welcomed women priests into the church.

TOOK FART HIMSELF

In fact, the archbishop even conferred the priestly office on the women, Rev. Margit Sahlin, 46, in the Church of the Apostles Foundation outside Stockholm and Rev. Sundberg.

The other women priests are: Rev. Elisabeth Djurle, 30, and Rev. Karin Soderzell, 31, who were ordained at Stockholm Cathedral by Archbishop Hultgren and Catholic respectively.

The women wear special clerical garb designed by Christian Odelqvist, an artist of the Swedish Royal Opera, and Count Ulf Lasmmar. It is composed of a pleated white shirt and half way between the lower part of the gown and the floor.

The only jewelry worn is a silver cross on a chain around her neck and a signet ring.

Thank you very much for the release of my recipe, Shepherd's Pudding. Now I am having difficulties and I wonder if you could help me. I have two recipes for Lemon Sponge Pudding that I used to use a lot and which were very nice. Recently I cannot seem to have any success with either, just a soggy mess, and I have not altered either the ingredients or method, same pan, etc., as I thought you might help me out or give me another recipe for this type of pudding. Also I have a recipe for Lemon Soufflé? — Lucy D.

ANSWER:

To eliminate confusion, I did not give your recipe, Lucy, for I am going to give you the ones I know will be successful. I am very glad you asked for these lemon-y desserts.

Double Rings Popular

Miss Joke about getting harnessed into marriage. But most of them still buy a ring for themselves as an outward symbol of bondage. It's a war-born practice that has continued in peacetime.

Jewelry men say it's a good idea for young couples to shop together for the engagement ring. Then the bride can choose the style she prefers.

The diamond is the overwhelming favorite. However, other precious gems are popular, the pearl and star sapphire, in suitable.

The round cut is a favorite style for engagement rings. A small stone may be built up to appear larger with "illusion" and bead settings, and with smaller diamond chips on either side.

Pear shaped diamonds are wider at one end and pointed at the other. The emerald cut, rectangular in shape, has a slenderizing effect on the hand. The baguette, marquise diamond is oval in shape, pointed at the ends.

Experts say to pick the most perfect stone your budget permits.

GIVING AWAY BRIDE

In early times the bride was considered as a chattel to be given the groom by her parents, who arranged the match. Today the latter symbolically gives his daughter away to signify his approval of the marriage.

PLANNING A CHRISTENING

I have received many inquiries relative to the exact procedure to be followed when the new baby makes his first public appearance — on the occasion of his christening. The following is a brief resume of plans for this great day:

In most instances, only relatives and close friends are invited, and the invitations are handed over the telephone or by personal note. Of course by publication has been made previously as to who will serve as godparents for the infant.

The christening ceremony may take place in the home or in a church. The mother, and the godparents, wear street-length afternoon gowns, and the guest of honour, the baby, wears a white christening robe — not fashionably — with embroidery and lace. Many families have a long, flowing robe which has been passed down through the years.

When the christening is held in a church, the guests arrive at a predoubted time, seating themselves in the pews nearest the baptismal font. The parents and godparents stand by the font, one of the godparents holding the baby. The baby's name is given to the clergyman (when he asks for it) by the godparent holding the baby. Don't make the mistake that Mrs. Inexperienced did when her young son was christened! She proudly — and very loudly — announced the name in full, to the accompaniment of subdued chuckles from the guests! Only the given names are mentioned, of course, and not by the godparent.

After the ceremony is completed, it is well to remember that a so-called "fee" should be presented to the clergyman. This is a matter that is frequently misunderstood. There is no fee required by the minister for performing a ritual of the church. Actually, it is a donation that is made to the clergyman to be used at his discretion for charity, the amount to be in keeping with the family's status and desire.

After the ceremony, takes place in the home, the living room is decorated with flowers, and a bowl must be provided to serve as a font. When the guests have arrived, the baby is to be brought in and given to a godparent, and the godparent before a table on which the bowl, now filled with warm water, has been placed. All of the guests stand during the service, both at the beginning and the end.

After the ceremony, the parents may entertain their guests with a buffet luncheon, if the service is at noon; or at tea, if it is the afternoon. A toast to the drunk to the baby, today usually is customarily set or egg nog. The old tradition dictating the service of champagne has long since gone before a table on which the bowl, now filled with warm water, has been placed. All of the guests stand during the service, both at the beginning and the end.

RARE SPECIMENS

Mr. Abrams said he began collecting paper when he was eight. His collection now includes more than 2,000 specimens, some of considerable value. Among them are parts of the Flanders Psalter, a book of psalms printed on parchment dating back to 1310, and a 300 edition of an illustrated book of Japanese paper. The paper by Seikichiro Goto describing papers of ancient Japan and how they are made. Only 100 copies of the work were printed when it was published in 1926.

He also has two copies of a book by Professor Koetsu, director of the Japanese Paper Museum in Tokyo, called Hand Made Papers of Japan. A technical work including illustrations of paper, it contains a book describes how Japanese farmers make paper.

"In 1945 the Japanese railway put out 5,000 stamps featuring," he said. "The Japanese government later recalled and burned every last one, in revulsion to Japan and as many as possible that had found their way to countries.

They felt it pictured Japan as a backward country at a time when it wanted to appear as a powerful industrial nation. Only 500 copies escaped them."

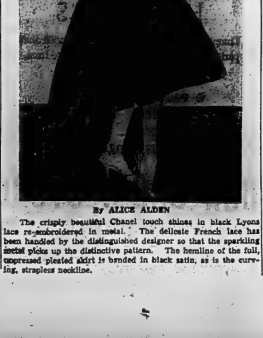
INFLATED PRICE

They originally sold for 25 cents but he paid $3 for one and $25 for the other in London and New York.

Other possessions include a edition of a political newspaper, the Le Canadien, printed in 1822 on paper made at a mill in Lower Quebec, and an 1810 edition of the Mechanical Gazette, first in French and half in English.

Mr. Abrams believes he is the only person in Canada collecting paper and one of about 30 in the world. Some 4,000 items were displayed in a fire several years ago but 18 collectors he corresponded with helped him rebuild his collection.

Carmen, a fashion model, said that when she married Tom Lacy years ago she knew nothing about his collection.



"One day I came home and found the living room carpet strewn with paper. I couldn't go into the room for two days."

She since has become interested in paper and once spotted a valuable item in a print shop. She is also helping her husband with a book he hopes to publish in which he will describe it as an art form.

"No authoritative work on this facet of paper has ever been done," said Ted.

Mrs. Ted Abrams lifts each dusty parchment gingerly, lights carefully puts it right back where it was.

"I don't dare throw out any paper I find around the house," she explains, apologetically. "It could be valuable."

Swirling Skirts Spotlight New Leather Shoes

Mobile is the word for spring's new short swirling skirts that serve to focus fashion interest on footwear. And one of the fashion lines of the present season's new coat, suit and dress skirts look right the hemline arts and place greater fashion importance on new leather shoes.

Every type of leather takes on a light look — in color and contour — from top to sole to catch the lilac, youthful lines of spring's new silhouette. New pumps in smooth and brushed leathers — and often interesting combinations of both — run the gamut of neutral colors to complement new spring costumes. White, bone, beige and grey are favored along with high key pastels: yellow and pale blue; rendered in rich lustred leathers. Even that familiar favorite — the real patent leather shoe — exerts its old black magic in line and lasting comfort. Shining patent specimens with slim pointed toes have sharply cracked heels. New patent leather pumps feature inserts of ebony suede under the vamps and pearl buttons on the vamp for texture interest. Easily cleaned with a damp sponge, real patent leather shoes are as good as a parel value as they are good looking.

FLEXIBLE SOLES

Leather soles are flexible and lightweight to keep in step with a spring that puts in motion a new fluid, youthful fashion silhouette for every wardrobe. The forte of leather soles is matched by a new emphasis on color at the sole's edge to self or contrasting tones.

Carrying through fashion's emphasis on the softly feminine look, and picking up the lines of the pointed toe, the leather is draped and shirred on new shoe vamps. High slim heels and pointed toes on new walking shoes help balance the bright look of the evening costumes and suits.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two social workers. Each month it answers anonymous case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Ann S. — I don't want to move — not again!

Allen S. — But it's a good opportunity.

Ann S. — I love my husband and family, but there are times when I feel like throwing in the sponge.

One of those days came recently when Allen got the idea that we move to a different part of the country, far from where we are now. This would mean that the fourth big move since our marriage. This time his company is opening a new big plant in the area in which I have no desire to live. The increase in income is not enough compensation for all the trouble.

We have four children and they have been uprooted from schools twice. We don't have to make this move. The company isn't insisting — just looking for men in the twenties. Allen says I just begun to get my bearings in the community and the children love their school. Don't we count?

Allen S. — I can't understand this talk about "roots" when we are living in America, aren't we? Wherever we go we'll find people who speak our language and share the same ideals.

It would be different if we had any family where we are living. Ann objected to the first move because we were living near her family. Then she objected to the second move because we were living near mine. Now it's friends. You'd think we were living in the twelfth century when people who speak our language can visit our families and friends from time to time. We can keep in with them by mail and telephone.

This new opportunity means a great deal to me because it will make me a big frog in a little pond, whereas the opposite is true now. Eventually I'll grow tired with the company if I move.

The Council: Four major issues in your young family's life is a great many and we can hardly blame Ann for being distressed. The major burden of establishing a comfortable home for a territory rests with her and she doesn't have the same satisfaction Allen will get from his new opportunity.

On the other hand, m o s t women willingly submit to the annoyance of relocation if it means advancement for their husbands. Ann, it seems, is the exception.

Mrs. J. Williams thanked the strongly suggests that she feels hostess for her hospitality.

Essentials for Wedding Party

Time of Ceremony Sets Clothes

Formal or informal wedding? That's a question of etiquette that can often be confusing. But here is a simple rule:

The bride's gown and the time of day determine whether it is formal or informal.

These in turn set the type of dress worn by all members of the wedding party and to some extent, the guests as well.

The bride and her attendants shouldn't have too much trouble finishing evening, once the type of ceremony has been set.

But the groom and his ushers don't fare so easily. In these days not too many men have cutaways or full dress suits in their closets.

RENTED CLOTHES COMMON

A clothes rental shop is the answer. This is a welcome service that is becoming more highly available, especially in large cities.

There was when rented clothes were strictly taboo. But they now are the rule rather than the exception in the case of formal wedding dress.

Rental shops have a full range of sizes and will make small adjustments so clothes will fit. Charges are usually reasonable. Such shops often can help with advice as to proper clothes and accessories.

It's cutaways for the men in a daytime ceremony in which the bride wears a formal floor-length gown or one with a train. With the cutaway coat go striped trousers, grey waist-coat and ascot or four-in-hand tie. This applies not just to the groom, best man and ushers, but to the fathers of the bride and groom as well.

SEMI-FORMAL ATTIRE

For a daytime semi-formal wedding in which the bride wears a ballerina-length gown, men wear oxford jackets, striped trousers and grey waistcoat. White shirt with turndown collar and gray silk four-in-hand complete the outfit.

A daytime informal wedding, where the bride wears a suit or afternoon gown, of floor or street length, permits the groom and ushers to wear dark blue or business gray suits.

Evening wedding — anytime after 6 p.m. — require white tie and tails for the men. A white dinner jacket may be worn between Memorial and Labor days. A cummerbund is necessary; also a square-end bow tie of black or navy.

For a summertime informal wedding, men may wear all white, in light wool, silk or combination fabrics.

A receiving line is essential for any wedding party, large or small.

Its function is to greet guests as they arrive and receive congratulations before sending them on to refreshments. For a home reception, the line should be placed to permit easy movement of guests without congestion.

The correct sequence of the receiving line has the bride's mother first as hostess, to greet the guests. Then the groom's father, the groom's mother, the bride's father, the bride, the groom, maid or matron of honor and bridesmaids.

Usually the fathers stand in line for a short time, then mingle with the guests. If this is done, the two mothers come first. Generally the best man and ushers are not part of the receiving line. But the best man may join it for a time if he is busy with other duties.

It is a pleasant practice to receive guests briefly at the rear of the church immediately after the ceremony. This is important if not all the guests at the church have been invited to the reception.

Speed Ace? Broom Age? Find Own Cleanup Style

Substitute a little imagination for elbow grease, and you'll be surprised how much you can lighten home cleaning.

The trick is to adapt the cleaning chores to fit your own personality. So, before you reach for the vacuum cleaner, give yourself this aptitude test:

Are you a flibbertigibbet? You begin a whirlwind attack on the kitchen, only to rush upstairs to make the beds, but before they're finished, you remember the overflowing wastebasket, and on it goes. Nothing has been completed, and you're a wreck from this jumping about. Train yourself to finish half-done tasks, and you'll save energy.

Are you a compulsive scrubber? You scrub windows that are already sparkling. The silver never gets a chance to show a touch of tarnish before you're at it. Cleanliness ranks above godliness with you. Don't let it, for there'll come a day when an emergency will knock the cleaning program out the window. Do what must be done, not what has been done.

Are you a litter bug? Tables strewn with old letters, discarded newspapers, and the remnants of a bridge deck look worse than dusty tables. And besides, how can you dust with all that debris thrown about? Put it away, before it piles up.

Are you a collector? Desk and kitchen drawers are overflowing with unfiled recipes, outdated road maps, broken knives and useless bits of string? Horrible dust collectors, all of them. Toss them out, even if it breaks your heart at the time. Tomorrow you'll have forgotten them.

Are you a traditionalist? The old way is the best way for you? You're in the broom age. You don't ever think to check new cleaning products, to analyze your work habits for greater efficiency and less strain. Get yourself up-to-date, and you'll be surprised at the results.

Are you a speed demon? You scrub the kitchen floor with the energy of a football tackle. You vacuum with vengeance. The result? You've expended much too much energy. Learn to relax on the job, and you won't be exhausted.

Package Trips Save Dollars

Want to stretch those honeymoon dollars?

There are two big ways to do it: Go in the off season and buy a package travel plan.

For example, ship fares to Europe drop 20 percent between September and December. This means first class accommodations will cost only $792 for one against the regular season fare of $1,177.

You may know already that buying round trip tickets means a substantial saving over one-way fares — up to 17 percent by rail and 10 percent by air.

But you may not be aware of the cost advantages in package plans offered through travel agencies.

GIVEAWAY BAGS

These have a single price for a certain number of days, covering transportation, lodging and sometimes meals and tips. On some tropical trips you get free suntan lotion; virtually all airlines give away plastic travel bags.

Travel agencies say that even experienced travellers who make extended trips on their own spend an average of 20 percent more than people in a group plan.

There's no need to feel you're conspicuously "touristy" when you travel on a package deal. Generally you find the service better and you actually see more sights with experienced guides than when you try a hit-or-miss, fing - it - for - yourself journey.

Don't Panic On Big Day

Keep calm when disaster threatens on your wedding day.

Take a tranquilizer — pill if you must. Better yet, take simple precautions against emergencies. Some tips:

If your gown is sheer, wear enough petticoats to guard against being silhouetted against the light.

In case of sudden rips and tears, keep a sewing kit handy complete with white or ivory silk thread. Also a seamstress with steady nerves.

Have an extra pair of stockings for the inevitable last-minute run.

If it's a hot sticky day, an electric fan will make it easier to get dressed. You'll find members of the wedding party lining up to take turns.

Find a disinterested bystander who'll make a last minute check to fix makeup, smudges and mussed hair.

Dress early enough to get used to moving around in your wedding gown — especially if it's long. You'll look more graceful and feel more at ease for that long march up the aisle.

A Useful Wedding Guide

There is always a best way of doing everything, if it be to boil an egg. Manners are the happy ways of doing things.

Your wedding will be easier to arrange if you know the proper things to do. The etiquette of weddings has evolved over the years as a guide to help you run things smoothly. Here are the answers to some frequently asked questions:

Q. When a couple has become engaged, whose parents should make the first call?

A. The boy's parents should visit the girl's as soon as the couple has decided to marry and before public announcement of an engagement. If distance prevents the conventional visit, the boy's mother should write a note of welcome to her son's fiancee.

Q. Must invitations be engraved?

A. Yes. A new simulated engraving is less expensive and still suitable.

Q. How soon should invitations and announcements be ordered?

A. Three months in advance of the wedding date.

Q. What is the difference between an invitation and an announcement?

A. The announcement is sent to persons you are unable to have at the wedding, because of cost or distance. They are sent a day or two after the ceremony.

Q. How soon should invitations be mailed?

A. No later than three weeks before the ceremony.

Q. Do announcements require a gift?

A. No.

Q. May a person be invited to the wedding and not the reception?

A. Yes. A gift is still required. A guest also may be invited to the reception and not the wedding, which may be reserved for the family.

Q. Does a formal invitation to a church wedding require an answer?

A. No.

Q. Do joint wedding and reception invitations require an answer?

A. Yes, in the same formal style as the invitation.

Q. Is it correct to address an invitation with "and family" on the envelope?

A. No. Adult children get separate invitations. For small children, write their names on the inner envelope under their parents' names.

Q. When do you send wedding gifts?

A. Usually before the wedding to the bride's home. Try to avoid bringing gifts to the reception.

Q. Is it correct to exchange duplicate gifts?

A. Yes.

Q. Are gifts returned if the wedding is called off?

A. Yes. Write a note explaining.

Q. Are identity cards put out on display with presents?

A. No.

Q. How can gifts be shown if there is no home reception?

A. Have close friends to a tea or cocktail party a few days before the wedding.

Q. Are gifts sent for a second marriage?

A. They are not required although you may wish to send one if you did not know the bride at the time of the first marriage.

Q. Who gives the clergyman his fee?

A. The groom pays, giving the money to the best man who presents it in a plain envelope.

Q. If the man wears a ring, who pays for it?

A. The bride.

Q. What does the maid of honor do?

A. She holds the bride's bouquet at ceremony, adjusts her dress and train and is responsible for the groom's ring.

Q. What are the bridesmaid's expenses?

A. She buys her own dress, pays for transportation to and from the wedding, and buys a gift for the bride.

Q. What flowers does the groom buy?

A. The bride orders and the groom pays for ushers' boutonnieres, corsages for the mothers, the bride's bouquet and corsage. The bride pays for the bridesmaids' flowers and church arrangements.

Q. Who pays for the wedding and reception?

A. The bride's parents. However, there may be adjustments depending on groom's family circumstances and desire for more elaborate arrangements.

Q. How can you arrange a ceremony in a church with two aisles?

A. The only one aisle for the whole wedding, or use the right hand aisle for the processional and the left for the recessional.

Q. Are divorced parents of the bride seated together in church?

A. No. The mother sits in front right hand pew, the father in the third.

Q. Is any guest seated after the bride's mother is seated.

A. No. She is escorted to her place just before the wedding procession starts.

Q. If a white aisle runner is used, when is it laid?

A. Usually after the bride's mother is seated. If there are two runners laid in advance, the soiled covering is removed after the bride's mother is seated.

Q. If the reception is given by the bride's divorced father what is her mother's position?

A. She may attend as honored guest or, if it would cause strain, remain away.

Q. May the bride and groom smoke or drink in the reception line?

A. Properly, no. The bride may ask for a sip of water or punch but should not stand with glass in hand.

Q. Do the ushers and best man stand in the receiving line?

A. No. Fathers may or may not. Usually they do for a time before mingling with the guests.

Q. At the bride's table, where does she sit?

A. Always at the groom's right.

Q. Is the clergyman invited to the reception?

A. Yes, with his wife. He sits at the parents' table if it is across from the wedding party. Who proposes the first toast to the bride?

A. The best man.

Q. If the bride's parents are divorced, who makes announcements and arranges the wedding?

A. Generally the bride's mother. If she is remarried, the invitations are worded "Mr. and Mrs. Brown request the honour presence at the marriage of Mrs. Brown's daughter, etc."

Q. When are church cards sent with wedding invitations?

A. If a large crowd is expected, or if it is wished to keep out gatecrashers and casual spectators, send a card of admission.

Q. May a divorcee have a church wedding?

A. If her church permits. However, she should never wear white or a veil.

Q. Who leaves the ceremony first after the newlyweds?

A. Usually the parents of the bride and groom out first, then others in the immediate family. Then other guests may leave.

GUEST BOOK

A pleasant reception custom is to have all the guests sign their names in a book, placed just beyond the receiving line.

It's Raining Shower Gifts

A stack of bethbowed packages, promising welcome gifts for the new home.

A group of friends to share the fun.

Lots of helpful and funny advice on setting out in married life . . .

That's the way it is at a bridal shower, one of the most pleasant events for a bride-to-be.

It's great to be on the receiving end of a shower. But planning one can also be a lot of fun. Ideas are limitless.

Although generally considered to be all-feminine affairs, certain showers offer perfect occasions for the groom and his friends to share in the party too.

Mixed parties might centre around a cocktail time shower for which guests bring such gifts as shakers, glasses, napkins, coasters, ash trays and snack dishes.

A green thumb shower can give a couple about to move into a new home a good start in garden tools, bulbs, plant holders, flower containers and shrubs.

If the to-be-weds are hobbyists, plan a joint shower on that theme with gifts for whatever the pastime is — photography, art, outdoor cookery, sports.

The hostess might give a package shower in which each guest helps buy one gift and a big gift or a set of related presents. This might mean a single important appliance or matched linens and towels.

How about a kitchen shower? Gifts can be pots, pans, small appliances, dishes, cookbooks, knives, can openers, casseroles.

A pantry shelf shower? Bring canned goods, spices, seasonings, canisters, utensils.

Clean - up shower? Mops, brooms, waxes, sprays, cleaning materials.

Bathroom shower? Towels, washcloths, bathmats, tissue holder.

Glamor shower? Personal lingerie, makeup aids, toiletries.

A different type of shower provides the couple with spare-time occupation — photograph albums, records, books, games, writing materials.

How to entertain shower guests? There are many special games to play—you'll find them in any party book at your library. Or chances are, a couple in any party book at your local group will entertain itself.

Engagements Should Be Double Checkup Time

BY THE REV. WILLIAM H. GENNE

A man whose own marriage ended in divorce, on the rocks said afterwards, "Some girls get so busy preparing for their wedding they forget to prepare for their marriage."

Don't let this happen to you.

People do not "fall" into real love, because real love must be built. There is such a thing as "love at first sight." This usually occurs when a stranger suddenly seems to fit our ideal. But the truth is that we have been building that ideal all through the years.

Dr. Oliver Butterfield says, "I believe in love at first sight but I am sure your chances of happiness are better if you take a second look."

LOOK TWICE

Your engagement is just such a time for that second look. This does not mean that you have any doubts about your love.

What it does mean is that having agreed you love each other enough to want to consider seriously getting married you take a "second look" at how you are likely to adjust to each other.

Look for the answer to such questions as:

Which is more miserly, which the more impulsive spender?

Which is more a homebody, which the more a gadabout?

Which is more physically demonstrative, which is more modest and reticent?

Which likes children more, which likes adult freedom and companionship?

Which likes to live in the country or suburbs which likes to live in town?

Which likes lots of living space, which likes to spend more on car and clothes?

What goals do you have for your marriage five years from now? Ten years?

ENGAGEMENT VITAL

The engagement, used wisely, is very important in our culture. Parents still arrange marriages in other parts of the world because they are considered older and wiser in the ways of sex and marriage.

In this country, young people claim the right of free choice of a marriage partner. Thus the engagement is not a promise to marry but rather a promise to see if a couple can lay the foundations for a good marriage.

Fifty per cent of engagements are broken — but think of the misery and sadness such action saves. If the couple had jumped into marriage, their life together would have been unhappy. Divorce might have disrupted the lives of children.

MARRIAGE FLOPS

In a midwestern city recently, the "wedding of the year" cost all least $10,000. It was followed by a six-week honeymoon in Europe. The couple returned to a brand new, completely furnished home.

Everything had been done "just right" according to all socially accepted practice. But within six months the marriage had ended in divorce.

I blame this couple for failing to prepare for marriage. The wife felt it would spoil the romance to read a book on marital adjustments. She refused to attend a marriage forum available for engaged couples in her community. She would not consult a marriage counselor, feeling that meant someone "prying into our private affairs."

Successful marriage is built on the strong foundations laid during the engagement. Use your engagement wisely.

Which Name Is Correct?

Is there any girl who hasn't, some time before her wedding, tried writing out her new name to see how it looks?

Sally Ann Brown knows she'll soon be Mrs. John Mason.

But for practical purposes she'll sign herself as Sally Brown Mason on nearly all occasions.

This is the name used on her letters, checks and most other places she signs her name.

NAME IS INFORMATION

Mrs. John Mason is used without abbreviation on visiting cards, informal cards and formal invitations. It is also signed on a hotel register, as information.

For the same reason the formal name—Mrs. John Mason—is listed on committees, for charge accounts and mailing.

In business letters she will place (Mrs. John) Mason under her signature, as Sally Brown Mason so that the recipient will know how to address a reply.

But in no circumstances does she sign her name on any kind of letter as Mrs. John Mason or Mrs. Sally Ann Brown Mason.

LEGAL DOCUMENTS

As essential as knowing how to sign the new name is arranging to make the big change on all legal documents and identity cards.

At the earliest possible moment you must take care of listing the proper name on your social security card, driver's license, bank account insurance, hospitalization, library card, stocks and bonds.

Some of these you may be holding jointly with your husband. Others may require changing of a beneficiary.

In any case, plan to take care of these important matters so they don't mean a last minute stumbling block.

Need Color Plan In Wallpapering

Should wallpaper be an inconspicuous background against which you display your treasured pieces of furniture? Or should it be highly distinctive in its own right, attracting attention by its pattern and color?

We took the problem to the Wallpaper Council, and asked their representative to dream up appropriate wallpaper for the home of a highly mythical couple who were to start their life together in a six-room house, furnished in traditional 18th century fashion. People of taste and culture, we added they'd have lots of books and some cherished paintings.

Immediately forthcoming was a decorative plan which in some rooms played up the wallpaper, in others downbeat it to be a subtle backdrop.

NEED COLOR SCHEME

Before thinking of patterns in wallpaper for each room, the Council established a co-ordinated color scheme for the entire house, remarking that it is here that many amateurs start their toes. Without such a scheme there is no smooth transition from room to room.

They chose a graved celadon green as the basic color, to which would be added three color accents—dull blue, mustard yellow and gray. Draperies and upholstery (or, would make use of these colors, to avoid introducing too many colors.

BRIDAL FLOWERS

Ancient Romans placed bunches of herbs under the bridal veil. The Saracens carried orange blossoms as a symbol of fertility.

OLD AND NEW
"Something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue" are all traditional items of bridal apparel. According to custom, the "old" should come from another's happy marriage. The "new" is easy — shoes, gown, gloves. The "borrowed" can be anything but an object of gold is regarded as a good guarantee of wealth or success. The "blue" is symbolic of blue skies and true love. Modern brides usually wear a frilly blue garter manufactured especially for the purpose.

20 Hours To New Beauty

The bulgy lady on the reclining board turns her toes up, inhales and relaxes one leg in a circular motion, exhales and lowers the leg, putting slightly.

"Good," says the instructor softly. "Now, the other one."

The left leg, lungs and tightened muscles reheat the recovery. She's not puffing so hard.

"Fine," says the instructor, "you're doing fine. And again."

At this praise the lady beams. Next the waistline and back come in for attention. Bend, breathe, stretch, bend: "Once more. And again. Now to the right. Good. And to the left. Again. Good."

MIRROR OF PROGRESS

There are wall size mirrors so the bulgy lady can inspect herself. As she progresses the notices some bulges disappear, others redistributed.

After 20 minutes exercise, the dropping client is led to a massage table to be revived. Heat from a soothing ultraviolet lamp irons out her stiffened joints. Then to a massage table for a full hour of gentle pummelling.

After feet, maltreated by pointed spike heel shoes, come in for special attention by the masseuse. The client lying dreamily on the table, relaxed, feels all too actually feels human again.

Next comes a tingling shower, under a scented needle spray shower and a facial, the latter encouraging check with the tape measure against readings from the previous treatment.

SHAPE UP FOR WEDDING

It's all part of a 10-day course offered to help brides, bulgy or not, get in shape for their weddings.

It calms edgy girls who have been snapping at their families over wedding plans.

The system means two hours a day of corrective exercises combined with proper breathing, concentrated massage and a weight reducing diet for those who need it.

This is carried on in a tension-like atmosphere of quiet reverence for physical fitness. Lights are dim and voices hushed. There's a feeling of purpose apparent even to the casual visitor.

RELAX FOR LOOKS

"I feel women today are so filled with tension, they must learn to relax to look their best." "At the same time, they must take care of themselves.

"It's not just a matter of losing weight. A woman who loses too much without keeping in drim will look terrible. If she tries to do it with machines, she'll get is bruises.

"She must readjust her way of life so that she learns the right eating habits and follows a routine of exercise to stay in shape. The secret is to be consistent and persistent."

In the exercise room, another bulgy lady is on the reclining board.

Round and down goes the instructor. "Again," says the instructor softly. "Now the other one. Fine. You're doing fine."

Mothers Co-Star With Bride At Wedding

The time may be ripe for formation of the PPM Society.

In bridal affairs, that seems Pity the Poor Mothers.

Everyone knows it's the mother of the bride who has the most work, worry and woe seeing that all runs smoothly on daughter's wedding day. And her labor would go for naught if the mother of the groom hadn't contributed her son to the cause.

Yet these two good women find themselves sadly neglected when it comes to choice of attire.

She has seen many a woman dispiritedly fingering the same cold "mother of the bride blue" or unflattering beige tones while brids and bridesmaids revel in clouds of delectable gowns.

COLOR FLATTERY

"I like to see mothers in pretty colors, chosen with an eye to what the bridesmaids wear," says Mrs. Thompson.

"Too many women look for a dress "to wear afterward." They should get something just for the wedding as the bride does.

"The investment pays off, especially for a woman with more than one daughter. With a change of accessories, a flattering dress with basically good styling can be worn properly for more than one wedding."

Mrs. Thompson favors a "simple but elegant look" for mothers. The new silk brocades and chiffon are good winter choices, she says. Dressy embroidered linens and silk are pretty summer fabrics while lace is a year-round favorite.

THANK YOUS

It is a gracious gesture for the bride-to-be, busy as she is, to write a short note of thanks to hostesses who entertain her at showers.

SHAPING UP: Legs, back and waist come in for special attention when a girl wants to trim down. Exercises should be combined with proper diet.

Go Where Men Are to Find Mate

Girls with marriage on their minds often have a quixotic way of arranging their lives so it's hard to make a connection to meet any men.

They teach (most teachers are female). They're in social work (mainly women here). They work on a woman's magazine (men editors, to be sure, but the staff is mainly female).

When vacation time comes, they join up with another girl and take a cruise, only to find the ship filled with women and retired couples. Not a single man in sight! Or they go to a luxury hotel where the only unattached males are college-boy waiters. No hard-working men on his way up can afford the place!

Leap Year or not, this is a good year to get out of the all-female rut. If you want to find a husband, go where men are!

An enterprising young librarian, jaded by the all-woman staff with which she worked, signed up as a civilian librarian in an overseas army base, and met single men by the droves.

A secretary in Canada, perviously contrent with snapping baby pictures in her home town, suddenly threw in the sponge and joined an international industry which sent her round the world photographing their plants and their products. She met everyone from oil engineers to embassy officials. When last heard from, she had married and was living happily in Brazil.

If such a big switch is impossible for you, take a look around at home. Is your social life confined to brides with the girls? Scrutinize the activities your home town offers, and see how you can get out of your rut. How about the Little Theatre, which crews stagehands as well as actors? Or the local symphony or chorus? Besides the advantage of a wider circle of friends, hopefully male, this kind of activity adds spice to your daily living.

When you do meet men, are you an interesting companion? Have you something to say? It's too easy for a woman living in a woman's world to become stodgy. If your horizons are narrowing dangerously, see to concerned.

Gown Needs Extra Care

After months of exhausting effort, the great day comes — your wedding day.

Your hair is set, makeup perfect, only an hour before you set out on the march to the altar.

You get your gown from where you carefully hung it when the store delivered it two weeks ago. Out it goes—and then disaster!

Ugly sunburst creases spread down from the waist along the length of the train. There is a frantic flurry—off comes the dress, hair is mussed, there is hurried consultation on how to press out the pleats in the yards of heavy fabric.

The chances are no amount of pressing will make them disappear completely. By now only a tailor could properly smooth out the gown.

The same fate faces the bride who fails to remove her gown from its hanger until the day of the wedding. She might be able to press out the worst of the wrinkles. But the overall effect makes the gown look as though it had been slept in.

This is the moment when bridal consultants are apt to get hysterical calls for help. Their chief advice is how to prevent such disaster.

Keep the gown boxed until four days before the wedding. Then hang it up in a warm room with a sheet underneath for the train. This will hang out packing wrinkles.

Don't hook the train up to keep it off the floor. This develops a fan shaped crease that is extremely difficult to press out. Spread the train carefully over the sheet.

Plan Press Notices Early

Your press notices are fun to see. Make sure you get the good news of your engagement and wedding to the newspapers.

How? It's not hard. Newspapers want your announcement. But do it right.

Type the information double spaced and send it in the society editor of your local paper, along with a glossy print photograph.

If the notice should not be published before a certain date, include a note to that effect.

Wedding pictures and photographs should be sent in at least a week in advance of the ceremony.

Include the names of bride and groom and their parents, living or deceased, with home towns.

Give college affiliations, club memberships, employer.

Describe briefly your gown and those of your attendants and the mothers; names of all wedding party members; destination of the wedding trip; address of new home.

Include your telephone number in case a additional information is needed. If your family is prominent, include details of any announcement parties you have given.

Before newspaper publication of your engagement, write notes to close relatives and friends, telling them the news.

If you have a commercial photographer, he will send in the wedding information and picture for you. A good time to pose for these is when you have the final fitting on your gown.

DOLLAR SAVER

The inexpensive fibre rug, durable and very easy to clean, may be the answer for your floor covering if you're pressed with a tight budget.

Plain or Fancy Wedding?

Your wedding can be all you want it to be—big or little, lavish or simple, fancy or plain. It can be a lavish little one or a simple big one.

But whatever the type, it will be advance planning that makes it possible for you to be relaxed and serene on that most important of days when you trade Miss for Mrs.

Suppose your greatest wish is for a champagne reception. It can be done on a slim budget—if you cut down on the guest list.

What if you want to splurge on your gown and still have a fair sized reception? You can do both, if you're willing to have the gathering at your home or the church hall.

A successful wedding, no matter what the cost, represents many compromises. Even when money is no object, there are many areas of agreement to be reached between all the parties involved.

Men Spurn Fussy Girls

Girls, if you're in search of a mate, learn how to date. It takes practice.

"If a girl won't learn how to get along with a boy when they're out, she may have a secret aversion to marriage".

Advice for those with matriage on their minds: don't be too fussy.

"Even if the man is far from your ideal, at least he gives you experience in dealing with the dating situation", she says. "And don't forget — he may have eligible friends".

To girls, "The first time a man calls you are interested. Don't be moody. He has his own troubles.

UP TO HIM

Don't start by asking him to move furniture or fix a light cord. Let him plan the evening. Don't tell him his choice of a restaurant is too expensive — "he can decide".

For men: "Don't tell all your troubles on the first date. Get her interested enough to care — then let go!

"Don't brag about how many other girl friends you have. If you've seen the girl, she'll think, "Let the rest take him — I don't want him".

For both parties, she concludes: "Don't give up on the other person too soon. Take an interest in him — or her — and see what makes them tick".

Marriage is a thing you've got to give your whole mind to. (Listen!

St. George's Day One of Great Dates on Calendar for Britons

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The feast day of St. George on April 23 is one of the great dates on the calendar for England and her sons and daughters all over the world.

It's not only the anniversary of the death of England's patron saint, in 303 AD, it is also the anniversary of the birth and death of William Shakespeare, in 1564 and 1616—and of the epic Royal Navy raid on Zeebrugge, German submarine haven, in 1918.

Valor has always been the keynote of the anniversary speeches, delivered at gatherings in many lands, with the traditional roast beef of old England as the main dish.

The patriotic pride that stirs St. George's Day speakers stems from the valorous traditions of Saint George himself, the legendary dragon-slayer whose very existence is shrouded in historic uncertainty.

ARMY COMMANDER

St. George was born a Greek Christian at Cappadocia in Asia Minor, and by all accounts rose to high command in the Roman armies under the Emperor Diocletian. Legend has it that while on service in England he converted to Christianity the Roman ruler of Britain, Constantius, and the latter's consort Helena. Helena's son was Constantine the Great, first Christian emperor of Rome.

Diocletian's persecutions of the Christians were resisted by St. George, leading to the saint's torture and execution on April 23, 303, by Roman authorities at Lydda in Palestine. He was probably 33 years old then.

His martyrdom seems to be the only fact on which historians have agreed. In a canon by Pope Gelasius in 494 St. George is included "among several whose names "are justly reverenced among men, but whose acts are known only to God."

The bouncil of Oxford in 1222 decreed that the date of St. George's death should be recognized as England's national feast day. But he was not proclaimed patron saint of England's Order of the Garter until 1339, when Edward III was on the throne.

RALLYING CRY

St. George's name had been a rallying cry for English soldiers at Crecy in 1346 and at Agincourt in 1415. The battle cry was given a new tone in 1918 when Sir Roger Keyes, the admiral directing the Zeebrugge raid, signalled "St. George for Merrie England,

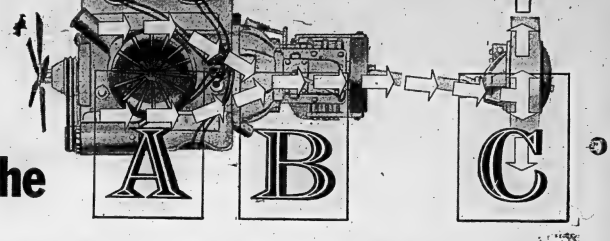
The Canadian passport office at Ottawa issued a total of 113,272 passports in 1959, almost double the figure for 1950.

Stock Promoter Reverses Plea On Fraud Counts

TORONTO (CP) — Stock promoter Albert Gould in Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday reversed his plea to guilty to four counts of wash-trading and fraud. He will be sentenced Friday.



Wash-trading occurs when the same person buys and sells stock to create an artificial impression of market activity. It is an offence under the Criminal Code.

Gould, 44, was accused of defrauding a New York brokerage firm of $315,000 through sale of stock in Cabanga Developments Limited. Gould was president of Cabanga at the time.

Tuesday Wintf.ld Schweikart of New York told the jury of a call from Gould in which the Toronto broker promised to give the New York firm blue chip securities to pay for purchase of Cabanga shares.

The Crown contends Gould never delivered the securities and the New York firm lost $315,000 through purchase of Cabanga stock.

Gould already is serving a six-year term following a conviction last December by a jury of defrauding Cabanga of $450,000.

2 OUT OF 5 CARS ON THE ROAD TODAY HAVE UNSAFE TIRES!

HOW SAFE ARE YOUR TIRES?

During sustained periods of high speed driving the bald tire you were meaning to replace may give out; or the cut in the sidewall may give way under the continuous flexing as your tires roll along the highway. And in an emergency, it's the brakes that stop the wheels, but the tires that stop your car!

Of all accidents due to tire failure by far the largest percentage is caused by baldness and uneven tread wear. Don't take a chance. Check your tires now!

CHECK THESE TIRE DANGER SIGNS

BALD TREAD
Don't play a busy trip with bald tires! Smooth tread gives no skid protection and may cause tire failure. Have your rubber remaining and your tire protected against blowouts.

UNEVEN TREAD WEAR
This indicates wheels out of alignment, brake trouble, or other faulty mechanical conditions. Uneven tread results in poor steering and can cause a dangerous "tramp."

PUNCTURES
Always have a puncture properly repaired by a dependable dealer. Don't use a piece of fabric. Flexing and heat will damage the fabric, causing driving any load to blowout.

CUTS AND BURSES
You seldom remember when you hit that curb or pothole, but it could lead to a broken cord. But blows that don't break cords can prove to failure during sustained periods of driving.

If your tire shows any of these danger signs, don't delay another minute—come in immediately and have your tires inspected FREE.

First Time Stately But Grimy Face of Westminster Abbey Getting a Good Scrubbing

LONDON (CP) — Apart from the glitter and pomp of the royal wedding, Westminster Abbey on May 6 will be looking better than at any time since the coronation of William the Conqueror in 1066.

For the first time since its establishment 825 years ago the stately but grimy face of the abbey is getting a good scrubbing. And, by general agreement, the job was badly needed.

The walls of the high stone structure hadn't been touched since huge candles deposited soot and smoke around the ceiling-vaulted areas that now are illuminated by bright electric lights. The tons of delicate wood decoration have begun gathering grime since their beginning.

JOB GOES ON

Now, after five years of delicated engineering, a group of cleaners has finished the choir area and transepts and is well into the job of polishing up the eastern bays of the nave.

Only another two years, after a total of £1,000,000 has been spent, will the 313-foot abbey will be as good as new. The areas that really matter for the royal wedding are already gleaming.

But it's strictly coincidental that the cleaning and the wedding are making such good use of the abbey. Winston Churchill launched a drive in 1953 to get the abbey cleaned, scrubbing, it was in preparation for Queen Elizabeth's coronation in 1965.

At that time it was extremely unlikely that Princess Margaret would be heard of Antony Armstrong-Jones.

But the man in charge of the cleaning operation, S. E. Dykes Bower, whose title is Surveyor of the Fabric, says he would have really stepped up their pace if the wedding had been announced. No effort is being spared to have things shipshape for May 6.

It's a difficult job. Under inches of dirt workers have discovered carvings from the time of Henry III which no one knew existed. Previously unknown woodwork trimmings were also found.

USE WATER ONLY

Because of the danger of destroying such discoveries, all chemical cleaners were banned early in the operation. And because spraying cleaners would spread dangerous moisture through the 2,047-seat building, they too were banned.

So workers are bringing back the gleam with soft brushes, dipped in distilled water and occasional water.

Every time they discover a flaw in the stone, reports are sent immediately to headquarters.

Under some of the grime they have found inscriptions dating back years ago by Sir Christopher Wren.

Apart from the heavy 37-foot oak beams that support the roofing, there are no combustible materials in the abbey, which is why the famous church won't sit under the shadow of Big Ben for another 600 years.

Canadian Market Hard to Crack Aussies Told

MELBOURNE (CP) — Members of the 56-strong Australian party bent on finding out whether they can sell more goods to Canada have been reminded that the Canadian market is a tough nut to crack, but that it offers good prospects.

They have been reminded also that although Australia enjoys Canadian goods111, something right than goodwill is needed to clinch deals on any market.

The party, which includes representa-tindustry, commerce, banking and financial interests is stronger degree than has any previous trade mission from here to any part of the world.

They arrive in Vancouver next Friday for their first Canadian stop.

Sir Douglas, Copland, noted economist and former Australian high commissioner to Canada, heads the mission.

FOCUS BY REVIEW

The Australian department of trade and the Australian Financial Review, a private publication, have combined to sponsor and publish a survey of articles on "Australia's trade horizons." One article says that trade dealing with Canada is traditionally adverse, though the gap had tended to decrease slightly. Increased exports from Australia and a stable level of imports from Canada, it adds:

"It is not only competition in price which must be met but competition in delivery, regularity of supply and the many factors which enter when a new and relatively small-scale producer attempts to break into a market which is much nearer to larger and traditional sources of supply"—in the United States.

It was suggested Australian manufacturers would need to club together to provide in Canada facilities for holding stocks against orders to ensure greater capacity to supply the market.

House Passes Bill Called by Negroes 'Fraud'

WSHINGTON (CP) — Congress completed action on the 1960 civil rights bill Thursday when the House of Representatives passed it by a vote of 288 to 95 and sent it to President Eisenhower.

The bill, which aims primarily at helping southern Negroes vote, has been the most time-consuming and divisive issue Congress has tackled this year.

The Administration-backed Advancement of Colored People has called the bill a fraud and said it actually "makes it harder and not easier for Negroes to vote."

The bill authorizes federal courts and federal voting referees appointed by the courts to register Negroes to vote in areas where the final stage of proof of discrimination has denied the applicants the right to have their names entered on the rolls of eligible voters.

Canada Enriched By Culture Says Speaker

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada has been enriched by her French heritage, Paul Goulu, president of the Council on French Life in America, said Thursday night.

Mr. Goulu was addressing the annual banquet of the Ontario French-Canadian Edfcation Association's 15th congress. The association is meeting here this week to mark its 50th anniversary.

At the same time, the 10 affiliated French - speaking organizations in Ontario are holding meetings here, bringing more than 1,000 delegates to the nation's capital for French Week. Highlight of the presence, a French-speaking population, Mr. Goulu said, Canada could contribute another group of American states.

The French ethnic group amounted to 40 per cent of Canada's population and was the most substantial homogeneous ethnic group in the country. This distinction derived from a unanimity of faith possessed by no other group. On the other hand, the position of French Canada in the arts and letters and in philosophy was recognized.

The province of Quebec, he said, need play a key role in science in the vitality and work of its parliament and administration or in the vitality and value of its legislation in every field.

"And in deluding ourselves if we feel our representation in Ottawa and in other legislatures can be compared without blushing with the legislators of other races—despite the opinion of a certain Mr. Fisher!"

This was a reference to Douglas Fisher, CCF member of Parliament for Port Arthur, who recently reproached Quebec MPs for not thinking of the future of Canada as a nation and for playing a strong provincialism.

Mr. Goulu warned against the de-sire against the Americanisms he found "in our Canadian neighbors" adding a degree because of geographical proximity and a common language.

BAN ON POLITICS

Earlier Thursday delegates adopted a constitutional amendment stipulating members of the administrative council must give up their posts if they participate in federal or provincial politics.

The association affirmed that it is non-political in character and interested solely in the advancement of Ontario's 600,000 French-speaking citizens.

Roger Charbonneau, general secretary, said the amendment was proposed so as not to prejudice the work of the association "which is far above any political considerations."

Mr. Charbonneau said it had happened in the past, particularly at the provincial level, that the association was reproached on the grounds that it was supporting the efforts of its executive members"in opposition to certain candidates."

This, political action had occurred on two or three occasions, for example, against Ontario Welfare Minister Louis P. Cecile, defeated in 1955, and Paul Leduc, MP.

Archbishop Ross Thursday he was surprised the motion passed council at all since it implied illegal action for the department of transport and the BBG. He added that some remarks by the mayor were "completely in error."

Softening of Nehru's Tone In Indian's Border Dispute Indicates Compromise Is On

NEW DELHI (AP) — A change in Prime Minister Nehru's tone appears in India's border dispute with Communist China indicates that a compromise could be worked out in the works.

The softening in Nehru's public comments is worrying Indians who insist there is no room for compromise on issues he considers aries.

The change came after the first private talks Wednesday between Nehru and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

Chou repeated the position he had put into memorandums which notes since the dispute flared into open last summer.

But Nehru shifted from assurances that there would be no territory to talk of a solution maintaining "the dignity and self-respect of each country."

Nehru's statements to Parliament last fall indicated he was thinking in terms of a trade in claims. The Chinese are most interested in getting the barren Aksai Chin plateau of Ladakh in northwest India, where they have an important highway between Tibet and Sinkiang. India is more concerned about tribal areas in the northeast, which both claim. In a written statement Chou pro-posed an unusual for India pushed the demarcation line taking the de-flant position that it would concede any territory. In recent speeches Nehru has retiarated his position and warned that the talks with Chou might fail.

Following this line, Nehru made a stiff speech to Chou when the Chinese premier arrived Tuesday for six days of talks.

Wednesday Nehru, Chou and their advisers met to bargain. Not according to plan, the two leaders walked out on the advisers for private talks. Some opposition members in the Indian parliament had opposed private talks, claiming that Nehru might yield too easily to Chou, whose reputation as a tough negotiator is feared here.

After almost four hours of private talking, Nehru changed his tune. He said he felt Chou has "the same urge for peace and co-operation" that India has.

"A right and peaceful solution has to be found so that honor and dignity and self-respect of each country," Nehru said. "As the Buddha said, the real victory is the victory of all which involves no defeat."

An Indian politician observed: "No defeat can only mean a compromise. If Nehru keeps all the territory he is claiming India will keep, then the Chinese would be defeated on their claims."

Not Designed To Delay Bid Says Manager

PEMBROKE (CP) — Gordon Archibald of the Ottawa Valley Broadcasting Company denied Thursday that his application for a television station in Pembroke is designed to delay consideration of a CBC bid to establish a satellite station in this area.

Mr. Archibald was commenting on a statement made Wednesday night when town council voted by a 7 to 6 motion asking that there be no delay in hearings the CBC application for a satellite facility because of the effect on broadcast programs from station WCKT in Oswego.

The CBC bid was scheduled to come before a hearing of the Board of Broadcast Governors opening in Edmonton May 10. There have been reports here it might be deferred for consideration at the same time as the application for the Ottawa Valley company which owns Pembroke radio station CHOV.

Mayor Angus Campbell left his chair at the council meeting to speak in favor of the resolution, charging that the private application was aimed at stalling approval of the satellite.

Mr. Archibald said Thursday he was surprised at the motion passed by council at all since it implied illegal action for the department of transport and the BBG. He added that some remarks by the mayor were "completely in error."

Educationists Study Teaching Of Mathematics

OTTAWA (CP)—Are the mathematics taught in Canada's schools adequate for the needs of the nuclear age?

Fifty educationists meet here next week to ponder this and, if necessary, suggest wayspof overhauling the mathematics curriculum of both grade schools and high schools.

Hand-picked delegates of provincial teachers' federations, provincial departments and other agencies in education, they will attend a conference of the Canadian Teachers Federation seminar on "new thinking in mathematics," opening Thursday.

Gerald Nason, federation deputy secretary-treasurer, said today many teachers feel schools should improve their teaching of mathematics because more students are going to need a knowledge of the subject in the age of automation and nuclear power.

The seminar, which may result in changes in school curricula after delegates talk over ideas in their own provinces, follows an educational seminar in Paris last fall conducted by the Organization for European Economic Co-operation. The Paris gathering found an urgent need for adapting the teaching of school geometry and algebra to the advances of modern mathematics.

Red Cross Blood Service Saves Sick 5 Million

HAMILTON — The 40th annual meeting of Ontario Division, the Canadian Red Cross Society was held at the Sheraton-Connaught Hotel here, Wednesday and Thursday, with 400 delegates representing small and large branches across the province in attendance.

Thursday, the delegates heard the reports of the different executives of the division.

Mr. Ray E. Davey, who continues as the Ontario division president for another year, congratulated the branches on their work with the Blood Donor Service, mentioning that the total of 153,654 bottles of blood collected and distributed to the hospitals in this province represents a saving of nearly $5,000,000 to the patients and their families under the old system, which he required to pay approximately $25 per bottle, or replace the quantity of blood used by two donations or every one used. Mr. Davey went on to point out, however, that only about 3 1-2 per cent of Ontario's 6,000,000 population were regular blood donors. It is hoped that during the next few years, this figure will rise to 5 per cent.

REPORT OF OBJECTIVES

Mr. Davey said that for the fifth year, Ontario division failed to meet its campaign objective. The 1959 quota was $2,450,000; the receipts totalled $2,338,784. Thirty four of the Red Cross branches are partners in the Community Chest appeal and only eight of these communities reached or exceeded their quotas. The remaining twenty six failed to meet their objective.

This has meant a considerable financial loss to Red Cross, as this involves many larger city branches, from which the Red Cross collects 75 per cent of its campaign quota.

Mr. Davey said that the divisional officers are presently studying ways to find raising structure.

Union Leader Says Reports of Drinking Untrue

TORONTO (CP) — Reports of drinking and drinking by workers at the city-owned plants are "irresponsible and untrue," Harry Hynes, president of Local 79, Municipal Employees' Association (CLC) said Thursday night.

He was commenting on statements by Aldermen Kenneth Bradshaw that abattoir workers had been docked a day's pay for "poor limecleck operations."

Mr. Bradshaw said W. S. Duffield, recently appointed secretary head of the abattoir, docked the wages of the men because they had been taking their time-clock cards away from the clock board.

The alderman said Mr. Duffield also stopped the "casual" theft of filet mignon steak cuts from the freezers, and warned employees they will lose three days' pay if they are found "near a whisky bottle."

He said in a recent search of the abattoir Mr. Duffield found 30 empty whisky and wine bottles.

Financial Post Says Better Things in Store for Elliot Lake

TORONTO (CP) — The Financial Post says that another major change is slated for Canada's uranium industry—and for Elliot Lake.

In an article Thursday the financial newspaper says the main stake is about $115,000,000 of uranium business.

It says that tenders have been called for the remainder of 1960 rock uranium mines sales contract. Stanrock is currently the only big producer of uranium in bankruptcy.

A spokesman for Montreal Trust Company, which took receivership of Stanrock after the company ran out of working capital last March, said the tenders were called by Clarkson and Company of Toronto which are representing the trade creditors.

He said that any tenders received for the remainder of the sales contract—about 6,000,000 lbs. of uranium—must be approved by Montreal Trust.

Earlier a spokesman for the Stanrock Company denied any knowledge of tenders being called.

The Post goes on to say that Stanleigh Uranium Mining Corporation Ltd., and Can-Met Explorations Ltd., properties in the Elliot Lake district, has received three bids for the remainder of its rock uranium sales contract and that the company is expected to announce soon that it will continue operations on its own or to accept one of the bids.

The article says the best offer for the Stanleigh contract was made by Rio Tinto Mining Co. and that it provides for full resumption of work as well as something for the shareholders. The others were said to have come from Eldorado Mining Ltd. and Gunnar Mines Ltd.

Two of the companies—Rio Tinto and Denison—are located in the Elliot Lake area, while Gunnar operates in northern Saskatchewan's Beaverlodge area.

The Post said that if either Rio Tinto or Denison wins the contracts the effect would be to lengthen assured production periods and jobs in Elliot Lake.

Sale of 3,100 Acres Land Authorized Without Probing Financial Status of Company

TORONTO (CP) — Ottawa's Indian affairs branch authorized the sale of $100 acres of land from the Sarnia Indian reserve without investigating the financial status of the purchasing company, a royal commission heard Thursday.

Gal. Hobert Jones, director of the branch, said the department of citizenship and immigration considered a down payment of $1,000,000 by Toronto's Dimensional Investments Limited sufficient to close the transaction.

The commission, appointed by Premier Frost to investigating the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's purchase of 173 acres of former Indian land from Dimensional.

Mr. Jones said the sale was approved on the basis of the down payment and certain fixed instalments to run until March 31, 1961. Total cost was $6,532,-946. He said he considered that Indians had done very well in the deal.

Ontario Hydro later brought the 173 acres from Dimensional for about $7,000,000. Dimensional paid about $2,200 an acre. The commission, which continued after the opposition in the Ontario legislature charged Hydro had bought the deal.

$2,000,000 PAID

Mr. Jones said Dimensional paid more than $2,000,000 under the purchase price but the Crown was protected by a bank guarantee of 10 per cent of the land involved. The commission's counsel, counsel Joseph Sedgwick that Dimensional will not get title to the remaining 90 per cent of land if it does not continue its payments.

Earlier the commission heard that Dimensional used a deposit from Hydro to obtain work bonds with the Blood Donor Service, mentioning that the total of 153,654 bottles of blood collected and distributed to the hospitals in this province represents a saving of nearly $5,000,000 to the patients and their families under the old system, which he required to pay approximately $25 per bottle, or replace the quantity of blood used by two donations or every one used. Steelworkers Plan to Mount Nation-Wide PR Campaign

MONTREAL (CP)—A plan to mount a co - ordinated, nation-wide public relations campaign to counteract the effects of international policy conference of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) today.

A drive to put the union viewpoint before the public through billboards, newspapers, magazines and radio broadcasts has been under consideration by the Steelworkers union for some time.

A try - out of billboard and newspaper advertising in Ontario produced favorable public reaction.

Now, the idea is to go before 300 delegates from across Canada, who represent more than about $130,000 a year, or about $3.50 for each member in the union which, the 80,000 members, is Canada's largest single trade outfit.

With some provincial governments threatening legislation to restrict that labor regards as openly anti-union, the need for greater public support is felt more keenly in some in union circles.

"The fact is that, while companies have been spending quite a bit of money and devoting quite a bit of time to building up a positive image in the public mind, the union movement has been too often indifferent to public opinion," said Steelworkers director William Mahoney of Toronto in a report Thursday.

He also said he plans to seek a new round of talks with the steel industry's big three before the current agreement expires late in 1961 and added he wants to bring public opinion and working rules into the discussions, which would be informal and non-binding.

"We have until the end of 1961 to decide whether the next set of negotiations in Canada will have to be based on past procedure whether we can revise rules or whether we can devise a new formula in which sharing productivity with the industry's customers will be a mutually accepted part of the rules."

In an interview, he said he plans to meet next month with the managements of the Steel Company of Canada, Algoma Steel Corporation and Dominion Steel and Coal Company to try to set the discussions rolling.

His move is linked with the steel industry's decision over the last two years for a full-scale federal inquiry into policies and practices in setting steel prices.

The Steelworkers contend wage increases do not cause higher costs — and thus, higher steel prices—when they are matched by increased steel production. It has tried to get a three - way agreement among government, industry and union on a common statistical analysis of steel production and productivity per steelworker.

Underworld Adds Another Victim To Lengthy List

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said Thursday the Montreal underworld has probably added another victim to its lengthy list.

Det.-Lt. Gaston Archambault, head of the provincial police homicide squad, said a man whose body was found Wednesday was shot in true gangland fashion.

The body of the man, about 25, was clad only in underwear and socks when discovered in a field on a remote summer cabin near Ste. Therese West, 30 miles northwest of here. He had been shot five times in the head.

Police estimated the man — who has not yet been positively identified—had been dead about five weeks.

The Indian council revoked this Ming Vase, 28 and gave it to Mrs. Tong.

Hydro representative C. F. S. Tidy said a Crown-Trust official told Hydro in September, 1958, that it must not talk to the Indians because this might upset Crown Trust's proposal to buy the bulk of the reserve.

Mr. Kelcey asked whether the Indian council had the right to revoke the decision of the band. Mr. Jones said the question was difficult to answer but the council appeared to be on fairly sound ground.

Documents entered as evidence showed that other public-utility firms have paid as much as $14,-000 an acre for land on the reserve.

He said he purchased the paintings to be genuine when he came here to the pianist in 1950 and 1951.

HOME BUILDING SECTION

PAGES 14 and 15

STRAIGHT AND LEVEL — Levelling the footing forms is an important operation in starting the construction of a well-built house. Footings for the basement columns are poured at the same time as the outside footings which carry the foundation walls.

Solid Ground Under Footings Prevents Uneven Settling

The footing is a slab of concrete on which the foundation wall rests. It's usually twice the width of the foundation wall and anywhere from six to 14 inches thick. Its function is to distribute the weight of the house over a larger surface and help prevent uneven settling or sinking.

Thicker or wider footings may be required where the load-bearing capacity of the ground is poor. Where the house is being built on solid rock, however, footings may not be necessary.

Before concrete is poured, the ground on footing bed should be carefully examined to see that there are no soft spots. The footings act as a supporting pad for the house and therefore any unevenness will reduce its effectiveness. The adding of fill to level out depressions should be avoided, as the ground under the footings should be equally firm all around.

Boards or planks are required to hold the concrete together until at hardens. They are held firmly in place by pegs driven into the ground. The concrete footing itself sometimes extends below the bottom of these forms in which case a footing trench is dug four to six inches deep and the same width as the framed enclosure. The sides of the excavated portions are cut square and the bottom of the trench is levelled.

Good drainage is essential. A few wet spots inside the forms need not stop the pouring of the concrete, but water pockets of any size should be drained. Drainage can be accomplished by forms that are partly filled with gravel. They cause trouble. Once the concrete has begun to harden or "set", however, the presence of water can actually be beneficial.

Footings will also be required as a base for posts supporting the beams, and for the chimney, if it is to be built of masonry. These are usually constructed at the same time as the wall footings. They should be carefully located, or the posts will not be properly centered.

Concrete should be of good quality. If the builder is using ready-mix concrete the supplier's invoice will show its potential strength in pounds per square inch after it has hardened. As a check some suppliers take samples of the concrete as it is being poured at the building site and later submit a written report to the builder.

The effective strength of the concrete depends primarily on the proportion of sand, stone, cement and water used. If the ingredients have been correctly measured at the mixing plant no more water need be added to the mixture at the building site.

BELOW FROST LINE

Footings should be carried below the line of frost penetration to avoid the risk of structural damage to the house. The depth of frost line varies from one section to region. In the coastal areas of British Columbia, frost usually does not penetrate deep enough to cause damage. Elsewhere in Canada, particularly on the Prairies, it may be necessary to sink the footings down to five feet. In most parts of the country footings should be at least four feet below ground level. In the more northern regions the ground remains permanently frozen and only the surface thaws during the summer months. This condition, known as permafrost, presents special engineering problems.

Frost will penetrate certain types of earth more readily than others. Ice lenses deeper in clay, which usually has a relatively high water content, than in loose, well-drained soil containing a large proportion of sand.

The first evidence of damage to a building usually appears at openings, such as the door to a basement garage or to an exterior basement stairway. Cracked lintels above doors or windows or cracks in brickwork may indicate frost damage. On the inside, plaster cracks, opened joints or water stains may result from damage to the exterior wall.

In winter construction the footing bed should not be exposed to frost as foundation cracks may appear in the spring if the ground thaws out unevenly. Where concrete cannot be poured soon after the trench has been dug, the footing bed can be protected by burying the framework under a thick layer of stone. In severe freezing conditions, however, this may still not be sufficient.

In winter the first 48 hours after pouring are the most critical. Freshly poured concrete should never be allowed to freeze.

Take Inventory Of Clutter in Your Kitchen

Just looking at a jumbled home is enough to exhaust many an energetic housewife.

According to Margaret Stafford, home service editor of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers' Association, the aggregate amount of time spent by families searching for missing articles in the home runs into millions of hours each year. The blame is usually placed on thoughtless members of the family. But a careful look at the storage facilities in the home will usually turn up the answer.

The kitchen, for instance, gets more than its share of clutter. The cookbook, school books and announcements and store deliveries converge in this room at just about the time Mom is starting to get a meal together. She's reluctant to leave the kitchen at that hour and drops the delivery or the packages she's brought in on a convenient counter. Before she knows it, she has an accumulation worthy of a warehouse.

What can be done about it? Miss Spader suggests a plan for consolidating activities. It is applicable to every room in the home, but she suggests you start with the kitchen.

If you assemble all of new-fangled cooking appliances you own in one space, you'll be amazed at how much storage room they take. The toaster, percolator, waffle iron, electric skillet, rotisserie, deep fat fryer, etc., are usually used during the preparation of a meal. It makes sense to locate them near the range so they can be operated while other foods are cooking.

If storage near the range is limited in your kitchen, Miss Spader points out, it might be a good idea to evaluate such appliance from the standpoint of frequency of use. The appliances that do not "earn" their storage space could be relegated to a more inaccessible area.

Another way to create more storage space in the kitchen is to invest in a modern gas range. In just 36 inches of space you can have a rotating spit that can be used for kabobs as well as barbecuing and roasting, a baking oven with a separate broiler, a temperature-controlled griddle, deep fat fryer, and burners for braising, stewing, boiling frying and pressure cooking, too.

Such a complete cooking centre, with clock, lights and timer is available in several models of gas ranges that carry the Gold Star Award emblem.

With work and storage space at a premium in modern homes, it makes sense to give more thought to your storage set-up. A carefully planned laundry area in the bedroom might relieve clutter in the bedrooms or the utility room.

A sewing area in the family room can relieve congestion in a bedroom. A shallow storage wall in a hallway with shelves and books within reach of young children is still another way to get rid of clutter.

Now Average Family Can Afford Pool

One of the fastest growing phases of the current trend to outdoor living is represented by the private swimming pool. Last year, some 37,000 backyard swimming pools were constructed and industry officials estimate that this figure will zoom to 45,000 in 1960.

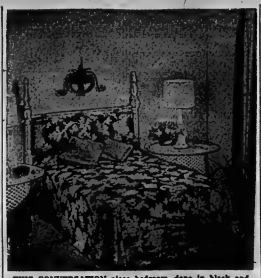
Only a few years back, the possession of one's own swimming pool was associated with substantial wealth, but today mass production methods have brought costs down to a point where they are within financial reach of the average family.

Pools can be built to fit within any reasonable area at prices to fit almost any budget. Few if any, investments in family recreational facilities will pay such generous and lasting dividends in healthy fun for young and old, alike.

TYPES OF CONSTRUCTION

Among the more popular types of pool construction are waterproof poured concrete, sprayed concrete, plastic covered concrete or concrete blocks, steel, aluminum, plastic molds or shells and other variations. Pool builders have been constantly developing structural materials and quicker methods of construction.

New and improved equipment developed recently, has made pool operation safer and easier and even helps extend the swimming pool.



Water heaters are becoming increasingly popular. Heated water adds at least two months to family swimming fun. There are many models of both the gas and electric types. And the addition of a pool shelter can make most pools usable for almost the whole year.

WATER MAINTENANCE

Real progress has been made in helping the pool owner to always have clean and clear water. The two basic methods of water maintenance are chemical and filtration systems.

In the field of chemicals, more potent chlorine and algicide compounds have been developed, along with safer and surer methods of introducing the chemicals into the water.

Something new are liquid and powdered iodine compounds to substitute for chlorine.

THIS CONVERSATION piece bedroom, done in black and white with an orange rug for contrast, was inspired by the headboard of a fine old four poster, and transformed at home to new beauty with the use of a bed conversion kit.

New Lamps Have Own Personalities

Lamps have long been chosen to fit perfectly into the decor of the home. But this year, the vast majority of lamps refuse to be classified into modern or period categories.

The bulk of new designs can be combined successfully with most furniture styles. Each lamp stands on its own merits, rather than on the strength of its heritage or affiliation.

Even the division between "functional" and "decorative" is disappearing. According to the Lamp and Shade Institute of America, the so-called functional types are no longer Plain Janes. They have learned all the make-up tricks, including strategic application of color, skilful use of wood, and attractive shaping of glass and metal light containers.

Cold Water Cares Can Be Banished

Nothing will disorganize a homemaker's well-planned schedule more than icy water leaving forth from a hot water tap. Dad has left for the office irritable and disgruntled after his cold shower. Baby's bath must be postponed and the week's washing and breakfast dishes await a cantankerous tank's refusal to heat.

You can banish these problems by modernizing your home with an electric water heater. Each time the homemaker opens the faucet, water, piping hot and crystal clear will be delivered for all her needs.

Automatic controls do the thinking. They set, turn on and off at predetermined temperature and turn off leaving the homemaker carefree. Simply install an electric water heater and then forget it.

By turning on the faucet, water at the same uniform temperature — just right for most household uses — gushes forth. The thermostatically controlled heating unit turns off at a set temperature.

Heavily insulated, the tank is always cool-to-the-touch. There is no extra cleaning because there is no soot, smoke or ashes.

Heat losses through pipe runs are kept at a minimum because the heater may be placed near the point of greatest use.

There are no "extra" connections such as fuses and chimney connections with an electric water heater. It may be installed anywhere in the house such as attic, closet, base cabinet, basement, kitchen, bathroom or nearest the point of greatest water usage.

Accused Admits Nine Killings

BERGAMO, Italy (Reuters)—Vitalino Morandini, 44, confessed Wednesday at the opening of his trial to the nine killings with which he is charged.

The man who has been called The Monster of Postiglio told the court now he battered to death Giovanni Morandini at Postiglio, near Bergan, in November, 1955.

He also described the burning, a week later, of a five-year-old child, his mother and grandmother, and the killing of their sleep, a month later, of a couple with an axe.

The confession ended with the description of the hammer slaying in January, 1956, of a headwaiter, his wife and 24-year-old daughter.

Quinte Mixed Bowling League Holds Party

The Quinte Mixed Bowling League wound up another highly successful season here last night.

One of the largest "shin-and-bat" five-pin organizations in the city, the league rang down the curtain with a presentation dinner-dance at the Club Canada.

A fine representation of the fourteen-team circuit honored champions, near-champions and individual award winners with the various trophies and prizes of the seasonal chase.

They dined and they danced and paid tribute to the "Oscars" recipients. They enjoyed novelty entertainment presented by two talented youngsters.

President Guy Anderson, climaxed a successful term of office with an excellent job of "em-ceeing". He paid tribute to his executive and to the league in general for a fine season.

And the loop established a circuit precedent by electing an all-woman executive for the coming year.

This includes the new president, Mrs. Madeline James; secretary Aileen Coe and treasurer Thelma Cooney.

Titular awards were made to the 1959-60 champions, the Lawn Bowlers, which includes Dave Batshelor, Wally Lavergne, Ann Pullman, Grace Clapp, Orio Smith, Mildred Smith, Thelma Pingleton and Jerry Clapp.

Sectional champions also were honored. The "A" section winners were the "Champs." Personnel of this time is: Gar Anderson, D. Smith, Marg Fairbairn, Peg Rosaky, Johnny Rosaky, Al Wardhaugh, Theresa Wardhaugh and Dorothy Anderson.

The "B" section winners, "Canadian Tire" Included: Wally Dever, Al Dever, Jean Berry, Cam Smith, C. Hennessy, L. Lloyd and E. Jones.

High average winners were Mary Fairbairn (230) and Dave Batchelor. (229).

The past-president and incoming president took the high triple awards, outgoing prexy Gar Anderson rolling a 835 and incoming president Madeline James kegling an 825.

High single awards went to Doris McLean with a 354 and Clifford Sharpe with an identical score.

The presentations followed an excellent dinner. Then came entertainment. After that the league danced to the sprightly rhythms of Hugo Racine' orchestra, until the CNR crack midnight diesels monitored the finale.

The entertainment was good. Twelve-year-old Janice Rosaky, talented daughter of Johnny and Peg of the same name, delighted her audience with clever dancing. Youthful Paddy Whalen received a splendid ovation at the conclusion of his clever acrobatics. Both youngsters were called back for encores.

MAY STAGE WALKOUT

TORONTO (CP) — The International Laborers Union (CLC) said Thursday night it may stage a walkout at the Bloor Hollow tunnel project where five men died last month, if non-union workers are not removed from the job. The five workmen died in a fire in the tunnel under the Don River in suburban North York. Work has resumed under jurisdiction of the Gurzanies Company of North America, a bonding company which took over from Harrop Contracting Company Limited.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Stanley Cup post-mortems are in full swing these days and, of course, most of the talk centres around Montreal Canadiens. The opinion, even among hockey men, is that there isn't a serious Cup challenger in sight and there probably won't be for a few years.

Even Jack Adams is getting around to that theory, and he is from the school of diehards who believe that a good club disintegrates about every five years. His mind was changed after Canadiens whipped through the Cup finals in the minimum eight games with four-straight decisions over Chicago and Toronto.

Adams, regarded as a master builder and a genius in hockey shrewdness with 44 years of the game behind him, isn't convinced any more that the Canadiens are just about ready to fold after five straight Cup victories.

A couple of years ago Adams was pretty sure that time was running out on Maurice Richard and Doug Harvey. "When the Canadiens lose those two they are going to have trouble," he warned. "They are the men who kill you and when they go the Canadiens are going to suffer."

THEY'RE LOADED

Now, he concedes, Canadiens are loaded even without the 38-year-old Richard.

They've got the best farm system in the National Hockey League and, according to big-league scouts, they have the best prospects of any team down on the farm. For instance, there are Junior Wayne Connelly of Peterborough Petes and Bobby Rousseau of Brockville Canadiens.

Any other NHL club would love dearly to latch on to any one of these fellows.

ROCKET WON'T TALK

And the Rocket? Well, he has scored only one goal in two playoff years and Canadiens still are regarded as probably the greatest all-round club in the history of professional hockey.

The talk still continues that the Rocket may hang up his tack this year. Only Richard knows what he will do and he isn't talking, but one thing is certain: he will be protected in the annual draft in June, if he doesn't announce his retirement before then.

Every club would be willing to spend $20,000 to pick him up. But they'll never be given the chance.

Phil Watson, the see-time talkative coach of New York Rangers, had a pat answer about what he would do if Hungerford ever had an opportunity of picking up the Rocket, even if he couldn't play.

"I'd put him in a glass cage in the lobby of Madison Square Garden and charge people a quarter to see him. We'd make a pile of money."

Little Dutchies Trim Winnipeg

BRAMPTON (CP) — Kitchener defeated Winnipeg 5-0 Thursday in the intern a t i o n a l novice hockey tournament.

The Kitchener scorers were Dale Boyd, Alan Poll, Ron Kurlitt and Dave Cressman.

Other winners in two - game, total - point elimination series were Paisley and Watford.

Paisley defeated Meadowvale 3-2 and 5-1, while Watford downed Sheffield 3-1 and 8-3.

In other games, Toronto Varsity's little TEL team trounced Peterborough 5-0, Richmond Hill edged Newmarket 2-1 and Brampton took Georgetown 3-0.

Later, Peterborough beat the Toronto club 6-4, but the margin wasn't enough to win the two-game total-goals series, in the second game of the Newmarket-Richmond clash, Newmarket turned the tables to win 3-1 and take the series 4-2.

Western Ladies Win Senior Hoop Crown

HAMILTON (CP) — The West won the Canadian senior women's basketball championship for the 12th straight year when Richmond Merchants of British Columbia trounced Hamilton Quinto - Tigerettes 45-26 Thursday night. Richmond took the best-of-five series 3-1.

The win was Richmond's biggest in the series, having won the second and third games 48-39 and 48-43 after losing the first 46-45. Monday's defeat was the only one suffered by Merchants in a 31-game season.

The Tigerettes collapsed in the second half when they were checked into the floor, outbuilded and unable to shoot straight.

Steelworkers Union Local 1005 won the Canadian juvenile girls' basketball title as they defeated St. Lambert, Que., 56-18 to take the two-game, total-point series 88-32.

St. Lambert won last year over the same Hamilton team and in 1958 defeated Toronto Shamrocks.

The juvenile age limit is under 18.

MISSILE FIRED

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The air force fired a Titan intercontinental range missile more than 5,000 miles down the Atlantic test range Thursday. An announcement reported the 90-foot, two - stage rocket hurled a inetied-type nose cone into the intended impact area near the South Atlantic island of Ascension.

It wouldn't be practical for Imperial to divide its income dollar as in our picture. A more exact division is required, as you can see below.

Here's how Imperial's income dollar is divided

Last year, out of every dollar Imperial took in:
55 cents was spent for raw materials—mostly crude oil —and for freight, a big item in a big country.
25 cents went for costs of operating the company. This included wages and salaries for our 13,000 employees.
9 cents was for depreciation, money set aside to help pay for replacing worn-out equipment.
5 cents went to various taxes (not including provincial road taxes ranging from 10 to 18½ cents per gallon).
6 cents was left. Two had to be set aside for equipment to make new products and for expansion of things like refineries and service stations to meet public needs.
4 cents was left for the shareholders—whose investment made the company possible.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CF)—More than half of all future thoroughbred races in Ontario will be run at distances of between 1½ and two miles, general manager John J. Mooney of the Jockey Club announced Thursday.

About 75 per cent of races in North America now are run at distances of less than one mile.

Mooney said the change will "provide more and better entertainment for the public" at the Fort Erie, Woodbine and Old Woodbine tracks.

He said that attendance at the three Ontario tracks has increased by 50 per cent in the last seven years "but we have merely scraped the surface."

Mooney said North American tracks have polled their patrons and more than 80 per cent have made it emphatically clear that they prefer races of more than one mile."

The Jockey Club's new policy on Ontario tracks would call for drastic revision of current training and breeding theories, but he hoped that, by next year, 60 per cent of the races on Ontario tracks will be run at more than one mile.

Footmark won the featured Burlington Purse Thursday. Arrowsmith was second and Prompt Hero third.

CBS TV's Show of Month End of Excellent Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS television's Show of the Month wound up its season Thursday night on a pleasant, if minor, note. The play was Years Ago, a fine new adaptation of Ruth Gordon's dramatic memoir of about how, in 1912, she "set out from Wantage, Mass., to become an actress."

The story was full of warm touches and gentle humor. It had older viewers chuckling nostalgically over the late General Grant interiors, the tunes of the time and the women's sweeping dresses.

Sandra Church, although a bit mature to be a convincing 18-year-old, was a determined and completely stage - struck young Ruth Gordon Jones. Robert Preston, whose acting is a bit overpowering when confined within a small TV screen, played the salty and lovable father. Peggy Cook's sling was right in the sentimental and affectionate wife and mother.

That crazy western with the jazz theme, Shotgun Slade, now is seen over 200 TV stations—and it isn't a network, but a syndicated, show. Gunsmoke, with one of NBC-TV's biggest followings in the business, has 202 stations.

Including Music in Ice, a variety show, new summer shows will consist mostly of old: Expense show replacing Dinah Shore as hostess; Wednesday replacing Garry Moore on CBS Tuesday night's thriller trade on NBC Friday night replacing the fights; an audience participation show, Word of the Week, in place of NBC's Troubleshooters, and a program about politics in place of the Desilu Theatre Time on CBS.

Recommended tonight:

Mark Twain's America, NBC, 8:30-9:30—Based on source materials.

Playhouse 90, CBS, 9-10:30—Journey to the Day, a play about mental health, with Mary Astor, Janice Rule, James Dunn.

RESUME WORK

AT THE PARK — Audie Murphy plays role of a philosophical hired hand in Universal-International's "The Gun Runners" which opens today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. In Technicolor and Cinemascope, the film also co-stars Joan Evans and Charles Drake. On the second program, "Lil Abner"—in Technicolor, Cinemascope and Color—direct from 1,000 days.

Argos Sign Western Star

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Mitchell, all-star tackle from the University of Western Ontario, signed Thursday to play with Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four Football Union next season. He was Argos' No. 1 choice in the college draft.

The 225 - pound, six-foot-two Mitchell was chosen by Argos as their top prospect. Head coach Jr., Western fullback, to meet the needs of Canadian linemen. Argos, well stocked with good halfbacks, passed up a chance to draft Coacher who selected Mitchell is the hope he'll be a top-flight lineman.

Coacher, son of the famous Lionel Coacher who was voted Canada's outstanding player of the first half century, was drafted by Montreal Alouettes and recently signed with the Als.

Mitchell was named the outstanding player in the intercollegiate league last season. The 22-year-old player, a native of London, England, graduates this year in arts and will enroll at McMaster in physical education.

Lady Shoots Three Aces In Four Days

RICKMANSWORTH, England (AP)—Mrs. Paddy Mullin shot three holes in one on the same green in four days this past weekend.

Mrs. Martin, Irish - born golfing housewife, admitted: "I'm only a duffer with an 18 handicap—but that short hole makes me look like a champion."

She used a No. 8 iron on the 125-yard hole to score her first hole-in-one on Good Friday. She did the same on Saturday, and repeated on Monday.

Three Royals Are Suspended

MONTREAL (CP) — Suspension for 10 days of three players of Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League was announced Thursday by general manager Fern Dubois.

They are pitchers John Janes and Fernando (Fred) Rodriguez and infielder Harry Schwegman. Janes and Schwegman have not signed contracts for the 1960 season. Rodriguez has agreed in terms but has failed to report to manager Clay Hyzak.

Dubois also announced that pitcher Robert Wild has been released to the Memphis club of the Southern Association. Outfielder Stan Warbola has been released outright and infielder Luis Zayas has been sold to Mexico of the Mexican League.

"A nice friendly game now, eh, Bradshaw? No bullet-like serves—!"

Believe Actors' Hospital Unique in United States

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Recently, I took a drive in the San Fernando Valley to visit an old friend, Mack Sennett.

Mack isn't receiving illness and checked into the Motion Picture Country Hospital and Home in Woodland Hills to beat the rap. I was happy to see him spry and hale again and his old gruff self. I also was happy to get a look at a place I had heard much about but had never seen.

Director Leon Janis showed me around the hospital and home, an establishment that may well be unique in American industry. This is where Hollywood takes care of its ill and aged.

The place is divided into three sections: the hospital, shiny and modern, equipped with the best operation and rehabilitation equipment; the rest home, where the infirm are cared for; the cottages, where people can spend their later years among friend in cheerful surroundings. Total accommodations: 100, with a rest home for 80 more under construction.

WELL TAKEN CARE

The guests are well taken care of. Stu'd hairdressers come twice weekly to beautify the ladies. Entertainers drop in to put on shows; movies are shown twice a week. Said Janis:

"Usually you hear the comment that the talkies aren't as good as the silents they used to make. Some of the greats like to play TV without the sound; they like it better silent."

Later I dropped by the Hollywood office of the Motion Picture Relief Fund to learn more about the operation. Miss Wilma Bashby, who has been with the fund for 30 years, told me it is supported largely by voluntary deductions of movie workers, usually one per cent of their salaries.

The fund also gives relief payments to needy families in the film industry.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carter, Sports Editor

Bobby Hull naturally was elated when he was informed by telephone yesterday that he had been selected for the National Hockey League first all-star team.

Bobby had just finished the chores on his Big Island ranches when called. His and the attractive Mrs. Hull were at the breakfast "whistles" when the phone rang.

BOBBY HULL

Eat it, seemed Bobby got a bigger "kick" out of the fact the Chilliwhack goalie, Glenn Hall, had nosed out the Canadiens' Jacques Plante "for the first-team selection."

There was a distinct familiar cheer from the background when Bobby respecting the information. There was also family elation when told Pierre Pilote, another Hawk, had been selected to the second all-star team.

The $1,000 bonus that goes with the first-team nomination also met with the Hull approval. "Just in time," Bobby quipped over the phone. "I've got to go to the bank this morning."

It is the second $1,000 bonus for young Robert...He also collected a grand when he won the league scoring championship. He received bonuses from the Hawks. "That last nearly had a push," he said. "It was a pedestal of a handsome trophy from the Black Hawks' Standby Club, a booster organization of Windy City fans. He got that for winning the Lady Byng trophy, too, eventually.

Bobby is the youngest member of this year's all-star team. The 21-year-old speedster polled 84 points in the first ball voting and 82 in the second for a total of 178 points. He had almost a 100-point edge over Dean Prentice of the New York Rangers, who made the second team at left wing. Prentice polled 80 points and 47 respectively. It was the first all-star team for both Hull and Prentice.

While Bobby was more or less expected to "make" the first all-star squad, the selection of Hall over Plante came as a distinct jolt to fanfans, especially the Canadiens' faithful. Hall polled 84 points in the first ballot to 186 for Plante, the five-time Vezina Trophy winner.

Hall received 94 out of 90 points in the second half. He needed these points badly as he polled only 32 in the first half. Plante had 98 first-half points, but only 87 in the second round. Hall just made the first all-star team three times, and the second team once in the last five years. Plante has been a member of two first teams, and two second teams.

The 1959-60 N.H.L. All-Star team was composed of two players from Chicago, two from Detroit and two from Montreal. The two wingers, Gordie Howe of Detroit at right wing and Bobby Hull at left wing, polled the most points among the players. Howe and Hull each polled 178 points in the voting which was carried out by a panel of hockey writers, broadcasters and television.

Doug Harvey of Canadiens and Marcel Pronovost of Detroit were named to the two defence berths. Harvey amassed a total of 154 while Pronovost picked up 96.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal Canadiens' powerful centre, was the sole repeater from last year's all-star team. Beliveau tabulated 86 points in the first half and 74 in the second for a total of 158 points. This gave him a wide margin over Boston Bruins' Bronco Horvath who polled an even points for each half, a grand total of 120.

A unanimous choice for right wing in the first-half balloting, Gordie Howe dropped off to 83 points in the second half for a 96-83-179 total.

Each member of the first team receives $1,000 from the National Hockey League while members of the second team pocket $500 apiece. A unanimous choice would poll 180 points—90 points for each half.

Following is the official first and second all-star teams for 1959-60 and the number of points compiled by each player:

FIRST TEAM — Glenn Hall, Chicago (166); Doug Harvey, Canadiens (154); Marcel Pronovost, Detroit (98); Jean Beliveau, Canadiens (158); Gordie Howe, Detroit (179); Bobby Hull, Chicago (178).

SECOND TEAM—Jacques Plante, Canadiens (186); Allan Stanley, Toronto (84); Pierre Pilote, Chicago (78); Bronco Horvath, Boston (120); Bernie Geoffrion, Canadiens (76); Dean Prentice, Rangers (77).

Tied for Top With Tigers After Beating Kay City 6-5; Pirates Amass Nine Homers

By Ed Wilks
Associated Press Staff Writer

"We've got more power," said manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox. "No now we're slugging 'em to death—by one run."

The White Sox won their first American League pennant in 40 years with 94 victories last season, and better than a third (35) of them were by one run. Winter dealers for Minnie Minoso and Gene Freese and a spring swap for Roy Sievers, were supposed to provide more power and make things easier this year.

So now the White Sox have played two and won two—and both have been by one run margins, and in the last inning.

BIG KLU WINS IT

They beat Kansas City's second time Thursday winning 6-5 on Ted Kluszewski's single in the 11th after winning reliever Gerry Staley had blanked the A's on two hits for five innings. That hoisted the White Sox into a first place tie with idle Detroit.

The New York Yankees backed a four-hit shutout spun by rookie Rollie Sheldon and Drew Dunn with successive fourth - inning home runs by Bill Skowron and Gil McDougald for a 4-0 victory over Boston. Rookie Dan Dobbek's three-run, two-out homer in the ninth gave Washington a 6-5 victory at Baltimore.

The White Sox, who won Tuesday's opener 10-9 in the ninth on Minoso's second home run, were really back in form Thursday. They collected 13 hits—and all but one was a single. Nellie Fox, who was 4-for-4 (one a double) and drove in two runs, rounded the clincher on Klu's hit after a walk to Staley.

Righthander Bob Shaw, the league's top percentage (1-0) pitcher last season, was nicked for four runs in the first inning by the A's.

FIRST HOMER

Skowron's home run, his first, came with two on against loser Ralph Terry. Righthander Duke Maas cleared the left field wall.

Dobbek, a stand-by to give the Senators the AL's scalps of the year for the third straight season, connected with one aboard in the seventh and teed off on losing reliever Jim Pisoni (1-1) in the ninth after a pair of walks. The Orioles left 10 on base in the first six innings. Gene Woodling's two run homer triggered a three-run seventh for a brief 4-3 lead for the Orioles.

Four Orioles pitchers gained a scoreless strikeout with rookie Steve Barber, lasting four innings in his first major league start, and Chuck Estrada, who relieved for two frames, each coming five.

Lots of Action In Peewee Hockey Tourney

GODERICH (CP) — After 18 years of frustration Walkerton finally landed the series B championship of the Young Canada Peewee hockey tournament Thursday night with a 4-2 victory over Tillsonburg.

One of the few teams to have entered the tournament every year since its establishment in 1950, Walkerton stretched its unbeaten streak to 18 games with the championship win. Tillsonburg, who has yet to win a title in nine trys, suffered its first defeat of the season.

Mount Royal, Que., made its tournament debut a winning one Friday with wins over Waterloo and Woodstock. The Quebec team, paced by the five-goal performance of centre Louis Prignon, downed Waterloo 5-3 and Woodstock 7-1.

The two victories sent Mount Royal into the series A semi-finals against North Bay who overpowered St. Thomas 12-1 Thursday.

Winnipeg Mustangs edged Kitchener 2-1 to move into the semi-finals, round of the A series while St. John's Nfld., also advanced with a win over St. Clair Shores, Mich. Winnipeg plays Sarnia and St. John's meet Peterborough once each in round matches.

Buckingham, Que., lost out in the first round of the AA series Thursday by dropping a 3-2 decision to Peterborough. The Quebec team would have been an extra AA berth but never moved up to compete with teams from larger centres as a replacement for Sudbury.

Louis Frigeon, scored all five Mount Royal goals in the 5-3 win over Waterloo. Against Woodstock Frigeon got two while Glenn McKellar scored both Woodstock goals.

Today the Winnipeg - Kitchener game, Brian Dargel scored for the latter.

Hull Coach Thinks Maroons Best Senior Club in Canada

CHATHAM (CP)—A Cinderella team is carrying Eastern Canada's flag for the Allan Cup and Senior A hockey supremacy in Canada.

Three months ago, Chatham Maroons were so broke they announced they were dropping out of competition.

But after picking themselves up off the financial floor and making comebacks on the ice, they bump Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, Que., Legion Wednesday night to take the best-of-five eastern final 3-1.

Now they face Trail, B.C., Smoke Eaters in a best-of-seven final in the coast city starting Monday night. They are to fly from here Saturday.

HIGH PRAISE

Hull coach Marcel Legris rates their chances this way:

"I can't see any amateur team in Canada stopping Maroons. If there is one, it will have to be a superman team. This Chatham club is the best in Canada.

"They can go wherever they feel like it. It's amazing that one team could have so much power."

For Maroons, this will be their second crack at the cup. They lost to Vernon, B.C., Canadians in the 1956 final.

In mid-December the Chatham Hockey Association announced withdrawal from OHA senior hockey because of financial difficulties.

GOT HELP

The OHA and other league members came to their aid. The players took pay cuts. Senior hockey here stayed alive.

But fan support continued to dwindle, and the association went broke.

For instance, Ray Morgan refereed the last World Cup game between the U.S.A. and Mexico and also handled several of the Pan American games. Harry Sadler officiates last year. Harry Sadler, a popular referee, is president of the Eastern Canada Referees' Association.

Regarding the Ontario Football Association at the clinic will be O.F.A. Council member Lee Digby of this city.

Four Tied For Top Spot In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Buffalo Bisons still have their old 1-3 punch of power and pitching as they are off and rolling toward another International League pennant.

The Bisons won their second in six many starts Thursday night with a 5-3 verdict over the Miami Marlins on Art Mahaffey's fine pitching and clutch hitting by Fred Hopke, Don Landrum and Joe Lonnett.

However, the Bisons are still in a four-way tie for first place with Montreal, Rochester and Toronto. Montreal edged Columbus 4-3; Rochester beat little world series champion Havana for the second consecutive night in the 10th inning; this time 4-3; and Toronto slipped Richmond 1-0.

Mahaffey gave only two hits for six innings before the Marlins used three hits, one was Fred Hopke's bases loaded triple with two walks and a sacrifice fly in the seventh for their runs.

THREE RUN HOMER

Hopke's single set up the Bisons' first run, his double drove in the second and he scored the third ahead of Lonnett who homered.

Rookie shortstop Domingo Carrasquel hit a three-run homer in a four-run fourth inning to sink Columbus and pitcher Dick Lines. Carrasquel is the brother of former major league Chico Carrasquel. Bill Kunkel was the winning pitcher.

Rochester, which won Thursday night on Luke Easter's 10th inning homer, used a wild throw by Havana third baseman Felix Torres to score two runs in the 10th. Ron Kibbey started the other run home after pinch hitter Ben Mateosky tied it for the Wings in the eighth inning.

Steve Kankowski's home run off Al Cicotte needed to beat Richmond and Gary Blaylock. Cicotte allowed only six hits before Toronto got only six off Blaylock, who also struck out eight.

SIGN MANAGER

GALT (CP)—Jack Hoy signed Thursday as manager of Galt Terriers of the International Hockey League. He replaces Sid Fraser, who resigned because of business interests. Hoy, 25, pitched for the Terriers during the last two seasons. Galt opens its season May 21 at home against Listowel Legionaires.

Five Shutouts In Little NHL

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — There were five shutouts Thursday as the 32th little National Hockey League provincial championships opened here. Some 500 boys are playing in 31 games of the tournament, which ends Saturday.

In the Junior A division for players under 16, Penetang defeated Parry Sound 1-0 on a goal by Ken St. Amonie. Perry Dobson got the shutout.

Huntsville won the other Junior A game with a 3-0 victory over Bradford. Scorers were Perry Stinson and John McWilliams, with Allan Skinner gaining the shutout.

In Little American Hockey League action, Midland defeated Huntsville 5-0 on goals by Doug French, Bob Clayton, Mike Robitaille, Keith Bath and Earl Scott. Shutout goalie was Allen Butler.

The other AHL game was won by Parry Sound with a 3-0 victory over Burks Falls. Scorers were Bob Orr and Keith Draper, with Allan Butler getting the shutout.

In NHL action, Penetang defeated Parry Sound 3-0. Two goals were scored by Mike Dobeau, with Robert Delmore getting a single. Doug Scott was the shutout goaltender.

The NHL players are under 12 years old. NHL players are under 16.

The winners play in the championship semi-final into a consolation rounds. The finals will be Saturday.

Lit-Up Lure Fools Fish Says Inventor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Somebody is always trying to figure out a way to fool the poor fish. Earl Penny believes his invention is just the thing to do it.

Penny's Blinking Black Widow would catch any fish—to hear him talk. The black plastic lure has a bass lure with a tail light. Penny, 34, calls the thing a Black Widow.

Three inches long, it is black and has the inside, which contains a flashlight battery, is stainless steel. Only one lure fits. It has two sets of three hooks each.

The flashlight bulb is built into the tail. It blinks when you twitch the line.

Penny swears the bass can't tell the difference between his lure and a lightning bug, on firefly, at night.

Head-Butters Lick Wounds

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP)—Battered Gene Fullmer looked ahead today to the peace and quiet of his mink farm and to a tentative June 29th title defence against Carmen Basilio.

Joey Giardello headed home Thursday with a middleweight head claiming the National Boxing Association's middleweight title.

Fullmer, of course, still held the World Boxing Association's slightly bitterly fought head-to-ting duel recalled in a draw.

Aussie Yachtsmen Challenge For Elusive America's Cup

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The elusive America's Cup arrives next week in Australia. The challenge ship is the cynosure of the confident yachtsmen.

Australia's challenge to the United States—a boat one, contesting that is—for America's yacht has acknowledged by a cable received here Thursday.

The cable, sent by Commodore George Hamilton of the New York Yacht Club, confirmed that his club's board of trustees will meet April 26 to consider the challenge.

The Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron is the challenger named 1962 as the year for the race and stipulated that it be held between 18-footer yachts as in the last race between Britain and the United States in 1958 when the U.S. Columbia won four straight races over Britain's Sceptre.

Squadron Secretary L. P. Burgess said Thursday Australia's yacht will be designed by naval architect Alan Payne and construction probably will start soon after the end of this year.

CREW TRAINING

The training of a crew to man the yacht has been under way for some time here aboard the 60-foot American yacht Vim. It was chartered for the purpose.

More than 200 yachtsmen applied for crew membership—20 of them wanted to be skipper. Desired selected crews of 12 have been taking turns racing the Vim since January. From Australian crew will be selected from these yachtsmen.

The skipper has recently returned from the United States, where he was sent to study technical information on 12-metre yachts, including data on tank testing and tests on scale models.

The organizers expect the cost of the challenge to exceed $840,000.

The U.S. has held the trophy ever since its inauguration in 1851.

Pick Indians To Win First Calder Cup

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Springfield Indians are favored to win their first Calder Cup championship tonight against Rochester Americans.

Coach Bill Dineen's Boston-Cline-Parker MacDonald line and home ice are in the Indians' favor.

Springfield leads the best-of-seven series 3-2 and wins the Americans became the first team ever to come back from a 0-3 deficit to beat Cleveland Barons in the semi-finals, history in against them.

In the 23 previous title series, the regular-season champion has taken the cup 16 times. Though Springfield has made the playoffs for the 12th time, it never has gone all the way.

Springfield has defeated Rochester 3-2 three times and lost 7-6 on its last goals, the Dineen-Cline-MacDonald line scored six.

Rochester has never been able to beat the Indians at Springfield all in seven playoff games.

Yard Probes Doping Plot

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland Yard Thursday night was reported to be investigating a sensational race-horse doping plot involving some of the country's internationally-known trainers.

Detectives were reported to have found hidden phials of cocaine for horse dope in the bedroom of a 66-year-old former trainer they discovered shot to death in his cottage Wednesday.

Experts said racehorses from some of the top stables in Britain have been doped to provide lucrative betting payoffs for gamblers for several years.

Police questioned the former stable boy, Bertie Rogers, Tuesday. One witness said Rogers was "very distressed." Nine hours later he was found dead. A shotgun was beside his body.

New League Gets Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Minor League president George M. Trautman approved Thursday the formation of a Western eight-club class D league and thus cleared a path for the new Continental League to operate its first week ing agreement arrangements with another circuit.

Trautman's approval came as a surprise since only last month he had said Commissioner Ford C. Frick refused to lend recognition to the new league or its plans, desire to form an allowance with the 10-club Class C league.

Frick explained that the new league had not received approval from Organized baseball. The Continental League had not met all major league requirements to receive recognition from organized baseball.

Mouth Shut From Now on Says Snead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Sam Snead, who put himself in a verbal doghouse at the close of the Greater Greensboro open golf tournament, chipped out Thursday.

The slammer, who got into hot water for what he admitted blowing a televised match so the camera could keep grinding on him the long Sunday stint he commented on the "lousy" condition of the Fairmount Country Club course where the Greensboro is played.

"I have learned a lesson," Sam said at his home in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Thursday. "I got my masters degree in public relations. From now on I'm going to keep my . . . mouth shut."

Snead won the Greensboro for the seventh time Sunday, accepted the winner's cheque and then suggested the condition of the course was "lousy."

Tuesday he retracted back the remark as good-natured chiding, Edward B. Benjamin, president of the Greensboro Kiwanis Club, which owns the club, was assured.

"If for one would be happy if Snead did his golfing elsewhere," Benjamin said when I said what I did. If what I said creates something good, then I'm glad I did it, I'm sorry.

"I'm not even sore at him (Benjamin). I don't even know Mr. Benjamin but I understand he is a nice fellow."

Beats Husband To Death With Large Hammer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A mimeille company executive was bludgeoned to death in cffah at he slept Thursday after a bitter argument with his wife over whether she had been raped, or unfaithful, police said.

Dead is William Howard Taft, 49, an aerial-General Corporation executive and distant relative of the one-time U.S. president of the same name.

In critical condition from a massive dose of tranquillizers and loss of blood was his wife, Marsha Ann, 35. Police said she slashed her wrists with a kitchen knife after killing Taft.

A note apparently left by Mrs. Taft told how she had been "attacked" and had feared she was "pregnant, or worse." Police said the note indicated she had been to a doctor and was told she was not pregnant.

The couple quarreling bitterly Wednesday night with Taft accusing her of having been unfaithful, the note recounted. Police said there were bruises on Mrs. Taft which could have come from a beating.

After they retired, the note said, she arose in the middle of the night, got a hammer and beat Taft to death.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Saturday, April 23

General tendencies: The daytime this Saturday finds you with many interesting new ideas that you can put across with the assistance of those in positions of power and authority. However, the evening is apt to find considerable delays in effect that can take from your well-being, especially if you allow a depressive atmosphere to get the better of you. Keep smiling, cheerful.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You can be, and should be very active in whatever is modern and up-to-date today. Advance in your career along these lines. P. M. take no chances with your good name. See to it that nobody sullies the reputation you have carefully built up.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Do not deviate from that which is good and proper. Also, take the advice of a higher - up who knows what he, or she is talking about, and is cognizant of your true state of affairs. New acquaintances may steer you in the wrong direction.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Associates and comrades are in the mood to back you today. Have quiet discussions. Avoid that authority who may have ulterior motives. Be sure you rest this evening and build up your tingling energies.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Instead of endeavoring to force an associate to go somewhere with you, stick to any labors that need to be handled at home. However, if later he, or she, willingly accompanies you, much can be accomplished, as you have planned.

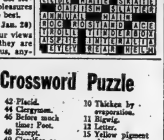
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A really good time can be yours today. If you go along with friends or close ties to some active sport. Endeavoring to take too much upon yourself, instead, will only lead to confusion and depression. Have fun, play.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Increase harmony and success at home by being vitally interested in the plans of close ties and pitching in with chores about the house. Indulging in new expensive pleasures this evening would be very disappointing, useless.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — A good day to shop, to get motor car cleaned and repaired, and to talk shop with friends. Listen to their viewpoints. Don't stay at home and attempt to change anything in his realm.

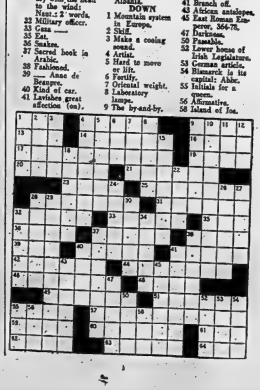
Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — A very good day to make repairs to property as well as set up a good budget for future needs. Endeavor to establish more harmonious relations with others, too. Not a good day for travel, since there could be delay or danger.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Follow that inclination to enjoy sport, recreation or to make others aware of your particular talents. However, be economical in all that you do. Remember that simple pleasures and honest approach are best.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Don't try to force your views on others today, since they are apt to be quite erroneous, anyway. Your best bet is to confer with that wise and experienced adviser who will give you very fine ideas for future use.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day for mingling with comrades or taking trips that please. However, be sure you don't indulge in self-pity and waste the day moping or getting nothing accomplished whatsoever. Go, man — go!



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Give your civic duties enthusiastic consideration today, then perform them with alacrity. But be very sure you do not permit a depressive pal to slow you down or throw cold water on your projects. Retain that bright outlook.

If your child is born today — The delightful child born today should never be asked to be confined to one task for any great length of time. Variety and change are best for this sunny nature. So, be sure you give a good education in foreign languages to satisfy the urge to travel in adult life, too. There will be very little patience with dull, unimaginative people. Afford a fine background for your youngster.

Nothing is "good" which empties a man's life, and brings him down to his end in shame and dishonor!

Then there was the hatred which one carried down to his grave—a hatred for one person which gradually expanded until it took in all mankind, leaving him utterly friendless. "I am a hard man", he said to a reporter. "I lived". And he died, complete and alone.

HUNGRY TO DEATH

There lived in our town an elderly man, past eighty, who was one of the best patrons of the library in all the city. He never missed a symphony concert, he attended every notable lecture, he campaigned for every forward-looking cause, and he sat in his pew at church every Sunday morning.

"I have the greatest year's work laid out for myself that I have ever undertaken", he said to the editor of our leading newspaper, when he neared ninety. "I want to do something worth while before I die". And on the occasion of his funeral a few months later his pastor said, "He lived the richest life of any man in our community".

But his life he had hungered after righteousness, and Jesus would have called him an exceedingly fortunate man.

Sunday School Lesson

Hungry for Righteousness

By ROY L. SMITH

Some hungers have the effect of filling our lives, and others have the effect of emptying them, and he is the wise man who knows the difference and makes the rewarding choices.

It is not usually true that we consider the hungry people the lucky ones although there are those occasional strickens ones in a hospital who are grateful for a good deal if they could expect ever a lively hunger.

It is estimated that there are in the world today no less than 43,000,000 displaced persons, the majority of whom go to bed hungry every night.

Then there are those hundreds of millions of people in the Far and the Near East who have the habit of going to bed with their hunger satisfied. In view of the appalling proportions of the problem of feeding the world, it sounds strange to hear anyone say that he is hungry and lucky.

WANT RIGHTEOUSNESS

To many people there is something repulsive about the word "righteousness". It sounds like sweet, sentimental, professionally pious. It is not good.

In its original form, however, the Greek word which has been translated "righteousness" meant something like "common decency, goodness and honor".

Jesus said, on one occasion, that those people who were driven by some unseen force by inner hunger to be decent, good, and honorable, were the really fortunate folk of this world.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 24: "Hunger For Righteousness". Matt. 5:6-7, 13-16; 6:24-34; 16:24-26.

There is a dire need in this world today for people who are upended upon—people who will be there when they promise to be people who will do the work they promise to do, people who will keep their word, who hold on to their friends, who keep out of the courts, and who find themselves flocking to their support when they are in especial need of help.

SOME EMPTY LIFE

There are, on the other hand, many people whose whole lives have the fatal effect of emptying out life.

Nothing does it as fast does. Almost every day the papers tell the story of some libertine who has come to the end of the road, and it is not a pretty ending.

Jesus said that a few tragic cases of people whose lives have been completely emptied by the mere love of money. A long ago there was an interview with a man who had run through with more than $3,000,000 dollars. He had spent it, he said, on the "good things of life"—liquor, big cars, fancy food, and expensive women.

Nothing is "good" which empties a man's life, and brings him down to his end in shame and dishonor!

Then there was the hatred which one carried down to his grave—a hatred for one person which gradually expanded until it took in all mankind, leaving him utterly friendless. "I am a hard man", he said to a reporter. "I lived". And he died, complete and alone.

14 Members Of One Family Will Migrate

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's secluterating population will get a shot in the arm Tuesday, May 3, with the arrival at Montreal of the largest family to migrate to Canada in recent years.

Fourteen members of the Szeek family—from Szbekarzagy, Friedland, in northern Holland — will step from a Royal Dutch (KLM) airliner to join a 13th member already in Canada.

Josannes Szeek, a farmer, his wife, Neelije, and their seven sons and five daughters, are being sponsored by the family's eighth son, Jacobus, of St. Catharines. Jacobus has been in Canada since March, 1955, and now is employed as a machine operator by W.S. Tyler and Company Limited.

The 13 members of this family hop by two by the family of Johannes and Lenzbernina Mezenberg, who arrived as immigrants from Holland earlier this month. The 13 Mezenbergs are now living in the Chatham district.

Both Mr. Szeek and Mr. Mezenberg are successful farmers and hope to buy or rent farms in Ontario. Most members of the two families—both boys and girls—are experienced farm workers.

Mr. Szeek farmed in the West Friesland area for 25 years. He is bringing $5,000 with him to Canada, the proceeds from the sale of his machinery and stock.

Tyranny Concern Of All Mankind - - Diefenbaker

Twice Attacks Racists In Speeches in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who has built a reputation in Canada as a champion of human rights, has come out with two impromptu attacks against racial discrimination in the visit to the capital of Mexico.

The Canadian leader twice departed from prepared texts at public functions Friday to speak out strongly against such discrimination. He named no countries but observers here generally considered his remarks referred to the South African situation, at least in part.

In an address to Mexico's law fraternity, he said one of the major reasons for the march of communism is the failure part of the world is racial discrimination.

"We cannot afford to have inequality according to race or color," he said. "Racial equality is the abiding principle of human rights."

Earlier, at the University of Mexico, he said:

"Wherever human freedoms are interfered with or denied or are accompanied by tyranny, it becomes a matter not only for the nation but for all mankind."

He cited the South African government's apartheid (racial segregation) policy as "nothing short of bloodshed in that country. Mr. Diefenbaker has carefully refrained from saying anything that would impair relations with any of the Commonwealth countries. He has reiterated his long-standing opposition to racial discrimination, though.

But Friday's statements were the strongest he has made for some time.

Today the last full day of his Mexican visit, the prime minister goes sight-seeing, witnesses a bullfight and has a state dinner especially for him and holds a press conference.

The press conference may bring some definition of what was accomplished in his talks here with President Lopez Mateos and Foreign Minister Tello.

One thing already is definite. Mr. Diefenbaker has now paid the president to Ottawa last October, have brought the two countries closer together.

Both the president and the prime minister have spoken every advantage to stress this.

At a state dinner tendered by the president Friday night, Mr. Diefenbaker told the Mexican leader that Canada does not only like neighbours but also friendly neighbours.

For his part, President Lopez Mateos said that the visit has done much more on his Ottawa visit was the simplicity in the warm and cordial welcome with which the Canadian government and people had received him.

Rebrin Victim Of Injustice Says Counsel

Blames Department For Innuendos

VANCOUVER (CP) — Irene Rebrin's lawyer claimed Friday she has been the victim of injustice and minister innuendo. He said Immigration Minister Fairclough and certain Justice department officials are to blame.

Dr. M. A. Shumiatcher, 42, prominent civil rights lawyer from Regina, made the charges as Mrs. Rebrin's case in Supreme Court as he sought court orders releasing her from immigration department custody and bringing deportation order against her under judicial review.

Miss Rebrin, attractive blonde lecturer in Slavonic studies at the University of B.C., was ordered deported Jan. 22, 1958, because she did not meet requirements for permanent residence in Canada. Her appeal against the order was dismissed this year.

Mrs. Fairclough and Prime Minister Diefenbaker recently told the House of Commons there are security reasons for the deportation. They said the pertinent classified files exist.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris adjourned Miss Rebrin's application for writs of habeas corpus and certiorari until Monday. Shumiatcher will continue his submission before the immigration department appeal board in Harvey J. Grey, regina.

Mr. Justice Norris also expected to rule on a request by Miss Rebrin's counsel for production of certain classified documents referred to by Mrs. Fairclough. The minister has objected to the effect that they are privileged by law from being disclosed.

"It may be impossible to disclose all the files," Dr. Shumiatcher told the court Friday, "but I am entitled to a man in this country is to be charged—directly or indirectly—with offences or misconduct of the most serious character, then that person has a right to answer."

"Where there are suggestions and innuendoes against a person there is a denial of natural justice."

He said there had been no true reasons given for the deportation order, and no basis in fact for statements which seek to raise sinister implications.

Rhee Gives Up Ruling Powers, Disbands Party

Caretaker Cabinet To Be Formed Soon

SEOUL (Reuters) — Syngman Rhee ended his 12-year iron rule of South Korea today as he gave up his presidential powers and planned to disband his ruling Liberal party.

The 85-year-old Rhee, bowing to rioting countrymen and strong United States pressure, will remain president in name only to become symbolic head of state.

Party-elected Vice - President Lee Ki Poong—who also left office — announced Rhee's resignation after a three-hour meeting. A caretaker cabinet, consisting of conservative members headed by a premier, will be formed shortly to run the country, Lee said.

RHEE VISITS WOUNDED

Rhee ventured outside his presidential palace today for the first time since April 19 to visit students wounded in violent rioting against his government.

His bullet - proof Cadillac was surrounded by police vehicles and crowds, normally restricted to the area, started shuffling as he passed.

After Rhee's stepdown, it was announced that he will disband his ruling Liberal party. Deputy Liberal Party Chairman Yi Jai Pak said this would pave the way for formation of a unified conservative party.

Rhee, as head of state, will have no political activities. Former premier Pyun Yung Tai said he was willing to form a cabinet but will probably announce his moves in a public statement tomorrow.

RIOT DEATH 100

More than 100 students have died since this week in violent rioting across South Korea to protest the March 15 elections which returned Rhee to a fourth term as president and elected Lee as vice-president.

The opposition Democratic party charged the ruling students protested that the elections were rigged. The disturbances touched off a state of martial law to five cities.

Lee, who ran as Rhee's handpicked candidate, said he was giving up office because his "system of government system with a prime minister and cabinet responsible post unnecessary.

WANT RHEE RIGHT OUT

The opposition Democratic party has demanded that Rhee not even hold office as the symbolic head of state.

Opposition leader John M. Chang refused to take the office as vice-president, also resigned today because he wished "to have nothing to do with the Rhee administration." He accused Rhee's police of brutalities police brutality.

Seoul's downfall was brought about by a combination of events starting with widespread rioting after the election.

Strong American pressure came to bear when the U.S. expressed concern at the use of "repressive measures unsuited to a free democracy" to deal with the riots. It said the rioters had "justifiable grievances."

Rhee's cabinet and the central committee of the Liberal party resigned two days ago following violent riots in major cities of the country.

Today, tanks and barbed wire barricades ringed Rhee's residence, a local point for some of the riots. Soldiers were also checked carefully going in and out.

52 REEN CHARGED

Seoul Martial Law Commander Lt.-Gen. Song Yo Chan announced that 43 demonstrators from the Rhee party have been officially arrest charged with destroying government property.

Bank Managers Identify Bonds Shown in Court

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Three bank managers identified stolen bonds and securities produced in court Friday at the preliminary hearing of John Clarence Hance and John Sheldrick, both of London, Ont., charged with possession of $20,000 worth of stolen bonds.

They were committed for trial later. Bail was set at $15,000 each plus $10,000 security.

Laing McDowell, manager of the St. Thomas branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, said Hance came to the bank Feb. 26 and asked him to negotiate $20,000 worth of bonds and securities.

On checking the serial numbers, Mr. McDowell said he found them identical to numbers on bonds and securities stolen in three bank robberies in 1958.

Det. Sgt. George Reid said Hance told him he won the bonds at a crap game.

Gordon McDonald of the Brockville Trust and Savings Company identified 18 securities worth $9,250 as part of a $2,500,000 haul taken from the Brockville vault in May, 1958.

Marcel Chaurette of the Banque Canadien Nationale of Merryville, Que., identified $6,300 worth of bonds, part of $407,000 taken from the Merryville vault in June, 1958.

Isadore Caloiere, formerly with the Cote de Neige branch of the Banque Canadien Nationale in Montreal, identified $4,000 worth of bonds taken in a holdup there July 10, 1958.

Steelworkers Throw Weight Behind New Political Party

MONTREAL (CP)—The 80,000-member Canadian wing of the United Steelworkers of America Friday threw its hefty weight behind a move to form a new left-wing political party in Canada—even though the union's international president warned against it.

Unanimously, some 300 delegates to the Steelworkers' policy conference here endorsed a resolution urging all local unions to set up political action committees to "foster understanding and support of the new political party."

They voted after several union members publicly insisted their international president, David J. McDonald, for criticizing the idea of labor getting directly involved in politics—a move which will come up next week at the annual AFL-CIO labor Congress convention here.

Said Mr. McDonald at a press conference:

"I have never believed in the idea of having a party which is a so-called labor party. I've seen some unfortunate things, even in the United States where people—labor leaders—get too completely involved with a political party and as a result they found themselves victims of the political party as such."

Mr. McDonald should keep his nose out of our business," protested Russell Jones, a Hamilton steelworker delegate.

Another Hamilton Steelworker, Art Laverty, said the statement by the international officer won't do any good — that Canadian political action is "none of his business."

Ray Steelworker officer, Larry Sefton of Toronto, staved off further criticism of the outspoken remarks of Mr. McDonald by telling the delegates it is "quite possible" to hold different views in the United States than in Canada.

"I don't think there's any basic difference of opinion," he said.

The move into direct political action through a Labor-CCF-farm alliance—long advocated by the 80,000-member Steelworker Union in Canada—is one of the major issues to be considered by the 1,300 delegates at next week's CLC gathering.

At the wind-up session of the two-day Steelworker conference, policies and practices for the next year were drafted and approved —ranging from a demand for federal investigation of drug prices to a scathing denunciation of South Africa's racial policies.

The delegates approved an emergency resolution condemning South Africa's apartheid practices and calling on the Canadian government to set up a boycott of South African goods sent to Canada.

They also urged Prime Minister Diefenbaker to advocate South African withdrawal from the Commonwealth when he goes to the forthcoming prime ministers conference in London.

Once again, the union delegates left party with United States Steelworkers as their minimum target in wage negotiations.

Think de Gaulle To Explain Aims At Press Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle is expected to explain his presence in Berlin today his aims for the forth-coming East-West summit meeting in Paris.

The 69-year-old French leader, who holds talks with U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower, has an opportunity particularly to explain his role in the summit discussion of the Berlin dispute with Russia.

In Canada earlier this week, de Gaulle expressed confidence Berlin from the summit program in the hope of concentrating on negotiations for a lasting easing of tensions between the West powers and Russia.

President Eisenhower, by contrast, feels a conference should center on Berlin with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Largest Tanker Ever Built in Canada Launched

LAUZON, Que. (CP) — The tanker Emeriton, largest ship ever built in Canada, was launched Friday from the yards of David Comeau Construction in this town across the St. Lawrence from Quebec City.

The 710-foot vessel — 41,000 tons deadweight — was built by P. B. Papachristidis, Montreal shipowner. It will be leased to the Shell Oil Company on a long-term basis.

At a dinner marking the launching, Mr. Papachristidis said the vessel which will carry more than 41,000,000 cubic feet of its type constructed in Canada unless the Canadian merchant marine receives subsidies from the federal government, both for building and operating merchant ships.

He said the industries can build such a ship for about half the cost that materials and labor are cheaper.

Castro Charges Herter, Eisenhower Try to Form Fifth Column in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro charged today the United States today of trying to set up a "fifth column" in Cuba aimed at creating a revolt against his revolutionary government.

He referred to recent remarks by U.S. President Eisenhower and State Secretary Christian A. Herter were part of a "well prepared and premeditated plan" to create an internal front.

In a 3½-hour television speech broadcast after midnight Friday night, Castro declared that statements by Eisenhower and Herter were "all part of a preconceived intent to create a fifth column to encourage a counter-revolutionary struggle against the Cuban revolutionary government.

He also accused the U.S. of trying to impose some sort of action within the Organization of American States against Cuba.

Hydro Still Has Not Full Title to Land Commission Told

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission still does not have title to all the land needed to build a project on the Nipigon River, even after spending $1,250,000 for 1,854 acres of former Indian reserve land at Sarnia.

Harry Hustler, director of Hydro's property division, told a royal commission hearing that Fellend Adams, chief of the band, still owned 2 acres not deeded to the commission.

Dimensional Investments Limited, which purchased 2,100 acres in the Nipigon area for sale to Hydro; has an agreement with Chief Adams that it will exercise a 30-day option on the 2 acres it must buy all the chief's land on the reserve.

The small piece of land cuts the right-of-way for a lower line, chased by Hydro for a tower line.

Mr. Hustler said Hydro did not propose to build the line for at least five years. If Dimensional Investments fails to exercise its option on the land by March 31, 1961, all unsold land reverts to the Crown and Hydro may seek power from the federal Indian affairs branch to expropriate the land.

Testifying before the commission, Toronto real estate promoter William G. Clark said he gave the Chippewa Indians a choice of selling 3,100 acres of land or losing their interests of 1764 acres to Hydro.

He said he told the five-man

Ambulance attendants and workers are seen carrying Delbert Storey,, 22, to a waiting ambulance following his fall while working on the new Victoria and Grey Trust building at the corner of Front and McAnnany Streets this morning.

Worker Plunges 36 Feet, Suffers Severe Back Injuries

A construction worker was rushed to hospital at 10.30 this morning after falling 36 feet from the third floor of the new Victoria and Grey Trust Company building, Front Street.

Delbert Storey, 22, of Aurora, Ont., suddenly toppled from the steel structure falling 36 feet and landing on ribbed steel floor reinforcements twelve feet in from the Front Street wall.

The extent of his injuries were not known at this writing. Storey was conscious when he was taken to hospital by Bush's ambulance. Hospital officials later stated the man was suffering from severe back injuries and shock.

The injured man was assisting in the placement of a 900-pound pre-cbric slab, used to reinforce flooring when the accident happened.

The heavy slab also tcrashed to the floor. Fortunately Storey landed clear of the heavy piece of material landing some 15 feet away from the spot where'it fell. A fellow worker with Storey was uninjured.

HAPPENED QUICKLY

"It happenog so fast I could not see what occured," said Bob Patchell, also of Aurora, who was assisting Storey with the slab.

The men were using a tipbuggy piece of construction equipment which swings the slabs into place.

"We had not quite got to the end of the girder where we were going to place the slab when the rope must have lost his grip on the buggy," Patchell said.

"I was watching from the other end of the slab, but was not looking at Storey. When I looked up I saw something to him he was gone."

Apparently it happened so quickly no one saw Storey fall. It is believed he crashed directly through the two floors beneath him.

Patchell said he knew of no reason why Storey should fall. He appeared to be in good spirits this morning.

The injured man is married and is the father of one child.

Holdup Attempt Foiled by Store Proprietor

PICTON (Special) — An attempted armed robbery of Gentile's Supermarket by a lone gunman failed Friday night when calibre rifle and a paper bag over his head at about 9:15 p.m. Friday was foiled by the proprietor of the store, Sam Gentile, who refused to hand over the bags of money in the safe thinking that an employee was pulling a practical joke on him.

The attempt, however, was for real.

The gunman was first noticed by customers in the store parking lot when he emerged from the shadows of adjoining Bernson Park and crossed the store, waving his weapon. He gained entry at the locked delivery door which was opened by a girl employee who thought it was Ray Renaud, the delivery man, whose arrival was expected.

The man brushed past the girl, and, entering the main part of the store, where several customers were busy, and went up the steps leading to the office as Sam Gentile had just finished locking the bags, containing the day's receipts, into the safe.

"Leave the safe open and give me the bags of money," the man said.

Mr. Gentile, whose staff had been warned of the possibility of three known criminals being in the area, at first assumed it was an employee talking to him, and replied, "Oh is that so!" scarcely glancing at the man.

The robber was just repeating his demand when Mr. Renaud, the delivery man, brushed past him and entered the office. The man then fled the same way he entered.

He was chased a short way by a store employee who was unable to catch him. Later police found the paper bag with eye slits cut in it in the park.

A description of a possible suspect was given by people who observed a youth dressed in a brown trench coat and carrying a shoe box watching the store from a restaurant across the street. The man was described as being about five feet 10 inches tall, with reddish-blonde hair and apparently in his teens.

On his return to civil following the war he was employed by the late Cecil Holway on Dundas Street. In both positions he made many friends by his kindly manner and efficient service.

Mr. Ketcheson was active and prominent in Masonic circles in this city. He was one of the original and charter members who formed and helped open the Shrine Club in this city. He was a Past Master of Moira Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 31, a member of Moira Chapter No. 7 R.A.M., a Preceptory No. 6 and a member Past Preceptor of King Baldwin of Hannenes Shrine in Toronto. Imaginative and modernistic appearance of new Moira Secondary School is seen in above frontal view. Architects for the school which has 21 academic classrooms and six shop rooms, along with "symtorium" and administrative officers, were the firm of Barnett and Rieder, with Fidelity Construction Company of Oshawa the general contractors. Contract price was $1,088,000.

Although official opening was during the Easter holiday, students at Moira Secondary School helped make the ceremonies a success. Boys assisted in parking cars and girls acted as ushers and served refreshments. Seen preparing sandwiches in the school cafeteria are George Anne McBrien, Mary Lu Toma, Lynn Stanafield and Elizabeth Corke. To compensate for students' loss of a day of vacation, Premier Frost said next Friday would be a holiday at the school.

Well over 500 educational and municipal officials, political dignitaries, parents and students attended the official opening Friday of Moira Secondary School in the east end of the city. Seen above is the crowded "gymtorium" with platform guests, as high school board chairman A. O. Drysdale welcomes visitors. On hand at the school opening to greet Premier and Mrs. Frost were their niece, Mrs. Robert Farquharson Jr., of Corbyville and her two children, Sally and John (inset). Now in public school, Sally Farquharson in a year or so will be a student at Moira.

Education Most Important, Pressing Problem Says Frost In Opening Moira School

Education is Ontario's "most important and pressing problem," Premier Frost said Friday when he officially opened the new million-dollar Moira Secondary School on Farley Avenue.

He told a crowd of more than 500 people that increases in provincial financial assistance during the past 15 years "should have met the educational requirements, but they did not. Our school grants simply have not been sufficient." But he said the government will continue to make improvements in its grants system.

The fundamental objective of Canadians "must be to provide the best possible education for our children," and he looked forward to a national stock-taking this year at a federal-provincial conference.

In the past 15 years the government has "doubled, redoubled and redoubled again" the legislative grants for education. In 1944 the government's grant for education was $8 million. This year it was $170 million "and we still haven't solved anything."

"After many years of experience, I can't say to the municipalities that there is any cure for these problems," he said.

"I have come to the conclusion that nothing, really, is ever solved.

"Canada is half a continent in a hungry and troubled world. We can't afford to sit on our heritage. We must expand. Expansion is the greatest opportunity that has ever been given to men and women."

While secondary schooling in Ontario has not become compulsory over the age of 18 years, Premier Frost believed "it has become as necessary as elementary education."

TERRIFIC COST

Since 1945 the Ontario government has provided 750,000 pupil places at a cost of $650 million.

"In 1944 it was predicted that Ontario's population in 1960 would be 4½ Million," he said. "But now the province has topped six million. The addition of some 70,000 new children to our schools each year is the story of Ontario."

He said the high cost of education was attached to the birth rate and the number of persons under the age of 15 years who make up one third of Canada's population.

"In the 1930s our Canadian birth rate was 17 per 1,000 of population," he said. "Now it is 27 per 1,000."

Another factor in the "butdening cost" of education was the improvement in teaching methods and teachers' status.

"Our teachers today have reached a new standing in the community and their salaries have been increased decently. We have brought a degree of educational opportunity to this province such as never before was thought possible."

Premier Frost said he was pleased to attend the opening ceremonies because he had served overseas in the First World War with the father of school principal Jim Musgrove. In addition, Belleville was among the communities located in the birthplace of Ontario.

The premier drew a round of applause when he said he had spoken to high school board members and the principal who agreed that it was in order to announce a holiday for the students next Friday.

"I can't very well give you a holiday today, because you are already on holidays," he chuckled. "But Mr. Musgrove and members of the board said it would be all right for me to give you a week from today off in recognition of this official opening."

Before the premier's address, the Rev. Harry Davis, minister of Bridge Street United Church, dedicated the school in prayer as a "brook of higher learning."

Alderman George Wishart, representing Mayor Haig, made presentations to retiring board members Mrs. R. Morden, Miss Josephine Tickell, G. A. Bradford and Arthur Ragland.

Dr. C. C. Sexton, chairman of the sites and accommodation committee, predicted that by 1965 the board "will probably have to start making plans to provide further accommodation."

Federation Lifts Pink Listing of High School

TRENTON — The pink listing of Trenton High School has been lifted.

In an eight-page telegram to the Trenton Board of Education, education minister John P. Robarts said that in reply to a telephone conversation with members of the board on April 12, asking that the department intervene in the dispute between members of the board and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, and also as the result of a telegram from a number of Trenton citizens who stated that they were justly concerned about the dispute and the effect it would have on secondary education in the town, he had consulted with the executive of the federation, the Ontario Secondary School Trustees' Council and the Trenton Board of Education, and that while the department had no authority to interfere between the board and the federation, he had made proposals to all bodies and that these had met with unanimous approval.

The minister said the department proposed to appoint a consultant-adviser who would attend all board meetings and some committee meetings.

In accordance with proposal made earlier by the Trenton board, the minister said he was in agreement with the stipulation that all elected members of the board whose terms would ordinarily run into 1961, would resign prior to the December, 1960, elections, thus making possible the election of a full board. Any elected member may run again for re-election.

Mr. Robarts said the adviser would counsel the board in respect to all matters pertaining to the welfare of high school students and the staff and would advise the board concerning establishment of proper procedures in order that areas of responsibility would be clearly defined.

Machinery shall be set up for amiable settlement of disputes and differences between staff and the board and the settlements of board policy will be drawn up and implemented for efficient operation of the board's business.

The department's representative will be available at all times to meet with the board or members of the teaching staff.

The minister said members of the board had agreed in principle to the stipulations set out in the proposed agreement.

He further stated that the executive of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation had assured him that the proposals were agreeable and that it would now be able to offer to secondary school teachers in Trenton the protection and assistance they might normally expect.

Mr. Robarts said he felt the acceptance of his proposals by the board and the federation would establish and maintain good faith between the board and the teaching staff and that the arrangements outlined by the agreement would permit the present board to carry out its proper functions until the end of 1960, and to make necessary arrangements for the staffing of the secondary school for the fall term.

He said that the primary concern of the Department of Education was to establish good faith and confidence between the Board of Education and the staff of the school.

Following receipt of the telegram, V. P. Carswell, secretary of the board, received a telephone call from the minister informing him that R. Stewart, assistant superintendent of secondary education for Ontario, had been appointed to attend all meetings of the Trenton Board of Education.

G.B.S. Robinson, secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation stated that to his knowledge this was the first time in the history of the province that a departmental official had been appointed to sit in on board of education meetings.

New Classroom Opens Monday For Children

TRENTON — Children who attend the Trenton and District School for Retarded Children will move into their new classroom in North Trenton Public School on Monday.

Since the start of the school year last September, the class has been held in a basement classroom donated by St. Peter's School. At that time there were eight children in the class. Now there are 13 children and the larger quarters will be welcomed by the teacher, John Wauters, and his assistant, Mrs. E. Campbell.

The children will also have part of the playground for their use. The larger quarters were secured through the efforts of the educational advisory committee of the Board of Education.

At Friday night's executive meeting of the association, it was announced that John D. Turner will replace Mrs. E. Bonter as president. Mrs. Bonter was named 2nd. vice-president.

Mrs. D. Scott, education chairman, said applications from parents wishing to enroll children in the Fall class now should be submitted. Interested parents may contact the teacher, John Wauters, at EX 2-9479 or Mrs. Scott at EX 2-9696.

The association will hold a tag day to raise money for the school on the evening of May 13 and the morning of May 14. Volunteer helpers are needed. Volunteers are asked to telephone Mrs. K. Roulston at EX 2-4865.

Changed Tune

We see The Detroit Times has published a front-age editorial denouncing Canadians for indulging in stupidity" and "usury" because we have been discount-g the American dollar. To quote the worthy paper entioned . . . "We have endured their discounting our urrency for a long time . . . it carries an arrogant pplication that our money is second-class money.

Well as Jack Benny would say, "Well!" or, perhaps Vell?"

Might we address the editorial staff of The Detroit imes and remind them it was about a decade ago hat a Canadian dollar was worth only 90 cents in the nited States, "not merely 92 cents" which they cur-ously find to be so "arrogant" when applied to the U.S. ollar. This was also a period when Canadian money as considered to be funny money by a lot of Americans nd we can vouch for the fact that Americans lost ittle opportunity to gripe at being given Canadian oney in payment for goods or services and, in many ases, refused to even accept it.

Yes, editors of "The Times," we know how you ust feel. We experienced the same sort of treatment nder you for many years but we saw no editorials on our part decrying Americans for being "arrogant." ow, however, events have changed things and the verse situation has occurred.

It is interesting, however, that Canadians are not directly responsible for the setting of the exchange ate on the American dollar. This exchange rate is etermined by the fluctuation of the open market. s just so happens that the Canadian dollar is worth ore on the open market. It will buy more Swiss ancs than will an American dollar. It will also buy ore Japanese yen than will the American dollar.

As far as Canadians are concerned we really have othing to do with this other than a few years ago we decided to break away from an arbitrary system of foreign exchange control in which the Canadian dollar was worth 90 cents American. Prior to this me, however, we never, to the best of our knowledge, ad front page editorials accusing your people of oking upon us "as second-class neighbors" such as ou would imply we are doing now. We simply ccepted the fact that Canada was not in a position o buy as much on the open market as was the American ollar.

Now that the buck is in the other pocket, so to peak, we are quite amazed at this outburst from your eminent newspaper, especially when it is located in a large border city which, incidentally, has earned much money from its Canadian customers, even when their oney was only worth 90 cents.

We never begrudged you your prosperity . . . why o you ours?

We notice that you are urging your people to tay within the United States when they go vacation-ing. This sort of reminds us of the old cry of "America irst" which we thought had been relegated to the imbo of the archives of your history where it and he attitude it represented might be happily forgotten.

Putting all that aside though, we might say that you hat we have forgiven you your discounting us over he past years although we might say that we never hought for one minute that you might have been onsidering us as second-class neighbors at the same ime.

CNR May Lose Its President

The Ottawa Citizen reports that Donald Gordon president of the CNR, is being mentioned as a possible uccessor to the late James Muir as president and chair-nan of the Royal Bank.

The Royal Bank is a great financial institution. till, we cannot escape the conviction that the job of unning one of the nation's two great railway systems s more important and more difficult by far than the eading of any bank.

If Mr. Gordon is being mentioned as a possible successor, we presume this means that his alary as president of the Bank would be higher than his salary as president of the CNR. Even though the CNR is publicly-owned, it does seem that there is omething wrong with such a situation.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRIBULATION IS DIFFERENT

Jesus declared to his disciples: "In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world" (John 16:33).

The word "tribulation" comes from the Latin word "tribulum" which means a threshing sledge. With the sledge, the ancients of Armeea beat the heads of the grain, separating the chaff from the wheat. Tribulum, therefore, is a type of trouble designed to separate the chaff from the wheat in our lives. It comes soon as not to punish us but to enable us to achieve.

We all look back upon some disappointment, some pain, some social, some mistake or failure from which we learned great lessons. Sorrow when rightly accepted often bear immeasurable gifts of grace and power. There is nothing more exciting than the steady progress of temptation upon our flesh with Wife. We find ourselves wanting to do with ourselves something entirely contrary to what we know we should not do. And so often temptation seeks us out when we are weak and seems to set stronger persons alone. Yet this is tribulation. It is the way by which God separates the chaff from the wheat.

If we really have souls, if we possess spiritual aspiration, if we open our hearts to the grace of God, then pain, suffering, sorrow, and denial become not just goals troubles but tribulation — a process which separates in our lives the things of eternal value from the chaff "which the wind driveth away."

Historic Hastings

More Indian Fallacies

(Article 116 in the series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society.)

The two recent articles dealing with the Indians have caused considerable comment. Based on T. F. McIlwraith's talk before the annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society, they have shattered some commonly held beliefs concerning the Indians, their origin, culture and life.

This discussion is a good sign. It points up an increasing interest in the matters of historical significance.

To round out the series on "Indian Fallacies" there are a few additional thoughts.

For one thing, Prof. McIlwraith declared the "Indians" should not be regarded as a lazy people. Any one who has tried to construct a canoe using only crude stone tools can attest to that fact. Further, it takes hard labor to bend workers in order to survive.

The task of survival was made somewhat easier by the arrival of the white man's tools and implements, guns, etc. The "Indians" were anxious to obtain these goods, and accordingly they trapped and traded furs. There was a demand in Europe for these furs for clothing because of their warmth and attractiveness.

Moreover, in speaking of the "Indians" one should be more specific. Whereas in Europe there were only three main integrated families (Indo-European, Basque, and Ugrian), there were no less than fifty-four distinct families in North America. Each of these differed as Englishman is from Chinese, and were broken down into several hundred tribal units.

The white man owes the "Indians" a real debt. The use of our vegetables (including potatoes) came from them. The organization of the United States of America from a collection of small former British colonies was partly due to the origins of the Iroquois Confederacy, who believed that a confederacy such as their ancient one would prevent many disputes and wars.

Moreover, many of the "Indian" tribes found wars and killing extremely distasteful and when by necessity they had to fight, they were willing to wound, and not kill the enemy. In some tribes, severe disciplinary justification rights were prescribed for those warriors who had killed an enemy. Understandably the white man with his modern day attitude of war and destruction did not always fight on this principle.

Finally, many of our common names come from the "Indians." Even the word laughing words as Ontario, Ottawa and Canada.

Listening In On Bee Hive

BEE-Leaders Letter

To the layman the noise made by a honey bee is little more than a monotonously drowsy sound on a summer afternoon. The bee-keeper, of course, knows that this domesticated insect makes many distinct noises, and each has a special significance. Some interesting experiments in "language" recorded inside the hive, have been made by the Bee Research Overseas Service program, "Science and Industry" by E. T. Woods of the Belleville Apiary division, who has recently been appointed a fellow of the Royal Entomological Society.

As a result of his years research Mr. Woods has now invented and patented an instrument and application which enables the bee-keeper to detect the bees — inaudible to the unaided human ear — which indicates that a colony of bees is about to swarm. In his account Mr. Woods explained the development of the electronic device, which marks the first big step forward in bee-keeping for a hundred years.

"The primitive method of bee-keeping is to wait for the first instinct bees have to swarm," he said. "Swarming of bees produced up to fifteen new colonies by swarming, usually in the month of June. These new colonies were put in hives and allowed to build up for the summer collecting and storing honey and wax. The natural increase in size of the colonies resulting from one mother colony were destroyed and the honey and wax harvested. The remaining colony repeated the cycle next year.

"In 1951 it was found that if one could prevent bees from swarming the quantity and quality of the honey would improve enormously. But it is very difficult to prevent swarming since it's the bee's natural method of reproduction, and for a century the only method known has been to examine carefully all the hives, colonies at short intervals and to deal with those containing queen cells, which are the indication that the bees are going to swarm. Now this is done every 7 days in the summer, every nine or ten days from mid-April to mid-July on every colony it takes five or ten minutes and it's quite hard work to lift up the supers weighing as much as 80 pounds each, and to keep a continued disturbance to the bees seriously reduces the honey crop. And since only 2 per cent of the colonies actually show signs of swarming, 97 per cent of the work is wasted."

The method is applied to millions of colonies of bees throughout the world—ten million in the United States alone—and the tremendous waste of time and labour involved is much, Woods said, that he set about trying to find out whether bees had some warning of an intention to swarm, and discovered that all the queens in a colony was laying briskly, the royal jelly which is produced in abundance and used up in feeding the queen bee is inhibited. Because this is usually kept very quiet; and if there is a surplus of royal jelly then their rate rose to a plaintive, bubbling sound. This sound was vitally important because it indicated a queen failure — or reduction in egg-laying — which was the necessary preparation for swarming. But since it was inaudible to the unaided ear it could be filtered out from the general noise of the hive and amplified before it could be recognized by the sensitive ear of the spidicior did. It had been successfully used for several years to predict swarming and had often given more than twenty days notice of the signs of a swarm.

The principle of the spidicior has been established in tens of thousands of tests, but in its present form it is experimental as is a highly subjective instrument which requires skill and discrimination on the part of the operator, and is not suitable for use to distinguish between different tones. It is already being used in Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, the United States and Britain, and orders and enquiries have been received from bee-keepers in other countries.

Choosing Jail Was His Right

HamIlton Spectator

Maybe the man was a "publicity seeker," as the magistrate said, but there was more to it than that.

Why not.

The electronics engineer was denounced as such when he chose to go to jail for a dog tax fine rather than pay a $10 fine, thus making a 'wrong' left turn.

It is dangerous to pontificate upon a legal case without knowing all the details, but some comments must be made in order about this question of legal publicity seeking.

The theory of the law must be that a person who is given a negative to a jail sentence, that the penalties are roughly equal and it does not take his choice according to his financial circumstances.

Actually, of course, they are not equal — a $10 fine is more than half of a hardship to some another. And similarly if Jones detests going to jail he may choose a $10 fine rather than Smith, then Jones has got the greater punishment, and out there bleeding more freely for him.

Mail order people found a fine to being jailed. Some may not, whatever the law may say, they are not penalties, the law gives them a freedom of choice. If they exercise it legally, how can they be criticized for this?

As for publicity seeking — generally some of Canada's worthiest citizens don't hide their light under bushels. Publicity seekers are a much-maligned group. They raise issues, they discuss and deplore — even if, sometimes, only themselves. But more often their seeking sheds a light on democracy.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 25, 1940

The Brotherhood of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held an interesting and informative address at their monthly supper meeting when Mr. Eric Naylor spoke on "The Romance of Radio," a subject on which he is well informed. Mr. Naylor outlined some of the technicalities of broadcasting and gave a practical demonstration of his field with equipment that he had set up in the church hall.

Mr. Andrew's Church ball was the scene of a delightful function last evening as members of the "Good Companions" Mission Band staged a program of drills and plays as well as other musical numbers. Mrs. W. J. Walker acted as chairman for the evening. Mr. Charles Kilgour rendered several musical numbers during the intermission. Mrs. Kilgour's duet was sung by Mr. R. Barlow, Mrs. V. Hyde and Mrs. W. J. Walker for their efforts in training the children.

Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Gullet and family of Picton, spent Sunday with the sister of Dr. Gullet, Mrs. B. A. Fanning and family, Alexander St. Her sister, Mrs. W. J. Green and Mr. Green, Dunbar St., were also present.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ackerman have returned to the city after spending the winter months in Mexico.

Miss Beth Lynch, nurse-in-training at Hotel Dieu, Kingston, has spent the weekend with her parents in the city.

30 YEARS AGO

Miss Lillian Connor is spending the Easter vacation with friends in Madoc.

Miss Marjorie Taylor, of Moyers Hall, is spending the Easter vacation with her aunt in Toronto.

Mr. Arthur Wilson, of Rochester, N.Y. is renewing acquaintances here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Orrill have returned home from Fairbrorough, where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Tuit, of Albert College, spent Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery.

Mr. Raymond Rose has returned to Kingston to resume his studies at Queen's University.

In a baseball match played between teams representing Form 1-A and Form 1-C of the high school, the former team won by a score of 32 to 9.

The following composed the 1-A team: Doherty, Corry, Fish, Beamish, Day, Symmons, Blanchard, Harding, McIntosh; spares, Hardwick, Black and Buchanan. 1-C: Deacon, Hudgins, Hutchinson, Peer, Mortelock, Hooker, Waters; Bateman, Christie; spares, Bird and Pearson. The umpire was Mr. S. Leuty and he gave entire satisfaction. Jenkins, Harding, Curry and Fish played well for 1-A, and Christie and Pearson were the stars for 1-C.

The Orrock Bros. and their eight girls arrived here yesterday from the Old Country for the Abercrossit Hotel, Moira St. West.

The 13th Regiment headed by the band, paraded last night and the turnout was a large one. Lieut.-Col. Thomas Stewart was in command.

Mr. J. A. Houston of this city, has graduated in medicine at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and has received the degree of M.D., C.M.

Mr. Samuel Taylor, of Kingston, has been appointed Chief of Police for Trenton.

Mr. Michael Manley has returned to Toronto after spending a few days in town with friends.

A special meeting of the city council will be held this evening to consider the question of the Board of Trade, and the matter of the proposed route of the CNR through Belleville will be discussed.

HAGERMAN, ONT.

A township in the Parry Sound District, Ont., which was named to honor the memory of Judge Christopher Hagerman, who served in the war of 1812 and later was elevated to the bench. Later, he was appointed Solicitor-General and prosecuted the rebels who were imprisoned in 1838. It was charged by some that he was unnecessarily severe in those trials.

Hospital Plan Works Well

Windsor Daily Star

The hospital insurance system has worked well in Ontario both in its physical and financial aspects, Premier Leslie M. Frost told the Legislature.

By a $3,020,940 surplus for 1958, the plan is assured of making room for an increase in the premium rates.

Perhaps never in history has such a large expenditure affected so many people been put into effect so smoothly. This is a tribute to the Ontario Government which worked it out in conjunction with Ontario Blue Cross Hospital Services Comission and to the various hospitals.

The most vital aspect of it, of course, is that it per cent of the people of Ontario are covered by it, without any complication whatever. This is surely evidence of their recognition of its advantages.

It saturday had some "bugs" to be ironed out during its early stages. And it still can be improved, as for instance to avoid the confusion which has existed between services, etc. But these will not necessarily add to the costs. It can be much cheaper to treat patients in such clinics or in their homes than in hospitals.

Premier Leslie M. Frost has emphasized this in not a messy-making scheme. It can be blamed for granted any surpluses will be used either to meet rising costs or to improve or extend services.

You need have no fear for hot flashes, the time varying considerably. This trouble may be related to the basic nervous makeup of an individual which is a very important thing for you to keep in mind. It isn't surprising that follows a relatively dependable schedule, like the time at which you expect a baby to get teeth. (And even this varies very widely!)

Why suffer from these unnecessary troubles? Much can be done to help you, and I've explained in my booklet, "You Can Stop Silly Worrying." Spare Tire Put to Work

Kingston Whig-Standard

How many of us when starting on a long trip have wished there was some use that the spare tire in the trunk of our car could be put to rather than just lying there and taking up all that luggage space?

Well, Mr. Jacques Gerin of Montreal has found the answer, we are pleased to report. Not that the spare tire has been improved (in our opinion) on the car bumper which has tended to make it more unsightly than a thing of utility these days.

By affixing the spare firmly to the bumper, Mr. Gerin says he has provided a rubber bumper which not only protects the tire but absorbs some of the shock of collision.

When one thinks of the number of times he has watched the "bumper" cars in the circus ring, Mr. Gerin has the reason for kicking himself for not having thought of the idea himself.

Must Resist Uniformity

Calgary Herald

There is a tendency on the part of bureaucrats to worship standardization and uniformity. It is a tendency which can be sturdily resisted. Unfortunately it is a tendency being field felt more and more in provincial governmental circles. It was evident recently when there is minuscule opposition and that, regretfully, is the situation in Alberta just now. The government can do pretty well what it likes.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BRIDE?

A boy came into my office one day this past winter and called out — "shine?" I said — "sure."

Then I wondered what he thought of what a difference the shine made in my shoes. I wondered if he thought I could go to town without a good shine. They need so much more cheerful-ness to me.

I rather look with good grace on the man or woman whose shoes are well shined. It sort of reflects his or her attitude of mind. And surely the effect of a good shine on a healthy mind is quite stimulating. And that leads one to thinking. The shoe looks better and shows its worth to far greater advantage when it is well shined.

Well, with a fresh shine, also shows its worth. As with a shoe, you never fully realize the worth of your mind until it is well shined — with knowledge and experience, with hard work and play.

Thinking back to a emigrant boy who became a great lawyer. And a farm boy who became one of the greatest merchant. You never know what there is to be in back of a shoe until you put polish and elbow grease to the test there! Behind the dull exterior of a good shoe are always wonderful shoes.

"Shine!"

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Newspapers and magazines all over North America are now publishing articles and books on stories about conservation in a tone of considerable excitement as though conservation were something new. The only new thing about it is the use of the word in the 20th century. To the public and to those who used it most often 40 years ago, the word conservation meant the protection of wild life such as deer, ducks, grouse and fish from the sportsmen. Then, a little later, the public was taught that conservation also meant the protection of farmland from erosion. Then intelligent harvesting of forests, the study of watersheds with the idea of preventing floods and maintaining a water supply for industry and the community, also all its meanings, it was practical or economic if not commercial. However the word we have now is not new. It is a word man's profit. Not until quite lately has the notion got around among the public that it is man we have to conserve, that conservation means the preservation of the natural world entire; and that kindly little man in not a creature apart from the natural world but only a digit in it, along with the deer, the duck, the tree, the stream, the field, the mountain. All alone in the world he could see consumed or processed to his own ends. Conservation will feel. Copyright: Canada Wide

A Lift for Living

Make Sure Ideals Are Valid

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We sometimes speak of ideals as if they were all good. But they are not. The gangster has an ideal — that of being a big shot in the underworld. It is not enough to say, "Live up to your ideals." We must make sure our ideals are valid.

There is a certain poignant sadness about the fact that men never fully attain their ideals. In the great eleventh chapter of Hebrews which portrays Abraham, Noah, Moses and those other heroic spirits who lived by faith, the author of the Epistle says of them that they "all died in faith, not having received the promise."

But there is something sadder — to struggle toward an ideal and come within reach of it only to find it false and worthless. Contrast those noble pilgrims of God who glimpsed His promises from afar, followed them and died in faith, with Cardinal Wolsey as Shakespeare pictures him. In his famous soliloquy, he cries, "Had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, he would not in mine age have left me naked to my enemies."

It behooves us to insure the validity of our ideals at the start of our careers. And this is a service which religion is designed to render to youth.

PLACE FOR RELIGION

For this reason it is imperative to make a place for religion in our educational system. It is not enough to teach youth skills and give them technical training. It is not enough to concentrate on a crash program of scientific specialization to surpass the Russians in missiles. Chesterton said it is important for a general in a campaign to know his enemy's number and equipment but it is more important to know his philosophy of life. The test of strength between Russia and America is not found by measuring their monthly stockpile of weapons but by the soundness of our respective ideals and goals.

We of the United States and Canada, trained in the Judaeo-Christian religious tradition regard men as immortal souls and not as mere pawns of the state. We believe the conviction gives the persons the confidence that their "labor is not in vain in the Lord." The godly man thus gains the "know-why" as well as the "know-how."

A valid ideal involves creative endeavor. We want to be somebody worth being. And we also want to do something worth doing.

We love to work. Does some reader think my statement wrong? Many might say we work to live. To them work seems a necessary drudgery preliminary to the pleasure of living. A man may work until five o'clock, then the whistle blows and he starts living. Or we may say, "I'll endure this job until I'm 60. Then when I retire I'll begin enjoying life."

There's something wrong when we think of our work as a painful prelude to the pleasure of living. Maybe a part of the fault is in the nature of our work, for some tasks are very tedious and uninspiring. One of our social problems is to put a creative element into mass production work, for work is never inspiring unless it has something which expresses our individuality. But if we really set ourselves to it, most of us can find some creative work during our waking hours.

And we should look forward to constructive work in what we call our "retiring years." More people are alive at 65 than ever before, and even more interesting, people are more alive at 65 than ever before. It is splendid to provide attractive homes for the aged. But vital people are restless in rest homes. We should devise for our senior citizens activities which would fulfill their need to be needed. They could participate in community campaigns and programs of civic and religious betterment. No person ever has to retire from God's work.

A satisfactory ideal also involves co-operative effort. We continually talk about life as a race. Would it not be better to think of life as a pilgrimage? In a race the idea is to beat your rival to the goal. But in a pilgrimage the idea is to reach the goal. The more who get there with you, the better it is.

Why do we keep assuming the good things of life are so limited that we have to fight or wait for what somebody else got? The ultimate values of life are beauty, truth and goodness. These are noncompetitive. The more we work for these, the more there is for others.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

EXTRAORDINARY

One of our oddest birds is the woodcock. To begin with its very presence is clothed in mystery. On account of perfect protective coloration it is practically invisible even in plain sight — but no wonder we miss seeing a bird living where least expected. The woodcock's habits are all strange. Classed as a shore bird, it often nests in upland woods and feeds in old fields. Its courtship flight is most peculiar and extremely interesting. Absolutely unlike its relatives, the woodcock has a heavy body and short legs, queerly placed eyes, wings with three curiously narrowed feathers, and a really most extraordinary bill.

Migrating individually by night, the woodcock times its arrival here to suit the degree of frost in the ground. As its food consists almost entirely of earthworms, the soil must be sufficiently soft for a bill to probe down. Yet this bird has no fear of winter; a nest with eggs has been found in southern Quebec before the end of March, and a brooding bird has been seen with snow on its back.

The very long bill is unique in Birdland. The top section is made in two parts, so that the end farther from the head can be opened up while the rest remains closed. The lower section is shorter, its tip fitting into the upper. Little round holes made in the ground by this probing bill are, to the initiated, a sign that a woodcock lives nearby. It has been suggested that the worm eyes high up on the head, so that are not located by hearing alone but also by the sense of feeling enemies may be discovered in time for a retreat.

Then, on account of this ground feeding habit, Nature has given the bird unusually large eyes high up on the head, so that enemies may be discovered in time for a retreat.

Then, on account of this ground feeding habit, Nature has given the bird unusually large eyes high up on the head, so that enemies may be discovered in time for a retreat.

Halloway K-D Club Enjoys 'Cook's' Tour

On Wednesday night, the members of Halloway Kum-Double Club held their annual progressive supper meeting. The weathermen co-operated to help make it a highlight of the year, a night of fun and feasting for the 32 participants.

Promptly at seven o'clock all boarded Emerson Houghs's big-racked truck by ladder entrance.

The first stop was at the home of Harry and Lois Morgan (where club was served tomato juice to stimulate appetites as if that were necessary) until the main course which was waiting at the home of Emory and Lorna Hough. Here scalloped potatoes, baked ham, meat and salads in abundance. When all had done justice to this part of the meal, they moved on.

Then members began to appear in queer costumes as a general exchange of outer wraps took place. Furs were in great demand and the "fit" was no consideration. Men in kerchiefs were quite attractive. It was a miniature fashion show, but those late arrivers had a cook out and resolved to get first choice next time.

Earl and Bea Calder were the next host and hostess for the desert course of assorted delicious pies.

For coffee, the group travelled again, an hour up the step ladder and back to the church, where Ellen McMullen served a much-appreciated beverage. It had taken over two hours to complete supper but no one begrudged the time.

Finally the group settled down for a brief business meeting with Shirley Wilson presiding.

Thanks were expressed by R. Calder to E. Hough for providing the transportation, and by the president to all the hosts and hostesses.

Jean Robson thanked the group for a gift of fruit.

Charles Coleman offered to relatic and refinish the communion set. It was decided to purchase flowers for decorating the church. An invitation from Marsh Hill Horseless Club for a social evening on April 29 was accepted.

"The Bowler" was read by Eva Robson.

The members felt that such an evening keeps one from getting too old too fast. But the next day stiff joints made one wonder if perhaps it had rather hastened the process.

Club Activities

QUINTE 4-H CLUB

The eighth meeting of the Quinte Health Patrol was held on April 18 at the home of Mrs. William Learoyd.

The president, Mary Clapp, opened the meeting.

An extra meeting was held on April 13 at the home of Mrs. M. Mitchell.

The topic discussed was plans for "Achievement Day".

The group work was judging menus. The home assignments were given and the meeting was closed.

Miss Nazia Dane, Toronto, Provincial President of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario, will address the local club on Monday evening when it celebrates its tenth anniversary.

A native of Saskatchewan, Miss Dane worked in Regina, Vancouver and Ottawa prior to joining the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association, the trade organization of the life insurance companies doing business in Canada. She is engaged in public educational work in the life insurance field and in the course of her duties, tours the country, meeting with educationists and speaking to men's and women's organizations.

Miss Dane finds relaxation by collecting books about Canada by Canadians. She has holidayed in many parts of Canada and in Western Europe, Hawaii and Alaska.

Large Babies Said Signs of Diabetic Mother

TORONTO (CP)—Women who give birth to large babies should be checked for diabetes, Dr. Abrahim Rzapoot of Toronto Western Hospital told the annual meeting of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association.

"If we put a notice in the paper asking every woman who had a baby of more than 10 pounds to contact us, we would uncover a lot of diabetics," he said.

More Women Losing Hair Than 5 Yrs. Ago

CHICAGO (AP)—More women are complaining that they are losing their hair today than five years ago—but leading skin and scalp experts can pinpoint neither cause nor cure.

Three New York dermatologists reported female hair loss—technically known as "diffuse alopecia" — in an article in the American Medical Association's archives of dermatology.

The dermatologists gave these statistics:

About 53 per cent of doctors polled reported an increase of diffuse alopecia. Thirty per cent reported no increase. The rest were uncertain or did not report.

Alpha Lambda Holds 'Ritual Of Jewels'

The Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority met recently at the home of Mrs. C. Thompson.

An impressive ceremony took place when the president, Mrs. W. Simpson, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Ketcheson and Mrs. John Hayman, conducted the "Ritual of Jewels."

Those receiving their jewelled pins were: Mrs. G. Mutter, Mrs. J. Horne, M. i. E. Brett, and Mrs. E. Hutchinson.

Following con gratulations from the other members of the chapter; the remainder of the evening was spent playing charades.

The members of Alpha Lambda were happy to welcome Mrs. E. Drury, who has recently transferred from a chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in London, for Refreshments were served by the social committee, bringing a pleasant evening to a close.

Going Places

History and Charm Prominent In Germany's Bavarian Alps

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

From Munich the Autobahn leads straight out through the Hofoldinger Forest, a land of rolling hills and acres of fir trees, into what our guide called her "back yard" — the Alps of Bavaria.

This is the waldheil — hillilly — country of Germany, the part of north German humor. Tucked away in the foothills of the Alps, the strange accents, provincial ways and proud independence have survived Teutonic knights and night club comedians alike. Like all Alpine country, it has been a challenge to conquerors back to Hannibal and Genghis Khan, and their influence is seen in such odd manifestations as the onion-shaped Byzantine domes of churches throughout the country.

Beyond the forest the steep snow-topped peaks come into view dimly through the mountain mists. Soon the road starts twisting and climbing over grades still wet with melting snow.

On the slopes cling picturesque gingerbread chalets like big cuckoo clocks, and hikers with feathered hats, knee pants and alpenstock swing up the road.

Out of sight, high above the timberline among the rocks and crags, grows the edelweiss, the little "killer flower" that has cost many a young swain his life for promising Mutti to gather some for his beloved.

The Austrian border is only a few kilometers away where the Salzach River cuts in a mountain lake beneath Prediatuhl Mountain. Here, in an Alpine symphony of a setting, lies Bad Reichenhall, one of the classic "cure" spas that Germans hold so dear, where the sick and tired come from all over the world to take mineral baths and antibiotic inhalations.

The modern state-operated kurhaeuser also offer respiratory irrigations, mudbath, pneumatic chambers and other esoteric remedies that came into vogue some thirty years after the dukes stopped fighting over the salt mines in the region. Now the only mining is for gold, in the local casino, which probably does as much to promote nervous breakdowns as the entire rest of this snow-big-clinic of a town does to cure them.

But modern innovations have made no impression on the awesome scenery you can gaze at from atop Predigtstuhl, accessible by cablecar. Nor has it much affected the medieval and baroque look of the streets here and in nearby Salzburg, the unchanging Austrian festival city of Mozart.

You can poke around the mountains and find remains of ancient castles, mountain climbers charged in the town, impressive Victorian hotels and mansions full of marbled portices and statuary.

It's not difficult to understand how authentic folk culture survives in this remote ambiance. You can drop into any of the ubiquitous beerhalls in the area and hear yodelling not at all different from the kind of country music we know at home.

Exuberant mountain dancing with much stamping, slouching and thigh-slapping is performed by red-cheeked youngsters in costumes of appliqued suede lederhosen and chains of coins on the knees, with gay bows in the aprons and shawls on the girls.

Down the road a piece from Bad Reichenhall is Berchtesgaden. This was an idyllic mountain village and spa before the rise and long after Hitler made it notorious for the villa whose ruins are history's darkest deeds were plotted, His eagle's nest, high atop a jagged peak accessible only by elevator from the villa, is ruined and deserted now. Tourists are discouraged from visiting it even when the road is open. Germans prefer to forget it.

Set between the almost vertical mountains of the Watzman group, a few miles beyond Berchtesgaden, is Koenigssee. This tranquil lakelake has watched over by deer and mountain goats and is traversed by flocks of tiredly docks and sightseeing boats that ply between the village and the island of St. Bartholome with its seventeenth century baroque parish church.

Midway in the 30-minute cruise the boat stops between the two steepest slopes. In the deep mountain silence a cornet sounds on a trumpet, a few bars at a time, the notes of a plaintive Bavarian folk tune.

Suddenly, as it always has, the echo comes back note for note in tones of startling clarity. The boat glides on in silence. Its passengers subdued and silent too, the song haunting their thoughts, in a reflection about the timeless nature around them.

This — and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

In the 20 Years Ago news of Thursday's Ontario Intelligencer, we were told that the jobs were running in the great seat at Ballyville and that the Isaak Wellons were happy. Believe it or not, there were quite a few family Isaak Wellons too; we suppose that this year, as twenty years ago, they are all wearing, or the fishing season to open, the same kinds of hats take place quite soon, even though it is not a momentous occasion for us.

Just to make the trout and salmon anglers anxious, here is part of a fishing story from New Zealand. It seems that trout and salmon fishing is everyman's sport in New Zealand and that most towns are no more than an hour's driving from a well-stocked stream; there is practically free access to all waters.

Rainbow trout average four and a half pounds, the brown trout about eight. Salmon go about seventy pounds and sometimes up to forty. It is true in New Zealand that a trout is less than fourteen inches long it must be thrown back. During the year when there is no fishing the trout breed undisturbed, presumably in numbers not enough food to fatten them all, they dropped to an average of only two and a half pounds. Now they are back to the heavy weights. Also the rivers are slow flow into Lake Taupo and over five hundred tons of trout are taken from Taupo every year.

This is only one of the many facts in New Zealand, but they said hes more varied angling than the North and has a higher overall standard. Brown trout are predominant there, but rainbow are plentiful, too, with eight to ten pounders not uncommon. Even the salmon fishing gives fish ranging from twelve to forty pounds near the river mouths.

Tourist brochure language is usually extravagant, as you can imagine. One New Zealand tourist folder says "Anywhere in New Zealand, where trout loitie one another". The story concludes with "better still, the fishermen do not jostie one another".

The Encyclopaedia Britannica, says laughter is commonly regarded as the expression of various feelings, such as sheer joy, lightness of heart, amusement and feelings more grave than any of these. It is mainly a human phenomenon. Among lower animals laughter is a very rare occurrence if, indeed, it is met with at all. Man is the laughing animal par excellence.

Do you often feel that, in our world of stress and strain, we are losing our capacity for laughter? Listen a bit to hear how many times you hear a real rolling laugh that comes from well-being and a cheerful spirit. There is the nervous laugh, the cynical laugh and the apologetic laugh; but listen for the big laugh, not the comedians but at joy of life.

Worst of all and most frightening is the laughter of children is diminishing—noise and yells, yes, but not so much laughter. Sullenness has taken over our faces.

This has come to our thoughts because we know a young couple who laugh, really laugh. And they stand out. More of us should try it. Some great men have been great laughers. Dr. Albert Schweitzer has a deep booming laugh, we are told, even though he asserts that a true, clear look at the history of man cannot make one feel optimistic. The late great Archbishop Temple of Canterbury was a great laugher, and his laughter is missed.

Here are some thoughts on laughter. Sir Max Beerbohm said: "Strange, when you come to think of it, that of all the countless folk who have lived before our time on this planet there is no one known in history or in legend as having died of laughter".

Oscar Wilde said: "Laughter is not at all a bad beginning for a friendship, and it is far the best ending for one".

From Arthur Guiterman: "My sword is Strength, my spear is Song;
With these upon a stubborn field
I challenge Falsehood, Fear and wrong;
But Laughter is my shield".

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

COME LET US JOIN OUR CHEERFUL SONGS

Come, let us join our cheerful songs
With angels round the throne;
Ten thousand thousand are their tongues,
But all their joys are one.

"Worthy the Lamb that died," they cry,
"To be exalted thus!"
"Worthy the Lamb!" our hearts reply,
"For He was slain for us."

Jesus is worthy to receive
Honor and power divine;
And blessings more than we can give
Be, Lord, forever Thine.

The whole creation join in one
To bless the sacred name
Of Him that sits upon the throne,
And to adore the Lamb.

In these days when the hymns of Dr. Isaac Watts, English preacher and poet, are among the brightest gems in every collection of sacred songs, it is hard to realize that there was a time when they were frowned upon — even banned from use — by leading churchmen.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century, metrical versions of the Psalms were the only songs used in English worship services. When, in 1707, Dr. Watts tried to supersede the psalter with his famous volume of "Hymns And Sacred Songs" — a collection which contained many of the hymns for which he is best known and revered today — there was a storm of protest and opposition.

Worshippers of the Established Church of England called the new songs "Watts' Whims" and refused to sing them. A century and many years went by before the hymns were finally appreciated and accepted.

Many of Dr. Watts' hymns are bugle calls to praise and worship. "Come, Let Us Join Our Cheerful Songs", which made its first appearance in the 1707 hymnal, is one of these. It's a voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders; and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honor and glory and blessing.

"And every creature which is in Heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing and honor and glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever and ever".

QUESTION:

. . . I have tried a number of your recipes and now have them on file. I have heard of "hush puppies" and that they are delicious. I believe hamburger is used in them. Have you knowledge of such a recipe? I have some maraschino cherry juice left over from baking and hate to throw it out. Have you any particular recipes which would utilize this? . . . M. J. M.

ANSWER:

"Hush Puppies" are crisply fried like cornmeal cakes. The originals did not have hamburg in them. I suppose you could add a little meat to the following recipe if desired.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

HUSH PUPPIES.

2 cups corn meal, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 cups milk, 1-2 cup water, 1 egg, 1 onion, finely chopped.

Beat together cornmeal, baking powder, salt, milk and water. Blend in egg and onion. With hands, mould mixture into little cakes (about 1 tablespoon each) and fry in about 1" deep fat until well browned (1 1-2 minutes on each side). Drain on paper. Serve very hot.

NOTE.

Usually served in the South with ham or shrimp and cole slaw.

Use the maraschino juice instead of some of the sugar in making the pancake or instead of some of the liquid and sugar when making a sweet pudding sauce or in place of some of the liquid and sugar in a plain cake better.

QUESTION.

Would you have any suggestions for dinners different to a number of 1950. One gives a recipe for Yeast Cheese Rolls; Marianne and I served for 2 tables of bridge when I was visiting them in Sept. last July. They were a smash hit. I think you should also include the recipe for 4 tables. We made 3 variations: Cheese Pockets and Apricot Swirls, and served them with sweet butter and plenty of coffee. If you can satisfy yourself with a simple menu this is it.

ANSWER:

I am mailing to you two recipes from the summer of 1950. One gives a recipe for Yeast Cheese Rolls; Marianne and I served for 2 tables of bridge when I was visiting them in Sept. last July. They were a smash hit. I think you should also include the recipe for 4 tables. We made 3 variations: Cheese Pockets and Apricot Swirls, and served them with sweet butter and plenty of coffee. If you can satisfy yourself with a simple menu this is it.

Another recipe gives 2 recipes for party tomato salads. One is stuffed with shrimp; the other with chicken or celery.

If you want to serve an elaborate salad you could serve the stuffed tomato salads and Yeast Cheese Rolls.

Or if you do not want to make yeast rolls you could serve Brown 'n Serve Rolls with sweet butter, with individual pots of fruit salad plates. Make each one pretty as a picture and pass a variety of imported cheese. Okay Good luck.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marilyn V. — Bill is such a disappointment to me.

Bill V. — She is party to blame.

Marilyn V. — I have been a widow for 13 years and have worked hard to raise my son to be a decent, worthwhile man. Now it looks as though all my efforts have been in vain.

My son, Bill, is 22 and has gotten involved with a 17-year-old girl of very bad reputation. I did my best to talk him out of this affair, but nothing helped. Now the girl is pregnant and he wants to marry her.

I know Bill can't be happy with this girl. She is nothing but a little tramp. I am positive he can't be sure this expected child is his. This girl isn't expected change after marriage. She is accused of a terrible sin and she doesn't know how to live a decent life. I am heartbroken. He is such a disappointment to me.

Bill V. — I don't want to hurt Mother, but she doesn't realize that she is partly to blame for this whole affair. She kept me tied to her apron strings. She never gave me the freedom other fellows have. She kept telling me how I mustn't get involved with anyone who didn't "rate" in her books.

As a result I was afraid to go out with girls. When I met Gladys she made a play for me and I couldn't resist her. I know other guys were involved with her, but managed to duck out of the affair in time. I was just a sitting duck.

* * *

The Council: Marilyn blames her son for committing a sin. Bill blames his mother for not having done the right thing — and neither of them thinks it important or pertinent to the present situation. Both parties both cast out blame and fault-finding.

The only issue up for discussion is whether or not Bill and Gladys can make a decent marriage and a proper home for the expected child.

Our feeling is that they can't do that as long as Bill feels he has been a "sitting duck." The girl may feel the same way about Bill and may have even winked him into the marriage promise. Good marriages aren't built on tricks or traps.

Possibly Bill has more affection for Gladys than he cares to admit. His mother's sharp criticism may put him on the defensive and he may tell her he is hopelessly trapped when actually he wants Gladys and the child he is convinced is his.

If this is the case Bill must take a more realistic look at his situation. A girl of 17 who has been sexually promiscuous will not change her ways after her marriage. She needs help in becoming morally and emotionally rehabilitated. A clergyman and psychiatrist or psychiatric social worker will be needed to help put Gladys on the road toward decent living. It is most unlikely that Bill can do it by himself.

Marilyn is wrong to set certain terms as a kind of reward for her sacrifices for Bill. If she has done her best to instill good standards in her growing son, she has done her duty and Bill must take responsibility for the present and future problems he has created for himself. A clergyman and psychiatrist or psychiatric social worker will be needed to help put Gladys on the road toward decent living. It is most unlikely that Bill can do it by himself.

Question: My wedding is to take place next month. I am having four bridesmaids and a matron of honor. Do I have to pay for their gowns?

Answer: No. Usually the bride selects the gown that she wishes her attendants to wear and they pay for it themselves. The thoughtful bride-to-be will endeavor to select a dress that is within the means of her bridesmaids.

The Home With an Open Door

By ALMA MASON

Third in series

An elderly man and his wife were discussing the frustrations that they are being made today by many children and women to analyze the causes of our teen-age social problems.

The old gentleman said, "Mother and I raised three good, by good children. They, in turn, are doing a pretty fair job of raising our grandchildren. Problem? Yes. We have ten by the dozen. When group of people gathered under one roof, there is always problems! However, mother and I loved our home and our children enough to want to make it and them the hub of the wheel of our lives. We didn't have to worry much about our children being on the street with bad companions. You see, they always brought their chums home and we had a chance to look 'em over."

The sweet-faced old lady told of her busy, younger years; she spoke of her children of all faiths and races found an open door to their warm hearth. She related how the three floors of the old house constantly echoed with the cheerful laughter of youngsters busy with games and activities, and that lamps light often shed a golden, sheltering circle around 10 or 12 tousled heads instead of three.

"Sometimes we couldn't find room for them all," she revered as she said.

LIVED HARRIED LIVES

"I don't know," she pondered, "I'm sure the mothers of the children who constantly overflowed our homes were obligated to get rid of them so they could be rid of their noise and their bridge tables. We soon learned that the lives of the children were stripped pretty bare of a good home life. We realized they were casualties in our home because they were seeking in life an empty, lonely spot in their hearts.

"Our dinner table always overflowed. No one seemed to care if any of the children arrived there meals. Sometimes them carried door keys. If they had them, they would be locked out to stand, perhaps, in the rain or snow

These children who visited us lapped up like greedy kittens the scraps of cream, the fun we had, the books we read, the plans we formed and executed for our birthday parties. Sometimes they responded to praise, a pat on the head and an impulsive hug with such affection and gratitude that lumps formed in our throats and weary tears brimmed in our eyes.

"Perhaps some children are like the desolate children who lived on the edge of our happy home life. I am sure of it. All children had a home provided over by interfering, loving parents; a home they could share with friends, parents wouldn't have to worry and fret about. Guilt teen years."

"For true, little grandmother with the laughter wrinkles etched around your faded blue eyes — eyes softened by the years you poured into the lives of so many lonely children.

GIVE CONFUSED WITH SEX

How we adults forgotten that love really is! If our hearts were teeming with love — Christ's compelling love — and unending flow of warm, friendly love would spill into the hearts of our children every hour of the day. We would always have an abundance to care for the friends of our children.

Today love is confused with sex. If we put spiritual love on the place it rightly belongs on, the passions of the body would all look proper focus.

Every one of us, created in the image of God, has a boundless supplies of love on which to draw to heal and fortify and transform the lives of our children. Let us mix it with strength and courage and respect and tackle it out in great shining sums to act as God's antidote for this problem that our intelligent psychiatrists and social workers seem unable to find.

When you were small we shelter ed you

And showered love on your bright head;

We sheltered and played and laughed with you

Before we tucked you into bed.

When you were young our humble home

Had threadbare carpet on the floor

But walls were bright with happiness

And windows shone with childish prayer.

When you were young you had a bruised and empty childish heart,

With faith that we would heal Its wounds

And mold it in your counterpart.

Because our open door held hope;

Because true welcome shone inside;

Our children grown to man's estate,

Have crowned our years with joy and pride.

When marriage was by purchase, the bride's father repaid the groom his purchase money by setting up a dowry in the form of a trousseau—a bundle of clothes and personal possessions. These the bride carried to her new home.

MUSIC MAKERS

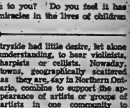
"The fact is that music is the most accessible of all the arts."—Delos Smith in "Music in Your Life."

How much does music mean to you? Do you feel it has certain magic; that it performs miracles in the lives of children and adults?

The current popular TV comedian and former school teacher, Gert Lawrence, did a sketch not for music he would have been — a jewelry deliquent. "Every child has a spark of divinity in him," he points out, "and unless discovered, so the child may find himself, he is lost; lost to love, hope and achievement. Music is often a certain pathfinder to the discovery of his particular 'atom' of divinity."

Music has fashioned unusual careers for some women. Not long ago I met a young French-Canadian girl who, at the time, as cello-violinist, was the only female member of the Canadian National Ballet's orchestra. She explained:

"Some families are fortunate that they are naturally musical. Being a member of a family of music-loving family, we had a musical night at home. Our father, priest of my brother and sister and myself playing the piano, the violin and cello-violin respectively. One evening in Montreal I went to see the Canadian Ballet presentation. I immediately fell in love with it all — and the orchestra. I knew it was the one thing in life I wanted: to be a member of an orchestra. I determined to go to Toronto and try. I might have an audition. I went and my wish was granted. I was accepted and signed a contract. I had a wonderful working with the ballet which takes up a good part of a year. In my spare time I play in TV productions, and all members of the Montreal Orchestral society, from housewife to mechanics, agree that "it's fun to make music".



Why not, then a Belleville Orchestral Society?

Scotland Yard Quizzes Jocks In Dope Probe

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard detectives swooped down on racing stables Friday after a key suspect in a horse-doping plot committed suicide.

They interviewed some of Britain's most widely known trainers and jockeys and asked whether any horses had behaved suspiciously in recent races.

The police are reported on the trail of a nationwide conspiracy to fix races by mixing dope in horses' feed.

Bertie (Bandy) Rogers, 56, former head stable hand, killed himself the day after detectives questioned him.

Meanwhile, a police spokesman said powder and containers seized earlier this week are being examined in a police laboratory. A large bundle of letters from racing stables also have been seized.

Police are working with the Jockey Club, controlling body of British racing.

Mark Twain's America One Of Best Done by Project 20

By BOB THOMAN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Samuel Langhorne Clemens — or Mark Twain—is getting a big play this month, Project 20 cares no television Friday night with a tribute that fit the subject.

This NBC series has done some fine things and Mark Twain's America was one of its best. Here is a field that TV can do better than any other medium—retrospective journalism. One such show is worth a wagon-load of westerns.

The technique is not new. It was used magnificently in a short film on Michaelangelo's work, The Titans. But Project 20 has perfected the method of combining still photographs into a moving study. By panning across the old photos, focusing on closeups, combining them with a meaningful continuity and an expressive musical score, the result is as interactive as if the camerawas had been used in those long ago days.

A ROBUST ONE

Mark Twain's America was a robust one. Viewers saw Hannibal, Mo., in the days when Huck Finn was prowling its muddy, river-filled streets, that distinct boy paradise." Clemens called it, and it seemed just that.

Then you caught the excitement of the steamboats on the Mississippi, where the author got his name. Howard Lindsay, an excellent choice as narrator, explained that Mark Twain was the Keenan's call for two fathoms.

It added up to another hit for Project 20, which, along with CBS' weekly Twentieth Century, is providing the most entertaining approach to history. It is remarkable how much of Clemens' wit and wisdom applies today. Lindsay quoted his advice to the pleasure - loving theatre of the later 1800s. His words might well apply to 1960-TV:

"You are eating too much sugar. You will bring on Bright's disease of the intellect."

On the Track

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—C.V. Whitney's Tompion proved Kentucky Derby favorite's reputation as he romped home seven other Derby eligibles Friday in the second-leg Forerunner Purse at Keeneland.

The son of Tom Fool, held off the pace and, entering the turn, bothered Winfield's Farms Victorka Park by a length and a half in a tight stretch duel. Victoria Park is owned by financier E. P. Taylor of Toronto.

Calumet Farm's Pied d'Or, the pace setter, finished third ahead of Bourbon Prince.

The colt was timed in 1:21 4-5, one-fifth of a second off the track record.

The winner, with Willie Shoemaker in the saddle, returned $4.40, $2.60 and $2.20. Victoria Park paid $2.80 and $2.20 and the Calumet entry paid $2.20 to show.

Brocks Delete 3-0 Margin, Tie Teeps 3-3 in Overtime

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Brockville the game were members of the Canadiens, whose cliff - hanging series rival the Perils of Pauline, still are alive in the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals.

Canadiens, down 3-0 in games to St. Catharines Teepees in the best-of-seven set, pulled it out of the fire again Friday night with a three-goal explosion in the final period to tie Teepees 3-3 in overtime and extend the series.

The seventh game is tonight in Montreal and a win for Brockville could extend the set into an extra game and delay the scheduled Sunday opening of the Memorial Cup finals, due to be played in the East this year.

LATE DRIVE WINS

Teepees, who won the first three series games and have been the stubborn Canadiens hanging on the brink of elimination for a week, seemed to have a lock on the national junior final'sll sewed up after two periods.

But Canadiens, trailing 3-0 and outplayed for the first 40 minutes, came back in a late drive surge that wiped out the Teepees' lead and came within an inch of two of winning.

Wayne Freitag touched off the Brockville comeback at the 11-minute mark of the third period when he banged the puck home from a wild goalmouth scramble after St. Catharines' goalie Roger Crozier had stuffed a couple of dazzling saves.

Just 40 seconds later Andre Drolet cut the St. Catharines lead to 3-2, scoring on a hard rebounder that capped a fine passing play with Bobby Rousseau and Gilles Marcoux.

Then Rousseau, the stick-handling wizard of the Canadiens' offence, set the pro-Teepee crowd of 3,367 on its ears with a high shooter at 16:46 which caught the corner netting and squared the count.

Rousseau's goal came on a breakaway with Germain Hourger, who drew goalie Crozier to sender and fed a perfect pass to Rousseau right in front of the St. Catharines goal.

DESPERATE PLAY

The best hockey of the night came in the final half of the third period and, the 10-minute overtime session as both clubs drove desperately for the winning goal.

The St. Catharines line of Chico Maki, Ray Cullen and Vic Hadfield had Brockville goaltender Serge Aubry in trouble several times in the late minutes, but Aubry came up with a tremendous performance.

Cullen scored two for St. Catharines with Duke Harris getting the other.

It was Cullen who opened the scoring with a rolling shot that bounced away from Aubry's stretched leg at 9:38 of the first period. Less than three minutes later, Harris made it 2-0 when John Brenneman's pass set him all alone in front of Aubry.

Cullen shot the Teepees into a 3-0 lead at 17:00 minute of the second period on a play engineered by Maki who stole the puck near centre ice and broke through the defence.

FOUR OF SIX

St. Catharines drew four of the six minor penalties in the game, none of which figured in the scoring.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League announced Friday the signing of Larry Doby, 36, to play first base. Doby, former centre fielder with Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Baltimore of the American League, was a major league all-star in 1950.

Matthews Draws With Vaillant

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Les Matthews of Philadelphia and Doug Vaillant, a 30-year-old Cuban, fought to a 10-round draw Friday night. Two of the three officials called it even and the third gave it to Vaillant.

Under the rules, if two of the three officials call it a draw, the vote of the third official means nothing. Vaillant thought he was declared the winner when the voting was announced and began jumping up and down in his corner until the rule was explained to him.

Vaillant had a reach of at least three inches on Matthews and at times made the 30-year old Philadelphian look bad. But the big blows were scored by Matthews. He had Vaillant in trouble in a neutral corner in both the seventh and eighth rounds.

Matthews weighed 135½ and Vaillant 137½.

Oil Kings Ready For Big Series

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, Western Canada junior hockey champions are primed here Friday for the Memorial Cup finals.

The Kings will play either St. Catharines Teepees or Brockville Canadiens, who still are battling it out for the right to represent the East.

Edmonton were minus three players — Don Martin, Bob Glowacki and Lorne Braithwaite — who stayed behind to write university examinations. This threesome will fly in Sunday night.

Cliff Pennington of Flin Flon and Kitchener-Waterloo, and Bruce Cullum and Ed Brownworth of Brandon Wheat Kings were flown in to bolster the Edmonton roster for the finals.

DECLARED WINNERS

TORONTO (CP) — Kelowna Teddy Bears were declared winners of the Senior B women's Canadian basketball title after a meeting of CABA officials here Friday night. Confusion arose after Kelowna won a series with Toronto Shamrocks. The CABA did not officially declare the series a national affair.

Detroit Fans Greet Tigers With Explosive Reception

By DAVE DEANS
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—They came in droves in a wildly enthusiastic welcome for the rejuvenated Detroit Tigers and it has been a long, long time since Briggs Stadium rocked with such excitement.

Friday's throng of 53,563 at the Tigers' 60th American League home opener established an all-time opening day turnout and the 1960 version didn't disappoint anyone except the Chicago White Sox.

The Tigers stayed in the game on home run power, then won it on two walks and three singles in a dramatic ninth inning. Wholesaler Lou Berberet drove a two-out single to centre field for the winning run, the delirious fans crashed on enough noise to make the pre-game aerial bombs sound like a pop-gun. The score was 5-4.

The big attraction was Rocky Colavito because Detroit fans wanted to see the man they got for batting champion Harvey Kuenn. The Rock didn't let them down. He hit a line shot into the left centrefield area with a man aboard in the second inning and got a standing ovation that boomed for many a minute.

Colavito later contributed a single to the sixth inning barrage and Steve Bilko and Eddie Yost accounted for the rest of the runs with home runs.

"It was a wonderful, wonderful day," said Colavito afterward. "I never expected a reception like this."

"It was like someone gave me a million dollars. I feel that way every time I hit a home run. My concentration is good. I get to the plate and I feel I have to hit-just meet the ball, that's all I'm single.

"Then my subconscious comes along and gives me a boost. And I've just gotta try to hit it out. I just can't control myself sometimes."

The Tigers, who stumbled along at a .345 clip a season ago and cost manager Bill Norman his job in less than a month, now are undefeated in three games and Colavito has hit home runs in two of them.

The fans in these parts, who get pretty revved up even about a losing team, may have a hard time controlling themselves if this sort of thing continues.

SIGN FOR RINGSIDE

NEW YORK (AP)—Every seat in the Polo Grounds will be reserved for the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout on Monday, June 20, promoter Harry Markson of the promoting Feature Sports, Incorporated, said Friday.

Ringside seats will sell for $100 each with seats in the upper and lower grandstand commanding $50. Seats in the upper and lower grandstand will sell for $30, $20 and $10.

Meanwhile, Johansson's business relating to the fight last June 26 was cleared up. 16 months late. The $172,000 held in escrow was released to him.

☞ Ask about the new "step down" rates on collision and comprehensive! Effective now on State Farm policies for late-model cars or older quality for one of two new auto age-group rates that may give you real savings.

☞ Ask about the new second-car discount on collision! State Farm's second-car discount now applies to collision as well as to liability coverage—for the first time in Canada.

☞ Ask about the new "small car" discount! State Farm now gives you an extra 10% discount on major coverages for almost every make and model of small car. This is new in Canada and another "first" for State Farm. (Also applies to families who will receive a second-car discount on liability and collision.)

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Don't look now— but there is a possibility of softball games being played on a lighted diamond on Zwick's Island in the not too distant future.

Plans are being studied which could lead to the installation of one or two diamonds on the outlying city property, says City Parks Board Chairman Orville Pinkston.

That is the situation at the moment in the city.

However, Cobourg sports editor Layton Dodge has a different version. He quotes a Belleville source as saying the Belleville city fathers are planning to install lights in a ballpark in time for the district league opening next month (May 17).

Mr. Dodge states that the city is going ahead with plans to switch lights from one park to another. (From the fair grounds to Zwick's Island.)

The Belleville "source" strongly denied making such a statement, and we will go along with that.

Asked about the alleged "light switch," Chairman Pinkston said, "we have toyed with the idea but I do not think it is a good one. The fair ground lights are being used periodically and may be used for other purposes again."

Mr. Pinkston admitted that some groundwork on the proposed lighted diamond on the island had been done. Bruce Miller, "Red" Doran and Jack Devine, he said, had looked over the situation and decided there was room for one or two good diamonds on the property.

The Parks Board, he said, was in favor of the plan.

However, he did not think the light and power necessary for the fair grounds' diamond, would be needed on a softball diamond.

"They could get by with shorter poles and a different type lamp," he said. "The fair grounds has 120 lamps. The softball diamond could get by with 24 or 36."

Mr. Pinkston pointed out that since the city owns the property, all the Parks Board could do would be to recommend its use for softball.

Who will bear the cost?

The Parks Board can go as far as providing the property, he said. "The Recreation Commission would come in and if it is expected the softball league would contribute funds," he said.

Speaking of diamonds, Chairman Pinkston said the Parks Board is installing three diamonds in the infield oval at the Fair Grounds this year. He expects them to be in operation by mid-summer for minor players.

If the Zwick's Island "lighted diamond" becomes a reality, it will fill a long-needed softball want in the city. As this column pointed out a few days ago, "the lights" would be a boon "not only to fans but to clubs as well." They would assist greatly in easing the way for out-of-town entries to join the city and district leagues.

As the Cobourg scribe puts it, "the big beef the Cobourg Merchants had with the Belleville league was the terrific rush involved every time they were pencilled into Belleville or Point Anne for a 6.30 game."

However he does not put to a final end for the Belleville and District Leagues. "While the Belleville circuit has presented its problems for the players, it has been a delight for the fans here who have shown their appreciation of the fine softball pitched on Saturday evenings throughout the summer months by turning out in the hundreds to cheer their favorites, jeer the umpires and boot the enemy twelve-inches."

And, as was expected, the Merchants in a do-or-die meeting last Sunday decided to enter the Belleville and District League. They notified league secretary Bob Bland to that effect.

Back to the lights question. We definitely throw in a negative vote for the transfer of the Fair Ground lights system to Zwick's Island, or any other place.

Baseball, senior that is, is not dead in this city. It is only dormant. There are undercurrents at work in the large centres of the district for the revival of the senior pastime, and it may not be too long before it undergoes a resurgence.

The lights at the Fair Grounds are definitely not the "softball type" and we go along with Parks Board chairman Pinkston that a system with shorter poles and less power would do the job very nicely on the proposed softball diamond.

Bobby Rousseau Stars in Eastern Finals

TORONTO (CP) — "We said they would not beat us in four straight games and they didn't," said St. Catharines Teepees coach Max Kaminsky after his team had edged to a 3-3 over-time tie with Brockville Junior Canadiens in the sixth game of the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals Friday night.

The series, which St. Catharines led 3-2 with one game tied, now switches to Montreal for the seventh game. If Brockville wins there, the eighth game will be back here on Sunday.

"It was Bobby Rousseau and our goalie Serge Aubry which kept us in the game", said Maple Leaf coach Claude Noel.

"Since Aubry put that mask on he has been mighty hard to beat. He sure was cool and sharp in that overtime".

But it was Rousseau alone who could have put the game on for in the 15-minute extra period.

HIGH PRAISE

"Rousseau is the best junior in all of Canada", praised Noel. "I don't know where we would be without him".

"We've been picking up injuries each game while the Teepees seem to keep healthy", said Sam Pollock, Montreal Canadien farm director. "Tonight we were only able to use three defencemen.

Officials of both clubs were quiet after the finish of the game, faced with the prospect of playing three games in three days and commuting back and forth from Toronto to Montreal and back again.

Hand Chisox First Setback As Yankees Blank Birds 5-0; Giants in Front, 'Bums' Lose

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

No doubt about it, this definitely is a new season for Bob Friend, the Pittsburgh Pirates right-handed ace who wasn't last year.

He put away his second straight performance Friday night as the Pirates beat Milwaukee Braves 6-3 and jumped into second place in the National League.

A year ago, Friend lost his first seven and didn't win one until his 11th start, on May 28. He didn't manage two complete-game victories in a row until his 29th start, Aug. 24.

GIANTS ON TOP

It was the third straight victory for the Bucs, moving them within a half-game of front-running San Francisco. The Giants took over all alone with a 10-2 decision at Chicago while St. Louis Cardinals dropped Los Angeles out of a share of first to third place by beating the Dodgers 11-7. Philadelphia whipped Cincinnati 10-7.

Friend, who shut out Cincinnati on four hits Sunday, has allowed only one scoring inning in his last 18. The Braves scored their scoreless string at 11 innings when Billy Bruton tripled and scored on an infield out, and Hank Aaron doubled in Eddie Mathews' run for a 3-2 tie in the third.

The Bucs, who chased Juan Pizarro in the first, then cracked the tie and hung the defeat on reliever Joey Jay (0-1) in the third when he hit Don Hoak with a pitch and Hal Smith followed with a triple. Pittsburgh scored three more in the fourth on Dick Stuart's two - run homer and Smith's double.

FIVE HOMERS

San Francisco walloped five home runs against the Cubs, but it was Willie Mays' double in a two-run eighth that clinched it. Jim Davenport hit two homers for the Giants, Willie McCovey, Dale Long, who got off a three-run shot as a pinch-hitter, and Ed Bressoud hit the others.

Sam Jones, failing to go the distance for the first time in three starts, gave up a pair of solo homers, by Frank Thomas and George Altman. Billy Loes (2-0) won it in relief and Don Elston (1-3) was the loser.

The Cards scored five in the first, three on Stan Musial's double, against loser Sandy Koufax (0-1). But it was Daryl Spencer's two-run double off reliefer Roger Craig in the fourth that won it. Spencer also homered for the Cards. John Roseboro, Gil Hodges and Wally Moon hit home runs among the Dodgers' 16 hits. Marshall Bridges won it in relief, but needed Lindy McDaniel's help in the eighth.

Robin Roberts needed Ruben Gomez' relief after giving up home runs by Frank Robinson and Eddie Kasko, but won his first for the Phils. Jim Coker's two-run triple in the fifth put it away, Starter Jay Hook (1-1) was the loser. Roy McMillan also homered for the Reds.

Brocks Delete 3-0 Margin, Tie Teeps 3-3 in Overtime

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Brockville Canadians, whose cliff - hanging antics rival the Perils of Pauline, still are alive in the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals.

Canadians, down 3-0 in games to St. Catharines Teepees in the best-of-seven set, pulled it out of the fire again Friday night with a three-goal explosion in the final period to tie Teepees 3-3 in overtime and extend the series.

The seventh game is tonight in Montreal and a win for Brockville could extend the set into an extra game and delay the scheduled Sunday opening of the Memorial Cup finals, due to be played in the East this year.

LATE DRIVE WINS

Teepees, who won the first three series games and have had the stubborn Canadians on the ropes on the brink of elimination for a week, seemed to have the game and the national junior final all sewed up after two periods.

But Canadians, trailing 3-0 and outplayed for the first 40 minutes, roared back with a flock of goals that wiped out the Teepees' lead and came within an ace of winning the whole shebang.

Wayne Preiling touched off the Brockville comeback at the 5:17 mark of the third period when he banged the puck home from a wild goalmouth scramble after St. Catharines' goalie Roger Crozier had shaken off a flock of dazzling saves.

Just 40 seconds later Andre Deslet cut the St. Catharines lead to 3-2, scoring on a hard 15-footer that capped a fine passing play with Bobby Rousseau and Gilles Francoeur.

Then Deslet's stick handling wizard of the Canadiens' defence, at the pro-Teepee crowd of 2,367 on its ears with a high shot that Crozier could scarcely catch the corner netting and squared the count.

Rousseau's goal came on a breakaway with Germain Munger, who drew in the Teepee defender and fed a perfect pass to Rousseau right in front of the St. Catharines goal.

DESPERATE PLAY

The best hockey of the night came in the final half of the third period and the 10-minute overtime session as both clubs drove desperately for the deciding goal.

The St. Catharines line of Chico Maki, Ray Cullen and Vic Hadfield had Brockville goaltender Sergo Aubry in trouble several times in the late minutes, but Aubry came up with a frenzied, ou- performance.

Cullen gathered two for St. Catharines with Duke Harris getting the other.

It was Cullen who opened the scoring with a rolling shot that bounced over Aubry's left outstretched leg at 9:38 of the first period. Less than three minutes later, Harris made it 2-0 when John Brenneman's pass set him up all alone in front of Aubry.

Cullen shot the Teepees into a 3-0 lead at the 17:00 mark of the second period on a play engineered by Maki who stole the puck near centre ice and broke through the defence.

FOUR OF SIX

St. Catharines drew four of the six penalties in the game, none of which figured in the scoring.

Spectators for the last half of the game were members of the Edmonton Oil Kings, western winners.

The line originally called for Edmonton to meet either St. Kits or Toronto or Brockville in Montreal Sunday. But that will be changed unless St. Catharines can end the series tonight in Montreal.

Maroons Head West for Cup Series

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons leave Sunday by plane for Trail and the best-of-seven series for the Allan Cup with Trail Smoke Eaters.

The Maroons made a last-minute change of plans. They had originally planned to leave Friday from London's Crumlin Airport.

Their flight is from Detroit's Willow Run Airport to Spokane, Wash. From there they will travel to Trail by bus.

First game is Monday night at Trail.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League announced Friday the signing of Larry Doby, 26, to play first base. Doby, former pro Eddie Stanky with Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Baltimore of the American League, was a major league all-star in 1950.

Matthews Draws With Vaillant

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Len Matthews of Philadelphia and Doug Vaillant, a 35-year-old Cuban, fought to a 10-round draw Friday night. Two of the three officials called it even and the third gave it to Vaillant.

Under the rules, if two of the three officials call it a draw, the vote of the third official means nothing. Vaillant thought he was declared the winner when the voting was announced and began jumping up and down in his corner until the rule was explained to him.

Vaillant had a reach of at least three inches on Matthews, and at time made the 30-year old Philadelphian look bad. But the big blows were scored by Matthews. He had Vaillant in trouble in a central corner in both the seventh and eighth rounds.

Matthews weighed 135¾ and Vaillant 137½.

Oil Kings Ready For Big Series

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, Western Canada junior hockey champions arrived here Friday for the Memorial Cup finals.

They will play either St. Catharines Teepees or Brockville Canadiens, still battling it out for the right to represent the East.

Edmonton were minus three players — Bob Martk, Bob Goebel and Lorne Braithwaite — who stayed behind to write university examinations. The threesome will fly in Sunday night.

Cliff Pennington of Flin Flon and Kitchener-Waterloo, and Dunc McCallum and Ed Ehrenverth of Brandon Wheat Kings have been added to the Edmonton roster for the finals.

DECLARED WINNERS

TORONTO (CP) — Kelowna Teddy Bears were declared winners of the Senior B women's Canadian basketball title after a meeting of CABA officials here Friday night. Confusion arose after Kelowna won a series with Toronto Shamrocks. The CABA has not officially awarded the series a national affair.

NEW SAVINGS, NEW BENEFITS IN AUTO INSURANCE! FIND OUT IF YOU QUALIFY

NEW PLAN STATE FARM MUTUAL THE WORLD'S LARGEST CAR INSURER

FIVE NEW FEATURES

1 NEW LOW RATES ON LIABILITY!
2 NEW "STEP DOWN" RATES ON COLLISION AND COMPREHENSIVE!
3 NEW SECOND-CAR DISCOUNT ON COLLISION COVERAGE!
4 NEW "SMALL CAR" DISCOUNT!
5 NEW MEDICAL BENEFITS AVAILABLE!

Here is the best all-around insurance buy State Farm has ever offered you. And this is the company that's always been famous for its low rates and dependable protection!

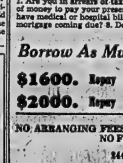
Ask about the new Liability rates! We estimate that some 500,000 Ontario drivers may qualify for new savings under our new Class Plan. Your new rate depends on how much you drive, who else in the family will use your car, and what you use your car for. For instance, if you drive for "pleasure," you'll save even more. If you're a "business" driver, some body who drives for "business."

Ask about the new "step down" rates on collision and comprehensive! Effective now on State Farm policies, 1950 model cars or older qualify for one of two new auto age-group rates that may give you real savings.

Ask about the new second-car discount on collision! State Farm's second-car discount now applies to collision as well as liability coverage—for the first time in Canada.

Ask about the new "small car" discount! State Farm now gives you an extra 10% discount on major coverages for almost every make and model of small car. This is new in Canada, and another "first" for State Farm. (Also applies to families who will receive a second-car discount on liability and collision.)

Ask about new Extended Medical Payments! State Farm now offers extended medical payments that give more liberal benefits. You and members of your family are insured against injury, as a result of an auto accident, whether you're driving, riding or walking.



Policyholders! The new plan will be reflected in your next premium notice.

SEE YOUR STATE FARM AGENT NOW!
No matter when your present insurance expires, you'll be smart to see your State Farm agent now. He's listed in the White Pages.
OR, if you like, fill out and mail the coupon. No obligation. Full information promptly. Whatever you do, don't wait. There's a real "buy" waiting for you.

VOLUNTARY RESPONSIBILITY!

A key word in this definition is voluntary. Here are men who have accepted the responsibilities of citizenship and who have recognized that their country, their province, their region and their community demand something more than mere observance of the law. Canada depends upon strong progressive, vital communities. Only by giving something of themselves in time and effort can men and women make the contribution which spells the difference between a live community and a dead one.

Major Projects in Progress

1. Promotion of One-Way streets in Belleville to increase traffic flow, through our traffic committee.
2. Providing prizes and scholarships to Belleville Schools through our Education Committee.
3. Protesting to the Federal Government against establishment of Duty Free Shops along the Canadian border.
4. Publishing of the Highland of Hastings Brochure.
5. Working with the Belleville Fair Board to promote the 1961 International Plowing Match.
6. Maintaining constant check on Federal and Provincial legislation for any that may affect Belleville and District.
7. Development of Retail Business by encouraging co-operation among all merchants in a common effort through our Retail Section.
8. Development of plant tours and publicity for existing industries to better inform the public of the products which are produced in Belleville through our Manufacturers Section.
9. Exploring every possible avenue for the purpose of interesting new industry to settle in Belleville.
10. Development of Highway No. 62 from Belleville to Bancroft.
11. Supplying accommodation and trained staff for such organizations as the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, and the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange.

E. E. DICKNOETHER
Manager

TRAINED STAFF

If you call WO 2-2347 or drop in to 185 Pinnacle St. right next to the Armouries, the Chamber staff consisting of manager Earl Dicknoether, Mrs. Marie Powers, clerk, stenographer and bookkeeper and Mrs. Phyllis Forbes, clerk, typist, will attempt to answer any questions or offer any help that you may require. The Chamber Administers the Great West Life Group Insurance Plan and the Ontario Hospitals Services Plan, for the convenience of Chamber members. If your firm does not as yet have a group insurance plan why not phone the Chamber Office for more details on this service. The Chamber has phone books and street directories of most major cities in Canada, and the staff would be happy to assist you in locating an out of town firm's phone number or address.

AFFILIATIONS

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is affiliated with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Ontario Chamber of Commerce of which Mr. A. O. Drysdale is our representative, The Lake Ontario Development Association, the Toronto Better Business Bureau, the Canadian Tourist Association, the Canadian Retail Federation and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce executives.

Our membership in these organizations is for the purpose of publicizing Belleville, or for keeping your Belleville Chamber informed as to what other communities, tourist groups, retail groups or Industrial Developers are doing in order that we may keep abreast of them at all times, in this highly competitive field.

A. O. DRYSDALE
Ontario Chamber of Commerce Representative

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WEEK

"Chamber of Commerce Week", was established to bring to all Canadians a concept of the role of the local Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce in community building for the national good. Here are cells of democracy — independent and vigorous — binding citizens together to make their communities better places in which to live and in which to earn a living. Boards and Chambers can truly be called the conscience and the will of their communities. The conscience to see and recognize the needs of the community, and the will to take effective action. It has been well said that a community is poor in purse and poor in purpose that has not a strong, vital and active Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce.

11 REASONS WHY I SHOULD BE A MEMBER OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

1. Because I have a business stake in this community which can best be safeguarded by working with others through the Chamber of Commerce to protect and advance all business. I help insure this community's progress which in turn insures the success of my business.
2. It is only fair for me to support the Chamber since I reap benefits through the concerted planning, counsel and action that is best obtained through the work of the Chamber of Commerce.
3. Because my support is "plowed back" to yield many-fold benefits in new industries, increased payrolls, health, safety legislation, business protection and community advancement.
4. Because I believe that the man who helps his community through active participation in the work of his Chamber of Commerce will develop his own powers and broaden his own views.
5. Because through the Chamber of Commerce I can best discharge my obligations to this community in which I live and earn my living. I realize that every man owes a debt to the community that cannot be paid in taxes, a debt of personal service.
6. Because the Chamber of Commerce cannot carry out its broad program of work to protect and advance business without personal service and adequate financial support.
7. Because the Chamber of Commerce unifies the public spirit of all and directs it into useful and constructive channels.
8. Because the Chamber of Commerce helps create and express sound opinions on questions affecting the welfare of Canada.
9. Because without strong, effective Chamber of Commerce we would be less able to compete with other towns for new industries and new payrolls.
10. Because I believe it is essential to progress to have a central organization eternally watching community welfare and development. I believe the Chamber of Commerce is the central organization adequately equipped to do this work.
11. Because the most effective and constructive influence is the force of organized business functioning through the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of improving our town. We can through organized effort make the kind of town we determine it shall be.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Monday, April 25

General tendencies: A fine new day to wind up what you have already begun, but do so in a tactful manner and take no chances whatever with anyone who is gullen, demanding or disturbed. A soothing, poised attitude on your part can relax and keep any explosive conditions from erupting that could be difficult for everyone concerned.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Monetary matters are of prime importance now, so be sure you handle all credit matters wisely and plan any repairs with an eye to economy. Consult with an authority on finance, but do not be argumentative. Listen respectfully.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Analyze your general appearance carefully now and make whatever improvements are necessary. Also see that your clothes are more modern. Adopt a more sociable regard and attitude with others. Let P. M. retire early.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You may feel quite frustrated and imposed upon today, but it is only because you have not planned your work intelligently. It can be a day of real accomplishment for you. P. M. help close ties with their problems-cal affairs, too.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 22) — By being of service to others now, your own problems will vanish into thin air. Later, change your methods somewhat and you can realize your fondest ambitions. However, do not start taking action until a later day.

Leo (July 23 to August 21) — There are important civic and business affairs to be handled by you now, but you must work more diplomatically and subtly for best results. Get your credit higher, too. Be sure you do not invest heavily, either. Economize.

Virgo (August 22 to Sept. 23) — Although you are very much tempted to dash out to new affairs and be with seemingly fascinating individuals, do not do so. Remain steadfast to the tried and true. And by more serious application, present setup can be most successful.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — A day for serious analysis in all spheres of your life. Be careful with written reports, correspondence, etc. Know how to reach greater rapport with loved one.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Associates may appear to be quite inimical to you today, but that is only because they may differ in matters of policy. Endeavor to see their side of things and make them understand your own fair viewpoints. Co-operate.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — It is best to complete whatever chores are before you instead of endeavoring to get into new outlets or systems at this time. By clearing the slate thoroughly, you will soon be able to carry through with ideas happily.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — While you are much tempted to drop everything just to be off to a good time, be wise and carry through with whatever is at hand instead. You may lose out on something very worthwhile otherwise. Persistence wins out.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Affairs at home can be rather trying and you are apt to become quite temperamental about them. Control yourself. Be off to outside duties that will best solve the problem instead. P. M. take it easy. Retire early.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be particularly careful while out driving or in motion anywhere. Caution will save you much pain and money, too. P. M. be more co-operative than in the past and clear up that situation with a good friend.

If your child is born today ... The fine child born today will have the faculty of successfully settling disputes, even at the tenderest age. So, be sure you give training along these lines as soon as possible. Greatest success can come from placement in government circles or in big business, public institutions and the like. A college education would be a great asset.

Sunday, April 24

General tendencies: The early morning can bring a depressed feeling and you'll have to rest until time for services, studies. Then you will find that a very benign influence enters the picture and you can place into effect whatever new arrangements you wish to make with those to whom you are devoted. You can really be very happy tonight.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — The morning may bring a little trouble in civic circles, but by consulting with one who has the "know-how", you can turn this into a steppingstone to greater achievements. This evening can be quite social.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — You are anxious to put aside dull routine and get into the interesting world of fascinating activity. Be sure you first attend church of your choice or spend some time in deep meditation. P. M. fine for quiet happenings.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Take care you do not follow that intuition in A. M., which is quite erroneous. Afternoon is then fine for discussions with partners regarding plans for the future. Express yourself clearly. P. M. be among friends socially.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — If you do not use will power, a mate or associate will try to spoil your conservative plans. Attend services with a good colleague and then carry through courageously. Tonight you can gain greater prestige and increase fame.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Morning may be a bit boring at the beginning but later you will meet persons of wonderful background and experience from whom you can learn a great deal that is worthwhile. Gain them in some excursion — feed that wonderful mind of yours.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Others are too busy to give you much attention in A. M. So be sure you attend services you like best. Later, study, read your paper, etc. Do whatever will help you to advance and be more successful in life.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Situation at home can be quite trying, but if you live the Golden Rule yourself, all is well. Later, meet with compatibles and have a good time. Be charming, full of fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Try not to get upset over some thoughtless word or unpleasant remarks that "reaches" you. Look at the situation objectively and rise above it. Later, get busy putting surroundings in order and enjoying family companions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Take care that you do not say any rash or other boldness in A. M. Then the rest of the day can be very enjoyable, since you will be inspired how to achieve your personal aims. P. M. be out for recreation, fun.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Morning may start with you feeling out of sorts, but fortunately a close family tie takes interest and smooths things over nicely for you. Be co-operative. Remainder of the day can be very happy, indeed.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Rid yourself of that feeling of ennui early by attending the services of own choice — travel quite a distance, if necessary, to hear that inspired religious leader. P. M. go out secretly with good friends. Enjoy yourself.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Do not permit that dour individual to lower your level of consciousness in A. M. Stick to own fine philosophy. Later, plan what you desire to accomplish in days to come and take initial steps in that direction.

If your child is born today ... The wonderful child born today will be filled with inspiring new thoughts and fit nicely into the great age ahead, in which much success is possible for your progeny. Think positively yourself and teach fundamental truths early. Your youngster will soon show leadership and get into the right channel that will be profitable and a boon to society as a whole.

JUST THE NICEST

Home that one could want. This 4-year-old home is just immaculate throughout — all decorated and obviously well revered inside and out by the owner. Now the owner must move and has listed it with us. Here is fine living with a full basement. This room is really big — at the dining room. It has all sorts of extras such as paved driveway — carport. We would enjoy showing it to you.

WOULD TWO BEDROOMS DO?

If so — you should come and see this lovely bungalow we have on our list and which has been occupied by only one family. Has a good sized living room, kitchen and bath on the main floor. It has a garage — a full basement, of course. We have built it.

LOOK AT THIS FOR PRICE

ONLY $12,900, for a 3-bedroom home in a wonderful location on the Bayshore. Only the knowledge of the owner that we would be anxious to list with us could have brought us this low price. It's an opportunity at the price and in the down payment will make a deal.

It won first place in the graphic arts classification.

Le Mesa, an animation film by NFB artist Norman McLaren. The Lyric Trio of Montreal sings the Rossini accompaniment as McLaren uses cut-out figures to relate a love story. Another film about a bird that loses parts of its body one by one and then regains them three-fold. It won in the category film as art.

Rush Hour, a 28-minute picture produced for NFB by Michael Spencer, with photography by William Carrick, is the agricultural, conservation and natural resources category winner.

Eternal Children, a 30-minute film which makes a frank appraisal of the mentally retarded child, David Bairstow produced this film for NFB. Don Haldane directed, from a script by Sally Lindsay. It won the education and child development category.

Quebec, a 20-minute film, in color, produced by Christopher Chapman for the Quebec Fundraising Association. A view of the wilderness of the Ontario-Minnesota border country, where Quebec Provincial Park is located, it won in the category for sports, recreation and the out-of-doors.

Til Slag, Not Cry, a 28-minute production by Berkeley Studios of the United Church of Canada Foundation, tells how the Christian message was brought to a pagan village through Christian music. It won the award for religious films.

PROCLAMATION

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WEEK

WHEREAS this community can benefit from friendly relationships among business competitors, between our city and the surrounding area and other communities across Canada, between employer and employee;

WHEREAS this community can benefit from new industries, good business conditions, more tourists, civic improvements, more jobs, better facilities for education, health and recreation,

WHEREAS the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is a voluntary organization of citizens enabling us all to work together to achieve the above goals and generally to improve business, to build a better community, and to develop better attitudes of people in our community, our province and our country,

I, by virtue of the powers vested in me, do hereby proclaim civic support for CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WEEK being observed April 24th to 30th and call on all citizens to lend their interest, support and co-operation in making this observance successful in every way.

W. LORNE McDOUGALL,
Acting Mayor

PROCLAMATION

REFUGEE "AUSTERITY" WEEK

WHEREAS during the past few months, we in Canada have been given a real insight into the plight of hundreds of thousands of refugees, through the press, radio and television.

AND WHEREAS the astronomical figures on the number of refugees (at least 15-million) who still exist in our "free" world transcend the imagination

AND WHEREAS the problem is too often ignored with "what can I, as an individual citizen, do about it?"

AND WHEREAS throughout Austerity Week we can all make some personal sacrifice in this way, and send the money we save to the City Hall, Belleville, marked for World Refugee Year.

AND WHEREAS in this way, each one of us can make some conscious effort to help, no matter how great or small.

THEREFORE I, by virtue of the powers vested in me, do hereby proclaim civic support for Austerity Week to be observed April 24th to 30th and call on all citizens to lend their interest, support and co-operation in making this observance successful in every way.

W. LORNE McDOUGALL,
Acting Mayor.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Typical Couple Near Retirement Much Better off Than They Think

By THOMAS COLLINS

Here, it seems to me, is a story that pretty well forms the common denominator of retirement in this spring of 1960.

It is the financial situation of a nice, intelligent couple coming up to retirement. It is not a rich couple and not a poor one. But a couple like the couple that lives down the street.

In the words of the wife this is the situation:

"I am six years younger than my 64-year-old husband and his retirement, which comes early next year, has me worried.

"We have always lived in an apartment. This has been a pleasant comfortable home for 20 years, and at present we are paying $100 a month for rent and utilities.

"We would be very happy to remain here but our retirement income will total only $300 a month. Therefore, we can't, not with city food prices and such. We think we had better give up the apartment and move either to the southwest or the southeast corners of the U.S.

LOTS OF ASSETS

"Our $210 a month comes from my husband's social security and his company pension. Other assets we have are as follows: a $6,000 life insurance policy on my husband with his company, a $5,000 private life insurance policy on my husband's life, another $2,000 insurance policy on my husband's life, a $1,000 insurance policy on my life.

"Because we went through the great depression we have tried very hard to build up some savings. As a result we have $3,000 in stocks, $6,000 in a savings account and $8,000 in government bonds.

"We have two children who are married and need us no more.

"It will be a wrench for us to leave this neighborhood and move away. There really is no way of knowing what we will find where we go, though letters that have come back from friends who have retired to Florida and California indicate everything will be all right.

"I could use some advice on two areas. (1) Is there any way we can manage to stay where we are, or (2) if we must move far away, how can we do it without tremendous expense?

As I said in the beginning, this couple seems to be typical of many now retiring. They have about the same resources as the same problems as Mr. Jones and Mr. Smith. So what is best to do?

CUT DOWN INSURANCE

Look first at all that life insurance, which will cost part of the $210 income. The wife certainly doesn't need a life insurance policy at her age because even if she weren't six years younger than her husband, statistics say she would outlive him. The husband has a total of $13,000 in life insurance. That would be best for his widow to have but at age 65 she can start collecting a social security benefit on her own. Can she also get part of her husband's pension after he died? If so, and if the total is enough for her to live on, the only life insurance the husband should keep is enough to put him respectably under the ground. Excess life insurance, at retirement age can be cash. In most cases, despite what people tell you, it is not.

Now for those savings. They total $13,000. Invested in conservative stocks or bonds at 4 per cent they would yield $70 a month. This added to the pension will give $280 a month, which is far more money than most couples now going into retirement have. It would enable the couple to remain in a $100-a-month apartment and get by fairly well. It would enable a couple to live well in Florida, Texas, Arizona and some parts of California.

PLAY IT BY EAR

So the first piece of advice to this couple would be to play the thing by ear. They can pull in their belt and afford to stay. They can let out their belt and move on.

If they go, they would be wise to rent housing where they go, to travel there in a station wagon (more room), and to sell their furnishings rather than move them. They should realize their furnishings, precious though they seem, are second-hand junk when sold. For the $250 or $300 that couple will probably get for their furnishings, they can refurnish an apartment in the faraway — provided they capitalize there on the same thing that capitalized on them here. In brief, go to a second-hand furniture store. They probably won't find one in a small town. But a nearby big city, and a truck rental for the day, will take care of things.

I have said many times before, retired couples usually fare best when they remain in the garden where they have grown, but retirement should be the golden years — the something new and better.

To sit, vegetate and die after age 65 without shooting off a skyrocket of some sort seems sad. A couple that can muster $280 a month doesn't have to do this. It can take the adventure of moving, or if it can't take all of its savings (thus cutting off about $7 a month from its income) and reach for the moon for a while.
